On motion, the above Report was made the order of the day accordingly.

The Presiding Bishop, having taken the chair, laid before the House the Statement of his official acts during the Recess of the General Convention, as follows :

Since my last report, which I had the honor to present to this House on the second day of its session in the Convention of 1889, I have taken order for the ordination and consecration of eleven Bishops of this Church, viz. :

(1.) The Right Reverend William Andrew Leonard, D.D., Assistant Bishop (and since Bishop) of Ohio, consecrated in St. Thomas's Church, New York, October 12, 1889;

(2.) The Right Reverend Thomas Frederick Davies, D.D., LL.D., Bishop of Michigan, consecrated in St. Peter's Church, Philadelphia, on the Feast of St. Luke, October 18, 1889;

(3.) The Right Reverend Anson Rogers Graves, D.D., Missionary Bishop of The Platte, consecrated in Gethsemane Church, Minneapolis, on the Feast of the Circumcision, January 1, 1890;

(4.) The Right Reverend William Ford Nichols, D.D., Assistant Bishop of California, consecrated in St. James's Church, Philadelphia, on the Feast of the Nativity of St. John Baptist, June 24, 1890;

(5.) The Right Reverend Edward Robert Atwill, D.D., Bishop of West Missouri, consecrated in Trinity Church, Toledo, October 14, 1890;

(6.) The Right Reverend Henry Melville Jackson, D.D., Assistant Bishop of Alabama, consecrated in St. Paul's Church, Selma, Alabama, January 21, 1891;

(7.) The Right Reverend Davis Sessums, D.D., Assistant Bishop (and since Bishop) of Louisiana, consecrated in Christ Church, New Orleans, on the Feast of the Nativity of St. John Baptist, June 24, 1891;

(8.) The Right Reverend Phillips Brooks, D.D., Bishop of Massachusetts, consecrated in Trinity Church, Boston, October 14, 1891;

(9.) The Right Reverend Isaac Lea Nicholson, D.D., Bishop of Milwaukee, consecrated in St. Mark's Church, Philadelphia, on the Feast of SS. Simon and Jude, October 28, 1891;

(10.) The Right Reverend Cleland Kinloch Nelson, D.D., Bishop of Georgia, consecrated in St. Luke's Cathedral, Atlanta, on the Feast of St. Matthias, February 24, 1892; and (11.) The Right Reverend Charles Reuben Hale, D.D., Assistant Bishop of Springfield, consecrated in the Cathedral of Davenport, July 26, 1892.

I presided at the consecrations of the Bishops of Ohio, Michigan, the Assistant of California, and Massachusetts.

The Bishop of Missouri presided at the consecrations of the Bishop of West Missouri and the Missionary Bishop of The Platte.

The Bishop of Alabama presided at the consecration of the Assistant Bishop of Alabama.

The Bishop of Tennessee presided at the consecration of the Bishops of Louisiana and Georgia.

The Bishop of Chicago presided at the consecration of the Bishop of Milwaukee.

The Bishop of Iowa presided at the consecration of the Assistant Bishop of Springfield.

Acting on the written request of twelve Bishops, I have called, under provision of Title I., Canon 16, § xvi. [1], two special meetings of this House; one of which was held at Pittsburgh in October, 1890, and the other in New York in February, 1891.

The Bishop of North Carolina having resigned his charge of our churches on the continent of Europe, I appointed the Bishop of Albany to that office, who, soon after his acceptance of the same, made a full visitation of the congregations thus committed to him.

I have also renewed from year to year the nomination of the Rev. William B. Gordon to the supervision of missions in Mexico, and the nomination has been confirmed by the Board of Managers.

I have received from his Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury, from the Metropolitan of Rupert's Land, and from the acting Metropolitan of the Dominion of Canada, notices of Episcopal consecrations within their provinces since October 1, 1889, which notices have been placed on file in the Archives of this House. I have also sent notices in return, of all Episcopal consecrations in this Church from October 1, 1889, to October 1, 1892. I have also sent notices to the Archbishop of Armagh, the Primus of the Scottish Church, and the West Indian Primate.

Some of my brethren may remember that, at a special session of this House held in Philadelphia in October, 1887, I ventured to address them on the subject of its presidency. At the last General Convention, a change was made in the Rules of Order, by which "the Presiding Bishop may assign" to the Chairman of the House, who is also his "Assessor," "any duties connected with his office, from which from time to time he may desire to be relieved." I most thankfully acknowledge the relief that has thus been afforded; and I should do violence to my own feelings, and be most ungrateful, did I not also acknowledge the constant and unvaried kindness with which the Bishop of Maine has at all times come to my assistance.

But all this does not reach the point which, it seems to me, ought to be reached in this matter. The office of Presiding Bishop is the only one of which I know, that cannot, under present arrangements, be declined. Whether he will or not, whatever may be his conditions physical or mental, he on whom this office falls is compelled to accept it. And only by death, deposition, or resignation of his jurisdiction, and that not "for reason of advanced age and bodily infirmities arising therefrom," can he resign it. I cannot see how these restraints can be regarded otherwise than as hardships. Nor can I help expressing the hope that some action may be taken by this House which will put an end to such an anomalous state of things.

J. WILLIAMS.

On motion of the Bishop of New York, it was

Resolved, That so much of the Report of the Presiding Bishop as refers to the matter of relief from the burdens of his office be referred to a committee consisting of the five Bishops next in seniority to the Presiding Bishop who are or shall be in attendance on this Convention. [See p. 88.]

On motion of the Bishop of Albany, the Bishops of Ohio and Milwaukee were appointed to present the visiting Bishops to the House; whereupon the Lord Bishops of Fredericton and Niagara, representing the Provincial Synod of Canada, together with the Lord Bishop of Newfoundland, were presented to the House and welcomed by the Presiding Bishop.

(a) Substitute for the present First Article the following, namely:

ARTICLE I.

In the Name of God, Amen.

This Church, assured that the Holy Scripture contains all things necessary to salvation, and that the Creeds commonly called the Apostles' Creed and the Nicene Creed ought thoroughly to be received and believed, for that they may be proved by most certain warrants of the said Scripture, herewith sets forth as its form of doctrine the following, to wit :

I BELIEVE in God the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth :
 And in Jesus Christ his only Son our Lord: Who was conceived by the Holy Ghost, Born of the Virgin Mary: Suffered under Pontius Pilate, Was crucified, dead, and buried: He descended into hell; The third day he rose again from the dead: He ascended into heaven, And sitteth on the right hand of God the Father Almighty: From thence he shall come to judge the quick and the dead.

I believe in the Holy Ghost: The Holy Catholic Church; The Communion of Saints: The Forgiveness of sins: The Resurrection of the body: And the Life everlasting. Amen.

I BELIEVE in one God the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth, And of all things visible and invisible:
 And in one Lord Jesus Christ, the only-begotten Son of God; Begotten of his Father before all worlds, God of God, Light of Light, Very God of very God; Begotten, not made; Being of one substance with the Father; By whom all things were made: Who for us men and for our salvation came down from heaven. And was incarnate by the Holy Ghost of the Virgin Mary, And was made man: And was crucified also for us under Pontius Pilate; He suffered and was buried: And the third day he rose again according to the Scriptures: And ascended into heaven, And sitteth on the right hand of the Father: And he shall come again, with glory, to judge both the quick and the dead; Whose kingdom shall have no end.

And I believe in the Holy Ghost, The Lord, and Giver of Life, Who proceedeth from the Father and the Son: Who with the Father and the Son together is worshipped and glorified; Who spake by the Prophets: And I believe one Catholic and Apostolic Church: I acknowledge one Baptism for the remission of sins: And I look for the Resurrection of the dead: And the Life of the world to come. Amen.

Resolved, The House of Deputies concurring, That the following Canon be enacted as an addition to Title I., Canon 16, to wit [see Journal of 1889, pp. 27-29] :

Of Suffragan Bishops.

§ xviii. [1]. It shall be lawful for the Convention or Council of any Diocese of this Church, with the consent of the General Convention, or, during the recess of the same and not less than three months before a meeting of the same, of a majority of the Bishops holding jurisdiction in the United States, and of the Standing Committees of the Church in the several Dioceses, on the application of the Diocesan thereof, to establish from time to time, within said Diocese, a district or districts not more than two, as Suffragan Bishoprics; and for each district so established to elect, agreeably to such rules as may be provided by the General Convention, a Suffragan Bishop, who shall bear the title of Suffragan Bishop, with such local designation as the said Diocesan Convention shall see fit to give him, and shall be invested with all the rights and powers, and be subject to all the duties and liabilities of a Bishop of this Church, save as hereinafter excepted.

[2]. Such Districts shall not be in any wise severed from the Diocese to which they belong, nor shall they constitute independent Bishoprics, nor in any wise exercise the powers already vested in Diocesan or other legislative Conventions or Councils.

§ xix. [1]. Each Suffragan shall, within the District for which he may have been elected, perform such Episcopal duties, and exercise such Episcopal authority as his Diocesan may from time to time assign to him. And no Suffragan shall have or exercise any jurisdiction or perform any Episcopal duties without the limits of the district so assigned him, within the Diocese of which it is a part, except by express request of his Diocesan. Nor shall any Diocesan direct the performance of any Ecclesiastical offices, or the exercise of any Episcopal jurisdiction, by one Suffragan within the district of another, without the consent of the latter; Provided, that should any Suffragan be disabled for the performance of his duties, either physically or judicially, or refuse to perform such duties, or any of them, the Diocesan shall have the power to direct their performance by another; and Provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed as interfering with the right of the Diocesan personally to officiate or exercise jurisdiction at his own pleasure within any part of his own Diocese.

[2]. Should the Diocese become vacant, or its Diocesan become disabled, either physically or by judicial sentence, it shall become the duty of the Suffragan or Suffragans of the Diocese, until the consecration or translation to the Diocese of another Diocesan or Assistant Bishop, to perform all the Episcopal offices which may be required therein, subject, however, to the provisions of § xxi. of this Canon. And should there be more than one such Suffragan, each shall exercise such Episcopal jurisdiction and perform all such Episcopal offices within his own district. And should there remain any part of the Diocese not thus provided for, it shall be the duty of the Suffragans, or either of them, to perform such additional offices, in the portion of the Diocese not thus provided for, as may be requested by the Standing Committee.

§ xx. [1]. The consent of a Suffragan shall not be necessary for the consecration of any other Bishop, nor shall a Suffragan act as Presiding Bishop at the consecration of any Bishop.

[2]. No Suffragan shall ordain any Priest or Deacon without the request of his Diocesan; Provided, that during a vacancy in the Diocesan Episcopate, or the continuance of a disability on the part of the Diocesan to make and request it, it shall be sufficient that the request be made by the Standing Committee.

§ xxi. [1]. Any Suffragan Bishop may be elected Diocesan or Assistant Bishop. In case of any such election, the same course shall be pursued as in the case of the election of a Missionary Bishop as a Diocesan or Assistant Bishop, provided for in Title I., Canon 16, § viii. [1], [2].

§ xxii. Nothing in this or any other Canon shall be construed to prevent the transfer of a Suffragan to another district within the Diocese, with his own consent and with the consent of the Diocesan.

§ xxiii. Title I., Canon 16, § v., so far as it prohibits Suffragan Bishops, and all other Canons, or parts of Canons, so far as they may conflict herewith, are hereby repealed.

The question being on the adoption of the resolution as reported from the Committee, the Bishop of Missouri moved as a substitute therefor the following :

[2]. No Minister shall solemnize a marriage except in the presence of at least two witnesses.

[3]. Every Minister of this Church shall keep an official Register of Marriages, in which, at the time of the marriage, he shall record the name, birth-place, age, residence, and condition of each party ; and the said record, duly transcribed in the said register, shall be signed by both parties to the marriage, by at least two witnesses, and by the Minister who performs the ceremony.

§ iii. [1]. No Minister shall solemnize the marriage of any person who has a divorced husband or wife still living, if such husband or wife has been put away for any cause arising after marriage ; but this provision shall not be held to apply to the innocent party in a divorce for the cause of adultery, or to parties once divorced seeking to be united again.

[2]. No Minister of this Church shall administer Holy Baptism or the Holy Communion to any person married in violation of the discipline of the Church, as set forth in § i. of this Canon ; but the Sacraments shall not be refused to penitents in imminent danger of death.

The Bishop of Albany, from the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, presented the following report [see p. 25]:

The Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, to which was referred a series of resolutions offered by the Bishop of Pittsburgh in regard to certain proposed changes of order in the contents of the Book of Common Prayer, so that the question of the possibility of making such proposed changes in one session of the General Convention may be decided, respectfully report, that in the judgment of the Committee the changes proposed, although only in the order of the contents of the book, are such as bring them under the description of "an alteration in the Book of Common Prayer," which can only be acted upon by two successive General Conventions; and they recommend the passage of the following resolution:

Resolved, That this opinion be accepted as the judgment of the House on the constitutional question, and that the Secretary of the House of Bishops be instructed to communicate the above statement to the House of Deputies.

In behalf of the Committee,

THOMAS M. CLARK, Chairman.

On motion, the resolution recommended by the Committee was adopted.

The Bishop of Albany, from the same Committee, presented the following report [see p. 33]:

The Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, to whom was referred the Resolution of the Bishop of Iowa in regard to the bearing of Title III., Canon 1, § iii., of the Digest on the question of the adoption by this Convention of the proposed change in Article 5 of the Constitution, respectfully report, that in their judgment it is the plain duty of the Secretary of the House of Deputies to give the "particular notice" to every Bishop which the Canon requires; and that no action which this House may take now can be considered as relaxing the canonical obligation; but the Committee adheres to its resolution already presented to the House, that for this single case the neglect of the Secretary should not be allowed to prevent the important action which this House is asked to take in reference to the provision of new Missionary Jurisdictions.

The Committee ask the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the failure on the part of the Secretary to obey the precise directions of Title III., Canon 1, § iii., ought not in this single instance to be allowed to invalidate the action by which the changes in Article 5 of the Constitution have been adopted; because, however plain the instructions of the Canon are, it is deemed that in this case the sending of the published Journal may be allowed as a sufficient notice to meet the necessary requirements.

In behalf of the Committee,

THOMAS M. CLARK, Chairman.

On motion, the resolution recommended by the Committee was adopted.

The Bishop of Western New York offered the following resolution:

them with such accuracy and precision of language as shall relieve the Digest from the technical objections which are made by accomplished jurists and canonists to the phraseology of the existing Digest ; which, on motion, was referred to the Committee on Canons. [See p. 49.]

On motion of the Bishop of Pittsburgh, the resolutions reported by the Committee on the Prayer Book this morning in regard to the completion of the work of Prayer Book Revision [see p. 40.], were considered and adopted.

IN GENERAL CONVENTION,
BALTIMORE, 7th day of the Session,
October 12, 1892.

MESSAGE No. 17.

The House of Deputies informs the House of Bishops that it has adopted the following resolution :

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That Title I., Canon 15, § vii., be amended so as to read as follows :

[1] A Minister of this Church removing into the jurisdiction of any Bishop or Ecclesiastical Authority, shall, in order to gain canonical residence within the same, present to said Ecclesiastical Authority a testimonial from the Ecclesiastical Authority of the Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction in which he last resided, which testimonial shall set forth his true standing and character. The said testimonial shall be given by the Bishop to the applicant, and a duplicate thereof may be sent directly to the Bishop of the Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction to which said Minister proposes to remove. The testimonial may be in the following words: "I hereby certify that A. B., who has signified to me his desire to be transferred to the Ecclesiastical Authority of ———, is a Presbyter (or Deacon) of ———, in regular standing, and has not, so far as I know or believe, been justly liable to evil report, for error in religion or viciousness of life, for three years last past."

[2] All such testimonials shall be called Letters Dimissory. The canonical residence of the Minister so transferred shall date from the acceptance of his Letter Dimissory, of which the accepting Bishop shall give prompt notice both to the applicant and to the Bishop from whom it came. If not presented to the Bishop within six months from the date of its transmission to the applicant, it shall become thereby wholly void.

[3] If a Minister, removing into another Diocese, who has been called to take charge of a Parish or Congregation, shall present a Letter Dimissory in the form above given, it shall be the duty of the Ecclesiastical Authority of the Diocese to which he has removed to accept it within six months, unless the Bishop or Standing Committee should have heard rumors, that he or they believe to be well founded, against the character of the Minister concerned; which would form a proper ground of canonical inquiry and presentment; in which case the Ecclesiastical Authority shall communicate the same to the Bishop or Standing Committee of the Diocese to whose jurisdiction the said Minister belongs; and, in such case, it shall not be the duty of the Ecclesiastical Authority to accept the Letter Dimissory, unless, and until, the Minister shall be exculpated from the said charges.

The Bishop of Albany, from the Committee on the Lectionary, presented the following report :

The Committee appointed to examine some supposed errors of selection and possible misprints in the Lectionary, respectfully report that they have found a considerable number suggesting probable errors in typography, and some which are probable results of some confusion in the arrangement of the Lessons. A great number of suggestions have been made to different members of the Committee, and elaborate articles which have appeared in our Church periodicals have been brought before them for consideration. Many of the suggestions which they have thus considered have been worthy of mature and careful examination. Strong objections have been raised by persons entitled to respect, to the exchange of places during one-half of the year by which Gospel Lessons are thrown into the Evening Service. A return to the old arrangement might not be unadvisable, while the object in view in the creation of this exchange would be met by the insertion of a note like that which occurs in the Easter Lessons of the Old Testament, permitting the reader to exchange them practically where it may seem desirable. But your Committee have considered themselves greatly limited as to their power to report upon anything involving extensive rearrangement, and they have resolved to direct attention to a very few cases which appear to them of serious importance.

On the second Sunday after Christmas, in the Second Morning Lesson is now Mark i. to verse 16. The Committee would suggest as more appropriate, St. Matthew ii. at verse 13.

On the First Sunday after Epiphany, the Second Morning Lesson should be, in their opinion, St. Mark i. to verse 16.

On the First Sunday after Easter, the Second Morning Lesson ought not, in our opinion, to include the story of the Ascension, anticipating the great Festival in which it is repeated, and they would suggest that the Lesson should be changed only by omitting the verses as far as verse 15.

On the Fourth Sunday after Easter, the First Evening Lesson should be the third chapter of Habakkuk instead of Nahum i.

On Ascension Day, the First Evening Lesson is Daniel vii. verses 9 to 15. This appears singularly inappropriate, but the entering of the High Priest within the veil, which is expounded by the Apostle as typical of the Ascension, was long ago pointed out by the learned Dr. Jarvis as a lesson which ought not to be omitted from the service of Ascension Day. We therefore propose as a substitute Leviticus xvi., beginning at the 11th verse.

On the eighteenth Sunday after Trinity, the First Morning Lesson should be II. Samuel, 12th chapter, to verse 24.

The First Lesson for the Evening service of the same day should be I. Chronicles, chapter xvii.

On the Feast of St. Matthew, the First Morning Lesson is evidently a mistake; the figure 19 has been confused with figure 10, and has occasioned the blunder.

The whole is corrected by simply changing 19 as it stands in the Calendar to 10. This harmonizes the two lessons for the day, the morning showing the great wealth of Solomon, and the evening lesson, I. Chronicles xxix. 1 to 20, showing the right use of wealth in building up the temple of God.

For All Saints' Day, there seems an obvious propriety in substituting the 21st chapter of the Revelation for Revelation xix. 1 to 17.

And these are all the changes which the Committee has ventured to propose.

J. WILLIAMS, Bishop of Connecticut.

A. CLEVELAND COXE, Bishop of Western New York.

WM. CROSWELL DOANE, Bishop of Albany.

But no minister who shall have taken up his residence in a Diocese to which he has not been canonically transferred shall be competent continuously to minister therein without the license of the Bishop"; so that the clause of the Canon as amended shall read as follows:

It shall be the duty of all ministers to obtain and present letters of transfer as above described, whenever they remove from one Diocese or Missionary District to any other Diocese or Missionary District, whether Domestic or Foreign, and remain there for the space of six months. MESSAGE No. 27.

The House of Deputies informs the House of Bishops that it has adopted the following resolution :

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That a Committee of five persons be appointed to act in conference with a similar Committee from the House of Bishops on the selection of the place for the next General Convention. The House of Deputies appoints as its Committee on this subject, the Rev. Mr. Faude of Minnesota, the Rev. Mr. Foute of California, Mr. Stone of Colorado, Mr. Trask of Albany, and Mr. Davis of Massachusetts.

Attest :

CHAS. L. HUTCHINS, Secretary.

[See p. 84.]

On motion of the Bishop of Long Island, the Committee on a Canon for the Governance of Brotherhoods, Mission Priests, and Sisterhoods, was continued.

The Bishop of Maryland, from the Committee on the Admission of New Dioceses, presented the following report :

The Committee on New Dioceses, to which was referred the Memorial of the Diocese of Michigan asking that a portion of the territory of said Diocese should be set off for Missionary Jurisdiction, and that the Diocese of Michigan should include only the remaining part, beg leave respectfully to report the following resolution :

WHEREAS, The Diocese of Michigan, by action of the Bishop and Convention thereof, has for urgent and sufficient reasons declared its desire to establish its northern limits on the north line of the Straits of Mackinaw, and the waters connecting Lake Michigan and Lake Huron ; and

WHEREAS, The House is sufficiently assured of the consent of the Parishes lying on either side of that line, and said Diocese has tendered to this General Convention a cession of that part of its jurisdiction north of said line ; and

WHEREAS, Doubts are entertained by many of the power under our Constitution to permanently alter the territorial extent of a Diocese in this form ; yet impressed by the great necessities of the Church in this Diocese and the justice of her claims to prompt relief, and following repeated precedents in like cases ; therefore,

Resolved, The House of Deputies concurring, That the General Convention hereby signifies its consent and agreement to the limitation of the jurisdiction of the Bishop and Convention of the Diocese of Michigan within the limits above indicated, until such constitutional amendments and legislation thereunder can be secured as are necessary to remove the doubts aforesaid ; and that in the mean time the territory north of the limits aforesaid and within the State of Michigan be held and treated as missionary territory and subjected to missionary jurisdiction.

Your Committee has the greater confidence in offering this resolution, because, as in the like case of the Diocese of Colorado, the request for relief was accompanied by the assurance of provision made in part for the districts that were set off. The Bishop of Colorado has executed the deeds conveying, for the future endowment of the missionary part of that jurisdiction, property valued at present at $30,000. And the proposed missionary part of the present Diocese of Michigan gives with its request the pledge to pay at once $2,000 of the salary of a Bishop, and other assurances, the proofs whereof are appended to this report.

By order of the Committee.

JOHN F. SPALDING, Chairman.

The following Message was received :

IN GENERAL CONVENTION,
BALTIMORE. 8th day of the Session,
October 13, 1892.

MESSAGE No. 25.

The House of Deputies informs the House of Bishops that it has adopted the following Preamble and Resolution:

WHEREAS, The last General Convention, by advice of its Committee on Constitutional Amendments, consented, in the absence of a Constitutional provision for such cases, to sanction the setting off of a portion of the Diocese of Nebraska to be a Missionary Jurisdiction, as a temporary expedient until constitutional action and legislation thereunder can be secured; and

WHEREAS, This present Convention, by advice of the same Committee, has followed the same course in the instance of the Diocese of Colorado; and

WHEREAS, It is the judgment of this House that but for the accidental omission of a due notification to the Dioceses, this Convention would have finally adopted an Amendment to Article 5 of the Constitution, giving authority to the Convention to accept such cessions of territory; and

WHEREAS, The present Convention has already proposed such alteration of the Constitution for final adoption by the next General Convention; and

WHEREAS, The Diocese of Florida for urgent and sufficient reasons has declared its desire to establish its southern limits on the south lines of the counties of Levy, Alachua, Putnam, and St. John's; and

WHEREAS, This House is sufficiently assured of the consent of the Parishes lying on either side of the line above mentioned, and said Diocese has tendered to this General Convention a cession on the part of said Diocese of its jurisdiction south of said line; and

WHEREAS, Doubts are entertained by many of the power under our Constitution to permanently alter the territorial extent of a Diocese in this form; yet impressed by the great necessities of the Church in that Diocese and of the justice of her claims to prompt relief, and following repeated precedents in like cases; therefore,

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That the General Convention hereby signifies its consent and agreement to the limitation of the jurisdiction of the Bishop and Convention of the Diocese of Florida within the limits above indicated, until such constitutional amendment and legislation thereunder can be secured as are necessary to remove the doubts aforesaid; and that in the mean time the territory south of the limits aforesaid and within the State of Florida be held and treated as missionary territory and subject to missionary jurisdiction.

Attest: CHARLES L. HUTCHINS, Secretary.

On motion, Message No. 25 was referred to the Committee on New Dioceses. [See below, and p. 71.]

The House proceeded to the special Order of the Day, being the report of Committee on New Dioceses, in reference to the cession of territory by the Diocese of Michigan. [See p. 69.]

On motion of the Bishop of Maryland, the resolution accompanying that report was adopted. [See p. 79.]

On motion of the Bishop of Chicago, all the papers relating to this matter were ordered to be deposited in the archives of this House.

The Bishop of Maryland, from the Committee on New Dioceses, presented the following report:

The Committee on New Dioceses, to which was referred the Memorial of the Diocese of Florida, asking consent to the cession of a portion of its territory for missionary jurisdiction, and that the jurisdiction of the Diocese be limited to the northern portion of the State as defined in said Memorial, beg leave to report:

That they have given full consideration to the subject and the papers placed before them, and while they are sure that the labors imposed upon the Bishop of the Diocese as it stands at present are very heavy, and that there would be great gain to the Church if the division proposed could be made, still they cannot advise the granting of the request at this time.

In the cases of the Dioceses of Colorado and Michigan, as before reported, the Memorial was accompanied with the assurance of such arrangements as would secure the speedy support of the new portions, and would provide for part of the burden which otherwise would fall upon the treasury of the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society. But in the case of the Diocese of Florida no such provision is made and no such willingness expressed.

On the contrary, the southern portion of the Diocese, which now contributes by assessment one thousand dollars annually to the support of the Bishop, does not propose to continue even that. To accept the cession therefore, under such circumstances, would be to impose a very heavy burden upon the missionary treasury without conditions which would warrant it; and with the hope that at the next General Convention the Memorial and request may be renewed with sufficient assurance as to self-support, your Committee ask to be excused from further consideration of said Memorial.

JOHN F. SPALDING, Chairman.

The Bishop of Florida moved as a substitute for the report, That the House concur in adopting the resolution contained in Message No. 25 of the House of Deputies [see last page]; which was adopted.

On motion of the Bishop of Missouri, the matter of New Missionary Jurisdictions in Michigan and Florida was referred to the Committee on Domestic Missions. [See p. 75.]

The Bishop of Maryland, from the Committee on New Dioceses, presented the following report :

The Committee on New Dioceses, to which was referred the Memorial from the Diocese of Tennessee, asking consent to the erection within its limits of a new Diocese, respectfully report, that in their judgment the request of the memorialists should not be granted.

Among other reasons convincing them are the following:

1. That there are now only some forty places in the Diocese of Tennessee which as Parishes or Missionary Stations require the personal visits of the Bishop.

2. That the whole number of Communicants in the Diocese is only about 5,000; and the proposed division would leave only 3,100 in one Diocese, and 1,900 in the other.

3. That there are at this date, by the clear acknowledgment of the memorialists, only five priests in the proposed new Diocese, canonically settled for the proper time.

4. That the provision suggested for the support of the Episcopate does not appear to be sufficient.

5. That if the strength of the present Bishop is not sufficient for the whole Diocese as at present, the proper remedy at this time would be found in some other way.

Your Committee therefore offer the following resolution:

Resolved, That the House of Bishops does not consent to the proposed division of the Diocese of Tennessee.

For the Committee,

JOHN SCARBOROUGH.
WILLIAM PARET.

On motion, the resolution recommended by the Committee was adopted. [See p. 98.]

Resolved, The House of Deputies concurring, That Title II., Canon 12, § i., be amended so as to read as follows:

§ i. A member of this Church removing from one Parish to another shall procure from the Rector (if any) of the Parish of his last residence, or if there be no Rector, from one of the Wardens, a certificate stating that he is a member of this Church, and (if such be the case) has been admitted to the Holy Communion; and the Rector of the Parish or Congregation to which he removes shall receive him when such letter is presented.

The Bishop of Western New York, from the Standing Committee on the Prayer Book, to which was referred the question raised this morning by the Bishop of Chicago as to the words in the ratification, "shall be in use," reported the following as the judgment of the Committee :

This phrase, in the opinion of the Committee, authorizes the immediate use of the revised Book at the proposed date, with the necessary subaudition of the right of the clergy to conform to it only so far as possible, while, for a time, the new Prayer Books are not accessible to their flocks. Practically the greater part of the changes in the Daily and Festival Services and those of Lent have been already familiarized by published leaflets, and the Bishops will doubtless encounter very little difficulty in meeting the cases arising in their several jurisdictions.

IN GENERAL CONVENTION,
BALTIMORE, 12th day of the Session.
October 18, 1892.

MESSAGE NO. 40.

The House of Deputies informs the House of Bishops that it has adopted the following resolution :

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That the following petition, addressed to the several governments of the Christian nations of the world in behalf of settling questions that arise between nations, be adopted ; and that copies of the petition, duly attested by the officers of the two Houses, be transmitted by the Secretary of this House to the Conference of delegates from various Christian bodies to be held in Chicago during the Columbian Exposition in 1893, for taking steps to bring this petition before each government through such influential persons as will secure favorable consideration :

“ A PETITION

TO BE ADDRESSED TO THE SEVERAL GOVERNMENTS OF THE CHRISTIAN NATIONS OF THE WORLD.

To

(Here name of Government addressed.)

The Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America wishes you grace, mercy, and peace.

We, in co-operation with other Christian bodies, humbly memorialize you, as the guardians of your people, in behalf of peaceful arbitration as a means of settling questions that arise between nations. The spectacle that is presented of Christian nations facing each other with heavy armaments, ready upon provocation to go to war and settle their differences by bloodshed or conquest, is, to say the least, a blot upon the fair name of Christian. We cannot contemplate without the deepest sorrow the horrors of war, involving the reckless sacrifice of human life that should be held sacred, bitter distress in many households, the destruction of valuable property, the hindering of education and religion, and a general demoralizing of the people.

Moreover, the maintaining of a heavy war force, though war be averted, withdraws multitudes from their homes and the useful pursuits of peace, and imposes a heavy tax upon the people for its support. And further, let it be borne in mind, that wars do not settle causes of disputes between nations on principles of right and justice, but upon the barbaric principle of the triumph of the strongest.

We are encouraged to urge this cause upon your consideration by the fact that much has already been accomplished ; as for example, by the arbitration of Geneva in the Alabama case, and by the deliberations of the American Conference at Washington, not to mention other important cases. It will be a happy day for the world when all international disputes find peaceful solutions ; and this we earnestly seek.

As to the method of accomplishing this end we make no suggestions, but leave that to your superior intelligence and wisdom in matters of state policy.

We invoke upon ruler and people the richest blessings of the Prince of Peace."

Attest: CHAS. L. HUTCHINS, Secretary.

They respectfully call the attention of the House to the resolutions reported to the General Convention of 1877 by the Joint Committee appointed to consider this subject, to wit (Journal of 1877, pp. 141, 143):

First. That the Joint Resolutions heretofore passed by the General Convention have never been deemed to have, and are not to be construed as having the force of law, but as being merely the expression of an opinion.

Second. That in view of the different doctrine prevailing in the civil courts of our country, and to remove all doubt for the future, an amendment should be made to the Constitution which will require all future legislation to be by canon.

Third. That a Joint Resolution professing to interpret a law is only an opinion, of great weight indeed, but not obligatory.

The Bishop of Delaware, from the Standing Committee on the General Theological Seminary, presented the following report:

The Standing Committee on the General Theological Seminary have, with much pleasure, considered such documents concerning that institution as were placed in their hands.

These documents show a continuance of that remarkable progress in every department of the Seminary's life and work over which for many years now the Church has had such good reason to rejoice.

Without going into details to any great extent, your Committee would bring to the notice of this House some of the more important events that have occurred at the Seminary during the past three years.

Among these may be mentioned the endowment of the Glorvina Rossell Hoffman Professorship of Biblical Learning and the Interpretation of the Scripture, the increase by $20,000 of the Fund for Retiring Professors, the addition of two Scholarships, and the resolution of the Board of Trustees to establish a new Professorship of Christian Ethics and Sacred Philosophy.

Since the last General Convention, two handsome and commodious buildings have been erected as dormitories. They are named Dodge Hall (after Mrs. Anson G. P. Dodge) and Kohne Hall (after Mr. Frederick Kohne, a former most generous benefactor of the Seminary). There are also now in the course of erection three houses on the site of the old East Building, for the use of Professors.

The financial condition of the Seminary is most gratifying. Not including the very valuable lots and buildings on what is known as the Seminary Block, the total value of the real estate is $436,921.22. The total amount of personal property is $649,926.70. The amount of special endowments is $654,804.10, making a grand total (with the important exclusion already noted) of $1,741,652.02.

The number of students during the last three years has been as follows : In 1889-90, 89; in 1890-91, 115; in 1891-92, 113. The present accommodations for students are proving insufficient, and it is to be hoped that ere long additional sums of money may be forthcoming from generous Churchmen to supply what is needed in this direction. Further contributions, too, are wanted to enable the Trustees to carry out sufficiently their plans for affording a post-graduate course of instruction, which in these days is on every account to be so greatly desired.

Your Committee would beg to give expression to the hearty congratulations which are heard on every side upon the prosperous condition of the Seminary, and especially to emphasize that sense of gratitude felt by all for the remarkable work of many kinds which has been accomplished, under God, during the incumbency of the present Dean, not only by himself but by others whom he has been so instrumental in influencing in behalf of this venerable and valuable institution.

The Bishop of New York offered the following report with regard to the resignation of the Secretary of the House of Bishops:

The undersigned, a Committee to whom was referred the matter of the resignation of the Rev. William Tatlock, D.D., as Secretary of this House, and the action necessary to be taken in view of the loss of his valuable services, beg leave to report that they unanimously concur in recommending the passage of the following resolution:

Resolved, That in accordance with his reiterated request, the resignation of the Rev. Dr. Tatlock be accepted; and that this Committee be authorized to procure an appropriate testimonial, and to prepare a suitable minute expressive of the deep sense of the loss of this House in being deprived of the services of its honored and faithful Secretary, and of affectionate gratitude for his long-continued and eminent services.

A. CLEVELAND COXE, Bishop of Western New York.

WILLIAM STEVENS PERRY, Bishop of Iowa.

H. C. POTTER, Bishop of New York.

On motion, the resolution reported by the Committee was adopted.

The Bishop of New York presented the following resolution:

Resolved, That in view of the removal of the Secretary by his resignation, this House unanimously adopts the following minute:

The Rev. William Tatlock, D.D., Secretary of the House, having formally reiterated his purpose to retire from that office, and having anew tendered his resignation, the House hereby reluctantly accepts the same, and desires here to place upon record its grateful sense of his able, most courteous, and untiring services for the period of twenty-five years. Entering this House as the Assistant Secretary in the year 1866, and succeeding to the place of Senior Secretary in 1883, he has, it is but just to say, during all that time borne the greater burden of the various duties of his office. And this he has so done as to impress upon the mind of this House his keen sense of a high and delicate responsibility, and his unwearied devotion to every duty, great or small, connected therewith. In accepting his resignation, this House desires to assure its Reverend Secretary that he will carry with him into his official retirement the affectionate regard of every member of it for his many engaging personal qualities, and its grateful and unanimous appreciation of his long and eminent services.

