Foreword

The 1997 edition of the Episcopal Clerical Directory is the thirty-sixth such compilation of clerics who are canonically resident in—and in good standing with—the Episcopal Church. Of the approximately 16,500 clerics who met these criteria for this edition, almost 11,000 responded to our latest data request form with updated biographical information; their names appear in boldface type.

Church Hymnal Corporation makes every attempt to report all information submitted to us, but sometimes established editorial policy requires that we modify or omit data. For example, we do not publish detailed lists of cures served in other communions of the Church (Anglican or otherwise) prior to reception in the Episcopal Church; neither do we publish detailed accounts of positions held by Episcopalians prior to ordination. We do not strike from the public record any marriage that has produced children (a spouse's name may be stricken, upon request, but the fact of the marriage—represented by the marriage date—remains). We will publish non-parochial or secular career information, but the job in question should have a pastoral component (chaplaincy work or counseling) if it is to appear in boldface type toward the front of your biography as a "principal position"; otherwise, it will appear toward the end of your entry.

Of all our editorial policies, the long abbreviations list found in the front of this volume is by far the one most comprehensively applied. Abbreviations aren't so much a "policy" as an "imperative" in a Directory of nearly 17,000 people. Without them this volume would weigh in like a set of encyclopedias! What's more, a good abbreviations list tends to encourage the standardization of information, and—while no one really enjoys being standardized—in a database, standardization isn't such a bad, depersonalizing thing. By way of illustration, in the Electronic Episcopal Clerical Directory—which is the computerized version of the book you are now holding—the standardized abbreviations serve as electronic guideposts within the "search feature" of the program, helping users quickly locate, let us say, all graduates of "ANTS" who are now canonically resident in the diocese of "Be" (for a translation, see "Abbreviations" key immediately following). Now, in the printed version of the Directory, it is a matter of no real import if some of you have prevailed upon the editorial staff to change your alma mater's name from "U Hard Knox" to "U of Hard Knox," but—for a user of the Electronic Directory who is trying to print out the addresses of all ordained graduates of that august institution—your prepositional refinement may well thwart the quick but literal mind of the computer and cause your name to be excluded.

This edition of the Episcopal Clerical Directory will be the last pre-"information revolution" release. Subsequent editions will contain not only e-mail addresses (a great many of you included them on your update forms this time ... "just in case") but a considerable amount of newly standardized data, which will enhance greatly the usefulness of this Directory.

Please note that a preaddressed update postcard is enclosed in this volume. Use it to keep us informed of any address or cure changes.

Particular thanks are due to the assistant editor of this edition, Mr. C. Stokes Liles II, for his wit and energy and plain old hard work during a grueling production schedule. Thanks are also due to Mr. Michael Corney, the previous editor of this publication, for the example of excellence he has set and for his ongoing advice and counsel from his new perspective as Recorder of Ordinations.

Johnny R. Ross
Editor