And further, the House of Bishops, in order substantially to convey to Dr. Tatlock some memorial of these sentiments, beg his acceptance of the vase which accompanies this minute, bearing these inscriptions:

PRESENTED OCTOBER 1892

TO THE

REV. WILLIAM TATLOCK, D.D.

BY THE HOUSE OF BISHOPS,

IN GRATEFUL RECOGNITION OF HIS ABLE, FAITHFUL, AND DISTINGUISHED SERVICES AS ITS SECRETARY FOR A QUARTER OF A CENTURY.

A counsellor, a wise man, and a scribe. — I. Chron., xxvii. 32.

which was unanimously adopted.

The Bishop of New York offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Assistant Secretary be instructed to communicate to the House of Deputies information that the House of Bishops has with great reluctance accepted the resignation of the Rev. William Tatlock, D.D., as its Secretary, after a term of service of twenty-five years, and has elected as its Secretary the Rev. Samuel Hart, D.D., Clerical Deputy to this General Convention from the Diocese of Connecticut; which was adopted.

The Bishop of Springfield offered the following preamble and resolution:

WHEREAS, The Missionary Jurisdiction of Washington has been divided into two districts to be henceforth known as the Missionary Jurisdictions of Olympia and Spokane ; and

WHEREAS, The Right Rev. Dr. Paddock, heretofore known as the Missionary Bishop of Washington, remains in charge of the district of Olympia ; therefore,

Resolved, That the title of the Missionary Bishop of Washington be changed accordingly and that henceforth he be known as the Missionary Bishop of Olympia ;

§ ii. All copies of the Book of Common Prayer to be hereafter made and published shall conform to this standard, and shall agree therewith in paging and, so far as it is possible, in all other matters of typographical arrangement, except that the rubrics may be printed either in red or in black. The requirement of uniformity in paging shall apply only to that portion of the book which begins with the Order for Daily Morning Prayer and ends with the Psalter, and shall not extend to editions smaller than those known as 24mo or to editions noted for music.

MESSAGE No. 65.

Resolved, That this House respectfully asks for a Committee of Conference on Message No. 40 from the House of Bishops, non-concurring with Message No. 23 from the House of Deputies on proposed amendment of Title I., Canon 10, § vi. [See pp. 63, 74.]

On motion, the request for a Committee of Conference was granted, and the Chair appointed as members of the Committee, on the part of this House, the Bishops of Long Island, New Jersey, and North Dakota. [See p. 129.]

The Bishop of Central New York presented the following report :

The Joint Committee appointed at the General Convention of 1889 to consider and report to this Convention, First, whether a territorial division of the whole Church in the United States and Territories into Provinces is expedient ; Secondly, by what changes in the Constitution and Canons of the Church a system of provincial legislation and discipline could be established ; Thirdly, on what general plan such a division could be effected, respectfully report :

That they have endeavored to give such careful consideration to the matter committed to them as its gravity and magnitude demand. At every step they have been impressed more and more both with its intrinsic importance to the prosperity of the Church in the United States, and by an evident conviction in the public mind that some decisive action on the main interests touched in the terms of the resolutions by which the Committee was created ought to be taken without unnecessary delay. Reasons for such comprehensive legislation, contemplating a serious change in the Constitution and Canons of the Church, must be sought not only in a present economy and in the inconveniences of an emergency, but in a larger view of the original and historical development of the Catholic Body as the Kingdom of Christ among the nations of the earth.

Assuming that the Diocese be taken as the unit of Church life on the one hand, and the entire communion of the faithful in Christ as its complete integral embodiment on the other, it appears also that the nature of the Episcopate, and through that the order and extension of the whole Divine family, renders essential an organization placing each bishop in a visible relation of counsel and co-operation with comprovincials. That a recognition of this law has not been more distinct and more general in this country is due no doubt to our geographical position with its scattered population. The fact that our Church here is in itself a province might very well forestall opposition to a further application of the provincial principle. To a majority of your Committee the same conditions of territorial expansion and the distribution of a vast people seem now to impose upon us a further conforming of our ecclesiastical methods to the primitive pattern. Added to this reason of conformity are others, such as the dimensions, costs, and unwieldiness of our Triennial Convention, if not now, at least in the near future, the need of a higher and safer judiciary than that of a single Diocese, and a more intelligent mode of assent to the consecration of bishops, a more simple and effective working of Missions, and a foreclosure of sporadic, grotesque, and inconsistent measures of combination. The opinion has been expressed in the Committee that an erection of Provinces through division by no means carries necessarily with it an adoption of all the features or titles of the provincial administration which has existed in other times and other lands.

It is far from the purpose of your Committee to enter into an argument upon the subject or to discuss its many difficult details. These suggestions are offered as the ground of a recommendation that the inquiry be continued and that a more specific report be presented at the next Convention.

They recommend the adoption of the following resolution :

Resolved, The House of Deputies concurring, That the Committee be continued and that vacancies occurring in it be filled.

JOHN WILLIAMS, Chairman.

CAUSTEN BROWNE, Secretary of Committee.

REPORT No. 34.

The Committee on Canons, to which was referred a resolution presented by the Bishop of Maryland, proposing an amendment of Title L, Canon 20, by the insertion before § v. of a section providing that "nothing be bound up with the Book of Common Prayer except the Hymnal which may at any time be authorized and set forth by the General Convention," respectfully reports :

That inasmuch as the Convention at its present session has authorized the use of the Hymnal heretofore adopted in addition to the new Hymnal for at least three years, it is inexpedient to pass the amendment proposed until further action upon the Hymnal by the General Convention ; and they ask to be discharged from further consideration of the subject.

Attest : WILLIAM STEVENS PERRY, Secretary.

On motion, the request of the Committee was granted.

On motion of the Bishop of New York, the election of members of the Constitutional Commission was made the special Order of the Day for Monday at 12 o'clock.

On motion of the Bishop of New Hampshire, the reading of the Pastoral Letter was made the special Order of the Day for Monday at 8:30 o'clock.

On motion of the Bishop of Albany, leave was granted to the Committee on Christian Education to sit as a Joint Committee with the corresponding Committee of the other House.

On motion of the Bishop of Albany, the Canon on Suffragan Bishops was postponed and made the special Order of the Day on Monday at 11:30 o'clock.

The Bishop of Albany presented the following report from the Council as to the claim of J. René Vilatte to have been consecrated a bishop :

It appears that the bishops from whom M. Vilatte claims to have received consecration belonged to a body which is separated from Catholic Christendom because of its non-acceptance of the dogmatic decrees of the Council of Chalcedon as to our blessed Lord's Person ;

These bishops had no jurisdiction or right to ordain a bishop for any part of the Diocese under the charge of the Bishop of Fond du Lac ;

M. Vilatte was never elected by any duly accredited Synod.

It appears that M. Vilatte, in seeking the Episcopate, made statements not warranted by the facts of the case, and seemed willing to join in with any body, Old Catholic, Greek, Roman, or Syrian, which would confer it upon him.

More than two months before the time of his so-called consecration, he had been deposed from the sacred ministry.

In view of these facts, we propose the following resolutions:

Resolved, That, in the opinion of this House, the whole proceedings in connection with the so-called consecration of J. René Vilatte were null and void, and that this Church does not recognize that any Episcopal character was thereby conferred.

Resolved, That a statement of the above-recited facts be sent to the Archbishop of Utrecht, to the Old Catholics of Germany and Switzerland, and to the Metropolitans and Primates of the Anglican Communion.

On motion, the first resolution reported from the Council was adopted.

On motion, the second resolution reported from the Council was adopted.

The Bishop of Springfield offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Committee appointed by the Council to consider a matter referred to them by the Bishop of Fond du Lac, be continued, and requested to collect all available information touching the so-called consecration of the Rev. J. René Vilatte, and that such information be digested into a supplemental report to be presented to the next General Convention and deposited in the archives of this House;

which was adopted.

The Bishop of Long Island, from the Commission on Ecclesiastical Relations, presented the following resolutions:

Resolved, The House of Deputies concurring, That the Joint Commission on Ecclesiastical Relations be continued.

Resolved, That the following be members of the Joint Commission on Ecclesiastical Relations on the part of the House of Bishops: The Bishops of Western New York, Long Island, Central New York, Iowa, Springfield, Delaware, Fond du Lac, Michigan, and the Assistant Bishop of Springfield.

Resolved, That the Report of the Commission on Ecclesiastical Relations be printed in the Appendix of the Journal.

On motion, the resolutions contained in the report of the Commission were severally adopted. [See p. 136, and Appendix VII.]

The Bishop of South Dakota offered the following resolutions:

Resolved, The House of Deputies concurring, That a Commission consisting of five Bishops, five Presbyters, and five Laymen be appointed, to whom (in conjunction with the Bishops having jurisdiction in Illinois) shall be committed the whole duty of initiating and carrying into effect in connection with the Columbian Exposition such measures as the case in their opinion may demand, for a due presentation of this Church in its history, its doctrine, discipline, and worship, its practical work, and in other phases of its life, as may be deemed wise by said Commission.

Resolved, That this Commission have authority to add to its membership according to their discretion.

Resolved, That the bishop first named in this Commission shall be the convener of the Commission, and that the Commission when convened shall elect their own Chairman; which were not adopted.

The Bishop of Central New York, from the Joint Special Committee on General Clergy Relief, presented the following report :

The Joint Special Committee appointed to consider the Report of the Board of Trustees of the Fund for the Relief of Widows and Orphans of Deceased Clergymen and of Aged, Infirm, and Disabled Clergymen, and to report such action in view of the recommendations of the Board as in their judgment may be expedient, respectfully begs leave to report :

The duty of the Church to make suitable provision for the widows and orphans of deceased clergymen and for aged, infirm, and disabled clergymen, is recognized almost universally. Unfortunately, however, this recognition is a sort of pious sentiment which lacks the reality of a living principle. It does not, as yet, control the public conscience of the Church, nor enter into the domain of the practical morals of our social Christian life.

The clergy have no share and desire no share in the race for wealth; they are not admitted competitors in the strife for the prize which most men covet and which only the few never dream of contesting for. By the habits of their life, by the quality of their duties, by the public feeling of the Church itself, by the power of their own convictions, they are cut off from everything and from all pursuits which interfere with entire devotion to the main purpose of their life. The immense and overwhelming majority of the clergy are poor. To their credit be it said, most of them bear their poverty in splendid and heroic silence.

But if there be many poor clergymen, it must be remembered that there are as many poor and feeble parishes. When years and toil begin to tell upon a clergyman, and his physical forces diminish, when his powers for usefulness are obviously wasting or gone, his parish can do next to nothing for him. Mere parochial aid is out of the question. Many Dioceses are as poor as the parishes, and our aged clergymen are compelled to face actual want and destitution.

Your Joint Committee is of the opinion that no argument is necessary to convince the Church of its duty in the premises. It may be said to know but perhaps not to feel its duty to make such provision as the aged and infirm clergy need, and to comfort the fatherless and widow in their affliction.

The report of the Trustees of the Fund, in the hands of the members of the Convention, must impress every one with the need of a new and larger effort in behalf of this cause.

It is highly desirable that this report be circulated throughout the length and breadth of the Church, so that our people may learn just what agencies are now at work, and how limited the interest in the matter is, and how little has been done hitherto. They will learn much and have something new to think of. They will be surprised to see that while some of the older Dioceses have been and are making provision for their aged clergy, the Church at large is doing next to nothing.

It is time this lethargic sentiment be quickened into a living force, and that the Church recognize and adopt measures not as if it were doing out an alms to make the clergy pensioners who by right of length of service are entitled to a yearly stipend. It is the opinion of the Committee charged with the duty of bringing this subject to your notice, that all action should tend in the direction so that it shall become the fixed policy of the Church to secure for its aged, infirm, and disabled clergy proper pensions and not mere compassionate benevolence.

When your committee turn to that which forms the pleading reason for the existence of this Society—the untold suffering which lies behind and beneath these formal statements and cold provisions of the law, they feel the helplessness of every faculty save pity and imagination—pity because the sorrows hidden there are both in their bitterness and their sacredness made only the more keen to the sufferers by the whole habit and sympathetic culture of their lives; imagination, because the dreary realities of the picture are personally known in the experience of but few of us who hear of them, and because the honor and tenderness of charity itself forbid us to attempt to describe them as they are. Could we uncover the manifold misery, could we hear the cry that comes sharp from the spirit but is subdued on the lips, it would not need these poor yearly appeals of a feeble society to move the compassion of the whole family of Christ.

Some of the elements of this sore distress, the anxiety that never ceases day and night, from year to year, as to the next month's rent or food, the aching hunger for other nourishment than literal bread and meat, the sad recollection of other times, not of plenty perhaps, but of a supply comfortable compared with the present poverty, the deepening shadow which has brooded over the prospect from the time when it first made the young student doubt whether he should commit himself to the beginning of a ministry always threatened with this tragic ending, the pathetic sacrifices of the patient household, one member for another—these are readily brought to mind. Would to God that in our thousands of well-housed and well-fed congregations they could reach the feeling and the will by which bountiful hands could be opened and a righteous debt be justly paid.

At this late date of the Convention, the Committee can only express without argument their unanimous conviction that it ought to be earnestly considered by the Church whether there ought not to be substituted for the present inadequate and disappointing efforts at relief, a well-planned system of clergy pensions for clergymen incapacitated for active service by age or infirmity, and for the widows and orphans of needy clergymen deceased.

The measures recommended by your Committee, therefore, are embodied on a Canon herewith submitted.

The Committee of the House to which was referred the proposed Canon on Suffragan Bishops for consideration and amendment, respectfully report the following resolution, to wit :

Resolved, The House of Deputies concurring, That the following Canon be enacted as Title I., Canon 16, to wit [see Journal of 1889, pp. 27-29] :

Of Suffragan Bishops.

§ i. [1]. It shall be lawful for the Convention or Council of any Diocese of this Church, with the consent of the General Convention, or during the recess of the same, and not less than three months before a meeting of the same, of a majority of the Bishops holding jurisdiction in the United States, and of the Standing Committees of the Church in the several Dioceses, on the application of the Diocesan thereof, to establish, from time to time, within said Diocese, a district or districts, not more than two, as Suffragan Bishoprics, and for each district so established to elect, agreeably to such rules as may be provided by the General Convention, a Suffragan Bishop who shall bear the title of Suffragan Bishop, with such local designation as the said Diocesan Convention shall see fit to give him, and shall be invested with all the rights and powers, and be subject to all the duties and liabilities, of a Bishop of this Church save as hereinafter excepted. In the absence of the Bishop and Assistant Bishop, if there be one, the Suffragan shall preside over the meetings of the Convention or Council of the Church in the Diocese. If there be more than one Suffragan in the Diocese, the senior in the order of consecration shall preside.

[2] Such districts shall not be in any wise severed from the Diocese to which they belong, nor shall they constitute independent Bishoprics, nor in any wise exercise the powers already vested in Diocesan or other legislative Conventions or Councils.

§ ii. [1]. Each Suffragan shall, within the district for which he may have been elected, perform such episcopal duties and exercise such episcopal authority as the Bishop or the Assistant Bishop, if he be in full charge of the Diocese, may from time to time assign to him. And no Suffragan shall have or exercise any jurisdiction, or perform any episcopal offices without the limits of the district so assigned him within the Diocese of which it is a part, except by express request of his Diocesan. Nor shall any Diocesan direct the performance of any ecclesiastical offices or the exercise of any episcopal jurisdiction by one Suffragan within the district of another, without the consent of the latter; Provided, that should any Suffragan be disabled for the performance of such duties, or any of them, the Diocesan shall have the power to direct their performance by another; Provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed as interfering with the right of the Diocesan personally to officiate or exercise jurisdiction at his own pleasure within any part of his own Diocese ; and provided further, that nothing herein shall in any wise affect the rights and duties of the Assistant Bishop of the Diocese, if there be one.

[2]. Should the Diocese become vacant, or its Diocesan become disabled, either physically or by judicial sentence, it shall become the duty of the Suffragan or Suffragans of the Diocese, until the vacancy in the Diocese shall be filled, to perform all the episcopal offices which may be required therein, subject, however, to the provisions of § vi. of this Canon.

§ iii. Such Suffragan Bishop must be at the time of his election a parochial clergyman or missionary in the Diocese in which he is to serve, and each Suffragan Bishop shall be allowed to retain the charge of any parish of which he may have been rector at the time of his election, or of any mission station of which he may have been missionary, or accept the rectorship of any parish to which he may be appointed, it being understood that provision for the discharge of such parochial or missionary duties as he is unable to perform in consequence of his election as Suffragan is sufficiently made out of his salary as such Suffragan Bishop, Rector, or Missionary.

§ iv. Should the Diocese become vacant by the death of the Diocesan, the duties of the Suffragan or Suffragans shall cease, except so far as they are ordered to continue, or unless he or they shall be assigned to the charge of a district or districts by the Bishop who shall become the Bishop of the Diocese.

§ v. [1]. The consent of a Suffragan shall not be necessary for the consecration of any other bishop, nor shall a Suffragan act as Presiding Bishop at the consecration of any bishop, nor shall he have a seat in the House of Bishops.

[2]. No Suffragan shall ordain any priest or deacon without the request of his Diocesan ; Provided, that during a vacancy in the Diocesan Episcopate, or the continuance of a disability on the part of the Diocesan to make and request it, it shall be sufficient that the request be made by the Standing Committee.

§ vi. [1]. Any Suffragan Bishop may be elected Diocesan, Assistant Bishop, or Missionary Bishop of any Diocese or Jurisdiction. In case of any such election, the same course shall be pursued as in the case of the election of a Missionary Bishop as a Diocesan or Assistant Bishop, provided for in Title I., Canon 16. § viii. [1], [2].

§ vii. Nothing in this or any other Canon shall be construed to prevent the transfer of a Suffragan to another district within the Diocese with his own consent and with the consent of the Diocesan.

§ viii. Title I., Canon 16, § v., so far as it prohibits Suffragan Bishops, and all other Canons or parts of Canons, so far as they may conflict herewith, are hereby repealed.

J. WILLIAMS, Chairman.

(a) Substitute for the present first Article, the following, namely :

ARTICLE I.

In the Name of God, Amen.

This Church, assured that Holy Scripture contains all things necessary to salvation, and that the Creeds commonly called the Apostles' Creed and the Nicene Creed ought thoroughly to be received and believed, for that they may be proved by most certain warrants of the said Scripture, herewith sets forth as its form of doctrine, the following, to wit :

I BELIEVE in God the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth:

And in Jesus Christ his only Son our Lord: Who was conceived by the Holy Ghost, Born of the Virgin Mary: Suffered under Pontius Pilate, Was crucified, dead, and buried: He descended into hell: The third day he rose again from the dead: He ascended into heaven, And sitteth on the right hand of God the Father Almighty: From thence he shall come to judge the quick and the dead.

I believe in the Holy Ghost: The Holy Catholic Church: The Communion of Saints: The Forgiveness of sins: The Resurrection of the body: And the Life Everlasting. Amen.

I BELIEVE in one God the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth, And of all things visible and invisible:

And in one Lord Jesus Christ, the only-begotten Son of God; Begotten of his Father before all worlds, God of God, Light of Light, Very God of very God; Begotten, not made; Being of one substance with the Father; By whom all things were made: Who for us men and for our salvation came down from heaven, and was incarnate by the Holy Ghost of the Virgin Mary, and was made man: And was crucified also for us under Pontius Pilate: He suffered and was buried: And the third day he rose again according to the Scriptures: And ascended into heaven, And sitteth on the right hand of the Father: And he shall come again, with glory, to judge both the quick and the dead: Whose kingdom shall have no end.

And I believe in the Holy Ghost, The Lord, and Giver of Life, Who proceedeth from the Father and the Son; Who with the Father and the Son together is worshipped and glorified: Who spake by the Prophets: And I believe in one Catholic and Apostolic Church: I acknowledge one Baptism for the remission of sins: And I look for the Resurrection of the dead: And the Life of the world to come. Amen.

Memorial from the Diocese of Kentucky to the Bishops, the Clergy, and the Laity of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States in Convention assembled.

Believing that the setting forth of an established system of pointing of the Canticles and Psalter in the Book of Common Prayer would remedy the serious disadvantages arising from the use of various pointings, and enable worshippers to join with confidence and satisfaction in the services, wherever they may be, thus adding to their impressiveness and heartiness, the Council of the Church in the Diocese of Kentucky respectfully asks that a pointing be adopted by the Convention and printed in the Revised Prayer Book soon to be set forth.

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That a Commission of competent persons be appointed by this Convention, to prepare a system of pointing for the Canticles, the Gloria Patri, and the whole Book of Psalms, the same to be reported to the next General Convention for its approval and recommendation to the use of the Church.

The following Message was received, and, on motion, the House concurred therein :

IN GENERAL CONVENTION,
BALTIMORE, 5th day of the Session,
October 10, 1892.

MESSAGE NO. 12.

The House of Bishops informs the House of Deputies that it has adopted the following preamble and resolutions reported by the Joint Committee on the observance of the 21st of October, viz.:

WHEREAS, The President of the United States has issued a proclamation calling for the observance of October the 21st as a day upon which the people shall, in their places of public worship, make grateful recognition of the signal favors received from God by this land since its discovery; therefore be it Resolved, The House of Deputies concurring, That this Convention will meet in St. Paul's Church of this city, on the morning of the day already indicated, to participate in such special office as may be ordered for the occasion by the House of Bishops, that we may render thanks to God who at the first did open this Western Continent to the explorer, and later did inspire and direct our fathers in laying the foundations of that religious and civil liberty whose blessings have since been shared impartially by millions of our fellow-men of every race and clime.

Resolved, That this Convention all the more readily responds to the summons of our Chief Magistrate as it recalls the fact that for this liberty, and for the many other mercies resulting therefrom, under God, America was in the beginning chiefly indebted to our venerated Mother Church of England, from whose sons and daughters there were received those institutions, both religious and civil, which are our priceless heritage.

Resolved, That this Committee be discharged from the further consideration of the subject.

Attest :

WM. TATLOCK, Secretary.

Mr. Wilmer, from the Joint Committee on the subject of a suitable observance of October 21, presented a report (embodied in the foregoing Message).

On motion, the House adjourned.

SIXTH DAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

TUESDAY, October 11, 1892.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

Morning Prayer was said by the Rev. Mr. Lightner of Delaware, the Benediction being pronounced by the Bishop of Massachusetts.

The Minutes of yesterday's session were read and approved.

The following members, not previously present, appeared and took their seats :

Mr. E. H. Bennett, of Massachusetts; the Rev. Dr. Coit, of New Hampshire; the Rev. Dr. Schuyler, of Newark; and Mr. F. B. Swayne, of Ohio.

The Rev. Dr. Locke, from the Committee on Elections, presented the following report :

REPORT No. 5.

The Committee on Elections would report that the proper testimonials have been received entitling to a seat in this Convention Mr. W. H. Ross, Diocese of Alabama, in place of Mr. H. T. Toulmin, unable to attend. The same report is made in the case of Mr. B. J. Baldwin, Diocese of Alabama, in place of Mr. I. W. Noble, and in the case of the Rev. Frederic F. Reese, Diocese of Georgia, in place of Rev. Chauncey C. Williams. These names will be entered on the roll.

CLINTON LOCKE, Chairman.

Whereupon Messrs. Ross and Baldwin and the Rev. Mr. Reese appeared and took their seats.

The Rev. Dr. Huntington, from the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, presented the following report, which was placed on the calendar :

REPORT No. 1.

The Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, to whom was referred a resolution offered by Judge Prince of New Mexico, proposing that Article 1 of the Constitution be so changed that the Convention shall hereafter assemble on the first Wednesday in September instead of October, have considered the same, and beg leave respectfully to report that they think the change inexpedient, and ask the adoption of the following resolution :

Resolved, That the Committee be discharged from the further consideration of the subject.

W. R. HUNTINGTON, Chairman.

[For the consideration of the report see p. 252.]

The same gentleman, from the same Committee, presented the following report, the resolution appended to which was, on motion, adopted :

REPORT No. 2.

The Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, to whom was referred the resolution offered by Mr. Craighill of West Virginia, proposing that Article 2 of the Constitution be so changed that the deputation from each Diocese shall not consist of more than three of each Order, have considered the same, and beg leave respectfully to report that they think such action would be premature, and they recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the subject be postponed to the next General Convention.
W. R. HUNTINGTON, Chairman.

The same gentleman, from the same Committee, presented the following report, the preamble and resolution appended to which were, on motion, adopted:

REPORT No. 3.

The Committee on Constitutional Amendments, to which was referred the petition of the Diocese of Colorado, praying leave to cede to the General Convention a part of its territorial jurisdiction, have had the same under consideration, and beg leave to report that they recommend the adoption of the following preamble and resolution:

WHEREAS, The Diocese of Colorado, by deliberate action of the Bishop and Convention thereof, has, for urgent and sufficient reasons, declared its desire to establish its western limits on the west line of the counties of Larimer, Boulder, Gilpin, Clear Creek, Park, Lake, Chaffee, Saquache, Rio Grande, and Conejos; and

WHEREAS, This House is sufficiently advised of the consent of the parishes lying on either side of that line, and said Diocese has tendered to this General Convention a cession of that part of its jurisdiction west of that line; and

WHEREAS, Doubts are entertained by many of the power under our Constitution to permanently alter the territorial extent of a Diocese in this form, yet impressed by the great necessities of the Church in that Diocese and of the justice of her claims to prompt relief, and following repeated precedents in like cases; therefore

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That the General Convention hereby signifies its consent and agreement to the limitation of the jurisdiction of the Bishop and Convention of the Diocese of Colorado within the limits above indicated until such constitutional amendment and legislation thereunder can be secured as are necessary to remove the doubts aforesaid, and that in the mean time the territory west of the limits aforesaid and within the State of Colorado be held and treated as missionary territory and subject to missionary jurisdiction.

All which is respectfully submitted.

W. R. HUNTINGTON, Chairman.

The Rev. Dr. Hart, from the Joint Committee on the Standard Book of Common Prayer, presented the following report, the resolution appended to which, on motion, was adopted:

The House of Bishops informs the House of Deputies that it has adopted the following resolution :

Resolved, That this House asks for the appointment of a Committee of Conference on so much of Message No. 11 from the House of Deputies as comprises the rejection of the change proposed in Resolution XXXVII. of the "Notification," etc., and that this House appoints as such Committee the Bishops of Albany, New Hampshire, and Chicago.

Resolved, That this House concurs with the House of Deputies in its action rejecting the change proposed in Resolution XLII. of the "Notification."

Attest:

WM. TATLOCK, Secretary.

On motion, the House acceded to the request of the House of Bishops, and the President appointed as members of the Committee, on the part of this House, the Rev. Dr. Hart, of Connecticut; the Rev. Mr. Spalding, of California; and Mr. Thomas, of Pennsylvania. [For the report of the Committee see p. 236.]

The Rev. Dr. Locke, from the Committee on Elections, presented the following report :

REPORT No. 6.

The Committee on Elections have received the proper testimonials entitling the Rev. E. W. Worthington of the Diocese of Ohio to a seat in this Convention, in the place of the Rev. A. B. Putnam, unable to attend.

CLINTON LOCKE, Chairman.

Whereupon the Rev. Mr. Worthington appeared and took his seat.

Mr. Burgwin, of Pittsburgh, offered the following resolutions, and, on his motion, they were referred to the Committee on Constitutional Amendments, with the request that they report whether in their opinion they, or any of them, may be lawfully adopted by the concurrent vote of the two Houses of this General Convention, without being proposed to the succeeding General Convention :

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That the Committee of the Standard Book be instructed to rearrange the Contents of the Prayer Book according to their natural and orderly sequence, and especially so that the Proper Psalms and the Selections of Psalms, when published in full text, and the Psalter follow immediately the Orders for Morning and Evening Prayer, as being component parts thereof.

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That it is hereby declared lawful to publish, under Canonical authority, as a Manual or Service Book of the Church, the Orders for Morning and Evening Prayer, including the Lectionary and the Order Concerning the Service of the Church, together with the Litany and the Prayers and Thanksgivings on Several Occasions, and such Manual may also contain the Collects, with references to the Epistle and Gospels, and the Order for the Holy Communion.

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That the Offices entitled "The Form and Manner of Making, Ordaining, etc.," "The Form of Consecration of a Church or Chapel," and "The Office of Institution of Ministers" are all of them Rites and Ceremonies or Offices of this Church, and constituent parts of the Book of Common Prayer, duly established by the authority of the General Convention; and the Committee on the Standard Prayer Book is hereby instructed to give them their proper position among the Contents of said Book, and to insert their titles in the Table of Contents.

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That when the Ordinal shall be bound up and published, with all the other parts of the Book of Common Prayer, it shall be lawful to omit therefrom the Litany and Suffrages and the Order for the Administration of the Lord's Supper; but in such case there shall be inserted therein, at the proper places, the three rubrics with suffrages and answers as prescribed in Resolution XXIX. (b) in the Report to the General Convention of 1883 of the Joint Committee on the Book of Common Prayer (see page 45) as published in the Book annexed accompanying said Report (see pp. 528-533-4 and 547).

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That in printing the title-page of the Book of Common Prayer, etc., the comma be omitted after the word Prayer.

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That it is not expedient to adopt a Standard Book of Common Prayer at this Session of the General Convention, but that the present Committee on the Standard Book be continued and requested, as soon as practicable after the adjournment, to publish an edition of the Prayer Book embodying all the alterations, additions, and other changes previously made therein, and report a copy of the same with such corrigenda, if any, as they may find necessary to the next General Convention for adoption as a Standard Book.

[For the report of the Committee see p. 355.]

Mr. Morehouse, of Milwaukee, offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the words "Protestant Episcopal" be omitted from the title-page of the Standard Prayer Book.

Mr. Wilmer, of Maryland, offered the following amendment, which, on motion, was laid on the table:

That in view of the fact that any change in the name of the Church either in the title-page of the Prayer Book or elsewhere would involve a delay in the publication of a Standard Prayer Book for three years, any further discussion of this subject is undesirable.

On a motion to lay on the table the resolution of Mr. Morehouse, a vote of Dioceses and Orders was called for. Of the Clergy there were 52 Dioceses represented; ayes 27, nays 20, divided 5. Of the Laity there were 45 Dioceses represented; ayes 31, nays 13, divided 1. And the motion prevailed.

The Rev. Dr. Hart, from the Committee of Conference on Resolution XXXVII. of the "Notification" etc., presented the following report:

The conferees on the part of the House of Deputies in regard to the disagreeing action of the two Houses upon Resolution XXXVII. of the Notification, beg leave to report:

That, upon conference with the Committee appointed for that purpose by the House of Bishops, they found that the reasons which had chiefly weighed with that House in the adoption of the resolution had not been stated in the House of Deputies; and in order that these reasons may be stated, they respectfully recommend that this House reconsider its action, in order that it may again take a vote upon the resolution.

SAMUEL HART,
E. B. SPALDING,
GEO. C. THOMAS,

Conferees on the part of the House of Deputies.

On motion, the House reconsidered its action on Resolution XXXVII. of the "Notification," etc.

Resolution XXXVII. of the "Notification," etc., being under consideration, a motion for its adoption in concurrence with the action of the House of Bishops as communicated in its Message No. 4 prevailed by the following vote :

Resolved, That the Committee be instructed to restore the punctuation of the Creed between the words "the Holy Catholic Church" and "the Communion of Saints," in the Standard of 1845, by changing the semicolon to a comma.

The question recurring on the first resolution offered by the Rev. Dr. Huntington [see p. 233] it was, on motion, adopted.

The second resolution of the same gentleman was, on motion, adopted.

On motion, the third resolution was referred to the Committee on Canons. [For a report of the Committee see p. 293.]

Mr. Wilmer, from the Special Committee, reported that Friday at 2 P.M. had been fixed upon for the trip in the harbor, and, on motion, the day and hour were approved.

On motion, the House adjourned.

SEVENTH DAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

WEDNESDAY, October 12, 1892.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

Morning Prayer was said by the Rev. Mr. Cathell, of Indiana, the Benediction being pronounced by the Bishop of Ohio.

The Minutes of yesterday's session were read and approved.

The President communicated to the House the credentials of the Deputation from the Provincial Synod of the Province of Rupert's Land, and on motion of the Rev. Dr. Hoffman, of New York, the hour of 11 A.M. on Saturday was fixed at which to receive the Deputation.

The Rev. Dr. Richards, from the Committee on the Admission of New Dioceses, presented the following report, and the resolution appended thereto was, on motion, adopted :

REPORT No. 2.

The Committee on the Admission of New Dioceses, to whom was referred a Memorial from the Missionary Jurisdiction of Wyoming and Idaho requesting a division of said Missionary Jurisdiction upon a basis defined by the State lines of Wyoming and Idaho, beg leave respectfully to report :

That without entering into the argument for the expediency of such a division in the special case of this Missionary Jurisdiction it appeared to your Committee that previous precedent had left the establishment and the division of Missionary Jurisdictions in the hands of the House of Bishops. By a resolution of that House, sent to the House of Clerical and Lay Deputies for their information (see Journal of 1865, p. 116), the whole unoccupied region of the West was parcelled out into five Missionary Jurisdictions of Oregon and parts adjacent, of Arkansas and parts adjacent, of Colorado and parts adjacent, of Nevada and parts adjacent, and of Nebraska and parts adjacent. By a like resolution in 1871 (see Journal, p. 197), the House rescinded the action of three years previous establishing a Missionary Jurisdiction, and gave notice to the House of Clerical and Lay Deputies that it established the Missionary Jurisdiction of Niobrara.

It appears to your Committee therefore that no duty belongs to them or to the House of Deputies in the consideration of the division of the Missionary Jurisdiction of Wyoming and Idaho, and they recommend that the House of Deputies adopt the following resolution :

Resolved, That the Committee on New Dioceses be discharged from the further consideration of the Memorial from Wyoming and Idaho.

By order of the Committee,

C. A. L. RICHARDS.

The same gentleman, from the same Committee, presented the following report, the resolution appended to which was, on motion, adopted :

REPORT No. 3.

The Committee on the Admission of New Dioceses, to whom was referred the Memorial from the Missionary Jurisdiction of Washington, praying for a division of that jurisdiction longitudinally by the line of the Cascade range of mountains into two Missionary Jurisdictions, beg leave respectfully to report :

That without entering into an examination of the desirableness of such a division in the above instance they find that previous precedent and usage have left the division of Missionary Jurisdictions in the hands of the House of Bishops (see Journal of 1865, p. 116, and Journal of 1871, p. 197).

That no duty therefore rests upon your Committee or this House of Clerical and Lay Deputies, and they recommend the adoption of the following resolution :

Resolved, The Committee on the Admission of New Dioceses be discharged from the further consideration of the memorial of the Missionary Jurisdiction of Washington.

By order of the Committee,

C. A. L. RICHARDS, Chairman.

The same gentleman, from the same Committee, presented the following report, which was placed on the calendar :

REPORT No. 4.

The Committee on the Admission of New Dioceses, to whom was referred the Memorial of the Diocese of Tennessee praying for the division of the Diocese along a line duly specified in the Memorial, respectfully beg leave to report :

That they have sufficient evidence before them of the long-continued and persistent and strong desire of the Bishop and Convention of the Diocese of Tennessee as well as of their formal consent to the forming or erection of said new Diocese ;

That furthermore, your Committee are satisfied that the portion of territory to be included in the new Diocese is amply large, and in need of a greater measure of Episcopal supervision than it now receives ;

That the existing Diocese will not be so reduced as to contain less than twelve parishes or less than twelve Presbyters who have been for at least one year canonically resident within the bounds assigned to the existing Diocese, regularly settled in a parish or congregation and qualified to vote for a Bishop.

Your Committee are assured that a sufficient, if modest, provision for the support of the Episcopate of the proposed Diocese has been practically secured, part of it being an assessment annually upon the parishes, and part of it being in uncollected pledges not yet matured but bearing interest.

They further have evidence that the proposed new Diocese will contain not less than six parishes.

By an unfortunate circumstance the Rector of one of the most important parishes of the proposed new Diocese has not yet been for one year canonically resident, and it therefore appears that there are not, according to the requirements of the Constitution, six Presbyters who have been for at least one year canonically resident within the bounds of said new Diocese, regularly settled in a parish or congregation, and qualified to vote for a Bishop.

Your Committee therefore respectfully recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Committee on New Dioceses be discharged from the further consideration of the Memorial of the Bishop and Convention of the Diocese of Tennessee.

By order of the Committee,
C. A. L. RICHARDS, Chairman.

[For the consideration of the report see p. 252.]

The Rev. Dr. Davenport, from the Committee on Canons, presented the following report, the resolution appended to which was, on motion, adopted:

REPORT NO. 5.

The Committee on Canons, to whom was referred a proposed amendment to Title I., Canon 15, § vii., respectfully report the following:

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That Title I., Canon 15, § vii., be amended so as to read as follows:

[1] A minister of this Church removing into the jurisdiction of any Bishop or other Ecclesiastical Authority, shall, in order to gain canonical residence within the same, present to said Ecclesiastical Authority a testimonial from the Ecclesiastical Authority of the Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction in which he last resided, which testimonial shall set forth his true standing and character. The said testimonial shall be given by the Bishop to the applicant, and a duplicate thereof may be sent directly to the Bishop of the Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction to which said minister proposes to remove. The testimonial may be in the following words: "I hereby certify that A. B., who has signified to me his desire to be transferred to the Ecclesiastical Authority of —, is a Presbyter (or Deacon) of —, in regular standing, and has not, so far as I know or believe, been justly liable to evil report, for error in religion or viciousness of life, for three years last past."

[2] All such testimonials shall be called Letters Dimissory. The canonical residence of the minister so transferred shall date from the acceptance of his Letter Dimissory, of which the accepting Bishop shall give prompt notice both to the applicant and to the Bishop from whom it came. If not presented to the Bishop within six months from the date of its transmission to the applicant, it shall become thereby wholly void.

[3] If a minister, removing into another Diocese, who has been called to take charge of a parish or congregation, shall present a Letter Dimissory in the form above given, it shall be the duty of the Ecclesiastical Authority of the Diocese to which he has removed to accept it within six months, unless the Bishop or Standing Committee should have heard rumors that he or they believe to be well founded, against the character of the minister concerned, which would form a proper ground of canonical inquiry and presentment; in which case the Ecclesiastical Authority shall communicate the same to the Bishop or Standing Committee of the Diocese to whose jurisdiction the said minister belongs; and, in such case, it shall not be the duty of the Ecclesiastical Authority to accept the Letter Dimissory unless, and until, the minister shall be exculpated from the said charges.

By order of the Committee,
F. P. DAVENPORT, Chairman.

The same gentleman, from the same Committee, presented the following report, which was placed on the calendar :

REPORT No. 6.

The Committee on Canons, to whom was referred a proposed amendment to Title I., Canon 16, § iii. [1], respectfully report the following:

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That Title I., Canon 16, § iii. [1], be amended so as to read as follows:

[1] If during the recess of the General Convention, the Church in any Diocese should be desirous of the consecration of a Bishop-elect, the Standing Committee of such Diocese shall, by their president, or by some person or persons specially appointed by the said Standing Committee, communicate the desire to the Standing Committees of the Church in the different Dioceses, together with copies of the necessary testimonials as required in Title I., Canon 16, § ii [1]. Each Standing Committee, so notified, shall forward to the Standing Committee of the Diocese concerned, a notice of its consent or refusal within three months from the date of said notification of desire for consecration of a Bishop-elect, and failure to certify refusal shall have the force of consent. If the major number of the Standing Committees shall consent to the proposed consecration, the Standing Committee of the Diocese concerned shall forward the evidence of such consent, together with copies of the necessary testimonials, as required in Title I., Canon 16, § ii [1], to the Presiding Bishop, who shall communicate the same, without delay, to all the Bishops of this Church in the United States, excepting those whose resignations have been accepted. Each Bishop, so notified, shall forward to the Presiding Bishop a notice of his consent or refusal within three months from the date of said notification by the Presiding Bishop, and failure to certify refusal shall have the force of consent. If a majority of the Bishops consent to the proposed consecration, the Presiding Bishop, without delay, shall notify the Bishop-elect of such consent; and, on his acceptance, the Presiding Bishop shall take order for the consecration of said Bishop-elect by himself and two other Bishops, or by any three Bishops to whom he may communicate the testimonials.

By order of the Committee,

F. P. DAVENPORT, Chairman.

[For the consideration of the report see p. 266.]

The same gentleman, from the same Committee, presented the following report, the resolution appended to which was, on motion, adopted :

REPORT No. 7.

The Committee on Canons, to whom was referred a proposed amendment to Title I., Canon 10, having examined the Canon and proposed Amendment, respectfully report that, in their judgment, no further legislation is necessary, and offer the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Committee on Canons be discharged from the further consideration of this subject.

By order of the Committee,

F. P. DAVENPORT, Chairman.

The same gentleman, from the same Committee, presented the following report, the resolution appended to which was, on motion, adopted :

REPORT No. 8.

The Committee on Canons, to whom was referred a resolution asking that such amendments be made to Title I., Canon 18, § i. as would substitute the word "members" for the word "communicants" wherever it occurs in the Canon, respectfully report that they consider the word "members" to be equally indefinite with the word "communicants." The Committee therefore recommend the following resolution :

Resolved, That the Committee be discharged from the further consideration of this subject.

By order of the Committee,

F. P. DAVENPORT, Chairman.

The same gentleman, from the same Committee, presented the following report, which was placed on the calendar :

REPORT No. 9.

The Committee on Canons, to whom was referred a resolution proposing amendments to Title I., Canon 2, § vii., Clause 5, to Title II., Canon 5, § i., and Canon 6, § ii., respectfully report that they have considered the resolution submitted, and recommend no further legislation for the following reasons:

First. It is proposed in the resolution to amend Title I., Canon 2, § vii., Clause 5, so that a minister of any of the religious denominations seeking Holy Orders in this Church may be ordered Deacon six months after his reception as a candidate. As the Committee on Canons has under consideration the proposed new Canons of Ordination, they deem it inexpedient to recommend any action on this subject at this time.

Second. It is proposed in the resolution to amend the proviso in Title II., Canon 5, § i., so that the Bishop, instead of deposing a minister of this Church who has renounced the ministry for causes not affecting his moral character, shall declare him honorably dismissed, and give him, if he desires it, a certificate to that effect. The Committee are persuaded that the proposed amendment is not desirable, as it would remove a valuable safeguard provided by the Canon as it now stands.

Third. The resolution proposes to amend Title II., Canon 6, § ii., so that a Presbyter or Deacon who shall have abandoned the Communion of this Church may be restored to the Ministry by making application to any Bishop of this Church, the said Bishop, with the consent of the Standing Committee, being authorized to restore such applicant after six months, on his public declaration of unfeigned attachment to the Doctrine, Discipline, and Worship of this Church. The Committee are unwilling to recommend such change in the Canon, because they believe that it would be unwise to transfer a grave question of discipline from the Ecclesiastical Authority of one Diocese to that of another at the option of the offender.

The Committee therefore offer the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Committee be discharged from the further consideration of the subject.

By order of the Committee,

F. P. DAVENPORT, Chairman.

[For the consideration of the report see p. 268.]

The same gentleman, from the same Committee, presented the following report, which was placed on the calendar :

REPORT No. 10.

The Committee on Canons, to whom was referred a proposed amendment to Title I., Canon 10, § vi., respectfully report the following:

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That Title I., Canon 10, § vi., be amended so as to read as follows:

A Deaconess may at any time resign her office to the Ecclesiastical Authority of the Diocese in which she is at the time canonically resident. If her resignation has been from no cause affecting her good standing as a Deaconess, she may at any time thereafter apply to the Ecclesiastical Authority of the Diocese wherein she, at the time of the application, may reside, for reinstatement in the Order of Deaconesses, and she may be readmitted by the Ecclesiastical Authority of the Diocese to whom the application is made.

By order of the Committee,
F. P. DAVENPORT, Chairman.

[For the consideration of the report see p. 253.]

The same gentleman, from the same Committee, presented the following report, which was placed on the calendar :

REPORT No. 11.

The Committee on Canons, to whom was referred a proposed amendment to Title I., Canon 16, § viii. [2], respectfully report the following:

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That Title I., Canon 16, § viii. [2], be amended so as to read as follows:

[2] If the said election have taken place more than three months before a meeting of the General Convention, the above process may be adopted, or the following instead thereof, viz.: The Standing Committee of the Diocese electing shall give duly certified evidence of the election to every Bishop of this Church, and to the Standing Committee of every Diocese. It shall be the duty of every Bishop and of the Standing Committee of every Diocese, upon receiving such duly certified evidence, to forward, within three months from date of said notification, their consent or refusal, respectively, to the Diocese electing, and failure to certify refusal shall have the force of consent.

By order of the Committee,
F. P. DAVENPORT, Chairman.

[For the consideration of the report see p. 267.]

On motion of the Rev. Dr. Davenport, it was Resolved, That the Committee on Canons have leave to print their reports on the proposed Canon on the Standard Prayer Book and the Canons on Ordination for the use of the House.

Mr. Sowdon, from the Committee on Expenses, presented the following report, the resolutions appended to which were, on motion, adopted :

REPORT No. 3.

The Committee on Expenses begs leave to report that the accounts of the Treasurer have been examined and are found to be correctly cast and properly vouched. The expenditures for the three years since the report to the last Convention were $13,623.59; the receipts were $12,020.02, and excess of expenditures over receipts of $1,603.57. If it had not been for the large balance of $2,180.56 at the time of the last audit, it would have been necessary to lay a special assessment. The present balance in hand is $576.99, and it is hoped that there will be no need of an additional assessment during the ensuing three years.

The Committee begs leave to nominate Buchanan Winthrop, Esq., for election as Treasurer of the Convention, and to report the following resolutions, and recommends their adoption:

Resolved, That Buchanan Winthrop, Esq., be elected Treasurer of the Convention.

Resolved, That the Treasurer be instructed to pay to the Presiding Bishop of the House of Bishops, for expenses in the execution of his office, the sum of two hundred dollars ($200) a year. It is understood that the travelling expenses of the Presiding Bishop are paid by the Diocese or other body at whose instance they are incurred.

Resolved, That the Treasurer be instructed to pay drafts from the Registrar for the expenses of his office, a sum not exceeding one hundred dollars ($100) the first year, and fifty dollars ($50) each succeeding year.

Resolved, That the Treasurer be authorized to pay only those bills for printing, stationery, binding, postage, or for other incidental expenses, which have been countersigned and approved by the Chairman of the Committee on Expenses.

Resolved, That the Treasurer and Secretary be authorized to ask for a sum not exceeding one dollar ($1) for each clergyman as an additional assessment should the state of the Treasury, at any time before the meeting of the next Convention, be such as to require an addition to its funds.

Resolved, That the Secretary of the House of Deputies be instructed to print a sufficient number of copies of the Journal and Digest (not exceeding 4,600 copies), and to furnish the same to the order of the Bishops of the various Dioceses, or of the Ecclesiastical Authority who shall apply for them on or before the first day of December, no Bishops to have copies in excess of the number of clergy having cure of souls. Copies may be supplied to church institutions and to college and other libraries; to Bishops and Synods of other Churches in our Communion, as may be deemed advisable; also, one to each Secretary of the Diocesan Conventions, and to the Secretaries of the Standing Committees, and one to each Deputy of the General Convention who has been in attendance upon the present session: an edition of the Digest to be separately printed, and all copies of the Journal and Digest not disposed of as before provided may be put on sale.

Resolved, That the salary of the Secretary of the House of Bishops be three hundred dollars ($300) for the first, and one hundred dollars ($100) for each succeeding year.

Resolved, That the salary of the Secretary of the House of Deputies be twelve hundred dollars ($1,200) for the first, and five hundred dollars ($500) for each succeeding year.

Resolved, That the sum of two hundred dollars ($200) be paid to each of the Assistant Secretaries of the two Houses.

Resolved, That the Committee on Expenses be authorized to sit during the recess of the Convention.

Respectfully submitted,

A. J. C. SOWDON, Chairman.

REPORT NO. 3.

The Standing Committee on the Prayer Book, to whom was referred a Memorial from the Diocese of Florida, requesting the General Convention "to have rearranged the order of services in the Prayer Book, for the more orderly and convenient use of the same," beg leave to report :

That they have had the same under consideration, and are of the opinion that the action proposed in the Memorial is inexpedient ; and they recommend the adoption of the following resolution :

Resolved, That the Committee be discharged from the further consideration of the subject.

By order of the Committee,

SAMUEL HART, Chairman.

[For the consideration of the report see p. 270.]

That they have had the same under consideration, and are of the opinion that the matter may best be left to the judgment of the publishers, without formal recommendation from this Convention, and they recommend the adoption of the following resolution :

Resolved, That the Committee be discharged from the further consideration of the subject.

By order of the Committee,

SAMUEL HART, Chairman.

That they have had the same under consideration, and are of the opinion that, inasmuch as the work of the Commission on the pointing of the Canticles and the Psalter is to be reported to the next General Convention for its approval, and as there is no order for the continuance of the Commission on the Hymnal after the adjournment of this Convention, it is inexpedient to take the action proposed in the resolution, and they recommend the adoption of the following resolution :

That they have had the same under consideration, and are of the opinion that, as Resolution XII. has been approved by both Houses of two successive General Conventions in the words contained in the Notification; and as the omission of the clause which it is proposed to insert is not a manifest typographical error, it is not expedient to adopt the resolution; and they offer the following resolution for adoption by this House :

REV. MORGAN DIX, D.D., President, etc., Baltimore, Md.

My dear Sir, — I have received, and very gratefully appreciate, the expression of the House of Deputies of the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church, of its sympathy with this afflicted household from the serious illness of Mrs. Harrison. It has been very pleasant and helpful to me to notice the prayerful interest of all the people in the recovery of Mrs. Harrison, and their sympathy with my family.

With great respect,

Very sincerely yours,

The President announced the appointment on the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution of Mr. Bennett, of Massachusetts, in place of Mr. Speed, of Mississippi, not present in the Convention.

The invitation of the local Committee for Friday next being under consideration, it was, on motion, referred back to the Special Committee, which subsequently reported, through the Rev. Mr. Foute, of California, the following resolution, which was adopted :

Resolved, That this House adjourn, for the day, on Friday, at 1 P.M., in order that such members of the Convention as desire to do so may accept the invitation of the local Committee.

The House proceeded with the business on the calendar, viz., Report No. 4 of the Committee on the Admission of New Dioceses [see p. 239]. The Rev. Dr. Gray, of Tennessee, offered the following substitute to the resolution appended to the report :

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That consent be hereby given to the division of the Diocese of Tennessee as requested in the Memorial presented to this Convention.

The Rev. Dr. Gailor, of Tennessee, offered the following amendment to the Rev. Dr. Gray's resolution :

"Provided, that the erection of the new Diocese shall not take place until the constitutional requirements shall have been complied with."

On motion of Mr. Wilder, of Minnesota, the whole subject was referred to the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution. [For the report of the Committee see p. 303].

§ ii. All copies of the Book of Common Prayer to be hereafter made and published shall conform to this standard, and shall agree therewith in pagination and, so far as it is possible, in all other matters of typographical arrangement, except that the rubrics may be printed either in red or in black. § v. No copies of the Book of Common Prayer shall be made, printed, published, or used as of authority in this Church unless they contain the authorization of the Custodian of the Standard Book of Common Prayer, certifying that he or some person appointed by him has corrected the said book or edition by the said standard or a certified copy thereof, and that it conforms thereto.

§ vi. The House of Bishops shall nominate a person who, after confirmation by the House of Deputies, shall be appointed the Custodian of the Standard Book of Common Prayer, and shall have charge of the same. He shall hold office until his successor is appointed, and any vacancy occurring during the recess of General Convention may be provisionally filled by appointment of the Presiding Bishop. It shall be the duty of the Ecclesiastical Authority of any Diocese or jurisdiction in which any unauthorized edition of the Book of Common Prayer shall be published or circulated to give public notice that the said edition is not of authority in this Church.

EIGHTH DAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

WEDNESDAY, October 13, 1892.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

Morning Prayer was said by the Rev. Mr. Edmunds, of Albany, the Benediction being pronounced by the Bishop of New Jersey.

The Minutes of yesterday's session were read and approved.

The President appointed as members of the Committee of Conference, as requested in the resolution of the Rev. Dr. Huntington [see p. 251], the Rev. Drs. Huntington and Hart, and Mr. Thomas.* [For the report of the Committee see p. 285.]

The Rev. Dr. Huntington, from the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, presented the following report, which was ordered to be printed and made the Order of the Day on the completion of the consideration of the report of the Commission on the Hymnal: [See p. 294.]

REPORT No. 4.

The Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, to whom was referred the resolution of the Rev. Dr. Huntington, of New York, touching changes in Articles I., II., and VIII. of the Constitution, respectfully report that in their judgment such an incorporation of the principles of the so-called Chicago-Lambeth platform in the organized law of this Church would not only add dignity to the Constitution by substituting for the present inadequate language of the first Article a solemn declaration of the Church's faith, but would also greatly enhance the value of this whole instrument as a means of promoting unity among Christians by setting forth the simplicity of the terms and the practicability of the methods upon which this Church relies in seeking to bring about, under God, so blessed a consummation. The Committee have very considerably modified the language of the resolution as originally presented in the House of Deputies, with a view of removing, as far as possible, all ambiguity and liability to misconstruction, and they recommend the passage of it in the following words :

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That the following amendments be made to the Constitution, and that the proposed amendments be made known to the several Dioceses, in order that they may be finally agreed to and ratified in the next General Convention, in accordance with the provisions of Article IX. of the Constitution.

(a) Substitute for the present first Article the following, namely :

ARTICLE I.

In the Name of God, Amen.

This Church, assured that Holy Scripture contains all things necessary to salvation, and that the Creeds commonly called the Apostles' Creed and the Nicene Creed ought thoroughly to be received and believed, for that they may be proved by most certain warrants of the said Scripture, declares its faith as follows :

I BELIEVE in God the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth :

And in Jesus Christ his only Son our Lord: Who was conceived by the Holy Ghost, Born of the Virgin Mary: Suffered under Pontius Pilate, Was crucified, dead, and buried: He descended into hell: The third day he rose again from the dead: He ascended into heaven, And sitteth on the right hand of God the Father Almighty: From thence he shall come to judge the quick and the dead.

I believe in the Holy Ghost: The Holy Catholic Church: The Communion of Saints: The Forgiveness of sins: The Resurrection of the body: And the Life Everlasting. Amen.

I BELIEVE in one God the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth, And of all things visible and invisible:

And in one Lord Jesus Christ, the only-begotten Son of God; Begotten of his Father before all worlds, God of God, Light of Light, Very God of very God; Begotten, not made; Being of one substance with the Father; By whom all things were made: Who for us men and for our salvation came down from heaven, and was incarnate by the Holy Ghost of the Virgin Mary, and was made man: And was crucified also for us under Pontius Pilate: He suffered and was buried: And the third day he rose again according to the Scriptures: And ascended into heaven, And sitteth on the right hand of the Father: And he shall come again, with glory, to judge both the quick and the dead: Whose kingdom shall have no end.

And I believe in the Holy Ghost, The Lord, and Giver of Life, Who proceedeth from the Father and the Son; Who with the Father and the Son together is worshipped and glorified: Who spake by the Prophets: And I believe one Catholic and Apostolic Church: I acknowledge one Baptism for the remission of sins: And I look for the Resurrection of the dead: And the Life of the world to come. Amen.

In the name of the Holy Scripture the books of the Old and New Testament are to be understood, as the same are commonly received and set forth by this Church as canonical books, to wit:

Genesis.	II Chronicles.	Daniel.
Exodus.	Ezra.	Hosea.
Leviticus.	Nehemiah.	Joel.
Numbers.	Esther.	Amos.
Deuteronomy.	Job.	Obadiah.
Joshua.	Psalms.	Jonah.

Ruth.	Ecclesiastes.	Nahum.
I Samuel.	Song of Solomon.	Habakkuk.
II Samuel.	Isaiah.	Zephaniah.
I Kings.	Jeremiah.	Haggai.
II Kings.	Lamentations.	Zechariah.
I Chronicles.	Ezekiel.	Malachi.
St. Matthew.	Ephesians.	Epistle General

Romans.	II Timothy.	III John.
I Corinthians.	Titus.	Jude.

Certain other books this Church reads for example of life and instruction of manners, but yet does not apply them to establish any doctrine; such are the following:

I Esdras.	The Story of Susanna.	Bel. and the Dragon.
II Esdras.	Judith.	The Prayer of Manasses.
Tobit.	The rest of Esther.	I Maccabees.
Baruch.	Wisdom.	II Maccabees.
Song of the Three Children.	Ecclesiasticus.

(b) Prefix the present first Article to the present second Article, without verbal or other change, so that the two shall form one Article, to be known as Article II.

(c) Add to the present eighth Article the following words, to wit:

But nothing in this Article shall be so construed as to restrain the Bishop of a Diocese, or of a Missionary Jurisdiction, acting by and with the advice and consent of his Standing Committee, from taking under his spiritual oversight congregations of Christian people, not theretofore in communion with this Church, whose ministers shall have received Episcopal ordination, and who themselves accepting the aforementioned creeds, shall covenant, as may be prescribed by Canon, to use in their public worship such form or directory as the said Bishop shall set forth and authorize; provided such form or directory contain or enjoin nothing contrary to the faith of this Church, and require in connection with the administration of the Sacraments of Baptism, and the Supper of the Lord, the unfailing use of the words and elements ordained by Christ himself.

Article II., as altered, will read as follows:

ARTICLE II.

There shall be a general Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America on the first Wednesday in October, in every third year, from the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and forty-one; and in such place as shall be determined by the Convention; and in case there shall be an epidemic disease, or any other good cause to render it necessary to alter the place fixed on for any such meeting of the Convention, the Presiding Bishop shall have it in his power to appoint another convenient place (as near as may be to the place so fixed on) for the holding of such Convention; and special meetings may be called at other times, in the manner hereafter to be provided for; and this Church, in a majority of the Dioceses which shall have adopted this Constitution, shall be represented, before they shall proceed to business; except that the representation from two Dioceses shall be sufficient to adjourn; and in all business of the Convention freedom of debate shall be allowed.

The Church in each Diocese shall be entitled to a representation of both the Clergy and the Laity. Such representation shall consist of not more than four Clergymen and four Laymen, communicants in this Church, residents in the Diocese, and chosen in the manner prescribed by the Convention thereof; and in all questions when required by the Clerical or Lay representation from any Diocese, each Order shall have one vote; and the majority of suffrages by Dioceses shall be conclusive in each Order, provided such majority comprehend a majority of the Dioceses represented in that Order. The concurrence of both Orders shall be necessary to constitute a vote of the House of Deputies. If the Convention of any Diocese should neglect or decline to appoint Clerical Deputies, or if they should neglect or decline to appoint Lay Deputies, or if any of those of either Order appointed should neglect to attend, or be prevented by sickness or any other accident, such Diocese shall nevertheless be considered as duly represented by such Deputy or Deputies as may attend, whether Lay or Clerical. And if, through the neglect of the Convention of any of the Churches which shall have adopted or may hereafter adopt this Constitution, no Deputies, either Lay or Clerical, should attend at any General Convention, the Church in such Diocese shall, nevertheless, be bound by the acts of such Convention.

Article VIII., as altered, will read as follows:

ARTICLE VIII.

A Book of Common Prayer, Administration of the Sacraments, and other Rites and Ceremonies of the Church, Articles of Religion, and a Form and Manner of making, ordaining, and consecrating Bishops, Priests, and Deacons, when established by this or a future General Convention, shall be used in the Protestant Episcopal Church in those Dioceses which shall have adopted this Constitution. No alteration or addition shall be made in the Book of Common Prayer, or other Offices of the Church, or the Articles of Religion, unless the same shall be proposed in one General Convention, and by a resolve thereof made known to the Convention of every Diocese, and adopted at the subsequent General Convention. Provided, however, that the General Convention shall have power, from time to time, to amend the Lectionary; but no act for this purpose shall be valid which is not voted for by a majority of the whole number of Bishops entitled to seats in the House of Bishops, and by a majority of all the Dioceses entitled to representation in the House of Deputies.

But nothing in this Article shall be so construed as to restrain the Bishop of a Diocese, or of a Missionary Jurisdiction, acting by and with the advice and consent of his Standing Committee, from taking under his spiritual oversight congregations of Christian people, not theretofore in communion with this Church, whose ministers shall have received Episcopal ordination, and who themselves accepting the aforementioned creeds, shall covenant, as may be prescribed by Canon, to use in their public worship such form or directory as the said Bishop shall set forth and authorize; provided such form or directory contain or enjoin nothing contrary to the faith of this Church, and require in connection with the administration of the Sacraments of Baptism, and the Supper of the Lord, the unfailing use of the words and elements ordained by Christ himself.

The Rev. Dr. Battershall, from the Special Committee on the Memorial from the Diocese of Massachusetts on the use of the Revised Version, presented the following report:

The Special Committee, to whom was referred the memorial of the Convention of the Diocese of Massachusetts requesting this "Convention to consider what action, if any, is necessary on its part to make the discretionary use of the Revised Version of the Holy Scriptures in public worship lawful, at least so far as the reading of the Lessons is concerned, and to take such action," respectfully report that they consider the authorization of the General Convention necessary to make the reading of the Revised Version in the public worship of the Church lawful; and that they deem it inexpedient for this Convention to give such authorization. All the members of the Committee, with one important exception, concur in this judgment; and, in view of this dissent, as well as the gravity and interest of the subject, the majority beg leave to briefly indicate the reasons which have determined their judgment.

The necessity of Conventional legislation for the lawful use of the Revised Version in the Lections of the service arises from the fact that, from the very beginnings and through all the history of the Church in this country, there has been in constant and unchallenged use one exclusive version of the Holy Scriptures, which has won for itself the title of "Authorized Version," which bears upon its title-page the claim "Appointed to be read in Churches," and which, with hardly a shadow of question, is referred to, in the title of Canon 19, Title I., as "the Standard Bible of this Church."

Like other things which stand among the great prescriptions of the Church and the world, the sanction under which we use King James's version must be found in the actual fact, rather than any formal document. Granted that no man can lay his finger on the time or place of its authorization either in the Church of England or the Church in America; granted that it won its way simply by its intrinsic excellence, the fact remains, for well-nigh three hundred years it has been in universal and exclusive use in the Lectionary of the Church. Surely an unbroken use of three centuries, whatever the defect of documentary sanction, justifies its claim to the title of "Authorized Version," by which title it is repeatedly referred to in the Preface to the Revised Version.

If this be so, it is evident that it ought not, and, properly speaking, cannot be displaced by any other version in the worship of any congregation of this Church, until competent authority shall so pronounce.

The memorial of the Diocese of Massachusetts brings before us the question: Is it expedient that this Convention here and now authorize the Revised Version of 1884 side by side with the King James Version of 1611? Reasons strong and pertinent, and demanding careful consideration, may be urged for granting the prayer of the memorial. In the mind of the majority of your Committee, however, everything that would seem to favor the authorization of the Revised Version is overwhelmingly counterbalanced by the considerations which have influenced their action.

They are as follows:

(1) The Authorized Version of 1611 is so embedded in and interwoven with the common thought, the literature and the spiritual history of English-speaking people of the last three centuries, that the use of any other version in the Lections of the Church would be attended with a distinct loss of that voice of authority, and power of appeal, and richness of association with which the words of the King James Version speak to the heart and the conscience.

(2) The permission to read the Revised Version in the services of the Church would produce confusion, needless diversity, annoyance, and debate, and moreover would seriously vitiate the devotional use of the Holy Scriptures, by flinging the Word of God into the arena of criticism in the very act of its use in the public offices of worship. The plea that translations other than those of King James's version are used in the Psalter, the Canticles, the Offertory sentences, and comfortable words of the Communion Office, while certainly indicating a large freedom in the composition of the Prayer Book, can hardly be urged to justify the optional use of two rival versions of Holy Scripture in the Lectionary of the Church.

(3) Whatever be the merits of the Revised Version, its general superiority to the Authorized Version is still in dispute.

Unquestionably the revisionists of 1884 had knowledge of critical Canons which were unrecognized, and the command of a critical apparatus which was inaccessible in 1611, and we concede that they brought to their task a profound learning and a high purpose.

Without doubt the results of their work are of great value to the student and the theologian and the preacher. But it must be remembered that even in regard to its critical features, the new version has not yet emerged from the region of controversy. Eminent scholars strenuously question the textual theories upon which the Greek text of the Revision was determined, and in many cases the accuracy of the translation, even, of that text.

Certainly in the minds of the revisers a preponderating value has been ascribed to the four great Uncials, which has obscured the value of other critical material, and which must be counted a passing fashion in the domain of Biblical scholarship.

But if the critical claims of the Revision are not unchallenged, concerning its literary merits unfortunately there is no controversy. It is generally conceded that the revisionists in their recasting of the language of the King James version have not only carried their work beyond their instructions, but have hopelessly mutilated and defaced the chief of English classics. Despite their professions and their efforts, they have failed to retain the tone and rhythm of the old version. Not only is the Revision marred by capricious and unnecessary changes of language, in many cases it evinces a striking disregard of English idiom, and perplexes the reader with cumbersome and pedantic phrases. The few instances where the original has been put in a more exact English equivalent are outweighed by innumerable passages which obscure the sense and offend the ear by verbal ineptitudes. Truth is forevermore sacred and priceless, but it does not appear that its gains overbalance its losses in the Revised Version.

(4) As regards the Church of England, and, by implication, the Church in America, the Revision of 1884 stands in the position of an unaccredited report indefinitely laid on the table. The Convocation of Canterbury, which appointed the Revision Committee, has refrained from putting its imprimatur upon their work.

The Revised Version is obviously an essay, an experiment, a contribution to a Revision which shall be the results of the larger knowledge of the future, and be undertaken with the more unquestioned sanction of the Church.

In comparison with the curiosity and enthusiasm which greeted its publication, its history of the last ten years is full of significance. It is not too much to say, that in despite of its merits, it has failed to satisfy the scholarship, or commend itself to the literary sense and religious consciousness of the age. It is a valuable document, a monument of careful and learned workmanship, but it is a tentative effort, a structure still echoing with the sounds of the hammer, and in no sense does it justify the claim that it be placed alongside of the great version which has moulded the language, and is enshrined in the affection and reverence of all English-speaking peoples.

In view of these considerations, your Committee deem that any action of this Convention touching the Revised Version would be premature and harmful; and we therefore recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That it is inexpedient for this Convention to authorize the reading of the Revised Version of the Holy Scriptures in the public worship of the Church.

Signed,

WALTON BATTERSHALL.
CHARLES T. OLMSTED.
CAUSTEN BROWNE.
BENJAMIN STARK.

The Rev. Dr. Abbott, a member of the same Committee, by permission of the House, presented the following minority report :

The undersigned, being a minority of the Special Committee of this House to whom was referred the memorial from the Convention of the Diocese of Massachusetts asking for such action on the part of this Convention as might be necessary to make lawful the discretionary use of the Revised Version of the Holy Scriptures in public worship, at least so far as the reading of the lessons is concerned, would respectfully say that he is unable to concur in the report presented by a majority of the Committee in regarding it as inexpedient to authorize such use of the Revised Version as is asked for in this memorial ; and for the following reasons :

First, there does not appear to be any Constitutional or Canonical provision which stands in the way of such use of the Revision.

It is true that by Title I., Canon 19, "the Bishop of this Church in any Diocese, or, where there is no Bishop, the Standing Committee, is authorized to appoint, from time to time, some suitable person or persons to compare and correct all new editions of the Bible by the Standard Edition agreed upon by the General Convention ;" but as a matter of fact there is no such "standard edition." There is a "Custodian of the Standard Bible," but where is the Bible? A careful study of the Journals of the General Convention from the beginning fails to discover the actual existence of any such Bible. The first action taken towards the determination of such a Bible was by the Conventions of 1823 and 1826, but it led practically to nothing. The "Standard Bible," so called, is a hypothetical Bible, — a mythical Bible, which has never materialized, and under existing conditions cannot materialize. In the deliberate and recorded judgment of the Secretary of the House of Deputies, "no copy of the Standard Bible exists."

Neither, in the next place, is there any historical foundation whatsoever for the common designation of the King James version of the Bible of 1611 as an "authorized" version "appointed to be read in churches." No evidence has yet been discovered to show that the King James version was ever officially enjoined, or even sanctioned, for use in the public worship of the Church either by Convocation, or Parliament, or Privy Council, or King, or Bishop. The historical fact is that the King James version was introduced on its own merits, and had to make its own way in the world. Its only authorization was its intrinsic superiority to other versions, and its only sanction its long-continued use. As the present Bishop of Durham finely says: "King James's version of 1611 was authorized by the Christian instinct of the nation, touched, as we believe, by the Spirit of God." Why can we not leave to the same human instinct, guided by the same divine touch, the similar authorization of the Revision of 1884?

In view of the foregoing facts, therefore, what, if any, legal obstacle exists to the use of the Revision of 1884 (which is not a new version properly, but simply a revision of the King James version) for the reading of the lessons in public worship by any clergyman of this Church who may choose so to use it? Under what Canon, rubric, or other statute would any minister be prosecuted for, or restrained from, such use of the Revision by any means more stringent than the godly judgment of his Bishop? What is to prevent any Bishop licensing the use of this revised King James's version in his own Diocese, except a due regard for the general and long-continued "use"? These questions are raised, however, simply for the sake of the principle involved, not for the purpose of justifying or even suggesting individual departures from the established usage of the Church. There has been too much of that already. This is a Church of authority, discipline, order; and whatever may be lawful, the dissenting member of your Committee is distinctly of the opinion that under existing conditions it is better that no clergyman should use the Revised Version for the reading of the lessons in public worship without some declaration by the General Convention or by the House of Bishops sanctioning such use.

While it may be true that no official authorization of the Revised Version has taken place in and for the Church of England, it is also true that the Revision is in actual use to-day in congregations of that Church, by leave if not by license, and that a degree of liberty is felt and enjoyed by the clergy of that Church which is not exercised by the clergy of the Church in the United States of America.

The way is now open to adduce a few other considerations which may properly be urged as reasons in favor of the action asked for by the Convention of the Diocese of Massachusetts.

One such consideration is that the Book of Common Prayer recognizes, employs, and justifies the principle of liberty in the use of different English versions of Holy Scripture. It does not by any means restrict itself to the use of the King James version. The American Prayer Book is substantially the English Book of 1662, and the English Book of 1662 expressed no special and exclusive obligations to the King James version, which was then about half a century old. Up to 1662 the Epistles and Gospels had been taken from the Great Bible of 1539, and the Introductory Sentences were independent translations, nobody knows by whom: but in the Prayer Book of 1662 the language of the King James version was substituted in these particulars. The Psalter, however, which had been taken from Cranmer's version of the Great Bible, was left undisturbed; the Venite, Jubilate, Cantate, and Deus miseratur agree almost literally with the Great Bible, but show traces of minute and careful independent revision; the Benedictus, Magnificat, and Nunc dimittis show the same independence, differing more or less from both the Great Bible and the so-called "Authorized" Version; while the Offertory Sentences and the Comfortable Words in the Eucharistic Office are not from any known version whatever, but are a unique translation from the Latin, probably by Cranmer's own hand. Simply an extension of this same eclectic principle would permit the discretionary use of the Revised Version in the reading of the Lessons.

When we come to the Revision itself, we cannot think that there is any good reason to doubt that as a whole, certainly in many of its parts, the Revised Version of 1884 does more nearly approach to the exact representation of the original Hebrew and Greek Scriptures than does the King James version of 1611. In matters of taste, in excellence of English, in majesty of style, it may be inferior; but in proportion to the measure of our belief that the original Scriptures are the Word of God rises the importance of delivering that Word to the people in as nearly as possible equivalent terms. To do anything less than this knowingly is to handle the Word of God deceitfully. In the use of the King James version every Minister of the Church is obliged to read to the people at times, as the inspired Word of God, words which are now admitted by competent authority to be no part of that Word; he is obliged to read words which are erroneous translations of that Word; he is obliged to read words which, through historic changes in the English language, have come to mean precisely the opposite of what the inspired Word actually means. When we add to this consideration the jurisdiction and authority of the Convocation of Canterbury under which the Revision originated, the pre-eminent and acknowledged scholarship of the divines by whom it was made, and the vastly enlarged textual and critical apparatus which they had to use, which was not even in sight of the revisers of 1611, it seems as if enough had been said to commend the result to respect, to justify a measure of confidence in it, and to entitle the Church to enjoy whatever benefit may accrue therefrom.

The dissenting member of your Committee would respectfully submit that here is the vital point on which the decision of this question ought to turn. It is not a matter of taste, of the best English, of a majestic style, or of general literary merit; it is not a matter of association, attachment, or tradition; but of the most nearly possible accurate and truthful representation of the exact words spoken by holy men of old as they were moved by the Holy Ghost. The higher our views of inspiration the more strenuous the claim upon us, first, to secure the most nearly perfect text, and second, to give that text the most faithful possible translation. If nearly three centuries have not given time to improve on the King James version in these particulars, if modern scholarship has not improved upon the King James version in these particulars, then the world's progress goes for nothing.

We pray daily in this Convention that "the comfortable Gospel of Jesus Christ may be truly preached." How can we offer that prayer without making every possible accompanying effort to have the words of that Gospel read in their most truthful form?

It is perhaps only a minor consideration in point that the ministers of this Church are restricted by usage to the reading of the Lessons from the Holy Scriptures in public worship without note or comment. Unlike the ministers of non-conforming bodies, we in theory cannot, and in fact do not, make pertinent explanations as we read. There is, therefore, all the more reason why liberty should be allowed to read that version which most exactly represents the Hebrew and Greek originals.

Again, may it not be urged that to authorize the discretionary use of the revision, as prayed for, would be a safe step in the direction of that flexibility and larger liberty in the public services of the Church, which already has been sought for and obtained in Prayer Book Revision, and which is a wise and prudent adjustment of instrumentalities to the requirements of the times?

The permissive alternative use of the Revision of 1884 is no new subject for the consideration of the General Convention. In the Convention of 1877, in the House of Bishops, the holy and learned Bishop of Maryland, the Right Reverend Dr. Whittingham, offered a resolution opening a way for an official consideration of the Revision then in progress under the auspices of the Convocation of Canterbury, and, if approved on its completion, for its recognition and acceptance for use in public worship and otherwise; but the motion was lost for reasons which are a matter of unwritten history. In 1880 two resolutions of similar import to the foregoing were offered in the House of Deputies. The first was laid on the table. The second, which was cast in a more politic form, was adopted, but the House of Bishops declined to concur with the Lower House, on the ground that it was then too late in the session for them to enter on the consideration of so important a subject. Action on the subject therefore has already been initiated.

It is a minority of your Committee which presents this inadequate report, but it is no minority of the great and honourable Diocese of Massachusetts which presents the memorial now awaiting your action.

In conclusion, the dissenting member of your Committee would beg your honourable body to observe what this memorial from the Convention of the Diocese of Massachusetts does not ask for. It does not ask for any expression of judgment that the Revision is superior in all respects, or even equal to, the older version; it does not ask to institute any rivalry between the two; it does not ask to have the Revision substituted for the older version; it does not ask to have that older version subordinated to the Revision; it does not ask that the use of the Revision be made obligatory, or constant, or general; it only asks that they who think that in reading the Lessons from it they can make the Word of God of greater effect, may exercise their discretion in this respect and feel that in so doing they have the Church's sanction.

EDWARD ABBOTT.

On motion of the Rev. Dr. Battershall, the foregoing reports were made the Order of the Day after the existing Orders are disposed of. [For the consideration of the report see p. 330.]

The Rev. Dr. Richards, from the Committee on the Admission of New Dioceses, presented the following report, the resolution appended to which was, on motion, adopted :

REPORT No. 5.

The Committee on the Admission of new Dioceses, to whom was referred the petition of the Bishops and Council of the Diocese of Florida, praying that the part of its territory south of the southern lines of the counties of Levy, Alachua, Putnam, and St. John's be set apart as a Missionary Jurisdiction, beg leave respectfully to report :

That the portion of territory which it is proposed to set off has an area of 37,349 square miles, with a population of 140,000. It is believed that this population will rapidly be increased. There are five self-supporting parishes, fifty-four missions, and thirty clergymen. There are thirty-nine points desirous of the services of our Church which cannot be supplied, owing to "the physical inability of the Bishop" to increase the range of his efforts. There are 2,500 Indians and some 30,000 Cubans forsaking the Roman Church for us to care for.

In the remainder of the State, to which it is proposed to restrict the limits of the existing Diocese of Florida, there are 21,919 square miles, with a population of 285,000, 12 self-supporting parishes, 54 established missions, 2,507 communicants, 30 clergymen, and a sufficient assessment and endowment for the support of the Episcopate.

Your Committee would therefore recommend the adoption of the following preamble and resolutions :

WHEREAS, The last General Convention, by advice of its Committee on Constitutional Amendments, consented, in the absence of a constitutional provision for such cases, to sanction the setting off of a portion of the Diocese of Nebraska to be a Missionary Jurisdiction, as a temporary expedient until constitutional action and legislation thereunder can be secured; and

WHEREAS, This present Convention, by advice of the same Committee, has followed the same course in the instance of the Diocese of Colorado; and

WHEREAS, It is the judgment of this House that but for the accidental omission of a due notification to the Dioceses, this Convention would have finally adopted an amendment to Article 5 of the Constitution giving authority to the Convention to accept such cessions of territory; and

WHEREAS, The present Convention has already proposed such alteration of the Constitution for final adoption by the next General Convention; and

WHEREAS, The Diocese of Florida, for urgent and sufficient reasons, has declared its desire to establish its southern limits on the south lines of the counties of Levy, Alachua, Putnam, and St. John's; and

WHEREAS, This House is sufficiently assured of the consent of the parishes lying on either side of the line above mentioned, and said Diocese has tendered to this General Convention a cession on the part of said Diocese of its jurisdiction south of said line; and

WHEREAS, Doubts are entertained by many of the power under our Constitution to permanently alter the territorial extent of a Diocese in this form, yet impressed by the great necessities of the Church in that Diocese, and of the justice of her claims to prompt relief, and following repeated precedents in like cases; therefore

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That the General Convention hereby signifies its consent and agreement to the limitation of the jurisdiction of the Bishop and Convention of the Diocese of Florida within the limits above indicated until such constitutional amendment and legislation thereunder can be secured as are necessary to remove the doubts aforesaid, and that in the mean time the territory south of the limits aforesaid and within the State of Florida be held and treated as missionary territory and subject to missionary jurisdiction.

All which is respectfully submitted by order of the Committee,

C. A. L. RICHARDS, Chairman.

The Rev. Dr. Carey, from the Deputation to the Provincial Synod of the Church in Canada, presented the following report:

The Deputation appointed to convey the greetings of the American Church to the Provincial Synod of the Church of England in Canada were presented to the Synod on September 15, 1892, in the city of Montreal, and were formally introduced to the Presiding Bishop, the Lord Bishop of Ontario. After the deliverance of salutations and speeches, the most hospitable and graceful courtesies were extended to the members of the Deputation. It is quite evident to those who have been bearers of these affectionate messages between the sister Churches in the United States and British North America, that such offices are productive of fruitful results, looking towards unification of religious and ecclesiastical interests, and the strengthening of the bonds of a loving unity of purpose and action. We deemed ourselves fortunate in being present at this Council because it occupied much of its time in considering the important question of a union of the several Synods of the Church in the Provinces of British North America, so that the present divided and separated sections may be solidified into one great ecclesiastical association of Provinces. The only shadows that rested upon the deliberations of the Synod were the announcements of the death of the venerable Metropolitan, and the severe illness of the Lord Bishop of Algoma.

As a matter of historic interest it is proper to mention that the Bishop of Milwaukee by invitation was present, and took part in the "laying on of hands" at the consecration of the Bishop of Quebec in Montreal, September 18, 1892. Your Deputation regretted that the laymen appointed were unable to attend the sessions of the Synod.

MESSAGE No. 37.

The House of Bishops informs the House of Deputies that it has adopted the following preamble and resolution :

WHEREAS, The Diocese of Michigan, by action of the Bishop and Convention thereof, has for urgent and sufficient reasons declared its desire to establish its northern limits on the north line of the Straits of Mackinaw and the waters connecting Lake Michigan and Lake Huron ; and

WHEREAS, The House is sufficiently assured of the consent of the parishes lying on either side of that line, and said Diocese has tendered to this General Convention a cession of that part of its jurisdiction north of said line ; and

The Rev. Dr. Elliott, from the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, presented the following report, which was placed on the calendar :

REPORT No. 5.

The Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, to which was recommended Report No. 4 of said Committee made to this House at the last General Convention touching alterations in Article 8 of the Constitution, begs leave respectfully to report :

It recommends the adoption of the following resolution :

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That the following alteration be made in Article 8 of the Constitution, and that the proposed alteration be made known to the several Diocesan Conventions in order that the same may be adopted at the ensuing General Convention :

Insert after the words "General Convention" in the fourteenth line the words "by a two-thirds majority thereof," so that that section as amended would read as follows :

No alteration or addition shall be made in the Book of Common Prayer or other Offices of the Church or the Articles of Religion unless the same shall be proposed in one General Convention and by a resolve thereof made known to the Convention of every Diocese, and adopted at the subsequent General Convention by a two-thirds majority thereof; Provided, however, etc.

For the Committee,

W. R. HUNTINGTON, Chairman.

[For the consideration of the report see p. 338.]

The Rev. Dr. Hart, from the Committee on the Prayer Book, presented the following report, the resolution appended to which, on motion, was adopted :

REPORT No. 7.

The Standing Committee on the Prayer Book, to whom was referred a resolution offered by a Deputy from Rhode Island as to the appointment of a Commission to prepare translations of the Book of Common Prayer or parts thereof into foreign languages, beg leave to report :

That the action proposed is in accordance with the action of the General Convention from an early date. In 1844 a Committee was appointed to revise a French translation already in existence; and in the same year Committees were also appointed to prepare translations into German and Welsh, the Bishops still further proposing a Hebrew version. The Committee on the translation into German was reappointed in 1850 and in 1862, and was continued until 1886, when reference to it is no longer found in the Journal. A new Committee on the subject of a Prayer Book in the German language was appointed by the House of Bishops in 1889. In 1853 a Committee was appointed to prepare a Spanish version; it was reappointed in 1871 and continued until 1883. A new Committee on the French version was appointed in 1868 and continued until 1886. A Committee to prepare versions in the Norwegian and Swedish languages was appointed in 1883, but does not appear to have been continued at the next Convention. The only Committee on a translation which is known to have presented a final report, was that appointed in 1874 "to prepare a correct version of the Prayer Book in the Italian language." Twelve years later, in 1886, a translation into Italian, prepared by Professor Francis Philip Nash, of Hobart College, was presented to the Convention; but your Committee are not aware that it was ever published. French, German, and Spanish versions of the Prayer Book, and a German version of parts of it, have been published by the Prayer Book Society; but we have not found any record of their special authorization by the Convention.

It appears, therefore, that the importance of preparing versions of our Book of Common Prayer into foreign languages has been repeatedly recognized by the General Convention. At the same time, it is evident that the undertaking of this work is attended with very great difficulty. Your Committee have given consideration to the matter, and are of the opinion that an attempt should be made as contemplated in the proposition referred to them; and they recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That a Joint Commission of two Bishops, two Presbyters, and two Laymen be appointed, who, with such skilled assistance as they shall find necessary, shall prepare and report to the next General Convention translations of the Book of Common Prayer or parts thereof, into such foreign languages as they may deem advisable; provided, that the work of this Commission involve no expense to this Convention.

By order of the Committee.

SAMUEL HART, Chairman.

The same gentleman, from the same Committee, presented the following report, the first resolution appended to which was, on motion, adopted, and the second resolution was placed on the calendar :

REPORT No. 8.

The Standing Committee on the Prayer Book, to whom was referred Message No. 28 from the House of Bishops, informing this House that it has adopted, in accordance with Article 8 of the Constitution, nine changes in the Lectionary, beg leave to report :

That they have had the matter under consideration, and while they are of the opinion that certain of the changes proposed are desirable, they feel assured that certain others are undesirable. Moreover, they believe that other changes may be proposed in the Tables of Proper and Calendar Lessons, which are quite as important as those to which the attention of this House has been thus called. And still further they are of the opinion that it is inexpedient for this Convention, after declaring the text of the Book of Common Prayer, as reported by the Committee on the Standard, to be the standard text, and ordering the said Committee to print the same, to proceed to make any changes in the Tables of Lessons which form a constituent part of the Book.

It appears to the Committee, however, that it may be desirable to refer the matter of amendments to this Lectionary to a Committee with instructions to report to the next Convention what changes, if any, are desirable in the Tables of Proper and Calendar Lessons. Your Committee therefore recommend the passage of the following resolutions :

Resolved, That this House does not concur with the House of Bishops in the adoption of the proposed changes in the Lectionary communicated to this House in Message No. 28.

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That a Joint Committee of two Bishops, two Presbyters, and two Laymen be appointed, who shall report to the next General Convention what changes, if any, it is desirable to make in the Tables of Proper and Calendar Lessons ; and that the changes proposed in Message No. 28 from the House of Bishops to the House of Deputies be specially referred to this Committee.

By order of the Committee.

SAMUEL HART, Chairman.

[For the consideration of the second of the foregoing resolutions see p. 342.]

The Rev. Mr. Faudé, from the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, presented the following report :

REPORT No. 6.

The Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, to which was referred the petition of the Diocese of Michigan, asking the Church to accept the cession of that part of her territory known as the Upper Peninsula, and to erect it into a Missionary Jurisdiction, respectfully report that having had the same under consideration they would recommend to this House the adoption of the following:

Resolved, That it is not expedient to accept that portion of the Diocese of Michigan known as the Upper Peninsula for the purpose of erecting it into a Missionary Jurisdiction.

Signed,

W. R. HUNTINGTON, Chairman.

The Rev. Mr. MacLean, of Michigan, moved as a substitute for the resolution of the Committee's report, that the House concur in the action of the House of Bishops as communicated in their Message No. 37 (see p. 278); which motion prevailed.

The President introduced to the House the Rev. Canon Pentreath, deputed by the Provincial Synod of the Church in Rupert's Land to bring to this Convention the salutations of that body. Canon Pentreath briefly addressed the House, and on motion, was invited to occupy a seat on the platform when convenient and agreeable to him so to do.

The Rev. Dr. Beatty, of Kansas, in behalf of the Deputation from that Diocese, asked leave to withdraw the petition which they presented to this Convention asking that the western half of the Diocese be set apart as a Missionary Jurisdiction. The reason for presenting this request is owing to a technical error in the action of the Diocesan Convention.

On motion, leave was granted.

The Rev. Dr. McVickar, of Pennsylvania, presented a memorial of the late Rev. Dr. D. R. Goodwin, of that Diocese; the Rev. Dr. Rhodes, of Southern Ohio, presented a memorial of the late Rev. Dr. Burr, of that Diocese; the Rev. Mr. Short, of Oregon, presented a memorial of the late Rev. J. W. Sellwood, of that Diocese; all of which memorials were referred to the Committee on Memorials of Deceased Members. [For the report of the Committee see Appendix VI.]

On motion of the Rev. Dr. Huntington, of New York, the House proceeded to the consideration of Report No. 4 of the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution.

The President having decided that, under the resolution of Mr. Burgwin, adopted on the eighth day of the session [see p. 266] the proposed amendment contained in the report had been referred to the special Joint Commission on the revision of the Constitution, Mr. Nash, of New York, moved that Rule of Order No. 14 be suspended in order to move a reconsideration of Mr. Burgwin's resolution. On a division of the House, the motion was lost by the following vote, Ayes 101, Nays 140.

The President appointed as members on the part of this House of the Commission on Orders of the Church of Sweden, the Rev. George M. Christian, the Rev. George McC. Fiske, D.D., the Rev. Arthur Lawrence, the Rev. H. R. Percival, D.D., and the Rev. David H. Greer, D.D.

On motion, the House adjourned.

ELEVENTH DAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

October 17, 1892.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

Morning Prayer was said by the Rev. Mr. De Rosset, of Mississippi, the Benediction being pronounced by the Bishop of Delaware.

The Minutes of yesterday's session were read and approved.

The following members, not previously present, appeared and took their seats :

Messrs. Keese, of Albany; Harrison, of Georgia; and Manning, of South Carolina.

The Rev. Dr. Huntington, from the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, presented the following report :

REPORT No. 7.

The Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, to which was referred a resolution of Mr. Nash, of New York, proposing to amend Article VI. of the Constitution with respect to the trial of clergymen, also a second resolution left over from the last General Convention with respect to amending Article VIII. of the Constitution in the direction of greater stringency, also a resolution left over from the last General Convention with respect to amending Article IX. of the Constitution in the direction of greater stringency, also certain resolutions of Mr. Burgwin, of Pittsburgh, which involve grave constitutional considerations, asks leave to return all of the said resolutions to the House, and proposes the passage of the following resolutions :

Resolved, That the Committee on Constitutional Amendments be discharged from the consideration of all resolutions respecting the amendment of the Constitution that are at present committed to it, for the reason that under a recent order of this House it has been ruled that all reports from this Committee, however carefully elaborated for the enlightenment of the House, must be referred without debate to a Joint Commission, which, after it shall have been appointed, is to sit during the recess and report a plan for the reconstruction of the Constitution and Canons of the Church to the next General Convention.

Resolved, That in consequence of the Standing Committee on Constitutional Amendments having thus become by the action of this House functus officio it be excused from serving during the remainder of the present session.

WM. R. HUNTINGTON, Chairman.

On motion of Mr. Burgwin, of Pittsburgh, Rule 14 of the Rules of Order was suspended in order to enable him to move a reconsideration of his resolution [see p. 266] relating to referring proposed constitutional amendments to the proposed Special Commission on the Revision of the Constitution.

On motion of the same gentleman, the said resolution was reconsidered. The question being on the adoption of the resolution, with proposed amendments, it was, on motion, laid on the table.

On motion of the Rev. Dr. Huntington, the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution was given leave to withdraw their Report No. 7.

The Rev. Dr. Davenport, from the Committee on Canons, presented the following report, the resolution appended to which, on motion, was adopted :

REPORT No. 13.

The Committee on Canons, to whom was referred Message No. 14 of the House of Bishops, proposing that an additional sub-section to be numbered [3] be added to Title I., Canon 15, § iii., have considered the same and respectfully report as follows :

The proposed sub-section provides that "The amount of all offerings received in connection with any service in any Church or Chapel shall be ascertained by two persons appointed for that purpose and entered in a book kept for such record, and attested in each case by the persons so appointed."

In the judgment of your Committee it is inexpedient to recommend the House to make such change in the Canon, for the reason that the end desired may be sufficiently provided for by diocesan or parochial regulation. Your Committee therefore offer the following resolution :

Resolved, That the House of Deputies non-concur in the resolution contained in Message No. 14. of the House of Bishops.

By order of the Committee.

F. P. DAVENPORT, Chairman.

The same gentleman, from the same Committee, presented the following report, the resolution appended to which, on motion, was adopted :

REPORT No. 14.

The Committee on Canons, to whom was referred a resolution contained in Message No. 13 from the House of Bishops, have duly considered the same and respectfully report as follows :

It is proposed in the resolution to amend Title I., Canon 15, § iii., sub-section 2, so that it will read as follows, viz. :

[2] The alms and contributions at the administration of the Holy Communion shall be deposited with the minister of the parish, or with such church officer as shall be appointed by him, to be applied by the minister, or under his superintendence, to such pious and charitable uses as shall by him be thought fit, except in the cases following, to wit :

1. When otherwise designated by the donor.
2. When due notice has been given of some other object for such alms and offerings.

3. On occasion of the visitation of the Bishop. The amount and disposition of said alms and contributions to be reported to the Bishop, if required by him.

It is the judgment of your Committee that the Canon as it now stands in the Digest sufficiently provides for the disposal of the alms and contributions at the administration of the Holy Communion, and the Committee recommends the passage of the following resolution :

Resolved, That the House of Deputies non-concur in the resolution contained in Message No. 13 from the House of Bishops.

By order of the Committee.

F. P. DAVENPORT, Chairman.

The same gentleman, from the same Committee, presented the following report, which was placed on the calendar :

REPORT No. 16.

The Committee on Canons, to whom was referred a resolution providing for the date of publication of the Standard Book of Common Prayer, respectfully recommend the adoption of the following resolution :

By order of the Committee.

F. P. DAVENPORT, Chairman.

[For the consideration of the report see p. 342.]

The same gentleman, from the same Committee, presented the following report, which was placed on the calendar :

REPORT No. 18.

The Committee on Canons, to whom was referred a resolution to provide by Canon for a copyright on all editions of the Book of Common Prayer, respectfully report for adoption the following :

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That the Custodian of the Standard Book of Common Prayer be instructed to secure a copyright on all editions of the said Book.

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That the Custodian of the Standard Book of Common Prayer be instructed to secure a royalty on all editions of the Book of Common Prayer at the rate of ten per cent upon the sales of such Book, said royalty to be for the benefit of the Fund for the Relief of the Widows and Orphans of Deceased Clergymen, and of Aged, Infirm, and Disabled Clergymen of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America.

By order of the Committee.

F. P. DAVENPORT, Chairman.

[For the consideration of the report see p. 331.]

The Rev. Dr. Locke, from the Committee on Elections, presented the following report :

REPORT No. 10.

The Committee on Elections would respectfully report that the proper testimonials have been received entitling to a seat the Rev. John McG. Foster, Diocese of Maine, vice Rev. C. M. Sills, excused from further attendance. The same report is made in the case of Rev. Carroll M. Davis, Diocese of Missouri, vice Rev. John Wilkinson, and in the case of the Rev. George W. Flowers, Diocese of Nebraska, vice the Rev. John Hewett. These names will be entered on the roll.

CLINTON LOCKE, Chairman.

Whereupon the Rev. Messrs. Foster and Davis appeared and took their seats.

Mr. Packard, from the Committee on Rules, presented the following report, which was placed on the calendar :

REPORT No. 6.

The Committee on Rules, to whom was referred a resolution offered by the Rev. Mr. Penick, of Kentucky, beg leave to report that they have considered the same, and deem the action therein suggested desirable. They therefore recommend the passage of the following resolution :

JOSEPH PACKARD, JR.,
For the Committee.

That the practical difficulties in the matter of copyrighting the Book are in their judgment insurmountable, and that they cannot recommend the placing of a royalty upon the Book of Common Prayer; and they ask to be discharged from further consideration of the subject.

By order of the Committee,

WM. CROSWELL DOANE, Chairman.

[For the consideration of the report see p. 332.]

The Rev. Mr. Faudé, from the Special Joint Committee on selecting a place for holding the next General Convention, presented the following report, which was placed on the calendar :

The Joint Committee on the selection of the place for holding the next General Convention respectfully reports that, having considered the subject, it recommends the adoption of the following:

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That the next General Convention be held in Saratoga, N. Y.

Respectfully submitted for the Committee,

J. J. FAUDÉ.

[For the consideration of the report see p. 299.]

The Rev. Dr. Hart, from the Committee of Conference in regard to resolutions accompanying Schedule 2 of the Committee on the Standard Prayer Book, presented the following report, and, on motion, the Committee was discharged from the further consideration of the subject:

The Committee appointed by the House of Deputies to confer with a Committee of the House of Bishops as to the disagreeing action of the two Houses in regard to resolutions accompanying Schedule 2 of the Committee appointed to prepare a Standard Book of Common Prayer, beg leave to report:

That upon conference with the Committee of the House of Bishops it appeared that both Houses had passed the first and the second resolutions which accompanied the schedule just mentioned; and that the House of Bishops had withdrawn from their action in passing a third resolution which did not receive the concurrence of the House of Deputies. There is therefore no occasion for action on the part of the Committee of Conference; and the Committee on the part of this House ask that they may be discharged.

W. R. HUNTINGTON.
SAMUEL HART.
GEORGE C. THOMAS.

The Rev. Dr. Hoffman, of New York, offered the following resolution, which was placed on the calendar:

IN GENERAL CONVENTION,
BALTIMORE, 10th day of the Session,
October 15, 1892.

MESSAGE No. 39.

The House of Bishops informs the House of Deputies that it has adopted the following resolution:

Resolved, The House of Deputies concurring, That Title I., Canon 16, § vii. [7], be amended so as to read as follows:

[7] Every such Bishop shall yearly appoint a Standing Committee, consisting of not less than two nor more than five presbyters within his jurisdiction, and, if he shall find it practicable and advisable, of an equal number of lay communicants, who shall continue in office till their successors are appointed. This Standing Committee shall have, so far as the circumstances of the jurisdiction permit, the powers and duties provided for by the Constitution and Canons that have been adopted for the government of such jurisdiction. It shall be lawful for any Foreign Missionary Bishop about to be absent from his jurisdiction for more than three months to authorize, by writing under his hand and seal, the Standing Committee to act as the Ecclesiastical Authority of such Missionary Jurisdiction. In case of the death or resignation of a Foreign Missionary Bishop, or of vacancy by other cause, the vacant Missionary Jurisdiction shall devolve on the senior Bishop of this Church, with the power of appointing some other Bishop as his substitute in said charge.

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That the Commission on the Hymnal be requested and directed to bring the spelling of the Hymnal into accord with the spelling of the authorized version of the Bible and of the Prayer Book, it being understood that this direction does not apply to capitalization, or the vocative form of the sacred name Jesus.

[For the consideration of the resolution see p. 343.]

On motion of the Rev. Dr. Brown, of New York, it was Resolved, That the report of the Committee on Canons relating to the Canon on the Standard Book of Common Prayer be made the order of the day immediately following the present order of the day, and that the joint resolution regarding copyright and royalty follow in due order for consideration. [See pp. 331, 332.]

The Rev. Dr. Davenport, from the Committee on Canons, presented the following report, the resolution appended to which was, on motion, adopted :

REPORT No. 19.

The Committee on Canons, to whom was referred a proposed amendment to Title I., Canon 22, § i., have considered the same, and respectfully report as follows :

In the judgment of your Committee it is inexpedient to recommend such an amendment to the Canon as is proposed in the resolution, for the reason that the end desired is already sufficiently provided for in the general rules and regulations concerning the services of the Church in the Book of Common Prayer as revised.

Your Committee therefore offer the following resolution:

Resolved, That this Committee be discharged from the further consideration of this subject.

By order of the Committee.

F. P. DAVENPORT, Chairman.

The same gentleman, from the same Committee, presented the following report, the resolution appended to which was, on motion, adopted :

REPORT No. 20.

The Committee on Canons, to whom was referred a proposed amendment to Title II., Canon 5, § i., respectfully report as follows:

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That Title II., Canon 5, § i., be amended so as to read as follows:

§ i. If any Minister of this Church, against whom there is no ecclesiastical proceeding instituted, shall declare, in writing, to the Ecclesiastical Authority of the Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction to which he belongs, his renunciation of the Ministry of this Church, it shall be the duty of the Ecclesiastical Authority to record the declaration so made; and thereupon it shall be the duty of the Bishop, or, if there be no Bishop of the Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction, of any Bishop who, being requested by the Standing Committee, shall consent to act in the matter, to depose such person from the Ministry, and to pronounce and record, in the presence of two or more Clergymen, that the person so declaring has been deposed from the Ministry of this Church: Provided, however, that if the Bishop shall be satisfied that the person so declaring is not amenable for any canonical offence, and that his renunciation of the Ministry is not occasioned by foregoing misconduct or irregularity, but is voluntary and for causes, assigned or known, which do not affect his moral character, he shall so declare in pronouncing and recording said deposition, and shall, if desired, give a certificate to this effect to the person so deposed; and he shall also give due notice of such deposition from the Ministry to the Ecclesiastical Authority of every Diocese and Missionary Jurisdiction of this Church. The said notice of deposition, to be sent to the Ecclesiastical Authority of every Diocese and Missionary Jurisdiction of this Church, shall state that said deposition was at the request of the person deposed and for no cause affecting his moral character.

By order of the Committee.

F. P. DAVENPORT, Chairman.

The same gentleman, from the same Committee, presented the following report, which was placed on the calendar :

REPORT No. 17.

The Committee on Canons, to whom was referred a Canon proposed by the Joint Committée on the Standard Prayer Book, and Message No. 24 of the House of Bishops on the same Canon containing amendments thereto, have carefully considered the same and respectfully report that they recommend the adoption of the following resolutions:

I. Resolved, That this House non-concurs in the resolution in Message No. 24 of the House of Bishops, and asks for a Committee of Conference.

II. Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That Title I., Canon 20, of the Digest be amended so as to read as follows:

TITLE I., CANON 20.

OF THE STANDARD BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER.

§ 1. The copy of the Book of Common Prayer, and Administration of the Sacraments and other Rites and Ceremonies of the Church, according to the use of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America; together with the Psalter, or Psalms of David; The Form of Making, Ordaining, and Consecrating Bishops, Priests, and Deacons, The Form of Consecration of a Church or Chapel, and An Office of Institution of Ministers, and Articles of Religion, set forth by the General Convention of this Church in the year of our Lord 1892, and authenticated by the signatures of the presiding Officers and Secretaries of the two Houses of General Convention, and by the signatures of the members of the Joint Committee charged with the duty of preparing and submitting to the Convention a Standard Prayer Book, is hereby constituted and declared to be the Standard Book of Common Prayer of this Church.

§ 2. All copies of the Book of Common Prayer to be hereafter made and published shall conform to this Standard, and shall agree therewith in pagination and, so far as it is possible, in all other matters of typographical arrangement, except that the rubrics may be printed either in red or in black. The requirement of uniformity in pagination shall apply only to that portion of the book which begins with the Order for the Daily Morning Prayer and ends with the Psalter, and shall not extend to editions smaller than those known as 24mo, or to editions noted for music.

§ 3. In case any typographical inaccuracy shall be found in the Standard Book of Common Prayer, its correction may be ordered by a joint resolution of any General Convention, and notice of such correction shall be communicated by the Custodian to the Ecclesiastical Authority of each Diocese of this Church, and to actual publishers of the Book of Common Prayer.

§ 4. Copies of this folio Standard Book of Common Prayer, duly authenticated as in the case of the Standard Book, shall be sent when issued to the Ecclesiastical Authority of each Diocese or Jurisdiction in trust for the use thereof, and for reference and appeal in questions as to the authorized formularies of this Church.

§ 5. No copy or edition of the Book of Common Prayer shall be made, printed, published, or used as of authority in this Church unless it contain the authorization of the Custodian of the Standard Book of Common Prayer, certifying that he or some person appointed by him has compared the said copy or edition with the said Standard or a certified copy thereof, and that it conforms thereto.

§ 6. The House of Bishops shall nominate a person who, after confirmation by the House of Deputies, shall be appointed the Custodian of the Standard Book of Common Prayer, and shall have charge of the same. He shall hold office until his successor is appointed, and any vacancy occurring during the recess of General Convention may be provisionally filled by appointment of the Presiding Bishop. It shall be the duty of the Ecclesiastical Authority of any Diocese or Jurisdiction in which any unauthorized edition of the Book of Common Prayer or of any part or parts thereof shall be published or circulated, to give public notice that the said edition is not of authority in this Church.

§ 7. This Canon shall take effect immediately.

III. Resolved, That Title I., Canon 20, of the Digest of 1889 be and is hereby repealed.

By order of the Committee.

F. P. DAVENPORT, Chairman.

[For the consideration of the report see p. 331.]

The President announced the appointment of the Rev. Mr. Forrester, delegate from New Mexico, the Rev. Dr. Shepherd, delegate from Northern California, and the Rev. Mr. Colé, delegate from Japan, as members of the Committee on the State of the Church.

The House proceeded to the Order of the Day, viz., Report No. 4 of the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution [see p. 255].

The Rev. Mr. Faudé, of the same Committee, by leave of the House, presented the following minority report:

The undersigned, a member of the Committee on Constitutional Amendments, regretfully dissents from the majority of the Committee in its report on the proposed amendments to Articles I., II., and VIII. of the Constitution, for the following reasons:

The proposed amendments are declared to be steps in the direction of Christian unity. They reveal that congregations of unconfirmed people may by these provisions be received into a sort of union or covenant with the Bishops of any Diocese who will receive them by the advice and consent of the Standing Committee, and be allowed to worship according to any form or directory which any such Bishop may set forth and authorize for use, it being provided that such form or directory shall be in harmony with the four points submitted at the Lambeth Conference as the basis of Christian unity:

1st. It is doubtful if any "congregations of Christian people" would accept so questionable a position as even this exceptional legislation would give them. Clearly they could not be received into the fulness of the Church's privileges. In the absence of further legislation all Diocesan and General Conventions would be closed to them. They would stand upon a different plane from that of confirmed Church people. They would be, at the best, a new kind of "proselytes of the gate," a position which persons of proper self-respect would scorn to accept. It therefore seems to the undersigned that so weak an overture would defeat its own ends.

2d. Practical difficulties would be inevitable in the determination of what is "contrary to the doctrine of this Church," in the forms or directories which might be set forth and authorized for use by the several Bishops. The American branch of the Church Catholic has wisely guarded our Common Prayer by providing that not even the whole House of Bishops alone, but the House of Deputies acting concurrently with them, in two successive General Conventions, with an interval of three years, and with full knowledge imparted to the several Dioceses, shall act on all changes in matters pertaining to public worship. But here is a provision which annihilates time, brushes aside the whole Church in her legislative capacity, and allows every Bishop to do constantly what it is now intended he shall do only in certain specified emergencies. Each Bishop would be a law unto himself. The form of administration of the Holy Communion would very naturally reflect the "interpretation" which each Bishop would put upon that great sacrament. The great diversities of "views," incorporated into forms or directories of public worship, providing a different use in every Diocese, would not tend to the peace and harmony of the Church, but, on the contrary, give rise to contentions for which no gains of semi-converts from other religious bodies would compensate us.

3d. The proposed amendments, however, go still further in their revolutionary character in making changes in the rubrics of the Prayer Book, which have not been, and will not be, made in the lawful manner.

The undersigned is of the opinion that the indirect abolition of the rubric providing that there shall none be admitted to the Holy Communion until they be confirmed or be ready and desirous to be confirmed, is not constitutional. Changes in the Prayer Book should be made in a direct, not an indirect manner. Again, so far as these hoped-for "congregations of Christian people" are concerned, the amendments would do away entirely with the necessity for the Apostolic Rite of Confirmation, which is among the "first principles," the channel for conveying the Holy Spirit to the baptized. This is a deliberate setting aside, for expediency's sake, of the universal practice of the Church in all her branches from the Apostles' days to our own. In the judgment of the undersigned, this transcends the powers of any branch of the Church Catholic. What irregularities there may be to cite from the history of the Church, no national or provincial Church has ever set aside an Apostolic practice which has the clear warrant of Holy Scriptures. Let not the American Church be the first to attempt it. It is not an unwarranted fear that such a departure from Catholic and Apostolic practice would strain our relations with all the rest of the Anglican Communion. And here again the proposed amendments seem to the undersigned to defeat their own ends; for congregations brought under the spiritual oversight of the Bishops, without that rite which is not a mere form of admission, but a means of grace, without full assent and obedience to the doctrine, discipline, and worship of the Church, would not give us unity, but a mere union, and union without unity is not one whit better than a recognized separation. We certainly have enough schools of thought in the Church as it is; to open the door and invite more would be well-nigh suicidal.

For these reasons the undersigned is led to believe that the proposed legislation upon Article VIII. of the Constitution would endanger the well-being of the Church. And since the proposed amendment to Article I. without the proposed amendment to Article VIII., gives us but a partial statement of the Lambeth basis of unity, it would seem as though the two must stand or fall together. The undersigned therefore begs leave to offer as a substitute for the majority report, and recommend for adoption the following:

Resolved, That it is inexpedient to amend Articles I., II., and VIII. of the Constitution in the manner proposed.

Respectfully submitted,

J. J. FAUDÉ.

The same gentleman moved to substitute the resolution appended to the minority report for that appended to the majority report.

Pending the discussion, the House adjourned.

TWELFTH DAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

TUESDAY, October 18, 1892.

The House met pursuant to adjournment. Morning Prayer was said by the Rev. Mr. Edmunds, of Albany, the Benediction being pronounced by the Bishop of New Jersey.

The Minutes of yesterday's session were read and approved.

The Rev. Dr. Locke, from the Committee on Elections, presented the following report :

REPORT No. 11.

The Committee on Elections would report that the proper credentials have been received entitling Mr. Geo. R. Curtis, Diocese of Connecticut, to a seat in place of Dr. W. A. M. Wainwright, excused from further attendance. The same report is made in the case of Mr. Frederic Paine, Diocese of Minnesota, in place of Mr. E. W. Peet, and in the case of Mr. J. H. DeWolf, Diocese of Rhode Island, in place of Mr. Wm. W. Blodgett.

The Committee remind members leaving the Convention not to return, on the duty of obtaining leave of absence from the Committee.

CLINTON LOCKE, Chairman.

Whereupon Messrs. Curtis, Paine, and DeWolf appeared and took their seats.

Mr. Nash, of New York, presented the following memorial, which was referred to the Committee on Canons :

At a Convocation of all the Clergy, and representatives of the Laity of the American Churches on the Continent of Europe, held at Paris, France, on the twelfth day of June, 1889, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted. (Every Clergyman on duty in the Churches in Europe was present during the whole Convocation.)

I. WHEREAS, The Constitution of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America is based on the principle of a representation of all its membership both Clerical and Lay in the Councils of the Church ; and

WHEREAS, The American Churches in foreign countries have been from their beginning self-supporting, and represent a most influential and a steadily increasing element in the Church's life ; therefore

Resolved, That it is the sense of this Convocation that a fair representation, both Clerical and Lay, in the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America, with full power to vote, should be given to this Jurisdiction, and that the General Convention be respectfully petitioned to grant the same.

II. WHEREAS, The present system of episcopal oversight for the Churches in foreign countries, exercised at a distance of from four to five thousand miles at the nearest, and subject to change every three years or oftener, was devised when but one chapel had come into existence, and that one was without any permanent dwelling place; and

WHEREAS, The Churches abroad have now increased to six, all of them owning consecrated buildings, which represent an aggregate of Church property greater than that of some of our own home Jurisdictions; therefore

Resolved, That it is the conviction of this Convocation that the system of episcopal oversight, as then devised, is no longer equal to the greatly increased importance and reality of the work done by the Churches abroad, and that the Presiding Bishop and the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America be therefore respectfully but earnestly petitioned to consider seriously whether some better provision cannot be made for the episcopal oversight of the Churches in foreign countries.

Signed,

R. J. NEVIN, President.

JOHN CORNELL, Secretary.

At a meeting of the Convocation of the American Churches on the Continent of Europe, held in Florence, Italy, May 18, 1892, it was unanimously resolved "that the resolutions in regard to a fair representation of the foreign Churches in General Convention and a better provision for their episcopal oversight, which were unanimously adopted by the whole body of the foreign Clergy in a Convocation held in Paris, June 12, 1889, be reaffirmed, and that the Delegates to the Convocation be instructed to present them to the General Convention in Baltimore."

• R. J. NEVIN, President.

[For the report of the Committee see p. 354.]

The Rev. Dr. Hart, from the Committee of Conference [see p. 277], presented the following report, the resolution appended to which was, on motion, adopted:

The Committee of Conference, to whom was referred the disagreeing action of the two Houses upon a resolution instructing the Joint Committee on the Standard Book of Common Prayer to insert a clause in the second prayer in the Penitential Office finally adopted by this Convention, beg leave to report:

That they have agreed to recommend to the House of Bishops that said House recede from its action in adopting said resolution of instruction; and they recommend to the House of Deputies the passage of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Committee of Conference be discharged.

SAMUEL HART,

E. B. SPALDING,

GEORGE C. THOMAS,

On the part of the House of Deputies.

Mr. Stiness, of Rhode Island, offered the following resolution, which, on his motion, was laid upon the table to be taken up after the subject of the use of the Revised Version of the Scriptures is disposed of:

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That a Joint Commission of seven Bishops, seven Clergymen, and seven Laymen be appointed to prepare, and, if possible, to submit to the next General Convention for approval, a Standard Bible, to consist of the Oxford edition of the King James version of the Holy Bible, appointed to be read in churches, and the so-called apocryphal books, with such verbal emendations as they may deem necessary to a more correct and appropriate rendering thereof.

[For the consideration of the resolution see p. 330.]

On motion of the Rev. Dr. Elliott, of Maryland, it was Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That the following petition, addressed to the several governments of the Christian nations of the world in behalf of peaceful arbitration as a means of settling questions that arise between nations, be adopted, and that copies of the petition, duly attested by the officers of the two Houses, be transmitted by the Secretary of this House to the Conference of Delegates from various Christian bodies to be held in Chicago during the Columbian Exposition in 1893 for taking steps to bring this petition before each government through such influential persons as will secure favourable consideration.

A PETITION

TO BE ADDRESSED TO THE SEVERAL GOVERNMENTS OF THE CHRISTIAN NATIONS OF THE WORLD.

To [Here name of government addressed].

The Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States of America wishes you grace, mercy, and peace.

We, in co-operation with other Christian bodies, humbly memorialize you, as the guardians of your people, in behalf of peaceful arbitration as a means of settling questions that arise between nations. The spectacle that is presented of Christian nations facing each other with heavy armaments, ready upon provocation to go to war and settle their differences by bloodshed or conquest, is, to say the least, a blot upon the fair name of Christian. We cannot contemplate without the deepest sorrow the horrors of war, involving the reckless sacrifice of human life, that should be held sacred, bitter distress in many households, the destruction of valuable property, the hindering of education and religion, and a general demoralizing of the people.

Moreover, the maintaining of a heavy war force, though war be averted, withdraws multitudes from their homes and the useful pursuits of peace, and imposes a heavy tax upon the people for its support. And, further, let it be borne in mind that wars do not settle causes of disputes between nations on principles of right and justice, but upon the barbaric principle of the triumph of the strongest.

We are encouraged to urge this cause upon your consideration by the fact that much has already been accomplished; as, for example, by the arbitration of Geneva in the Alabama case and by the deliberations of the American Conference at Washington, not to mention other important cases. It will be a happy day for the world when all international disputes find peaceful solutions; and this we earnestly seek.

As to the method of accomplishing this end we make no suggestions, but leave that to your superior intelligence and wisdom in matters of state policy.

We invoke upon ruler and people the richest blessings of the Prince of Peace.

Mr. Davis, from the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, presented the following report :

REPORT No. 8.

The Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, to which was referred the Memorial of the Diocese of Tennessee asking consent to the formation of a new Diocese in West Tennessee, respectfully reports :

The Committee on New Dioceses having reported adversely to the memorialists, this Committee has confined its inquiries to the constitutional questions involved in the application.

Article 5 of the Constitution provides that "no new Diocese shall be formed or erected within the limits of any other Diocese . . . unless with the consent of the Bishop and Convention of each of the Dioceses concerned, as well as of the General Convention." It also provides that "no such new Diocese shall be formed which shall contain less than six parishes, or less than six Presbyters who shall have been at least for one year canonically resident within the bounds of such new Diocese, regularly settled in a parish or congregation, and entitled to vote for a Bishop."

Your Committee is of opinion that the formation of a new Diocese by dividing an existing Diocese takes place within the meaning and intent of these provisions of the Constitution when the Diocesan Convention of the old Diocese consents to divide that Diocese and authorizes and consents to the erection into a new Diocese of a part of it which is set off by metes and bounds.

It is further of opinion that the provision of the Constitution that at that particular time six Presbyters shall be canonically resident in the limits of the proposed new Diocese who shall have been so resident for a year, settled in a parish and entitled to vote for a Bishop, applies to each such parish and each such Presbyter, and being so construed that it is mandatory and cannot be waived by this Convention.

The Diocese of Tennessee at its Diocesan Convention in May last unanimously consented to the division of that Diocese and to the erection of a defined portion of it into the proposed new Diocese of West Tennessee. This is the action brought before the Convention by the memorial.

For some years before that time there had been six parishes and six Presbyters canonically living within the proposed Diocese of West Tennessee, within the meaning of the Constitution. But in 1891, prior to the assembling of that Diocesan Convention, Dr. Burford, Rector of Calvary Church in Memphis, removed from the Diocese, and at the meeting of the Convention and during its session there was no rector of that parish so canonically resident. This left the proposed new Diocese with six parishes, as required by the Constitution, but with only five Presbyters who had been canonically resident therein settled in a parish and qualified to vote for a Bishop.

Your Committee is of opinion that these facts disclose that the mandatory provisions of the Constitution were not met in the formation of the proposed new Diocese. It therefore recommends the adoption of the following resolution, and asks to be discharged from the further consideration of this subject.

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That this Convention declines to ratify the proposed division of the Diocese of Tennessee, and does not consent to the formation of the proposed new Diocese in West Tennessee.

W. R. HUNTINGTON, Chairman.

Mr. Bennett, of the same Committee, by leave of the House presented the following minority report :

The undersigned, a minority of the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, to which was referred the Memorial of the Diocese of Tennessee asking for the ratification of its vote to divide the Diocese, and for the consent of this Convention to the formation of a new Diocese in West Tennessee, respectfully report that in their opinion such ratification and consent should now be given, and on two distinct and separate grounds, viz.:

1st. That the Constitution does not consider the vote of a Diocese to divide, and expressing its consent to the formation of a new Diocese from the part divided, as being itself then and there the formation of a new Diocese, and therefore it does not require that at that moment six Presbyters should have canonically resided for a whole year within the borders of the proposed new Diocese.

2d. If the Constitution does so require, then such requirement was substantially complied with in the present case.

As to the first ground: When is the new Diocese "formed" out of an old one within the meaning of the Constitution?

The formation of a new Diocese from part of an old one involves several successive and distinct steps which naturally and necessarily will be quite far apart in point of time.

The first step is a vote of the old Diocese to divide itself by some stated boundary line, and the giving its consent that the part so set off may form itself into a new Diocese, if it so wishes and the General Convention consents thereto. This is not itself the formation of a new Diocese; it is only a preliminary step to it. The old Diocese does not form the new one; that can be done only in a Convention duly convened for that purpose, composed only of the clergy and lay delegates residing on the territory so set off. The members of the old Diocese do not act in that other Convention, nor take part in forming the new Diocese, but only consent that some other body may form it. It would be wrong and unjust to allow the members of the old Diocese to form another one of which they are not and cannot be members; that can be done only by those who compose the new Diocese.

2. The next step is for the General Convention to ratify the proposed division, and to give its consent to the formation of the proposed Diocese. The only condition precedent to such consent required by the Constitution is, that satisfactory assurance be given of a suitable provision for the Episcopate. But the General Convention does not form the new Diocese, nor participate in its actual formation. It only gives its consent, as the Diocesan Convention has done, to its future formation by the parties directly interested therein. The language of the Constitution, viz., that no "such new Diocese shall be formed unless with the consent of the General Convention," naturally implies that such consent will precede the actual formation of the new Diocese, and that the same is to be afterwards formed or erected.

3. The next step, after such division is ratified and such consent given by the General Convention, is for the Bishop of the old Diocese to call a Primary Convention of the contemplated new Diocese at some place within its own borders, to enable it to form and organize itself into a new Diocese under Title III., Canon 4, § 1. It then and there "forms," adopts a Constitution, makes choice of its name, etc., its Standing Committee and other officers, and perhaps chooses its Bishop, and thus forms itself into a new Diocese. The only constitutional condition required for such formation, erection, or organization of a new Diocese is, that it must have at that time six parishes and six Presbyters canonically resident therein for at least a year prior to its formation. This is the first time that such provision applies. The Constitution does not say there must be six Presbyters when the old Diocese gives its consent to divide, nor when the General Convention ratifies such division and gives its consent to the formation of the new Diocese. It simply says, "No new Diocese shall be formed which shall contain less than six parishes and six Presbyters, etc." In the judgment of the undersigned, if such number of parishes and Presbyters exists when the new Diocese is so formed it is sufficient, and the consent of this Convention may now be given to take effect on some future day, as was done in 1838, when the Diocese of Western New York was formed. See the Journal of that year, p. 107.

If it be asked what security can we now have that all the conditions will exist when such new Diocese shall hereafter be formed, viz., that it will then contain six parishes and six Presbyters? This: If it does not, its organization is null and void; it does not become a new Diocese, and when its so-called Deputies present themselves to the next General Convention, the fact of its organization may be inquired into and passed upon by that body, and its Deputies be admitted or rejected accordingly.

Such is the natural and convenient order of events in the formation or organization of a new Diocese from part of an old one; such is, in the judgment of the undersigned, the fair and just construction of the Constitution and Canons on this subject.

Therefore, the undersigned are of opinion that it is not absolutely essential that there should have been six Presbyters at the very moment that the old Diocese votes to divide, nor at the very moment that the General Convention votes to give its consent to the formation of a new Diocese, if so be that number exists when the new Diocese shall be actually formed.

Now as to the second ground in favour of Tennessee:

Supposing the former view is entirely erroneous, and that the Constitution does require that there must be six parishes and six resident Presbyters when the old Diocese votes to divide and gives its consent to a new Diocese, then in the judgment of the undersigned this provision was substantially complied with upon the facts in this case, and on this ground the petitioners are entitled to the favorable consideration of this Convention.

The facts are these: For more than twenty-five years last past the Diocese of Tennessee has contained more than six self-supporting parishes, and more than six Presbyters (sometimes twelve) within the bounds of the contemplated new Diocese, all of whom had all the necessary qualifications of residence or otherwise to vote for a Bishop. During that time the Diocese has repeatedly voted to divide and consented to the formation of a new Diocese. Such vote was repeated at the May Convention, 1892.

By an accidental and temporary circumstance the territory to be organized into a new Diocese did not contain at that moment six Presbyters who had all resided there more than one year. There was one exception; the Rev. Dr. Burford, who had resided there more than a year, had resigned Calvary Church, Memphis, in 1891, and removed from the Diocese.

His successor, the Rev. Dr. Davenport, though then actually residing in the Diocese in May, 1892, had not been there for a whole year. That year does not expire until some day in January, 1893. The undersigned are of opinion that this temporary interruption in the personnel of the rectorship of Calvary Church is not a violation of the spirit of the Constitution on this subject.

Should one of the six long-settled Presbyters suddenly die the night before a Convention votes to divide, and his successor takes possession the day after such vote, it would be harsh indeed to hold that the vote to divide was thereby made void. Yet such would be the result if the views of the majority of the Committee are correct.

One more suggestion shows the effect of too strict a construction of the Constitution. The same clause which is relied upon as providing that the contemplated new Diocese must at that time contain six Presbyters canonically resident in its borders for a year, also provides that the old Diocese must still retain twelve Presbyters who had resided within its borders more than a year. The language is exactly the same, word for word, in both clauses. Now suppose that within a year prior to a Diocesan vote to divide there had been a change in the rectorship of one of the twelve parishes remaining in the old Diocese, so that only eleven Presbyters had been canonically resident there more than a year, would that vitiate the action of the Diocesan Convention and render void the vote to divide? Such a construction is too narrow, strict, and technical. It is adhering to the letter and forsaking the spirit. It is leaving the substance and clinging to the shadow.

For these reasons the undersigned are of opinion that the petitioners are entitled to the relief they seek, and respectfully report the following preamble and resolution:

WHEREAS, The Diocese of Tennessee unanimously resolved at its last annual Convention that the division of the Diocese was both desirable and practicable, and gave its consent to the formation of a new Diocese therefrom, to which the Bishop of Tennessee has given his written consent; and WHEREAS, Satisfactory assurance has been given of a suitable provision for the support of the Episcopate in the contemplated new Diocese; therefore Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That the division aforesaid be hereby ratified, and the consent of this Convention be hereby given to the formation of a new Diocese in West Tennessee, bounded by the Mississippi River on the west and the Tennessee River on the east, including, however, therein the whole county of Hardin on both sides of said Tennessee; and that this ratification and consent take effect on the first day of February next.

(Signed)

J. J. FAUDÉ.

J. McCONNELL.

EDMUND H. BENNETT.

On motion of Mr. Low, of Long Island, the resolution was amended by adding thereto the following:

“Or as soon thereafter as the constitutional requirements as to residence of clergy may be complied with.”

The resolution thus amended was then adopted by the following vote — a vote by Dioceses and Orders being called for: Of the clergy there were 52 Dioceses represented: ayes 45, nays 6, divided 1. Of the laity there were 41 Dioceses represented: ayes 30, nays 8, divided 3.

§ i. [1] Every person desiring to be admitted a candidate for Holy Orders is, in the first instance, to consult his immediate Pastor, or if he have none, some Presbyter to whom he is personally known, setting before him the grounds of his desire for admission to the Ministry, together with such circumstances as may bear on his qualifications, or tend to affect his course of preparation.

[2] If counselled to persevere in his intention, such person shall then, with letter of approval and introduction from such Presbyter, which letter shall furnish to the Bishop precise and specific information as to his antecedents, training, physical, moral, and intellectual fitness to be received as a

Should the applicant not be resident within any Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction of this Church, any Bishop having jurisdiction in this Church shall be competent to receive and act upon such application.

(a) The dates of his birth, baptism, confirmation, and first communion ;

(b) Whether he has ever before applied for admission as a postulant or candidate for Holy Orders ;

§ iii. Should the Bishop approve of the application he shall enter the name of the applicant upon the list of postulants, in a book to be kept for that purpose, and shall inform him of the fact and date of such entry.

§ iv. [1.] No Bishop shall accept as a postulant any person who has been refused admission as a postulant or candidate for Holy Orders in any other Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction than his own, or who, having been admitted, has afterwards ceased to be a candidate, until such person shall have produced a certificate from the Ecclesiastical Authority of the Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction in which he has been refused admission.

[2.] Should the Bishop, after the receipt of such certificate, see fit to accept the applicant as a postulant, he shall remit said certificate, or a copy thereof, to the Standing Committee, for their consideration, in the event of said postulant applying to them to be recommended as a candidate for Holy Orders.

CANON 4.

GENERAL PROVISIONS CONCERNING CANDIDATES FOR HOLY ORDERS.

§ i. [1.] The superintendence of all candidates for Holy Orders, both as to their daily life and as to the direction of their theological studies, pertains to the Bishop of the Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction to which they belong. It is for the Bishop to determine the place at which, and the person under whom, their studies shall be conducted.

[2.] In a Diocese under the Ecclesiastical Authority of a Standing Committee, the clerical members of the Committee shall, through their President, exercise such superintendence and direction.

§ ii. Care shall be taken that every candidate pursue his studies diligently and under proper direction, and that he do not indulge in vain or trifling conduct, or in amusements unfavourable to that seriousness of deportment, or to those pious and studious habits, or that good report which become a person preparing for the Holy Ministry.

§ iii. [1.] A candidate once admitted must remain in canonical connection with the Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction in which he has been admitted until his ordination, except as hereinafter provided.

[2.] The Bishop or the clerical members of the Standing Committee, when acting as the Ecclesiastical Authority, may permit a candidate to prosecute his studies outside of the Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction, without disturbing his canonical residence.

[3.] For reasons satisfactory to the Ecclesiastical Authority letters dimissory may be given him on his own request to any other Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction.

The convenience of attending any theological or other seminary shall not be held to be in itself a sufficient reason for change of canonical residence.

§ iv. [1.] Every candidate for Holy Orders, unless expressly released by the Ecclesiastical Authority over him, shall report himself personally or by letter at least once in every three months, and as much oftener as the said authority may appoint, giving account of his manner of life and progress in his studies.

[2.] Failure to make such report, not accounted for to the satisfaction of the Bishop shall be ground for striking his name from the list of candidates.

§ v. A candidate for Holy Orders shall not be allowed to accept from any Diocesan Convention an appointment as a Lay Deputy to the General Convention.

§ vi. [1.] A candidate for Holy Orders may be licensed as a Lay Reader in the Diocese or Jurisdiction to which he belongs, subject to the restrictions contained in the Canon of Lay Readers.

[2.] Without this license he shall not take upon himself such functions.

[3.] Any violation of the Canon "Of Lay Readers," unless satisfactorily explained, shall render him liable to forfeiture of his candidateship.

§ vii. [1.] Should the application for the Holy Orders of a candidate for the same be finally rejected by the Bishop, or should his application to the Standing Committee for recommendation for ordination be rejected, or should his name be stricken from the list of candidates, it shall be the duty of the Ecclesiastical Authority of the Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction to give immediate notice thereof to every other Ecclesiastical Authority of this Church.

[2.] A candidate for Holy Orders in any Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction of this Church, whose application for ordination shall have been formally rejected as above, or whose name shall have been stricken from the list, shall not be ordained in any other Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction, except upon renewal of candidateship, said candidateship to continue for not less than one whole year. In any case where the application of a candidate for Holy Orders shall have been rejected by any Bishop of this Church, it shall be competent to any other Bishop to decline any application made to himself, if having duly informed himself of the facts of the case, he shall deem it expedient to do so, and it shall be within his own discretion to give his reasons therefor.

§ ii. [1.] The Bishop, or if the Diocese be vacant, the clerical members of the Standing Committee, shall assign to the candidate his Examiners, who shall be two or more Presbyters of good learning, and (if possible) Examining Chaplains of the Diocese or Jurisdiction, and who, upon due notification of the duty laid upon them, shall proceed as speedily as may be to its performance, in accordance with the provisions of this section.

[2.] The examination of a candidate for the Order of Deacons only shall be so conducted as may most thoroughly ascertain

(a) The extent of his acquaintance with the Holy Scriptures of the Old and New Testament, in every part of which he must be well versed.

(b) His familiarity with the Book of Common Prayer, in all its parts and adjuncts, especially with the Order of Daily Prayer, with the text of the Articles of Religion, with the form and manner of making Deacons, and with the instructions therein given as to the duties of the office.

(c) His sufficiency of conducting the services of the Church, and ministering in the office of a Deacon, in all its parts and functions.

[3.] If the candidate has come from another religious body, he shall be also examined on those points in which the denomination from which he has come differs from this Church, with a view to test his information and soundness of doctrine with respect to the same.

[4.] The Examiners shall report, in writing, to the Bishop (or, if the Diocese be vacant, to the clerical members of the Standing Committee), the result, making separate report upon each of the subjects appointed for examination in this Canon, and in the following form, viz.:

To the Right Reverend Bishop of (or the clerical members of the Standing Committee of , as the case may be):

We, the undersigned, Examining Chaplains of the Diocese of (or Presbyters of the Diocese of , as the case may be), having been assigned as examiners of A. CANON 6.

OF THE LEARNING AND EXAMINATION OF A CANDIDATE FOR PRIEST'S ORDERS.

§ i. A candidate for Priest's Orders, not being a Deacon, who shall fail to present himself for examination for Deacon's Orders within three years from the date of his admission as such candidate, shall be liable, after due notice, to be dropped from the list of candidates at the discretion of the Bishop.

§ ii. There shall be assigned to every candidate for Priest's Orders three separate examinations, to be held at such times and places, and with such adjournment from time to time as the Examiners may appoint.

§ iii. [1.] The Bishop may invite the presence and assistance of any Presbyter to whom he may propose to assign the duty of presenting the candidate, and it shall be the privilege of such Presbyter to be present, should he desire it. But without such reason, no person, save the Bishop, shall be permitted to be present without the consent of the appointed Examiners.

[2.] But no Bishop shall take order for the ordination of any person to the Priesthood without having first himself examined him.

§ iv. [1.] Should the candidate have come from another religious body, especial reference shall be had in all his examinations to the points in which the denomination from which he has come differs from this Church.

[2.] So far as may be practicable, and to some extent at least, this portion of the several examinations shall be conducted by written questions and answers, the replies to which shall be placed on file.

§ v. The three examinations shall be:

(1) The first examination, on the Books of Scripture, the candidate being required to give an account of the different Books, to translate from the original Greek and Hebrew, and to explain such passages as may be proposed to him.

(2) In cases of candidates having dispensations from Latin, Greek, or Hebrew, and other branches of learning not strictly ecclesiastical, the first examination shall extend only to the knowledge of the text and interpretation of the English Bible, with such other matters as are comprised in what are commonly known as Introductions to the Holy Scriptures.

(3) The second examination shall be on the Evidences of Christianity, Christian Ethics, and Doctrinal Theology.

(4) The third examination shall be on Church History, Ecclesiastical Polity, the Book of Common Prayer, its history and contents, and the Constitution and Canons of this Church, and those of the Diocese to which the candidate belongs.

(5) In all these examinations reference shall be had, as closely as possible, to the course established by the House of Bishops, and to the books therein recommended, or equivalent works of more recent date.

§ vi. Except for urgent or special reasons, these examinations shall not be accumulated into one.

§ vii. In the course of these examinations the candidate shall read or present three sermons composed by himself, or parts thereof, on some passage of Holy Scripture chosen by the Bishop or by himself, as the Bishop shall have determined.

§ viii. At either or at all of the above examinations the Examiners may, and at some one of them shall, subject the candidate to such proof of his ability to conduct the service of the Church in an edifying manner, and to deliver his sermons with propriety and effectiveness, as shall fully satisfy them of his competence for the public duties of the holy ministry.

§ ix. Satisfaction given in any of these examinations shall in every case be certified to the Bishop in writing (or to the clerical members of the Standing Committee as the case may be), with the signatures of all the Examiners, and in the following form, viz.:

To the Right Reverend Bishop of (or the clerical mem-

B., as a candidate for Priest's Orders, hereby certify that we have examined the said A. B. upon the subjects prescribed in Title I., Canon 7, and, in accordance with what we believe to be the will of the Church, as set forth in her Ordinal and Canons, and sensible of our responsibility for the evil which might come upon the Church through the admission of men insufficiently prepared for their work, we do give our judgment as follows: (Here specify the proficiency of the candidate on each of the subjects prescribed.)

FOURTEENTH DAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

THURSDAY, October 20, 1892.

The House met pursuant to adjournment. Morning Prayer was said by the Rev. Mr. Burton, of Virginia, the Benediction being pronounced by the Bishop of New Hampshire.

The Minutes of yesterday's session were read and approved.

The President announced the appointment of the following persons as additional members of the Commission on Christian Unity: The Rev. Dr. Gailor, of Tennessee; and Mr. Ryerson, of Chicago.

The Rev. Dr. Locke, from the Committee on Elections, presented the following report :

REPORT NO. 13.

The Committee on Elections would report that the proper credentials have been received entitling to a seat in this House the Rev. George T. Bugbee, Diocese of California, in place of the Rev. E. J. Lion, unable longer to attend.

CLINTON LOCKE, Chairman.

Whereupon the Rev. Mr. Bugbee appeared and took his seat.

Mr. Wilder, from the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, presented the following report, the resolution appended to which was, on motion, adopted :

REPORT NO. 9.

The Committee on Amendments to the Constitution have had under consideration the resolution offered by the Rev. Dr. Oliver and referred to them, and beg leave respectfully to report that that resolution propounds to this Committee the following questions:

1st. Can regularly elected delegates from Missionary Jurisdictions be lawfully [constitutionally] admitted to seats in this House, with similar privileges to those of Deputies, including the right to vote? and if not, then

2d. Can they be thus admitted, with such privileges, excepting only the right to vote?

3d. If the Committee answer the first question in the negative, and the second in the affirmative, then upon what reason does the distinction rest? and

4th. What, if any, amendment to the Constitution, touching this subject, is in the opinion of the Committee desirable?

Your Committee answer the first question in the negative. The Constitution provides that the House of Deputies shall consist of Deputies from duly organized Dioceses only.

To the second question your Committee answer that it is unquestionably competent for the House to give to the delegates from Missionary Jurisdictions seats upon the floor of the House.

And further, that if this were an entirely new question, they or some of them, at least, might doubt the constitutional power of conferring upon such delegates the privilege or the right of debate, yet, as this question was settled by the standing order upon that subject (to be found on page 147 of the Digest), which Order has since been acquiesced in, your Committee regard the question as res adjudicata and therefore answer the second question in the affirmative.

To the third question your Committee answer, that to grant the privileges as conferred by the standing order aforesaid is a part of the inherent powers of the House as a legislative body, while to yield the right to vote would be a manifest violation of the Constitution.

To the fourth question your Committee reply, that in their opinion no amendment to the Constitution in this regard is desirable.

Your Committee therefore offer the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Committee be discharged from further consideration of the subject.

W. R. HUNTINGTON, Chairman.

The Rev. Dr. Littell, from the Committee on the General Theological Seminary, presented the following report:

The report of your Committee is a record of steady progress. The Seminary is in a very flourishing condition, in many respects. The triennial report of the Board of Trustees gives assurance of wise management of its financial concerns. During the past three years a professorship has been endowed, that of "Biblical Learning and the Interpretation of Scripture." Professors' salaries have been increased to sums commensurate with their labors and position; and we are gratified to learn that each of the resident Professors is now enabled to devote his whole time to the work of his department. Two new scholarships have recently been added, making now thirty-six. It is earnestly hoped that, in view of the great necessity and benefits of scholarships, the number will soon be at least doubled, especially as the number of students has very greatly increased. Two new dormitories have been erected since the last Convention, and been completely furnished, and are occupied by the students. The old "East Building" has been removed, and in its place three Professors' houses have been erected, in accordance with the fine architectural plan for the Seminary block.

The Library has received several donations of books, and now numbers 22,252 volumes.

The determination to raise the standard of instruction until it reaches the highest that is attainable becomes more manifest every year. Professors have fulfilled their duties faithfully; able lectures have been delivered by others upon various important subjects; and a new Professorship of Christian Ethics and Sacred Philosophy established, which will be of vast importance to the Ministry, which needs to take broad and liberal views, and to be able to grapple with the peculiar questions of the day.

Retreats for the students have been held, and all have testified to their helpfulness. We believe that much was done by them towards deepening spiritual life.

All must rejoice at the increase in the number of students. The last term opened with one hundred and thirty-five names upon the roll; and, in view of the continued growth, it is urged that more new dormitories be given by friends of the Seminary; and that a refectory be added, the old room now used for that purpose being inadequate. A gymnasium would be of great benefit, and we trust that some practical friend may emulate the generous donors of other buildings.

There has been increase in the Professors' Retiring Fund. The wisdom and justice of an ample endowment for this purpose is more generally recognized than ever before. As in the navy, army, and many business organizations, the Church should enable her best ability to give itself, undisturbed by care and apprehension, to the Church's work; and, when age shall have disabled a faithful servant, generously and gratefully provide for his declining years and for his family. It is earnestly hoped that this Fund will soon reach the amount proposed by the Trustees, $100,000.

In view of her general character, the proposition to establish branch institutions, under the care of the General Theological Seminary, in distant parts of our country, seems to your Committee appropriate and wise. We trust that the day is near when several of these will be raised up and placed under her fostering care and enjoy the great privileges which she is so well able to confer.

Your Committee has farther considered the proposition made at the last General Convention in reference to amending the third Article of the Constitution of the Seminary, that of the twenty-five Trustees elected by the House of Deputies "at least five shall be alumni of the Seminary, who shall be chosen from a number of at least ten, to be nominated by the alumni of the Seminary." Your Committee are of the opinion that no change is desirable, because such legislation would restrain the freedom of this House in its election of Trustees; because of the great influence already exerted everywhere, not only in this land, but throughout the whole world, by the many Bishops and hundreds of other graduates of the General Seminary; and because at present one-half of the clerical Trustees elected by this House are her alumni.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

T. GARDINER LITTELL, Chairman.

[For the Triennial Report of the Trustees of the Seminary see Appendix IV.]

The Rev. Mr. Foley, from the Committee on Expenses, presented the following report, the resolutions appended to which, on motion, were adopted:

REPORT No. 5.

The Committee on Expenses, having duly considered various suggestions submitted to them, beg leave to call special attention to the resolution adopted at each successive Convention, providing that the travelling expenses of the Presiding Bishop or his assessor shall be paid by the Diocese or other body at whose instance they are incurred. The necessity for this reminder arises from the occasional failure of a Diocese to reimburse the Presiding Bishop on the occasion of the consecration of a Bishop-elect.

They also believe that there is sufficient reason to modify the recent action of this House in two particulars, and respectfully recommend the following resolution :

Resolved, That the Treasurer be instructed to pay to the Presiding Bishop of the House of Bishops, for expenses in the execution of his office, the sum of four hundred dollars ($400) a year, instead of two hundred dollars as heretofore provided.

Resolved, That the salary of the Secretary of the House of Bishops be increased to five hundred dollars ($500) for the first year.

GEORGE C. FOLEY, Secretary.

Mr. Packard, from the Committee on Rules, presented the following report, which, on motion, was recommitted to the Committee :

Resolved, That the following be adopted as an additional rule of order for this House :

Reports from the Committee on Memorials of Deceased Members shall simply embody the name and date of death of deceased members of previous General Conventions, and after suitable devotions, shall be received by the House standing.

JOS. PACKARD, JR.

The House of Bishops informs the House of Deputies that it has adopted the following resolutions:

Resolved, That this House does not concur in Message No. 46 from the House of Deputies agreeing to the recommendation of the Committee of Conference on the subject of a place of meeting, for the reason that it believes it more expedient to adhere to the previous action of the House of Deputies by which Denver was designated for that purpose.

Garvin, Diocese of New Hampshire, in place of Mr. John Hatch, declining to serve, and Mr. Charles A. Tufts, Diocese of New Hampshire, in place of Mr. George Olcott, unable to attend.

CLINTON LOCKE, Chairman.

Whereupon Messrs. Garvin and Tufts appeared and took their seats.

The Rev. Dr. Huntington, from the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, offered the following resolution:

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That the General Convention accepts as its own the so-called Chicago-Lambeth platform on the subject of Christian Unity.

Resolved, That the Joint Commission on the revision of the Constitution be requested to report to the next General Convention what changes, if any, the acceptance of that declaration makes desirable in the organic law of this Church.

The question being on the first resolution, it was adopted.

The second resolution was lost — the vote being taken by Dioceses and Orders — by the following vote: Of the Clergy there were 52 Dioceses represented: ayes 24, nays 24, divided 4. Of the Laity there were 40 Dioceses represented: ayes 23, nays 17.

On motion of the Rev. Dr. Huntington, the House reconsidered the first resolution just adopted. The Rev. Dr. McKim, of Maryland, offered the following amendment to the resolution:

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That the General Convention accepts as its own the commonly called Chicago-Lambeth declaration on the subject of Christian Unity, to wit:

1. The Holy Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments, as “containing all things necessary to salvation,” and as being the rule and ultimate standard of faith.

2. The Apostles’ Creed, as the Baptismal symbol; and the Nicene Creed, as the sufficient statement of the Christian Faith.

3. The two Sacraments ordained by Christ himself — Baptism and the Supper of the Lord — ministered with unfailing use of Christ’s words of institution, and of the elements ordained by him.

4. The Historic Episcopate, locally adapted in the methods of its administration to the varying needs of the nations and peoples called of God into the unity of His Church.

The Rev. Dr. Hart, from the Committee on the Prayer Book, presented the following report, the resolutions appended to which, on motion, were adopted :

REPORT No. 9.

The Standing Committee on the Prayer Book, to whom was referred a resolution offered by a Clerical Deputy from Connecticut, with reference to the Book of Offices, reported to the last Convention, the consideration of which was postponed to this Convention (Journal of 1889, Appendix X. — 2, pp. 664-696), beg leave to report :

That they have considered the matter referred to them, and while they find much material of great value in the Book of Offices reported in 1889, they are of the opinion that it is not desirable to recommend it for adoption without some modifications ; nor do they think that a book in every way satisfactory could be reported to this Convention for its consideration ; and they therefore report for the consideration of the House the following resolutions :

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That a Commission of two Bishops, two Presbyters, and two Laymen be appointed to prepare a Book of Offices for occasions for which no offices are provided in the Book of Common Prayer, and to report the same to the Convention of 1895.

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That the report of said Commission be printed and distributed to the members of the next Convention three months prior to the meeting thereof.

By order of the Committee.

SAMUEL HART, Chairman.

[For the action of the House of Bishops see p. 345.]

The Rev. Dr. Harwood, from the Special Joint Committee on the report of the Trustees of the Fund for the Relief of Widows and Orphans of Deceased Clergy and of Aged, Infirm, and Disabled Clergy, presented the following report, with a proposed Canon, which, on motion, was referred to the Committee on Canons with instructions to report to-morrow morning :

The Joint Special Committee appointed to consider the report of the Board of Trustees of the Fund for the Relief of Widows and Orphans of Deceased Clergymen and of Aged, Infirm, and Disabled Clergymen, and to report such action in view of the recommendations of the Board as in their judgment may be expedient, respectfully begs leave to report :

The duty of the Church to make some suitable provision for the widows and orphans of deceased clergymen and for aged, infirm, and disabled clergymen, is recognized almost universally. Unfortunately, however, this recognition is a sort of pious sentiment which lacks the reality of a living principle. It does not, as yet, control the public conscience of the Church nor enter into the domain of the practical morals of our social Christian life.

The clergy have no share and desire no share in the race for wealth; they are not admitted competitors in the strife for the prize which most men covet, and which only the few never dream of contending for. By the habits of their office, by the quality of their duties, by the public feeling of the Church itself, by the power of their own convictions, they are cut off from everything and from all pursuits which interfere with entire devotion to the main purpose of their life. The immense and overwhelming majority of the clergy are poor, many of them are very poor. To their credit be it said, that most of them bear their poverty in splendid and heroic silence.

But if there be many poor clergymen, it must be remembered that there are as many poor and feeble parishes. When years and toil begin to tell upon a clergyman, and his physical forces diminish; when his powers for usefulness are obviously wasting or gone, his parish can do next to nothing for him. Mere parochial aid is out of the question. Many Dioceses are as poor as the parishes, and our aged clergy are compelled to face actual want and destitution.

Your Joint Committee is of the opinion that no argument is necessary to convince the Church of its duty in the premises. It may be said to know, but perhaps not to feel its duty to make such provision as the aged and infirm clergy need, and to comfort the fatherless and widow in their affliction. The report of the Trustees of the fund in the hands of the members of the Convention must impress every one with the need of a new and larger effort in behalf of this cause.

It is highly desirable that this report be circulated throughout the length and breadth of the Church so that our people may learn just what agencies are now at work and how limited the interest in the matter is, and how little has been done hitherto. They will learn much and have something new to think of. They will be surprised to see that while some of the older Dioceses have been and are making provision for their aged clergy, the Church at large is doing next to nothing.

It is time that a lethargic sentiment be quickened into a living force, and that the Church recognize and adopt measures not as if it were doling out an alms, to make the clergy pensioners, who by right of length of service are entitled to a yearly stipend. It is the opinion of the Committee charged with the duty of bringing this subject to your notice that all action should tend in this direction so that it shall become the fixed policy of the Church to secure for its aged, infirm, and disabled clergy proper pensions and not mere compassionate benevolence.

When your Committee turns to that which forms the pleading reason for the existence of this society, the untold suffering which lies behind and beneath these formal statements and cold provisions of the law, they feel the helplessness of every faculty save pity and imagination, — pity because the sorrows hidden there are both in their bitterness and their sacredness made only the more keen to the sufferers by the whole habit and sympathetic culture of their lives; imagination, because the dreary realities of the picture are personally known in the experience of but few of us who hear of them, and because the honor and tenderness of charity itself forbid us to attempt to describe them as they are. Could we uncover the manifold misery, could we hear the cry that comes sharp from the spirit but is subdued on the lips, it would not need these poor yearly appeals of a feeble society to move the compassion of the whole family of Christ. Some of the elements of this sore distress, the anxiety that never ceases day or night, from year to year, as to the next month's rent or food, the aching hunger for other nourishment than literal bread and meat, the sad recollection of other times not of plenty, perhaps, but of a supply comfortable compared with the present poverty, the deepening shadow which has brooded over the prospect from the time when it first made the young student doubt whether he should commit himself to the beginning of a ministry always threatened with this tragic ending, the pathetic sacrifices of the patient household, one member for another, — these are readily brought to mind. Would to God that in our thousands of well-housed and well-fed congregations they could reach the feeling and the will by which bountiful hands could be opened and a righteous debt be justly paid!

At this late date of the Convention the Committee can only express without argument its unanimous conviction that it ought to be earnestly considered by the Church whether there ought not to be substituted for the present inadequate and disappointing efforts at relief a well-planned system of clergy pensions for clergymen incapacitated for active service by age or infirmity and for the widows and orphans of needy clergymen deceased.

The measures recommended by your Committee, therefore, are embodied in a Canon herewith submitted.

On motion of the Rev. Dr. Harwood, from the same Committee, it was Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That the Joint Special Committee appointed to consider the report of the Trustees of the Fund for the Relief of Widows and Orphans of Deceased Clergymen and of Aged, Infirm, and Disabled Clergymen, be and they hereby are instructed to nominate to this Convention the Trustees of this Fund.

[For the consideration of the report see p. 343.]

REPORT No. 15.

The Committee on Canons, to whom was referred a proposed Canon on Marriage and Divorce, respectfully report the following:

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That the following be adopted as TITLE II., CANON 13.

OF MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.

§ i. No minister shall solemnize the marriage of any minor unless the parent or guardian having legal charge of such minor have given written consent to the marriage; nor shall any minister solemnize a marriage except in the presence of at least two witnesses, himself or the witnesses being personally acquainted with both parties.

§ ii. Every minister shall keep an official register of marriage, in which he shall record the name, birthplace, age, residence, and occupation of each party so far as they may be obtainable, and the said record, duly transcribed in the said register, shall be signed by both parties to the marriage, by at least two witnesses, and by the minister who performs the ceremony.

§ iii. No minister shall solemnize a marriage between persons connected together in lineal consanguinity or affinity, and also between persons connected in collateral consanguinity nearer in degree than first cousins.

§ iv. No minister knowingly shall solemnize the marriage of any person who has a divorced husband or wife still living, if such husband or wife has been divorced for any cause arising after marriage. But this Canon shall not be held to apply to the innocent party in a divorce for the cause of adultery, or to parties once divorced and seeking to be united again; and in any case of doubt the question shall be referred by the minister, or may be referred by the said parties, to the Ordinary, who shall proceed as set forth in the next section.

§ v. When either of two persons cohabiting together as man and wife, one of them having a divorced husband or wife still living, shall apply to a minister of this Church for admission to Holy Baptism, Confirmation, or the Holy Communion, the said minister shall refer the case to the Ordinary, who shall, in such manner as he shall deem expedient, make inquiry as to the facts in the case, and shall thereupon deliver in writing his judgment in the premises, which judgment shall be final and conclusive. The Rev. Dr. Hoffman, from the Joint Committee on the Provincial System, appointed in 1889, presented the following report, the resolution appended to which was, on motion, adopted :

The Joint Committee appointed at the General Convention of 1889 to consider and report to this Convention, first, whether a territorial division of the whole Church in the United States and Territories into provinces is expedient; secondly, by what changes in the Constitution and Canons of the Church a system of provincial legislation and discipline could be established; thirdly, on what general plan such a division could be effected — respectfully report :

That they have endeavoured to give such careful consideration to the matter committed to them as its gravity and magnitude demand. At every step they have been impressed more and more both with its intrinsic importance to the prosperity of the Church in the United States, and by an evident conviction in the public mind that some decisive action on the main interests touched in the terms of the resolutions by which the Committee was created ought to be taken without unnecessary delay. Reasons for such comprehensive legislation, contemplating a serious change in the Constitution and Canons of the Church, must be sought not only in a present economy and in the inconveniences of an emergency, but in a larger view of the original and historical development of the Catholic Body as the Kingdom of Christ among the nations of the earth.

Assuming that the Diocese be taken as the unit of Church life, on the one hand, and the entire Communion of the faithful in Christ as its complete integral embodiment, on the other, it appears also that the nature of the Episcopate, and through that the order and extension of the whole divine family, renders essential an organization placing each Bishop in a visible relation of counsel and co-operation with comprovincials. That a recognition of this law has not been more distinct and more general in this country, is due, no doubt, to our geographical position with its scattered population. The fact that our Church here is in itself a province might very well forestall opposition to a farther application of the provincial principle. To a majority of your Committee the same conditions of territorial expansion and the distribution of a vast people seem now to impose upon us a farther conforming of our ecclesiastical methods to the primitive pattern. Added to this reason of conformity are others, such as the dimensions, cost, and unwieldiness of our Triennial Convention, if not now at least in the near future, the need of a higher and safer judiciary than that of a single Diocese, a more intelligent mode of assent to the consecration of Bishops, a more simple and effective working of missions, and a foreclosure of sporadic, grotesque, and inconsistent measures of combination.

The opinion has been expressed in the Committee that an erection of provinces through division by no means carries necessarily with it an adoption of all the features or titles of the provincial administration which have existed in other times and other lands.

It is far from the purpose of your Committee to enter into an argument on the subject, or to discuss its many difficult details. These suggestions are offered as the ground of a recommendation that the inquiry be continued, and that a more specific report be presented at the next Convention.

They recommend the adoption of the following resolution :

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring. That the Committee be continued, and that vacancies occurring in it be filled.

CAUSTEN BROWNE,
Secretary of the Committee.

[For the action of the House of Bishops see p. 387.]

The Rev. Dr. Huntington, from the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, presented the following report, and the resolution appended to the report was, on motion, adopted:

REPORT No. 10.

The Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, to which was referred Message No. 68 of the House of Bishops asking that the term Bishop Co-adjutor be substituted for the term Assistant Bishop wherever it occurs in the Constitution and Canons, respectfully reports that it sees no constitutional impediment to the change suggested, but that upon the expediency of making the change it does not feel called upon to express an opinion. It recommends the passage of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Committee be discharged from the further consideration of the matter.

By order of the Committee.

W. R. HUNTINGTON, Chairman.

The same gentleman, from the same Committee, presented the following report, the resolution appended to which was, on motion, adopted:

REPORT No. 11.

The Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, to which was referred Message No. 79 of the House of Bishops recommending that certain documents therewith transmitted, to wit, certain amendments to the Constitution identical with those favourably reported upon in Report No. 4 of this Committee, also an amendment to the first Article of the Constitution, spoken of in the Message as proposed by the Bishop of New York (but, so far as your Committee can find, not contained in the body of the Message or in any schedule thereto attached), also a proposal of the Bishop of Alabama that the Constitution open with the invocation in the name of the blessed Trinity, and that it embody a paragraph from the Preface to the Ordinal beginning with the words, "From the Apostles' time there have been these Orders in Christ's Church, which offices were evermore held," etc., and recommending that the same, to wit, all the aforementioned documents, be referred to the Joint Commission on the Revision of the Constitution, respectfully reports that the contents of the Message are too fragmentary and defective, owing doubtless to some clerical inaccuracy, to allow of your Committee forming an intelligent judgment in the premises, and it accordingly recommends the passage of the following resolution, namely:

Resolved, That this House non-concurs in Message No. 79 from the House of Bishops, proposing amendment of Article I. of the Constitution, and asks for a Committee of Conference.

W. R. HUNTINGTON, Chairman.

The President appointed as members of the Committee of Conference called for in the foregoing resolution, the Rev. Dr. Huntington, the Rev. Mr. Faudé, and Mr. Biddle.

The Rev. Dr. McVickar, from the Committee of Conference on the subject of royalty on the Prayer Book, presented the following report, which, on motion, was recommitted to the Committee:

The Committee of Conference find themselves unable to agree to any very positive recommendation to the two Houses; but they feel bound to assure the House of Deputies that it is evident that the strong conviction of the Bishops in favour of a royalty cannot be overcome.

The Committee, therefore, recommend that the matter be reopened in the House of Deputies in order that the question of a royalty may be considered as entirely distinct from the question of copyright, and they have passed the following resolution:

Resolved, That this Joint Committee is not prepared to interpose any objection to the imposition of a royalty upon the Prayer Book, if without further debate the two Houses of this Convention are prepared so to declare.
W. N. McVICKAR.

[For the consideration of the Message see p. 362.]

The Rev. Dr. Elliott, from the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, presented the following report, the resolution appended to which was, on motion, adopted :

REPORT No. 12.

The Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, to which was referred Message No. 48 from the House of Bishops providing that certain alterations and additions in the Book of Common Prayer, and Administration of the Sacraments and other Rites and Ceremonies of the Church having been finally adopted, the Book shall be a second time ratified and a second time set forth for use, to wit, from and after the Festival of All Saints, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two, begs leave respectfully to report :

First, with regard to a second Ratification. In the judgment of your Committee Article 8 of the Constitution makes such second Ratification unnecessary. In the very act of providing for an established book the Article provides for alterations and additions in the Book. These alterations and additions when made enter into and become part of the Book already established and ratified, and share in the safeguards thrown around the Books. Accordingly, when in the General Convention of 1835 certain alterations and additions were made, no new Ratification was put forth.

In the second place it is not clear to any of your Committee that the proposed addition to the Ratification as it now stands in the Book of Common Prayer can be made without the action of two General Conventions. It is clear to some of your Committee that the change will require such action. The Ratification of the Book of Common Prayer appears as No. 1 in the Table of Contents of the Book. The General Convention determined on one occasion that a change in the Table of Contents required the action of two Conventions, because the Table is a part of the Book of Common Prayer. The Book therefore testifies that the Ratification is part of itself, and no alteration or addition shall be made in the Book of Common Prayer unless the same shall be proposed in one General Convention and by a resolve thereof made known to the Convention of every Diocese and adopted at the subsequent General Convention. In the judgment of your Committee concurrence in the Message of the House would at the least make it very doubtful whether the revision could be closed and the Standard Prayer Book set forth before the year 1895.

In the third place, in the opinion of your Committee it is not in harmony with the Constitution that the use of the alterations and additions already adopted and now parts of the Prayer Book be deferred to a future day, as, for instance, to the Feast of All Saints, 1892. The adoption of an alteration makes it at once part of the Book of Common Prayer as established, and the use of the Book as established is obligatory. Your Committee respectfully recalls to the memory of the House a resolution referred to it in 1886 and its report thereon.

The following resolution proposed in the House was referred to the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution :

Resolved. The House of Bishops concurring. That until a duly certified edition of the Book of Common Prayer containing the alterations made in that Book by this Convention shall be printed and published so that both clergy and congregations may be able to take their parts readily and intelligently in the prescribed worship of the Church the use of the alterations made in this Convention shall not be obligatory.

On the next day the Committee reported as follows :

Your Committee present the following expression of their unanimous judgment: Certain alterations and additions in the Prayer Book having been acted on in the General Convention of 1883, and by resolve thereof made known to the Convention of every Diocese and adopted at this subsequent General Convention, have become and are now part of the Prayer Book, and your Committee are of the unanimous opinion that further legislation is neither necessary nor desirable.

Your Committee would submit that the object which the Message of the House of Bishops has in view will be fully met in the case of the first edition of the Book by the certificate of the Joint Committee on the Standard Book of Common Prayer, and thereafter by the certificate of the Custodian of the Standard.

Your Committee recommends the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That this House does not concur in Message No. 48 of the House of Bishops. By order of the Committee.

W. R. HUNTINGTON, Chairman.

The Rev. Dr. Davenport, from the Committee on Canons, presented the following report; and the question being on the resolution appended thereto, it was not adopted:

REPORT No. 29.

The Committee on Canons, to whom was referred Message No. 64 of the House of Bishops, respectfully report the following:

REPORT No. 30.

The Committee on Canons, to whom was referred Message No. 69 of the House of Bishops, respectfully report the following:

REPORT No. 32.

The Committee on Canons, to whom was referred a proposed amendment to Title III., Canon 6, respectfully report as follows: The amendment proposed would permit a Federate Council of the Dioceses in two or more States or a Provincial Synod so formed. In view of the adoption by this House of a resolution concurring with the House of Bishops in providing for a Commission to revise and codify the Constitution and Canons, the Committee offer the following:

Resolved, That the proposed amendment to Title III., Canon 6, be referred to the Commission on Constitution and Canons.

Resolved, That the Committee on Canons be discharged from the further consideration of this subject.

By order of the Committee.

F. P. DAVENPORT, Chairman.

The same gentleman, from the same Committee, presented the following report, the resolution appended to which was, on motion, adopted :

REPORT No. 33.

The Committee on Canons, to whom was referred a petition of the foreign churches, asking for "A full representation, both clerical and lay, in the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America, with full power to vote," respectfully report as follows: This petition is a reaffirmation of a petition of June 12, 1889, which was considered by this Convention in 1889. Your Committee respectfully refer to their report in the Journal of 1889, page 316, as being their present judgment, viz., that such representation would be unconstitutional. This conclusion was adopted by the House of Deputies, and the petition denied by the adoption of the report of this Committee in 1889, page 379 of Journal. Since then the conditions have not changed upon which the action of the Convention was based. The Committee, therefore, offer the following :

Resolved, That the Committee on Canons be discharged from the further consideration of the subject.

By order of the Committee.

F. P. DAVENPORT, Chairman.

On motion of the Rev. Dr. Eccleston, of Maryland, the report of the Committee on Canons, on the Canons of Ordination, was made the Order of the Day for Monday next at 2.30 P.M. [See p. 363.]

IN GENERAL CONVENTION,
BALTIMORE, 15th day of the Session,
October 21, 1892.

MESSAGE No. 90.

The House of Bishops informs the House of Deputies that it has adopted the following resolution :

Resolved, The House of Deputies concurring, That a Joint Committee be appointed to consist of five (5) Bishops and five (5) Presbyters, who shall consider, and after communication with the Commission recently appointed by the Convocation of Canterbury, report to the next triennial session of the General Convention, which, if any, of the proposed amendments in the Revised Version of the translation of the Old and New Testaments might properly be authorized by the General Convention as marginal renderings.

Attest :

C. C. TIFFANY,
Assistant and Acting Secretary.

On motion, the House adjourned.

SEVENTEENTH DAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

MONDAY, October, 24, 1892.

The House met pursuant to adjournment. Morning Prayer was said by the Rev. Mr. Tucker, of Virginia.

The Minutes of yesterday's session were read and approved.

On motion of the Rev. Mr. Ranger, of Indiana, in behalf of the Deputies from that Diocese, it was Resolved, That the House do now unanimously suspend its rules and engage in appropriate devotions with reference to the illness of Mrs. Harrison and the affliction of the President's family.

The President led the House in prayer.

The President announced the appointment of the following persons as members, on the part of this House, of Joint Committees:

On Versions of the Prayer Book in Foreign Languages: The Rev. Dr. Coit, of New Hampshire; the Rev. Mr. Magill, of Rhode Island; Professor Thomas Egleston, of New York; and Professor Thomas R. Price, of New York.

On Marginal Readings in the Holy Scriptures: The Rev. Dr. Hart, of Connecticut; the Rev. Dr. Abbott, of Massachusetts; the Rev. Dr. Wilson, of Central New York; the Rev. Dr. Harwood, of Connecticut; and the Rev. Dr. Carey, of Albany.

On a Uniform Pointing of the Canticles and Psalter: The Rev. Dr. Hodges, of Maryland; the Rev. Mr. Hutchins, of Massachusetts; the Rev. Mr. Bennett, of New Jersey; Mr. George E. Stubbs, of New York; Mr. George William Warren, of New York; and Mr. Minton Pyne, of Pennsylvania.

The Rev. Dr. Huntington, from the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, presented the following report, the resolution appended to which was, on motion, adopted:

REPORT No. 13.

The Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, to which was referred a series of resolutions, six in number, offered by Mr. Burgwin, of Pittsburgh, and accompanied by a request that your Committee report whether they, or any of them, might lawfully be adopted by a concurrent vote of both Houses of this General Convention, without waiting for the action of the Convention to be held three years hence, respectfully reports as follows:

The first of Mr. Burgwin's resolutions asks that the Committee on the Standard Prayer Book be instructed "to rearrange the contents of the Prayer Book according to their natural and orderly sequence." As to this, your Committee is clearly of the opinion that to such rearrangement the action of two General Conventions would be requisite, since it is manifest that there may be differences of opinion as to what constitutes a "natural and orderly sequence," and some sequences can be imagined which, while appearing natural and orderly to some minds, would strike others as being full of doctrinal significance, as, for example, the placing of the Office of the Holy Communion at the beginning instead of in the middle of the Book.

2. The second of the resolutions seeks to have it declared lawful to publish, under canonical authority, certain portions of the Prayer Book in separate form. With respect to this resolution, your Committee is of the opinion that the point raised is a canonical rather than a constitutional one, and that such point is therefore not within its purview.

3. The third of the resolutions provides for the recognition of the Ordinal and the Consecration and Institution Offices as "constituent parts of the Book of Common Prayer." The House having already virtually passed upon this point by its refusal to admit the word "constituted" into the Canon on the Standard Prayer Book, further discussion of the subject seems to your Committee superfluous.

4. The fourth resolution asks that it may be lawful to omit the Litany and the Communion Office from the Ordinal whenever the latter is bound up with the Book of Common Prayer. But your Committee finds that this is res judicata, the thing having been already negatived at the time when it was proposed in the original Book Annexed of 1883.

5. The fifth resolution asks that in printing the title-page of the Book of Common Prayer the comma after the word Prayer be omitted; but your Committee finds that in the standard text accepted by both Houses of this Convention there are no commas at all.

6. The sixth resolution declares that it is not expedient to adopt a Standard Book of Common Prayer at this session of the General Convention, but that the present Committee on the Standard Book ought to be continued, and requested as soon as practicable after the adjournment to publish an edition of the Prayer Book embodying all the alterations, additions, and other changes previously made therein, and to report a copy of the same, with such corrigenda, if any, as they may find necessary, to the next General Convention for adoption as a Standard Book.

With respect to this resolution, your Committee reports that while its passage by a single Convention would be obviously constitutional, such action would, under existing circumstances, be as obviously superfluous.

In view of all these considerations, your Committee recommends the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Committee be discharged from the further consideration of the subject.

By order of the Committee.

W. R. HUNTINGTON, Chairman.

The Rev. Dr. Davenport, from the Committee on Canons, presented the following report, the resolutions appended to which were, on motion, adopted:

§ v. It shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Convention in every Diocese to prepare, immediately after the adjournment of the meeting of the Diocesan Convention next preceding the session of every General Convention, a list of the clergy canonically resident therein, and of persons admitted since the previous General Convention to the order of Deacons and Priests, and of persons deposed from the Sacred Ministry, and of clergy that have died, and also a condensed report and a tabular view of the state of the Church in said Diocese, comprising therein a summary of the statistics from the parochial reports, and from the Bishops' addresses, specifying, as far as possible, the capital and proceeds of the Episcopal Fund, and of the funds of all Benevolent and Missionary Associations of Churchmen within the Diocese, and promptly to forward the same to the Secretary of the House of Deputies, for the purpose of aiding the Committee on the State of the Church, appointed by the House of Deputies, in drafting their report.

Resolved, That the House of Deputies concurs with the House of Bishops in so much of their Message No. 61 as refers to the repeal of Title I., Canon 17.

Resolved, That the House of Deputies does not concur with the House of Bishops in so much of their Message No. 61 as refers to a proposed amendment of Title I., Canon 18, § v., and asks for a Committee of Conference.

By order of the Committee.

F. P. DAVENPORT, Chairman.

The Committee desire, however, to recommend to the Commission, through the Board, that the distinct effort be made more constantly and systematically to enlist in furtherance of the claims of the work among the coloured people the active co-operation of all those Bishops who have or may have such work carried on under their charge, and also of such other agents or agencies as may seem best to their discretion. They also advise that the effort be made to get together in conference, at least once a year, all the Bishops mentioned above to secure the advantage of their counsel and advice.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Mr. John N. Carpender presented the following :

PETITION

FROM THE WOMAN'S AUXILIARY TO THE BOARD OF MISSIONS OF THE PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL CHURCH, IN GENERAL CONVENTION
AT BALTIMORE, OCTOBER, 1892.

The women of the Auxiliary ask permission to present the following plan for using the income of the Enrolment Fund to the consideration of the Board of Missions, in the earnest hope that they will approve and adopt it at the present time, in order to carry out the intention of the founder of the Fund, and of the original subscribers, many of whom have now passed away.

Their hope and expectation was that the work of the Fund would begin at the close of the three years, whereas their gifts for the work of the Master have been "folded in a napkin" and laid aside from year to year.

The income of the Fund will supply salaries for some new Missionary Bishops, if it can be appropriated. The plan is:

First. That the principal of the Fund must not be used, and that its friends will make every effort to secure systematic offerings and special gifts, until the sum of one million dollars has been raised.

Second. That the income of the Fund be appropriated for a term of three (3) years (until the next triennial meeting of the General Convention) to some new missionary work, such as salaries for the new Missionary Bishops, so urgently called for at the present time.

Third. That this appropriation be reconsidered at each triennial Convention and be renewed, or else changed to some other more pressing need; always using the income of the Fund for new and aggressive work, and in this way carrying out the desire of the founder.

This plan, while it maintains the permanence of the Enrolment Fund, also serves to extend the missionary work of the Church; and the liberty to change the appropriation at each triennial meeting of the Board of Missions will secure the use of the income for new and aggressive work only.

The Auxiliary has offered to help in the matter of raising money for the Enrolment Fund, and it hopes — indeed it confidently expects — that the adoption of the proposed plan will give new life and an impetus to the Fund by the fact that good active work is being done every year by its income.

The knowledge of this fact will interest and call forth contributions from many persons who now decline to give because the usefulness of the Fund seems to them doubtful, or at least remote and indefinite; they prefer to give their money for more immediate results.

Circulars containing this plan have been sent from the New Jersey branch throughout the Auxiliary. Those returned have been signed by the various Diocesan officers — in most cases on behalf of the branches which they represent — and also by a large number of individual members.

Signed in New Jersey by 36 officers and 77 individual members.

Signed in 30 Dioceses by 152 officers and 292 individual members.

On motion of Mr. Carpender, it was Resolved, That all the moneys appertaining to the Enrolment Fund now in the hands of the Treasurer of the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society, and all sums that may hereafter be contributed to said Fund, shall be securely invested and held intact as principal only, until said Fund shall amount to $1,000,000.

Resolved, That the interest and income accruing from said Fund so invested shall be appropriated by the Board of Managers for the support of new Missionary Bishops and aggressive work in the missionary field, for and during the time intervening between this and the next General Convention.

Resolved, That having approved the plan proposed, we solicit the hearty aid of the Women's Auxiliary in behalf of the said Enrolment Fund, they having done so nobly in the past in raising money, etc., for the cause of Missions.

The following preamble and resolutions, adopted by the Woman's Auxiliary, and communicated to the Board through the Secretary, were, on motion of the Rev. Dr. Anstice, referred to the Committee already appointed on the report of the Woman's Auxiliary :

WHEREAS, The Woman's Auxiliary, as its name imports, is an adjunct and helper of our great Board of Missions; therefore,

Resolved, That we await such action as may be taken by the Board of Missions touching "The World's Congress of Missions," and then, along the lines of such action, co-operate with it in the promotion of whatever desirable objects it may designate.

Resolved, That this resolution be sent as soon as may be to the Board of Missions for our instruction.

JULIA C. EMERY, Secretary.

[See p. 412.]

On motion of the Rev. Dr. Perkins, it was Resolved, That persons holding funds collected for the Enrolment Fund, which were to be paid in when the amount subscribed reached $1,000,000, be requested to get the permission of the subscribers and pay the same to the Treasurer of the Fund.

On motion of the Bishop of Albany, the Order of the Day for 12 M., being the consideration of the work of the Church in Mexico, was postponed until the next session of the Board, in order to take up the report already presented on the subject of the reorganization of the Commission for Work among the Coloured People.

On motion of the Bishop of Western New York, it was Resolved, That the missionary work in Greece be made the Order of the Day immediately after the consideration of the work in Mexico.

On motion of the Bishop of Albany, it was Resolved, That when the Board adjourns it adjourn to meet on Tuesday, Oct. 18, at 2.30 P.M.

The report of the Committee on the Work among the Coloured People, proposing a reorganization of the Commission, being under consideration, the Bishop of Kentucky moved as a substitute the original resolution appended to the report of the Commission.

The Bishop of Maryland moved to amend by striking out all words relating to the location of the office, which amendment was accepted by the Bishop of Kentucky.

The Rev. Dr. Newton moved to strike out the words "or so many of them as within sixty days after the passage of this resolution shall signify in writing to the Board of Managers their consent to act."

On motion of Mr. Stark, it was Resolved, That the whole subject of the reorganization of the Commission be referred to the Board of Managers with power.

On motion, the Board adjourned.

FIFTH DAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

OCTOBER 18, 2.30 P.M.

The Board met pursuant to adjournment, the Presiding Bishop in the chair. After singing and prayer, the Minutes of the last session were read and approved.

The Rev. Dr. Battershall, from the Committee to consider the report of the Board of Missions, presented the following report, the resolutions appended to which were adopted:

The Committee to whom was referred the annual report of the Board of Managers of the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society, with accompanying documents, respectfully submit the following report:

The record of the missionary work of the Church contained in the reports of the Missionary Bishops and the Secretary of the Board of Managers, while it inspires thanksgiving and hope, comes with strong and pathetic appeal to every member of the Church who, by virtue of his membership, is pledged to the fulfillment of its divine errand in this land and throughout the world.

A survey of the mission field demonstrates several facts which it is the province of this report to indicate:

(1) The Church has wisely chosen her men to whom she has especially intrusted her missionary work, whether it be in the management of the details of the central office, or leadership in the toils and marches and exposures for Christ on the frontier.

(2) A deepening light is thrown on the problem of Foreign Missions. We are recognizing as never before that provincial and sectarian interpretations of the religion of Christ can never take possession of peoples which have had no part or interest in the history of Western thought; and that the Church alone can fully protect and proclaim the Catholic faith which is adapted to all ages and climes.

With our clearer vision of this old truth, we find ourselves abreast of a new fact. The religious and social structures of the East are gradually yielding to the insistent touch of the civilization that bears the name of Christ. Doors long sealed are opening for the incoming of His truth and law. Japan especially is out hunting for a religion which shall give sanction and coherence and spiritual power to the civilization which it has imported from the West. The situation is significant, and justifies the largest hope, the utmost expenditure of men and treasure.

(3) The mission work on our Western frontier comes before us with enlarged need and promise. March as rapidly as she may, the Church lags behind the torrent of human life that sweeps Westward. Men who are bone of our bone and flesh of our flesh are founding cities which are destined to rival the great commercial and industrial centres of the East. Three-fourths of our immigrants, as stated by the Secretary, cross the Mississippi. Into their hands are falling year by year larger percentages of the power to uphold or to destroy the institutions that organize our liberties and shelter our social sanctities.

We claim to be the Catholic Church of this land. We must be in the front, where life is plastic, where it is flowing into new centres of energy, with the Gospel of Christ and those divine institutions which are necessary to the organic life of His religion.

(4) During the last year two agencies, new in the field, have materially contributed to the increased offerings to Missions, and have shown a latent force capable of indefinite development. It was an inspired thought to organize for the missionary work the power of consecration which God has put in womanhood. With a steady growth of twenty-one years the Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions has now established itself in 51 Dioceses and 11 Missionary Jurisdictions. This year it reports sent to the missionary boxes valued at $197,724.26, and $154,323.72 given in money.

The organization ought to have a place in every parish in the land. It has peculiar facilities for the personal solicitation and systematic gathering of missionary offerings. It is of the utmost value in inspiring women to, and sustaining them in, a personal consecration to the mission work.

It was another inspired thought to enlist in the cause of Missions the children of the Church. During the past year their Lenten offerings amounted to $74,427.86 from 2,479 Sunday-schools. Undoubtedly the more general use of mite-chests largely accounts for this increase of one-third upon the offerings of the previous year. The money is much. The value of the training is incalculable.

(5) The Committee has heard with gratitude from the Commission for Coloured People of the increased interest manifested by the Church in this department of its mission work. During the year the Commission has distributed $53,648.26 among eighteen Dioceses, supporting wholly or partially 98 clergy, of whom 48 are coloured. In the sixteen Southern States there are nearly seven millions of persons of African descent. The Church must awake to the tremendous issues involved in this fact. This emancipated people must be trained in the elemental laws of Christ and His civilization. It is impossible to exaggerate the importance of the work of the Commission.

(6) The gross receipts reported by the Board of Managers for 1892 are as follows: For Domestic Missions: offerings and legacies, $249,154.23. Specials, $44,671.48. For Foreign Missions: offerings and legacies, $218,177.43; specials, $57,423.32. Total receipts for 1892, $569,426.46. The number of congregations contributing to Domestic Missions is 2,841. Three years ago only 2,270 parishes, out of a total of 4,600, were on the contributing list.

In this connection it is only fair to state that a large percentage of the missionary work of the Church is under the charge of Diocesan Bishops, and that the offerings that pass through the treasury of the Board are probably more than equalled by the aggregate offerings in the several Dioceses to their specific missionary work.

From the statistics given in the reports of the Board of Managers, we note that each year we gain a step, but each year the response is meagre compared with the need. In this land, at least, the Church can claim larger resources for the doing of her work. A decay has touched old prejudices and old misbeliefs. The hour of the Church has come. Her opportunity is before her. To enter into it, she asks, and must have, large reinforcements of men and money. She lays her divine claim on all her children. She demands of the rich within her fold the aid that they alone can give. In this new world where God has opened such broad and easy paths to wealth, she calls upon them to build monuments to God,—churches, cathedrals, Christian schools, hospitals, endowments of the Missionary Episcopate; and above all the Church calls for men, young men, who shall gladly consecrate their hope and enthusiasm and trained power to the great rescue which Christ has brought to the life of the world.

In conclusion, your Committee offer the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the Board of Missions extend their appreciative thanks to the Board of Managers for their wise and devoted supervision of the mission work of the Church.

Resolved, That the Board of Missions reaffirms the principle that the whole Church is a missionary society; and urges that in every parish in the land a Sunday be set apart for the presentation of each department of the mission work, and the systematic gathering of the people's offerings.

The Rev. Dr. Prall, from the Committee to consider the Report of the Church Building Fund Commission, presented the following report, the resolutions appended to which were, on motion, adopted:

The Committee appointed by this Board on the work of the American Church Building Fund Commission begs respectfully to report that it has examined with care and satisfaction the report made by the said Commission, and that it recommends to this Board the following resolutions for adoption:

Resolved, That the Board of Missions learns with pleasure of the great work that the American Church Building Fund Commission has done and is doing for the development of the Church throughout the length and breadth of the land, and that it regrets that much of the scope of its operation has been impaired by the inadequacy of the present fund, the same amounting to only $226,241.72 (of which the sum of $50,000 is not yet available), whereas the sum of $1,000,000 is the amount aimed at and required.

Resolved, That we renew the request that every parish and mission make an offering at least once in each year to the American Church Building Fund, and concur in the recommendations of the Bishops that in churches where the offering has not been taken on some earlier day in the year, it be taken annually on the second Sunday in November, or as soon afterwards as practicable.

Resolved, That the Bishops be requested in such manner as they may deem most convenient to make known to their respective Dioceses the work and the plan and purpose of the work of the Commission.

Resolved, That a Committee be appointed to nominate a Board of Trustees of the American Church Building Fund Commission to serve for the ensuing three years, until the next General Convention.

WILLIAM PRALL, Secretary.

The Rev. Dr. Spalding presented the following preambles and resolutions :

WHEREAS, It is necessary for the Board of Managers to appropriate out of its current receipts for missions the sum of nearly $5,000 each year for the care of disabled missionaries and the families of deceased missionaries who have served in the foreign field, and yet the sum so appropriated is inadequate to the needs ; and

WHEREAS, There can be no provision by the Board for the care of persons in like circumstances of dependence in connection with the domestic field, although the need is often distressingly apparent ; therefore,

Resolved, That in the opinion of the Board of Missions a just and tender regard for the faithful clergymen who devote their lives to the missionary work of the Church demands that whenever they are disqualified for active work by reason of age or other infirmity, they should receive such maintenance as their circumstances require, and in case of their death, provision should be made for the widows and dependent children thus left destitute ; and further

Resolved, That inasmuch as the fund established for such cases by the General Convention, and known popularly as the General Clergy Relief, is as yet inadequate to meet the necessities, therefore the Board of Missions hereby requests the General Convention to take such measures as shall strengthen that agency for its great and blessed work and enable it to meet the requirements of all disabled clergymen and widows and orphans of deceased clergymen who are not otherwise provided for.

The Order of the Day being called for, the Rev. William B. Gordon addressed the Board upon the work of the Church in Mexico.

The Rev. Dr. Satterlee presented the following petition from the Advisory Committee for Church work in Mexico, and moved that the petition be granted :

At a meeting of the Advisory Committee for Church work in Mexico, held in Calvary Rectory, New York, on Tuesday, October 11, the following resolution was unanimously passed :

WHEREAS, In the last six years and during two successive General Conventions, the Rev. William B. Gordon has been nominated by the Presiding Bishop and appointed by the Board of Missions to superintend the work of those Presbyters and Readers in Mexico who asked for the fostering care of this church to be extended to them as a Mission ; "

WHEREAS, This mission work has been crowned with a success which has exceeded all expectations and has justified the appointment of Mr. Gordon, both as regards increasing attendance and membership at Churches and day schools on the one hand, and as regards careful management of funds and increasing value of Church property on the other ;

WHEREAS, In Mexico itself, harmony has been completely restored under his influence, the former differences in connection with the work have been healed, and all the congregations have placed themselves under the direction of Mr. Gordon ;

WHEREAS, Here in the United States, harmony has also been restored regarding the conduct of the work, by the retirement from the field of every missionary organization except the Advisory Committee appointed by Bishop Potter and the Ladies' Auxiliary Committee appointed by the Presiding Bishop to work in connection therewith ;

WHEREAS, The missionary work under the charge of Mr. Gordon is growing in importance not only through its own internal spiritual development, but because the social and business relations between the United States and Mexico are becoming every year more intimate ; and

WHEREAS, The work under the charge of Mr. Gordon has received the cordial and unqualified indorsement of a majority of the Bishops of our Church ; therefore,

We respectfully petition the Board of Missions to take entire charge of the aforesaid mission work in Mexico under the jurisdiction of the Presiding Bishop. Attest : HENRY Y. SATTERLEE, Chairman.

The Bishop of Maryland offered the following amendment to the resolution of the Advisory Committee :

Resolved, That the General Convention be requested to advise the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society with regard to the propriety of its taking charge of missions in foreign lands already occupied by Churches whose Holy Orders are recognized by this Church.

Pending the discussion of the subject, the Board adjourned until to-morrow at 2.30 P.M.

SIXTH DAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

OCTOBER 19, 1892, 2.30 P.M.

The Board met pursuant to adjournment, the Presiding Bishop in the chair.

After singing and prayer, the Minutes of the last session were read and approved.

The Bishop of South Dakota presented the following report of the Committee on the Woman's Auxiliary, the resolutions appended to which were, on motion, adopted :

There have been referred to this Committee the reports of the Honorary Secretary, Mrs. Twing, and of the Secretary, Miss Emery, and a communication from the Woman's Auxiliary, regarding the World's Congress of Missions.

Your Committee finds the reports of the Honorary Secretary and Secretary replete with valuable information and interesting suggestions, some of which are quite far-reaching. These reports are a revelation of the wonderful growth of woman's sense of her vocation, and of her ability to serve the Church. The exhibit given in these reports of that which least adequately represents the best service of Church women, viz., the raising of money and the making up of boxes of clothing, is by itself most impressive.

The money raised during the last year amounted to $154,323; the estimated value of goods contributed was $197,724, making a grand total of $352,047.

Time forbids that your Committee take up these reports in detail, and as to the more general and important features of the reports, your Committee will draw attention only to those in regard to which they are in unanimous agreement.

THE HONORARY SECRETARY'S REPORT.

The report of the Honorary Secretary is a most valuable historical survey and résumé of the development of systematic and organized work of woman within the Church, and should be carefully read, and then filed away for future reference, by every one who would keep himself acquainted with the important subjects which it treats, among others, the work of Deaconesses and Sisterhoods.

It is becoming more and more felt and acknowledged on all sides that the Church can never meet the demands of the present day in the various fields which demand her occupancy, unless she can command thoroughly trained 'ay workers, nor unless she can raise up sons and daughters who will keep themselves, in a peculiar degree, disentangled from the affairs of this life, deny themselves even permitted conveniences and comforts, and "endure hardness," as being not good subjects merely, but "good soldiers of Jesus Christ."

Your Committee learn with great satisfaction that the Honorary Secretary has become connected with the faculty of the Training House of Deaconesses, established in connection with Grace Church, New York, in 1890; and they trust that this fact, together with her large knowledge of the mission field, and her valuable contributions to the development of the work of women, will fix the attention of the Missionary Bishops and the authorities of the training schools on the service which she may effectively and wisely perform in bringing to their attention women whom they may make use of in their respective spheres of operation.

THE JUNIOR AUXILIARY.

The happy suggestion of the creation of a Junior Department of the Auxiliary, taken up and authorized by the Board three years ago, has proved as attractive in reality as it seemed in the prospect, and has already become, in parts of the Church, a distinct power in the training of the young in knowledge of and interest in missions. We are glad to know that in its practical work the Junior Auxiliary lays especial stress upon the cultivation of three good habits,—the habit of Prayer for Missions; the habit of Study of Missions; and the habit of Giving to Missions.

THE WOMAN'S AUXILIARY.

The growth of the influence and work of women in the Church during the last twenty-one years is one of the most remarkable features in the Church's life, and is an inspiring evidence of the readiness of the Spirit that worketh in the body to manifest richly His manifold powers, if He be not restrained by our dulness or sloth. Work such as the Auxiliary is doing will always be done where the body and its members are in living union with "the Head, even Christ," for this kind of work is just that which He wills us to do. From Him and Him alone as a source come its inspiration and its strength; but high effort on the part of women will always be the special calling of the women of a country whose very discovery was due so largely to the high intuition and decision of one of their own sex, Queen Isabella; and it is the natural inheritance of the daughters of the Anglican Communion, whose first Missionary Bishop, Augustine, found a patron in the royal Lady Bertha, and whose second Missionary Bishop, Paulinus, found a noble coadjutor in the Queen Ethelburga.

The Woman's Auxiliary has adapted itself, with the quickness of perception and delicacy of touch which characterize the sex which it represents, to the great variety of persons with whom it has had to do, and to the diverse and frequently changing conditions in which it has found itself. The work done is of inestimable value, but the spirit and manner of the doing it are of even higher worth. The work has been developed as by the instinct of a living body according to the genius of our Church, and has taken shape after the type of our Church life, parochial, diocesan, and general; and according as it has worked in one or the other of these spheres, parochial, diocesan, and general, it has found its proper bond of unity, respectively, in the parish clergyman, the Bishop, and the Secretary of the Auxiliary; a bond close and specific in the parish clergyman; a bond less close and general in the Bishop, a bond even less close and more general in the Secretary, as in each several case was met. We think it of high importance that the Woman's Auxiliary should continue to be that which its name indicates, and which it has been in the past — distinctly auxiliary to the Board, and that the Board and the Woman's Auxiliary should thus realize, in their common work, that which is the true idea of the essential relation of the sexes. Should the present relations of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Board in this respect be changed, we think the change would involve the loss of the elements of beauty, grace, and strength, which are quite peculiar, and that this loss would be incalculable.

So far as we are aware, there is in no quarter any settled desire for serious changes; but from remotest stations in Africa, and from most distant stations in Japan and China; from orphanages and schools in the South and West; from the orphans and widows of the clergy; from self-denying missionaries; from overtaxed rectors, and from the chief pastors of the flock, Diocesan and Missionary, sounds forth, undisturbed by one discordant note, a tribute of satisfaction and gratitude which, could they know the fulness of its meaning, would bring every member of the Auxiliary in adoring gratitude to the feet of their Master, crying, "What are we that we should be able to offer so willingly after this manner?"

Your Committee, however, recognizes the fact that many embarrassments attend the transaction of business at the General Meetings of the Woman's Auxiliary. Such impediments are well known to all bodies which meet only at long intervals, and arise largely from the fact that the members are in a great measure strangers to each other, in their persons, their characters, and their plans. These embarrassments are to a degree unavoidable. Much relief, however, will come from the declaration agreed upon by the members of the Auxiliary at their recent meeting in this city, which reads as follows:

WHEREAS, It is understood that the whole body of General and Diocesan officers constitutes the Central Committee of the Woman's Auxiliary, in which the representatives from each Diocese are recognized as a unit, each Diocese, in all matters relating to the Auxiliary as a whole, having but a single vote; and

WHEREAS, From such Central Committee sub-committees may be formed at any triennial meeting, which sub-committees shall report monthly to the General Secretary; and

WHEREAS, We regard said Central Committee as possessed of whatever power is consistent with its allegiance to the Board of Missions; therefore

Resolved, That such organization be declared sufficient and satisfactory for all present purposes of the Auxiliary, and for the hopeful continuance of the prosperity of the past twenty-one years.

If to the acknowledgment of these principles be added familiarity with and obedience to ordinary parliamentary rules, and a realization of the fact that there are duly appointed authorities, parochial, diocesan, and general, for mapping out and directing the missionary work of the Church, and that therefore the chief object of the triennial meeting should be the kindling of the spirit of prayer, and love, and zeal, and the strengthening of unity of purpose in operation, your Committee believes that due order and ease of action will be secured; and, should emergencies arise, from time to time, in which special advice is needed, there is an Advisory Committee of the Board of Managers to which the Auxiliary may resort.

In view of the difficulty of the assembling of representatives of the more distant branches of the Auxiliary at any central point, and of even making their influence felt and their wishes known at any central meeting, your Committee see many dangers that might arise to the freedom of local branches and to the rights of parishes and rectors, of Dioceses and Bishops, from intrusting to any Central Secretary or Secretaries, or any Central Committee, large power or authority; and they commend the tact and considerateness which have marked the course of the Honorary Secretary and the Secretary of the Auxiliary, — a course which has at once left the independence of the branches untouched, and yet given sufficient influence and due guidance.

Your Committee would raise the question whether the present extent of the work and its future welfare do not require that the Board of Managers provide for the Secretary a congenial Assistant with whom she might share her labours.

Your Committee agrees with the Secretary of the Woman's Auxiliary in the opinion implied in the latter part of her report, that there should be the freest intercommunication of opinion between the general officers (the Honorary Secretary and Secretary) on the one hand, and the branches of the Auxiliary and their officers on the other, and they think that there is much practical wisdom in the suggestion of the Secretary that four Committees made up from the Auxiliary should be appointed, one on Systematic Giving, one on Missionary Publications, one on Missionary Workers, and one on the Junior Department of the Auxiliary, with regard to devising and carrying out such plans as may commend themselves to the Board of Missions and to the Auxiliary generally.

This suggestion was taken up with great interest at the general meeting of the Auxiliary recently held in this city, and met with general acceptance. The persons suggested at this meeting as suitable to serve on these Committees are cordially approved by your Committee, who think that there should be the freest and fullest communication between the Secretaries and these Committees, with the fullest confidence and interchange of views, and that these Committees, while free to come together on their own motion, and give such counsel as they may think expedient, should be entirely advisory in their functions.

The Secretary in her report draws attention to

1. The fitness of the Auxiliary to be an instrument in the hands of the Clergy of the Church in carrying out the plan of systematic offerings.

2. Its need of greater missionary information and intercommunication among the branches.

3. Its need of recognition as a reserve force of missionaries, from which they may be called to active service in the field.

In regard to suggestion No. 1, your Committee would remark that the mode of securing offerings differs in different places, and they are not prepared to recommend any particular one, but they can see that the Woman's Auxiliary is admirably fitted to give effectiveness to any plan which may be duly approved, and they trust that this fact may be more fully recognized.

In regard to suggestion No. 2, your Committee think it of great importance, and commend it to all who have it in their power to further the putting of it into operation.

They would draw the especial attention of the Missionary Bishops to suggestion No. 3, as well worthy of their consideration.

Your Committee are of opinion that the best results will not be secured by definitive action of this Board on all of the matters presented in the reports referred to this Committee or treated of in this report. Such action might prove, because of the haste and want of full and defined information which invariably attends the proceedings of the Board, inopportune or impracticable.

Your Committee would propose for definitive action the following resolutions only, trusting that their report in its entirety will receive due consideration from the persons and the bodies whom it concerns:

Resolved, That in view of the importance and success of the Honorary Secretary in organizing and aiding women's work in this country, her appointment is hereby renewed.

Resolved, That the Board of Managers be recommended to make suitable provision for the travelling and other expenses of the Honorary Secretary.

Resolved, That the modes of administration and of operation which have distinguished the Woman's Auxiliary and have proved so effective in the past will, in the opinion of this Board, prove, without serious alterations, satisfactory in the future.

Resolved, That it be referred to the Board of Managers to consider the expediency of providing for the Secretary of the Auxiliary a congenial assistant who under her direction shall share her labours.

Resolved, That the suggestion of the Secretary of the Woman's Auxiliary that four Committees be appointed as described in the report of this Committee, has the cordial approval of this Board, it being understood that the functions of these Committees shall be advisory.

Resolved, That the Board of Managers are hereby requested to appoint said four Committees, and that the names of women suggested at the general meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary in Baltimore, as suitable members of said Committees, be sent to the Board of Managers for their favourable consideration. The nominees are:

Systematic Offerings: Mrs. Clark, of New Jersey; Mrs. Neely, of Maine; Mrs. Ames, of Rhode Island; Mrs. Neilson, of Pennsylvania; Mrs. Sioussat, of Maryland; Miss Adams, of Michigan; Mrs. Littell, of Delaware; Miss Stone, of Central Pennsylvania; Mrs. Palmer, of Newark.

Publications: Mrs. Bleything, of New York; Mrs. Girand, of Connecticut; Mrs. Dewey, of Albany; Mrs. Ward, of Chicago; Mrs. Tuttle, of Missouri; Mrs. Spalding, of Colorado; Miss Hart, of Western New York; Mrs. Boalt, of Ohio; Miss MacLeod, of District of Columbia Branch.

Committee on Missionary Workers: Miss Coles, of Pennsylvania; Miss Cornelia Jay, of New York; Miss Loring, of Massachusetts; Mrs. Cox, of Long Island; Mrs. Lawver, of California; Miss Stuart, of Virginia; Mrs. Halsey, of Western New York; Miss Ives, of South Dakota; Miss Carter, of Minnesota.

Junior Auxiliary: Miss Jarvis, of Connecticut; Miss Stahl, of Chicago; Mrs. Rochester, of Southern Ohio; Miss Watson, of Central New York; Mrs. Macauley, of Michigan; Mrs. Wharton, of Louisiana; Miss Phillips, of Pittsburgh; Mrs. Bronson, of New York; Mrs. Lightner, of Delaware.

Resolved, That this Committee be discharged.

On behalf of the Committee.

WILLIAM H. HARE, Chairman.

October 15, 1892.

The Rev. Dr. Huntington presented the following petition of the National League for the Protection of American Institutions:

To the Board of Missions of the Protestant Episcopal Church in General Convention assembled, Baltimore, Maryland:

CHRISTIAN BRETHREN, — The undersigned have been instructed by "The National League for the Protection of American Institutions" to address the representatives of the different Christian denominations which heretofore have received Congressional grants of money toward the support of their Indian schools.

The objects for which the Association which we represent exists are thus stated in Article II. of the Constitution:

"The objects of the League are to secure constitutional and legislative safeguards for the protection of the Common School system and other American institutions, and to promote public instruction in harmony with such institutions, and to prevent all sectarian or denominational appropriations of public funds."

We are seeking to promote the passage of the following amendment to the United States Constitution, to be known as the XVI. Amendment.

"No State shall pass any law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or use its property or credit, or any money raised by taxation, or authorize either to be used, for the purpose of founding, maintaining, or aiding by appropriation, payment for services, expenses, or otherwise, any church, religious denomination, or religious society, or any institution, society, or undertaking which is wholly or in part under sectarian or ecclesiastical control."

We also seek the amendment of the Constitutions of the various States, in conformity with the fundamental principle that in this country the functions of the Church and State are, and should be kept, distinct and separate. We believe that it was unquestionably the intention of the founders of the Republic to secure the free and untrammelled development of religious belief, without hindrance from State control or help from State patronage. The first amendment to the United States Constitution, which was proposed by Congress to the Legislatures of the various States, September 25, 1789, and which was ratified by the States from 1789 to 1791, contains the following provision:

"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

The object of this amendment was to exclude from the consideration of Congress any proposed law "respecting an establishment of religion." Each Church was to be left free to work out its own destiny without governmental interference or aid. On various pleas, however, this principle has been departed from, in both National and State Legislatures, by grants of public money which was collected from the whole people for aiding charitable or educational institutions which are under sectarian control; the principle being virtually allowed that if one denomination received such aid another might claim and receive the same, the amount bestowed in each case depending not only on the facilities of each denomination for doing such work, but also on the aggressiveness and political influence of the petitioners. The growth of this evil custom, so diametrically opposed to the fundamental principles of the Constitution, and so threatening to the peace of the community by introducing questions of denominational preference into our civil legislation, is illustrated by the accompanying table, which shows the amounts appropriated by Congress to various religious bodies for the support of Indian schools.

It will be seen that nearly three-fourths of the amount appropriated by Congress to denominational schools among the Indians is given to one denomination, and this a denomination which has never claimed to represent over one-sixth of the population.

We believe all such grants are utterly subversive of the letter and spirit of the first amendment already quoted. The national government, violating, as we believe it does, its own Constitution by these sectarian grants, casts its influence in favor of denominational schools, and imperils thereby the integrity of the whole common-school system of the various States.

The National League utters no protest against denominational schools, as such. It claims, however, that these schools should be supported by private or church benevolence, and not by largesses out of the National Treasury.

It certainly was not the intention of the framers of the Constitution that denominational advantages should be gained and denominational triumphs should be won either by legislative influence or by an appeal to political majorities.

In view of the above facts, several of the largest religious denominations which have previously received such grants toward the support of their missions among the Indians, have publicly and officially resolved to discontinue the practice.

We earnestly appeal to your patriotism to take similar action at the present time. The pecuniary loss which would thus be sustained in assuming the entire care and support of your own mission schools among the Indians would be light, as compared with the advantages which would ensue from such a sacrifice in the establishment of a correct principle of public policy.

We also ask your approval of the proposed XVI. Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which is already before the Judiciary Committees of the Senate and House of Representatives of the present Congress as before quoted.

This amendment has received the unqualified autograph approval of over 250,000 prominent citizens in all parts of the country, including jurists, lawyers, publicists, divines, college presidents and professors, superintendents of public instruction, and business men.

It has been adopted by the representatives of ninety patriotic organizations.

It has been indorsed by the unanimous vote of the American Baptist Home Mission and Publication Societies in Annual Convention; by the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church; by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States; by the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church, and by other influential denominations, though smaller in membership. All of these denominations have taken an equally decided attitude in opposition to sectarian appropriations by the National Government for Indian education.

It has also been approved by the officers and individual managers of almost all the Missionary Boards of the country.

The official approval of the Protestant Episcopal Church in General Convention assembled would at the present juncture greatly strengthen the hands of those who are trying to secure the passage of this amendment by the present Congress, and would encourage the hearts of those who believe that if our religious liberties are to be preserved, such action cannot longer be safely delayed.

With high regard,
 GEORGE S. BAKER, Chairman of Committee.
 JAMES M. KING, General Secretary.

The Rev. Dr. Huntington accompanied the foregoing petition with the following resolutions, which, on his motion, were adopted :

Resolved, That in the judgment of this Board subsidies from the treasury of the United States in aid of Indian education ought neither to be sought nor to be accepted by this Church, and that the Board of Managers be and hereby are requested to act from this time forth in accordance with this judgment.

Resolved, That the effort now making to secure a 16th amendment to the Constitution of the United States making it unlawful for any State to pledge its credit or to appropriate money raised by taxation for the purpose of founding or maintaining any institution, society, or undertaking which may be wholly or in part under ecclesiastical control, has the cordial sympathy and approval of this Board.

The Rev. Dr. Spalding called up the preambles and resolutions offered by him at yesterday's session [p. 411], which, on his motion, were adopted.

The Order of the Day being taken up for consideration, the pending substitute offered by the Bishop of Maryland was lost.

The question recurring on the original resolution of the Advisory Committee presented by the Rev. Dr. Satterlee, the Bishop of Albany presented the following substitute, which was accepted by the Rev. Dr. Satterlee :

Resolved, That the Board of Missions commends the work established in Mexico and recognized by this Church in the appointment by the Board of Managers of a Presbyter nominated by the Presiding Bishop to whom has been assigned the duty of counselling and guiding the work of those Presbyters and Lay Readers who have asked for the fostering care of this Church to be extended to them as a mission.

Mr. Mills, of Newark, presented as a substitute the following resolutions, which were lost :

Resolved, That the Board of Missions has heard with gratification that the embarrassments formerly besetting the work now conducted under the superintendence of the Rev. W. B. Gordon in Mexico have been happily removed, and that the various elements are working harmoniously.

Resolved, That in the opinion of this Board of Missions it is inexpedient to transfer the charge of the work in Mexico to the Board of Managers, but that it should be left to the same agency which has so successfully conducted it heretofore, and that the conditions at present existing should be continued.

The Bishop of Maryland moved to amend the pending resolution by adding the words

Provided, That no money be appropriated for such work in Mexico, except what may be specially contributed for that purpose; which amendment was carried.

The question recurring on the resolution as amended, it was adopted.

On motion of the Bishop of Nevada and Utah, the following resolutions were adopted :

Resolved, That the Board of Missions observes with great pleasure the growing interest among the Sunday Schools and children of the Church in the general missionary work ; the surprising advance of the Sunday School Lenten Offering during the past four years from $27,000 to $74,000 being a sure sign that the rising generation is preparing to take up with a strong hand the burdens which their parents have borne, and to carry the banner of the Church forward as good soldiers of Jesus Christ.

Resolved, That the Board of Missions sends its affectionate greetings to the children in all Dioceses and Missionary Jurisdictions, and urges that they continue their earnest and successful efforts to increase the Lenten Offerings for the general missionary work.

On motion of the Bishop of New Jersey, the Board adjourned to meet at such time as should be designated by the joint action of the two Houses of the General Convention.

SEVENTH DAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

OCTOBER 25, 2.30 P.M.

The Board met pursuant to the concurrent action of the House of Bishops and the House of Deputies, the Bishop of Mississippi in the chair.

After singing and prayer, the Minutes of the last session were read and approved.

On motion of the Rev. Dr. McKim, it was Resolved, That the Board of Managers be instructed to recognize the laity in the Constitution of the Commission for Work among the Coloured People.

On motion of the Bishop of Western New York, the following resolutions were adopted :

Resolved, That the venerable mission of this Church in Greece is commended to the Board of Managers as demanding reinforcement and improvement, and perhaps reorganization on a larger and less parsimonious scale.

Resolved, That a Commission of this Board be appointed to co-operate with "The Trustees of the Hill Memorial School" at Athens in any measures they may be disposed to take for the improvement of that property and for the elevation of its educational facilities and faculties in such a degree as may be worthy of the American name and of the interest of this Church in its oldest and perhaps most successful work among foreign Christians.

The Commission contemplated by the second resolution was constituted by the appointment of the Bishop of Albany, the Rev. Drs. Saterlee and McVickar, and Messrs. C. Vanderbilt and Lemuel Coffin.

The Bishop of Wyoming and Idaho announced the appointment of twenty members at large by the presiding Bishop and of one clerical and lay commissioner from each Diocese and Missionary Jurisdiction appointed by the Bishop thereof to constitute the American Church Building Fund Commission.

The following resolutions were presented by Mr. Baldwin, of Michigan, and adopted by a rising vote :

Resolved, That the Board of Missions cannot close its session without expressing its thankfulness to Almighty God for the faith, hope, and love which has so clearly marked its deliberations; for the cheering reports which have come to us from the Church's missionary leaders; for the evidence of growing interest which has been manifest on the part of men, women, and children; and for the zeal which has set apart new Missionary Jurisdictions, as evidenced by the election of seven Missionary Bishops by this General Convention.

Resolved, That we heartily commend the work of the Board of Missions to the loving confidence of all the people of the Church, and urge upon clergy and laity alike to rise to yet a larger measure of liberality in contributing to the support of this work, upon which we invoke the favour and blessing of God.

On motion of the Rev. Dr. Anstice, it was Resolved, That the General Secretary of the Board of Managers be authorized to call the Board of Managers together for organization.

The Minutes of the day's session having been read and approved, after singing and prayer, the Benediction was pronounced by the Bishop presiding, and, on motion, the Board adjourned sine die.

Secretary of the Board of Managers.

PASTORAL LETTER.

To our well-beloved, the Presbyters and Deacons, our fellow-laborers in the Apostolic Ministry, and to the Faithful in Christ Jesus, the Bishops send greeting in the name of the Lord :

First.—We ask you to join us in thanksgiving to our gracious God that a great and serious work which has engaged the Church for many years has been completed and closed in the Convention of 1892, and that the Book of Common Prayer, revised, amended and enriched by the labors of learned and godly men, has now, after careful consideration by both Houses of this Convention, been constitutionally set forth for the use of the Church.

It would be idle to claim perfection for the Revised Book. No human work is perfect.

We address to you the well-known words of the old Preface :

“And now, this important work being brought to a conclusion, it is hoped the whole will be received and examined by every true member of our Church and every sincere Christian, with a meek, candid and charitable frame of mind, without prejudice or prepossessions, sincerely considering what Christianity is, and what the truths of the Gospel are, and earnestly beseeching Almighty God to accompany with His blessing every endeavor for promulgating them to mankind, in the clearest, plainest, most affecting and majestic manner, for the sake of Jesus Christ, our blessed Lord and Saviour.”

During the years in which this important work has been in progress, it was, perhaps, to be expected that somewhat of irregularity should occur in the ordering of the Divine Services. The clergy were not always informed of the successive changes as they were adopted; but now that the revision has been completed, and a Standard Book of Common Prayer has been canonically established to remain, we trust, unchanged for many years to come, we feel assured that the clergy and their congregations will gladly order the details of Public Worship and of the Administration of the Sacraments and other Rites of the Church strictly according to its Rubrics. The Church is wiser than her wisest member, holier than her holiest member. An obedient and godly acceptance of her decisions, when they are canonically pronounced and clearly expressed, is the plain duty of all her children.

Second.—For many years the thoughts and prayers of your Bishops have been greatly occupied with the unhappy divisions among Christian people. The evils of these divisions are becoming daily more apparent. Faith grows cold, doubts increase, attacks on the very citadel of Religion are more defiant, because the Lord's own chosen evidence of His Divine Mission is cast contemptuously aside by those who profess to honor Him.

“That they all may be one,” He prayed, “that the world may believe that Thou hast sent me.” They are not “all one,” and the world does not believe. We may say we are at heart or in spirit “all one”; but alas, if it be so, the world does not see it. A divided Christendom makes an impossible appeal to human credulity when, notwithstanding all that men's eyes see and their ears hear, it declares that it is still "all one" in the profound sense of our Lord's last prayer.

In our Pastoral Letter and in our Declaration of 1886 we set forth the grounds upon which the Church stands for unity. They were substantially adopted and proclaimed in the Lambeth Declaration of 1888 by the assembled Episcopate of the whole Anglican Communion. In that Declaration we set aside all mere matters of preference, and many things which are very precious to our hearts and yours. We came down to the bare foundations, without which no organized Christianity can long continue to exist. We said in effect, that, for the sake of the oneness our dear Lord prayed for on the night in which he was betrayed, we would yield, if need were, all but these "first principles."

We expected no wonderful result. We were casting seed into the ground which was to grow in God's time. By some our words were misunderstood; by others they were carelessly dismissed; but there were not a few who saw their meaning, who considered them seriously, who have endeavored to weigh them justly, and who have consequently been drawn very near to us in sympathy. The result has been no disappointment. In any case we have borne our testimony. We have delivered our own souls. We have made our protest against an ancient wrong. We took the Apostolic position.

The Church stands for unity. That was clearly announced once more. Thereafter there could be no mistake. She stands for the one Catholic brotherhood of Christian men, for the ancient freedom of Christian thinking and Christian action, for deliverance from the tyranny of man-made creeds and confessions. She is "the pillar and ground" of the unchangeable "Truth", the "witness and keeper" through the ages of "the Faith once for all delivered to the saints." She stands for the liberty wherewith the Truth has made her free. Let her children "pray for the peace of Jerusalem." Let them banish all narrowness and prejudice, all pride and conceit. Let them gladly acknowledge all that is good and gracious in our separated brethren. Let them say "Grace be unto all them that love our Lord Jesus Christ in sincerity." Unity will come as a crown of victory, not to theological strife, but to Christian love. From the long story of the Church's warfare let us learn that the conquests of love are the only conquests which abide. Be steadfast. Be patient of men's prejudices and weakness. Pray on and hope on. Hold out loving hands to men, and so shall the Lord's last prayer find, in His own time, its answer.

Third.—We have very gravely considered the Canons concerning ordination and the due preparation of candidates for the sacred ministry. High character and sound learning in the clergy are essential to the worthy work of the Church, in this time and land especially. We have reason to be thankful that the Church has always demanded, and has so constantly found these in her ministry. But the door to the Priesthood should be even more carefully guarded in the time to come. Devotion, self-consecration, clear intelligence, a learning abreast of the times, secular knowledge as well as thorough training in Theology, that queen of all the sciences, are imperatively required in those who are set to teach the people of this age.

More than ever must the priest's lips keep knowledge—definite, clear, theological knowledge—and more than ever must the prudence, the meekness, the patience and the tact of a trained intellect and a devout soul be exhibited in gentle manners by the pastors of the flock.

Fourth.—And here we earnestly charge our brethren of the clergy to remember that the foremost and most abiding of all their duties is to "preach the Gospel." This, dear Brethren, is the first command in our commission: "Go ye into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature."

It has seemed to us that this primal duty has been somewhat obscured. We have nothing to say here of the relative importance of preaching and administration. Each has its place; but, whatever else it may do or be, a living Church must be a preaching and a teaching Church. It would be something to alarm if our preaching were such that our people should become clamorous for less and less of it. In that case, we are convinced that the clamor would not be against preaching, but against the kind of preaching; not against the length of the sermon, but against the kind of sermon. Still, as of old, men are touched and held by the strong, wise, tender words of other men. If the power of the pulpit is less in our time as some, not we, assert, it is from no change in the nature or circumstances of man. The evidence is all about us. The printed column or the printed page can never reach the inmost heart of men like the living voice—the pleading and persuading voice of a living person. He who knew what is in man committed his Gospel to the voices of men. It was to be written also; but still the voice was to utter it—the voice of a man to other men, as it was first uttered on the hillsides of Palestine and the shores of the Galilean lake. We solemnly charge our brethren in the ministry to cultivate and exercise this their great office. In the words of the mighty Apostle to the son of his heart, we say to you, "Preach the Gospel." Make the pulpit a throne of light. Let it teach. It is sent to teach, not alone to move or to excite emotion, least of all to win men's admiration of eloquent periods, beautiful diction and graceful delivery. Its one great purpose is to instruct and enlighten in the things belonging to God. Definite, positive doctrine about the deepest things, is ours to teach. If we have it not, but only guesses of our own and speculations which are the froth of common, surface, thoughtless thinking, then our place of utterance may be anywhere in all the world save in the pulpits of the Church. But having a sure doctrine, having a positive and determinate trust of fact and truth committed to us, we need not fear that the old teaching will not have the old power; that earnest practical sermons for the men and the hour will fail to enlighten, guide and strengthen the souls entrusted to our charge, until they grow to ripeness and strength of wisdom in things pertaining to godliness.

Fifth.—And here let us remind our brethren, and ourselves, also, that we are sent and commanded to care for the lambs as well as for the sheep. “Feed my lambs” remains forever a solemn burden on the souls of Bishops and other clergy. Are we obeying the command? We recognize the differences of times and the difficulties of present circumstances. But does the Sunday School in its best estate quite fulfil the meaning of this marching order? Is the “Leaflet” quite a substitute for that little Catechism which wisest men have declared to be “the best treatise on dogmatic Theology, in the smallest compass ever penned by man,” and which is still level to the capacities of a child? Does the Sunday School teacher, at his best, or the Sunday School superintendent, at his best, quite fulfil the office of the pastor, standing with the Lord’s precious “little ones” around him, patiently, lovingly, and with authority instructing and leading them as the beloved of the Lord, whom no man may dare “offend” at his soul’s peril? It is wise to use all helps and all helpers, but we charge the clergy to resign into no other hands whatever the care and trust of the Lord’s little ones. We charge you to regard this, most precious of all the offices of your ministry, as your own special responsibility; and while you may use all aids of easier learning or larger illustration, we expect you to teach the old Church Catechism as the central norm and expression of faith and duty and the Bible as the Word of God, which makes men "wise unto salvation."

Sixth.—An evil we have seen and much bemoan is a growing tendency toward a short and uncertain tenure of the pastoral office.

The Church's law contemplates long pastorates, long growths of affection, the weaving of many knots of love in life, the holy memories of many services, the intimate tenderness of sorrows and anxieties borne together, and the happy remembrance of joys and thanksgivings together shared. She looks for her best strength, where memories of the marriage vow, the font, the altar, the sick-bed, the grave-side, are the common possession of pastor and flock. Human as she is, she knows the blessedness of our homely human affections, and that by them, sanctified, we are sanctified and lifted to affections divine and eternal. Our earthly loves and friendships, our every day joys and sorrows, have divine meanings and leadings in the tender thought of the dear Mother who is so human, while she leads us gently up to the love that is divine. So her plan is that the shepherd shall abide with the flock. She asks the pastor to stay long with his own, to patiently wait while the shuttle flies back and forth across the web of his days, and weaves for him, in mingled threads of gloom and brightness, a band of love, binding him ever closer to the souls he serves here, and, by Christ's great grace, to become a gleaming band of glory, binding him and them in everlasting fellowship hereafter.

Brethren of the laity, it is not, we are convinced, the fault of your clergy alone that pastorates are so short, and that the tenderness and sweetness of the pastoral relation are well-nigh lost from among us. It is for you to make the relation permanent by all patience, gentle consideration, kindly judgment, gracious helpfulness, loyalty and love. Stand by your pastor in frank, manly and honorable fashion. Give him what he must have to do effectual work—your utmost trust. Hold up his hands and cheer his heart. He is only human—a poor, weak sinner, after all, like the rest of us. He will make mistakes. He will not be always wise. But while you know him to be true and loyal, be you true and loyal also, and then all will be well.

You want the man who knelt by your child's sick-bed to kneel by your own. You want him who said the holy words at your father's grave to say the same strong words at your own. You want the man who blessed your vow to the sole woman of your heart to pour the consecrated stream on the brow of her child and yours. All your life long you want the faithful, the tried, the selectest man to be the friend of your inmost hours, and he ought to be your pastor.

This is what the Church intends in the pastoral relation. This is what has been made a reality again and again, and such pastorates have left high and holy memories, all along her story, to brighten and sweeten the lives of her children. Let it be the noble ambition of every pastor and every congregation to begin, continue, and bring to a holy and blessed end such pastorates as these, where all that is best on earth and all that is best in Paradise meet and clasp hands together over a relation so humbly human, yet so divinely sweet, that, at its consummation, a man may say, in trembling trust, "Here am I and the children which Thou hast given me."

Seventh.—Our thoughts, Brethren, have been dwelling much upon the Christian family. The family is the root germ of the Church and the root germ of the State. Both are safe while the family is safe. When the family is wrecked, neither Church nor State is worth preserving. The hearth of the home is the sacred altar, at last, of all religion, all law, all loyalty, and all order. The ancient religions of our forefathers taught us that, at least. Our Lord revealed the reason, lifted it up, stamped His divine mark upon it. From our Lord Jesus Christ we have received it with new sanctions and girdled with divine defenses: The awful sacredness of home, the one man and the one woman, who are not two but one, whose union is a great mystery, like the union of Christ and His Church.

It is with sad foreboding that all Christian people must see how the sanctity and permanency of the marriage bond has been outraged and broken by the lawless legislation of so many of our States. The Church of God can have no regard for such legislation ; it has no more respect or validity in her consciousness than the legislation on the same subject of Turkey or the "customs of Dahomey." Indeed, she must consider it not only an outrage upon the Christian consciousness, but upon the inherited race-consciousness of our people. Therefore she has set herself in her own legislation to record her solemn protest against a tendency which, in our judgment, enlightened by the Word of God and the guidance of His Holy Spirit, can lead only to the ruin of the civil state and the destruction of all religion and purity of living among men. We are convinced that much, if not all, of the looseness with which the marriage bond is treated in legislation and practice is due to the first falsehood which considers the individual as the unit of human society, and demands, therefore, that the motive of all civil arrangements shall be the pleasure and contentment of the individual. As a matter of historical fact as well as of scientific determination, the family is the unit, and the well-being of the individual can be rightly sought only in and through the well-being of the family.

The Holy Scriptures are full of the doctrine of the family and its relations. It is a thing so divine that Almighty God reveals Himself under a family name. He is a Father; in the Godhead Itself there is Father and Son; He has a household in heaven and earth, a great family and many children. He consecrates, in His holy word, every homely human name that is named about the fireside and under the roofs of men, by using those names to reveal His own relations and affections towards men.

To guard the sanctities of home is the highest duty of the State. To re-consecrate those natural sanctities by the blessing of holy prayer and solemn rite, and throw over the home the shield of God's Law in its power, is the plain duty of the Church. But the home so shielded must be a Christian home. It must hold living communion with the high-walled Home of our Father's House above. We solemnly charge our Brethren to look well to this. We fear, above all, the decay of family piety. The hurry of our modern life, the eager demands of an increasing business and the lust of an increasing gain, the competition and the struggle, the thousand distractions, as they are made excuses for neglect of public worship in the Church, so they have been held to justify the overthrow of the family altar, the abandonment of Household Prayer, even the graceful as well as gracious, blessing of the family bread—"the heritage of old and fair religion." Dear Brethren, it is idle to look for a living Church where families enter on the day without a prayer, sit down to meat unblessed by any lifted thought of thanks, and retire to a rest which has no remembrance of God, and asks no care from the sleepless eye and the Overshadowing Hand. It is homes of another sort which, in the long story of our people's life, have trained and sent forth the men who have helped and saved their brethren in their need.

Eighth.—The Church prays for men at her altars, in her pulpits, in her house-to-house and man-to-man mission, searching for souls. She prays for laborers in the white harvest. She has societies and institutions to help young men to prepare for this ministry. While these societies and institutions are necessary and are doing good service, we do not lose sight of the central fact that for a supply of ministers of the highest attainment and most consecrated character, the Church must look to the firesides of her own families. She must ask fathers and mothers to consecrate their sons with the first consecration of a father's prayers and the chrism of a Mother's tears and blessing. She must ask for the best. Not the maimed, the halt, the blind, the refuse. God, long ago, warned her against that fraud. She asks the sons who are the choicest, the boy who is the apple of the eye. From Christian homes of wealth and abundance, as well as from the lowlier Christian homes of honorable toil and frugal care, she asks your own, and she asks your best. She asks urgently but not hopelessly. The Church has had a gracious answer to her petition in the Litany, "That it may please the Lord of the harvest to send forth laborers into His harvest." Never before have we had so large a number of candidates for orders. But the measure of the past and of the present must not be the measure of the future. The harvest is still plenteous and the laborers are still few. We lovingly, but most earnestly, charge the Clergy to look to this, and to make it a most serious part of their ministry to seek for Timothys among their flocks. In the same spirit we charge the fathers and mothers among you to seek for and set apart your most gracious and most lofty-minded sons for the highest service to God and their brethren, which is the service of the pulpit and of the altar.

And here we may also appeal to them to look if there be not among their daughters some who are called of God to consecrate their lives to the service of Christ in ministering to the helpless and the ignorant. The work which women may do in the service of our dear Lord has been already shown in the work which the women of our Church have done, and are now doing, in many ways for the furtherance of the Gospel. For all of these, and most especially for the great work done by the Woman's Auxiliary Society to the Board of Missions, we devoutly thank God; but our thanks are only the more hearty and full of hope when we reflect that out of such works, and by means of them and because of them, God is raising up among us an order of holy women, deaconesses of the primitive and apostolic pattern, whose whole lives are devoted to our Master's works of mercy and instruction. We devoutly trust that that order may increase, and that the number of our deaconesses, trained and consecrated for their sacred ministry, may be greatly enlarged.

But for all this, and more which is blessed and blessing, we must look to the increase of homes of prayer, households with family altars, where the flame burns steadily and the incense ascends at eve and morn continually; where the child learns to say "Our Father" at the mother's knee, and the growing boy stands by his father's side and declares, in the household devotion, his own and his father's faith—"I believe in God the Father Almighty, maker of Heaven and earth, and in one Lord Jesus Christ, very God of very God, and in the Holy Ghost, the Lord and Life-giver."

Ninth.—The Convention of 1892 has stamped its abiding mark in many forms upon the future history of the Church; and not least, in that it has been lifted by God's grace, in the holy audacity of its faith, to send forth seven new Missionary Bishops—five of them to newly created Missionary Jurisdictions. We call upon you to give humble and hearty thanks to God for this increasing faith of His people. Let your prayers go with these men. Let your consecrated offerings be abundant for the new work. The field is everywhere white to the harvest. Send the reapers forth with your love, your prayers and your help, and they will—it is God's faithful promise—"they will return with joy, bringing their sheaves with them."

Brethren, we are heirs of a great inheritance. It is not for ourselves. We hold it in trust for other men. Far be it from us in an imperious arrogance, challenging God's condemnation, to say "The temple of the Lord, the temple of the Lord are these." Our responsibilities are awful before men and before God. We are set to save the souls of men. We are set to save the bodies of men. Often the soul cannot be saved unless we first save the body, even the earthly body. Our Lord sent us to save both. It was and is His own business among men until the consummation, and we are his fellow-workers, by His high grace, in the vast undertaking of His mercy. We are not here merely to save our own souls, merely to deliver them from final condemnation. We cannot do that without saving the souls of other men. That was the proclamation of Calvary; and our work here is among men incarnate, with bodies and bodily needs, and pains and homely temptations, and moaning cries to the great Father of us all, out of the pitiful weakness and burdens of the body. The Church of God must be a name for all that is helpful, gracious, merciful and loving toward men. She has the world to redeem. She must redeem it as the Lord Jesus set her the example. She must redeem it by love. She must redeem it by sacrifice. She must redeem it by an infinite mercy. "Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do!" Let her faith be mighty; let her hope be clear and strong; but "greater than these" must be her love, her Agape!

Love for those fallen by the way in the cruel strife of "competition" and the hard "struggle for existence"! Love for the lowly, and help and a strong shield over them against the pitiless working of an iron "economic law"! Love for what men have dared to call the "submerged" masses in our triumphant civilization! Love for the little children whose cry goes up to God from the very centers of our enormous wealth—Christ's lambs drowning in the gutters of our rich cities! Love and help for all who have no helper but the good Father of us all above and His Church and kingdom here below!

It has been long in coming, the clearness of the vision; but, thank God, it has come at last; and we wonder that men saw it not before clearer in the dawning, that the world is to be saved by love, that Christ's Church stands for love, that Christian men are to draw men by "the cords of a man"—love. Even the poor beasts, the birds of the air, the fishes of the river and the sea, we must learn, are under our Lord's hand. He careth for all His holy hands have made. Even a sparrow falleth not without our Father; and the helpless dumb things we make our own for our profit, our pleasure, or our companionship, are under the high law which appeals to us because they, too, are creatures of our Lord, and shielded by His infinite love.

So, Brethren, we are set in our high estate and called to our high and holy calling, to prepare the world which He has redeemed for the coming of its Lord and ours; to watch, and wait, and toil; to do our day's work faithfully, looking in unflinching hope for the hour when the awakening cry shall ring across all earthly nights and days—"Behold, the King cometh!"—and His knock shall shake the gates of mortal life!

And now, Brethren, we commit you to His eternal love! "The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the communion of the Holy Ghost be with you all. Amen."

The House being counted, it was found that thirty-six Bishops were present.

The vote being taken on the motion of the Bishop of Missouri, twenty-five Bishops voted in the affirmative, and the motion was adopted.

On motion, the House proceeded to receive nominations for the Episcopate of Yedo.

The nomination now made was referred to the Standing Committee on Nominations.

The Chair having ruled that any Rule of Order may be suspended under the operation of Rule XXIV., the Bishop of Delaware moved to reconsider the vote suspending Rule XXIII.; which motion was not adopted.

On motion of the Bishop of Missouri, the House proceeded to ballot for a Bishop for Yedo.

The Bishops of Ohio and The Platte having been appointed tellers, the Bishop of Central Pennsylvania read a portion of Holy Scripture, and the prescribed order of devotions was read by the Bishop presiding. The Roll being called, the Bishops deposited their ballots, which having been counted, it was found that there had been no election.

Another ballot being had, it was found that the Bishops had elected Rev. William S. Langford, D.D., as Bishop of the Missionary Jurisdiction of Yedo.

On motion of the Bishop of Missouri, it was ordered that the Secretary communicate this action to the Presiding Bishop.

On motion, the Bishops of Missouri and New York were appointed by the Chair as a Committee to communicate this action to the Rev. Dr. Langford.

The Committee, having performed this duty, reported that the Rev. Dr. Langford felt it his duty not to accept the election.

A communication was received from the Missionary Council, and read by the Secretary, regretting the absence of the Bishops from the meetings of the Council.

The Bishop of Iowa, from the Standing Committee on Rules of Order, presented the following report, viz. :

The Committee on Rules of Order having under consideration the resolution offered by the Bishop of New York touching the order of precedence in the presidency of meetings and bodies assembling at the time of meetings of this House, respectfully report:

That in their judgment no additional rule is needed, as the bodies referred to are not under the direction of this House. It is, however, recommended that in all meetings held conjointly with the sessions of this House and inferentially connected in the popular mind with Episcopal oversight or control, the principle of seniority so generally accepted by this House should be carefully conserved, saving only the due and proper recognition of the rights of the Diocesan.

All which is respectfully submitted.

ALEX. BURGESS.

On motion, the recommendation of the Committee was approved.

On motion of the Bishop of Albany, the vote of yesterday in reference to meeting at the Church of the Ascension was reconsidered.

On motion of the Bishop of Albany, it was voted that the House do now take a recess, to meet again in this place at 2.30 P.M.

The House took a recess.

THURSDAY, October 23, 1890, 2.45 P.M.

The House assembled after recess.

On motion, the House went into council.

The Council having risen, the House resumed its session.

A letter was received from the Presiding Bishop, expressing regret that he had found it inexpedient to undertake the journey to Pittsburgh, which was read by the Secretary. The Bishop presiding was requested to make a suitable response to the letter of the Presiding Bishop, and express the regret of the House at his absence from this session.

The Bishop of New York offered the following resolution, viz.:

Resolved, That unless at this session a Bishop for Yedo be elected, the Presiding Bishop be requested to take such order as may be practicable to secure in the near future the visit to the Missionary Jurisdiction of Yedo of a Bishop of this Church who shall, during the vacancy of the see, so far as may be, set in order the things that remain ;

which was adopted.

On motion of the Bishop of Albany, Rule XXIII. was suspended pending action on the Episcopate of Alaska, by a vote of twenty-four to six.

The Bishop of Missouri moved that the House proceed to the election of a Bishop for the Missionary Jurisdiction of Alaska.

The Bishop of Iowa moved, as an amendment, that the election be postponed to a special meeting of the House to be held in January ; which was not adopted.

The question being on the motion of the Bishop of Missouri, it was adopted.

The House being bidden to prayer, the Bishop of Missouri read a lesson from Holy Scripture, and the Bishop presiding read the usual order of devotions, after which the Roll was called, and the Bishops of Michigan and The Platte having been appointed tellers, the Bishops deposited their ballots, and it was found that there was no election. Another ballot being taken, it was again found that no election had been made.

On motion, the House went into council.

The Council having risen, the House resumed its session.

A Committee from the Missionary Council was introduced by the Secretary, who announced that the Council had completed its business, and was ready to adjourn so soon as might be convenient for the Bishops.

The Bishop of Albany was instructed to communicate to the Council the wish of the Bishops to attend in a body the closing services of the Council.

On motion, the House proceeded in a body to attend the services.

After the services, the House resumed its business.

A third ballot was had for a Bishop for Alaska, when it was found that the Rev. John W. Chapman had received a majority of the votes, whereupon it was declared that he had been elected by this House as Bishop of the Missionary Jurisdiction of Alaska.

On motion of the Bishop of Albany, the Secretary was instructed to communicate this election to the Presiding Bishop, and to request that he would communicate the same to the standing Committees and Bishops of the Church, and to take due order for the consecration.

On motion of the Bishop of Albany, the Secretary was instructed to communicate this election to the Rev. John W. Chapman.

On motion, the Secretary was instructed to inform the Board of Missions of this election.

Certain papers touching the work in the Indian Territory were received from the Secretary of the Board of Managers for Missions, which, on motion, were referred to the Standing Committee on Domestic Missions.

On motion of the Bishop of Missouri, it was voted that the House proceed to receive nominations for the Episcopate of the Missionary Jurisdiction of Yedo.

Nominations having been made, the Bishop of Missouri moved that the House do now proceed, after devotions, to ballot for a Bishop for the Missionary Jurisdiction of Yedo.

The Bishop of Chicago moved, as an amendment, that it is inexpedient at the present time to proceed to such election; which was adopted.

On motion of the Bishop of New York, it was voted that the names proposed at this session for the Episcopate of Yedo be referred to the Standing Committee on the Nomination of Missionary Bishops to report at the next meeting of this House.

On motion of the Bishop of Pennsylvania, it was Resolved, That the thanks of the House of Bishops be extended to the Bishop of Pittsburgh, the authorities of Trinity Parish, the churchmen and churchwomen of Pittsburgh, and the members of the Du Quesne Club, for the many courtesies received from them during the session of the House in this city.

On motion, it was voted that after devotions the House adjourn.

Prayers were said by the Bishop presiding, after which the House adjourned.

the Bishops assembled as above, at 2 P.M.

The Bishop of West Missouri, the Right Rev. Edward B. Atwill, D.D., appearing in the House for the first time since his consecration, was presented to the House by the Bishops of Springfield and Indiana, and welcomed by the Presiding Bishop.

The Roll of the House, duly certified as required by the Standing Orders, was presented by the Presiding Bishop to the House and called by the Secretary, when the following Bishops were found to be present at the session, viz.: the Bishops of Connecticut, Rhode Island, Western New York, Maine, Missouri, Virginia, Long Island, Albany, Central New York, Pennsylvania, Arkansas, New Hampshire, Central Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Colorado, Northern California, Northern Texas, New Jersey, Iowa, Quincy, West Virginia, Springfield, Newark, Pittsburgh,

The Presiding Bishop announced the death, since the last meeting of the House, of the Right Rev. John Watrous Beckwith, D.D., Bishop of Georgia, on the twenty-third day of November, 1890, after which the House united in the commemorative service prescribed in the Rules of Order.

The House being bidden to prayer, a portion of Scripture was read by the Bishop of West Missouri, and the Presiding Bishop offered prayer.

The Minutes of the second day's proceedings of the Special Meeting of the House at Pittsburgh in October last were read and approved.

On motion, the House went into council.

The Council having risen, the House resumed its session.

On motion of the Bishop of Missouri, it was voted that the House proceed to receive nominations for the Episcopate of Yedo, to be referred to the Standing Committee on Nominations with instructions to report to-morrow.

On motion of the Bishop of Rhode Island, it was voted that the celebration of the Holy Communion be held at 9.30 A.M. to-morrow, in the chantry of Grace Church.

Nominations were then received for the Episcopate of the Missionary Jurisdiction of Yedo.

The Bishop of Maryland, for the Standing Committee on Domestic Missions, presented the following report, viz.:

The Standing Committee on Domestic Missions, to whom were referred certain papers relating to Church work in the Indian Territory, including an appeal for more effective help, beg leave to report as follows: It is very plain that the great changes which have recently taken place by the opening of Oklahoma have materially affected the duties and prospects of the Church in that region. The rapid increase of population, with prospect of still greater increase, calls for better provision than the Church has yet made. We therefore recommend that the bounds of the present Missionary Jurisdiction of Arkansas and the Indian Territory be so changed that said Jurisdiction shall include Arkansas alone; and that a new Missionary Jurisdiction be created, to include the Indian Territory.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

B. WISTAR MORRIS, Bishop of Oregon.
WILLIAM PARET, Bishop of Maryland.

On motion of the Bishop of Western New York, it was voted that this report be made the Order of the Day immediately after action in the election of a Bishop for Yedo.

On motion of the Bishop of Western New York, it was voted that the House do now adjourn, to meet at 9.30 A.M. to-morrow in the chantry of Grace Church for the celebration of the Holy Communion, and in this place immediately afterwards to act upon the nominations received for the Episcopate of Yedo.

The House adjourned accordingly.

SECOND DAY'S SESSION.

WEDNESDAY, February 4, 1891.

The House assembled at Grace Church chantry at 9.30 A.M. The Holy Communion was celebrated by the Presiding Bishop, assisted by the Bishops of Missouri and South Dakota, after which the House assembled at the Diocesan Library, the Presiding Bishop in the chair.

The House being bidden to prayer, the Bishop of Michigan read a portion of Scripture, and the Presiding Bishop offered prayer. The Roll was called; present as yesterday, with the exception of the Bishops of Pittsburgh and Albany.

The Minutes were read and approved.

The business before the House, to wit, action on the nominations made yesterday, having been, on motion, suspended for the purpose, and the House having gone into council, and after a session of council resumed its session as a House, the Bishop of Central New York offered the following resolution, viz. :

Resolved, That the Bishop of South Dakota be requested, on behalf of this House, and as its representative, to proceed to Japan, for the purpose, so far as may be practicable, of administering the affairs of that Jurisdiction for six months or a year at his option, unless a Bishop shall earlier be elected and consecrated ; which was adopted unanimously.

On motion, it was voted that the Bishop of Western New York be a Committee to communicate this action to the Bishop of South Dakota.

On motion of the Bishop of New York, the Presiding Bishop and the Bishops of Rhode Island and Long Island were appointed a Committee to prepare a statement, to be submitted to this House for approval, informing the Church of the action of the House in reference to the Missionary Jurisdiction of Yedo.

On motion, the Bishop of New Jersey was added to this Committee.

The Bishop of Missouri presented the report of the Standing Committee on Nominations.

On motion, the House took a recess of one hour.

The House assembled after recess.

Question having arisen as to the particular instructions to be given to the Bishop of South Dakota in connection with his visit to the Missionary Jurisdiction of Yedo, the matter was, on motion of the Bishop of Western New York, referred with power to the Committee already appointed to prepare a statement to the Church.

The House then proceeded, after the usual devotions, to elect a presbyter to be the Bishop of the Missionary Jurisdiction of Yedo, when, the Bishops of Michigan and West Missouri having been appointed to act as tellers, the Bishops cast their ballots, and the Rev. Henry Christian Swentzel, of the Diocese of Central Pennsylvania, was found to have received a majority of votes, and was declared to have been elected.

On motion of the Bishop of Rhode Island, the election was made unanimous.

On motion, the Chair appointed a Committee, consisting of the Bishops of Central Pennsylvania, Missouri, and Delaware, to notify the Bishop-elect of his election.

On motion of the Bishop of Missouri, the Secretary was instructed to notify the Board of Managers for Missions of this action of the House.

On motion of the Bishop of Missouri, the Presiding Bishop was requested to communicate this election to the Bishops and Standing Committees for their approval, and in case of their consent being received, to take order for the consecration of the Bishop-elect.

The Order of the Day being called, which was the report of the Standing Committee on Domestic Missions, the Bishop of Iowa offered the following resolution, viz. :

Resolved, That the limits of the present Missionary Jurisdiction of Arkansas and the Indian Territory be changed by the withdrawal of the Indian Territory and Oklahoma from the same, and that the said Territories so withdrawn be and are hereby erected into a separate Missionary Jurisdiction; which was adopted.

The Bishop of New Jersey, for the Special Committee appointed to prepare and submit a draft of a statement to the Church touching the mission of the Bishop of South Dakota to Japan, submitted the following, viz. :

The House of Bishops at a special meeting held in the city of New York on the third day of February, 1891, passed the following resolution, viz. :

Resolved, That the Bishops of South Dakota be requested, on behalf of this House, and as its representative, to proceed to Japan, for the purpose, so far as may be practicable, of administering the affairs of that Jurisdiction for six months or a year at his option, unless a Bishop shall earlier be elected and consecrated.

This action was unanimous. In taking it the Bishops desire to make known to the Church that they were reluctant to call the Bishop of South Dakota from his special field of labour, even for a time, in view of the peculiar trials through which it has been passing of late, and the promise which it gives of yielding to earnest effort in the future even a larger measure of success than in the past. And they desire especially to call the attention of the Church to the fact that the pecuniary obligations which the Bishop constantly bears will press with peculiar weight upon him by reason of his absence.

They therefore earnestly call upon the friends of the missionary work of the Church to relieve him of anxiety in this regard, and generously to sustain the work during his absence.

The House of Bishops think it due to the Church at large, and especially to the mission in Japan, to state that their present action is taken after the fullest consideration, and for what they deem the best interests of the mission in Japan, at the present crisis in its history, and that they were moved to the choice of the Bishop of South Dakota in view of his special fitness for the delicate and important mission on which he goes at their bidding on account of his long and intimate relations to the foreign work of the Church.

On motion, the foregoing statement was approved and adopted by the House.

The Assistant Bishop of Central Pennsylvania offered the following resolution, to wit :

Resolved, That the 8th Standing Order be amended to read as follows, viz.:

8. On the occurrence of any vacancy in a Missionary Jurisdiction the Presiding Bishop shall notify all the Bishops of the fact, with the request that they will individually forward to the Standing Committee on the Nomination of Missionary Bishops the names of any clergymen whom they may think suitable to be placed in nomination to fill the vacancy, and that the said Standing Committee, at the next meeting of the House, shall receive such further nominations as shall then be made, and report any information touching any one who has been nominated for election as Missionary Bishop, and especially any information concerning the intellectual, moral, and physical qualifications of the person nominated, with dates of birth and graduation, and specific statements as to theological attainments, proficiency in languages ancient and modern, and as to any specialty in sacred studies to which he may have devoted himself, accompanied with their deliberate recommendation thereupon, and such information as they may be able to obtain as to the probability of the acceptance of such nomination or election; which, on motion, was referred to the Standing Committee on Rules of Order.

The Bishop of Springfield offered the following resolution, viz.:

Resolved, That it be referred to the Standing Committee on Rules of Order to consider and report whether it be not desirable that in sending out notices of meetings of the House of Bishops for the election of Missionary Bishops, it be stated that, according to the Rules of Order, the session may last for three days;

which was adopted.

On motion of the Bishop of Quincy, it was voted that after the reading of the Minutes, and the usual devotions, the House adjourn sine die.

The Minutes were read, and, on motion, approved.

After devotions and the Benediction by the Presiding Bishop, the House adjourned sine die.

JOHN WILLIAMS,

Presiding Bishop.

APPENDIX I. — 1.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON THE STATE OF THE CHURCH.

IN accordance with the requirements of Title I., Canon 17, Section 3, the Committee on the State of the Church respectfully present the following Report to the House of Deputies, regretting that its presentation has been delayed, as in previous years, by the failure of many of the Dioceses to forward their reports to the Secretary of the House of Deputies "on or before the first Monday of the Session," as required by Canon.

Since the Convention of 1889 six Bishops of the Church have been taken to their rest in Paradise; namely:—

The Right Rev. John Watrus Beckwith, D.D., Bishop of Georgia, died Nov. 23, 1890.

The Right Rev. Benjamin Henry Paddock, D.D., Bishop of Massachusetts, died March 9, 1891.

The Right Rev. Cyrus Frederic Knight, D.D., D.C.L., Bishop of Milwaukee, died June 8, 1891.

The Right Rev. William Jones Boone, D.D., Missionary Bishop of Shanghai, died Oct. 5, 1891.

The Right Rev. John Nicolas Galleher, D.D., Bishop of Louisiana, died Dec. 7, 1891.

The Right Rev. Gregory Thurston Bedell, D.D., Bishop of Ohio [retired], died March 11, 1892.

The following ten Bishops have been consecrated; namely:—

The Right Rev. Anson Rogers Graves, D.D., LL.D., Missionary Bishop of The Platte.

The Right Rev. William Ford Nichols, D.D., Assistant Bishop of California.

The Right Rev. Phillips Brooks, D.D., Bishop of Massachusetts.
 The Right Rev. Isaac Lea Nicholson, D.D., Bishop of Milwaukee.
 The Right Rev. Cleland Kinlock Nelson, D.D., Bishop of Georgia.
 The Right Rev. Charles R. Hale, D.D., Assistant Bishop of Springfield.
 The Right Rev. George H. Kinsolving, D.D., Assistant Bishop of Texas.

The Triennial Reports have been received from all the Dioceses and Missionary Jurisdictions, and are appended to this Report in a tabulated form.

The statistics furnished are as follows:—

Your Committee note with great pleasure that while the number of ordinations to the Diaconate and Priesthood for the triennium ending in 1889 was 711, it has been 912 during the triennium just passed, — an increase of over 28 per cent. And this gratifying increase is likely to continue, for the number of candidates for Holy Orders is now 582 against 431 three years since, or over 35 per cent.

The number of Lay Readers has increased from 1,374 to 1,806, or over 31 per cent.

The number of Church Edifices has increased from 3,963 to 4,581, an increase of 618. In other words, not taking into consideration the number burned or otherwise lost, there has been a church completed every two days. This result is doubtless largely due to the kindly aid of the Church Building Fund.

The proportion of Free Churches to those otherwise supported has increased from 46 per cent to 49 per cent.

There has been no marked increase, your Committee regret to say, in the number of Rectories — from 1,458 to 1,521. There is but one Rectory to three Church Edifices.

On the other hand there has been a notable increase in the number of Church Institutions: — Church Hospitals from 57 to 78; Orphan Asylums from 40 to 49; and the entire number of institutions from 362 to 419.

There have been 12,179 more baptisms during the last three years than in the three years preceding, and 12,741 more confirmations. We are compelled to note, however, that while 125,738 persons have been confirmed, only 92,426 are reported as added to the number of Communicants.

The number of Communicants has increased from 488,785 to 549,250, or 60,465 more than three years ago. The number of baptized members of the Church may, therefore, be estimated at 2,746,250.

The extra diocesan contributions have been $765,942.17 more for the last three years than during the three years ending in 1889; those for diocesan purposes have been $38,470.34 less; and those for parochial purposes $6,418,963.86 greater.

The contributions for all purposes are over 21 per cent greater in the triennium under review than in that next preceding.

These formal statistics are, it is to be remembered, the representation of the individual, personal interest of thousands of souls in the advancement of the Church. They speak to us of prayer and self-consecration and effort, and it becomes us to rejoice as we realize how many of God's people have thus testified their deep solicitude for the spread of the Gospel. We render our humble thanks to God for all that he has enabled us to do. May His gracious blessing on our efforts prompt the daily prayer that He would "stir up" more and more "the wills of his faithful people," that they may "bring forth plenteously the fruit of good works" to His honor and glory.

The interest in Woman's work in the Church, manifest in many parts of Christendom, and expressing itself in the foundation of houses for the training of Deaconesses, and in the establishment of Sisterhoods, is one of the most pleasing features of our present ecclesiastical and religious life. We have long felt the need of trained workers in Sunday-Schools, in educational and charitable institutions and in mission fields, who should be amenable to authority, and to whom should be given office and power, in accordance with scriptural and primitive custom, to labor for the advancement of Christ's kingdom. We rejoice to know that something has at last been done towards supplying this want and accomplishing this ideal.

The New York Training School for Deaconesses, and the Church Training and Deaconess House in Philadelphia, whose reports have been sent to us, are busily engaged in preparing candidates for the female Diaonate, lately, and we think wisely, restored to prominence in the economy of the Church, while the New York School has just set apart by solemn service, held by the Bishop of the Diocese, three devout women who have been trained and educated for their work.

Similar institutions are likely soon to be formed elsewhere. The Church in some of her Diocesan Conventions has considered the advisability of appointing a Deaconess or "Missionary at large," to visit missions that have no settled Clergyman, to prepare the way for further work, and to assist the general diocesan missionary agencies. Your Committee are not prepared to express an opinion as to the wisdom of this plan, even had they been asked to do so, but they commend most earnestly to the prayers and alms of our people the general work so auspiciously begun, and giving such rich promise for the accomplishment of great good.

Your Committee have had their attention called to various utterances in different quarters, manifesting great indistinctness of grasp on the part of those who utter them, of some of the fundamental articles of the Christian Faith.

They believe that there has never been a time when the Church should be more carefully guarded against such utterances than the present. Sound theology, as the Church has received it, is, it should never be forgotten, an exact science, nay, the mother of all sciences, and a science in which all who are admitted to Priest's Orders should be thoroughly instructed. Your Committee would, therefore, respectfully suggest to the Right Reverend the Bishops of the Church that mention of the importance of the subject should be made in the Pastoral Letter.

Your Committee have been asked, also, to beg the Reverend Clergy, as they are very glad to do, to consider their obligation to pay due regard to the law and order of the Church in the use of the Prayer Book. We are living in an age of lawlessness; and, in full sympathy with the request that has been made to them, your Committee would respectfully express the hope that, as we enter upon larger work, under the varied provisions for the worship of Almighty God which are furnished by the revised Prayer Book, every Clergyman will recognize it as alike his duty and his privilege to yield his own will to the will of the Church; and, as one who is "under law," to minister in all the services of the Church strictly according to her due and prescribed order.

Your Committee have been further requested to note, and to ask our Right Reverend Fathers to consider, —

First, the neglect on the part of many of our people of the due observance of the Lord's Day as required by Title I., Canon 21; secondly, the neglect of the Prayer for Congress, which is appointed by the Church to be said "during their session;" and thirdly, the growing abuse of the administration of Holy Baptism in private houses, when not necessitated by circumstances recognized in the Prayer Book.

Three years ago your Committee were requested to emphasize the fact that "many of our people are strangely forgetful of the Church's provision for the due observance of all Fridays in the year, of the Ember Days, and of the Saint's Days." The same request has been made of them this year, with reference to Friday. The Committee can only repeat what they said in 1889, that "we shall find ourselves helped and strengthened in the Christian life if we follow with a glad mind and will the order of the Church."

It is felt by many that the Clergy should be reminded of the provision in the Prayer Book that children are to be brought to Confirmation, and that, while doubtless the Clergy generally are diligent and faithful in preparing their candidates, whether children or adults, there are those who fail to devote to this preparation the time and painstaking labor that its solemn importance demands.

In this connection the Committee are greatly grieved to say that they have learned on the best authority that there are many of the Clergy who neglect to train their children and youth in the Church Catechism, and to give them the benefit of a Pastor's regular, personal catechizing. If this be so, there is need surely for an earnest plea that the Church's system as regards the training of the young may be faithfully and diligently carried out. The Sunday-School has its use, but it may well be feared, nay, it must be feared, that to-day it is undertaking to do what the Clergyman ought to do, and is in many ways harmful when it aims to be helpful. Here and there we find a model Sunday-School, with trained and cultivated teachers, but in a large majority of cases it is the testimony of our Clergy that the Sunday-School is not what it ought to be; that teachers are put in charge of classes when they are entirely unfitted for their work; that they are irregular in attendance; that they have, many of them, no deep sense of their peculiar responsibility, and no ability to discharge it if they have. It does seem "passing strange" that while parents are careful to provide for their children the best possible instruction in secular knowledge, and to know beforehand who and what the teachers are whom they intrust with the education of their boys and girls, they do not hesitate to give the most important of all training and education of those who are so dear to them into the hands of they know not whom, — of some good young person, it may be, who has just been confirmed, and, because she longs to be useful, has been asked to "take a class." And it is, if anything, still more strange that in our Mission Schools and in those Parish Sunday Schools whose scholars are of the poorer class, where the parents have neither the ability nor the disposition to inquire as to the fitness of the teacher to whom the spiritual instruction of their children is committed, so little attention is paid to the importance of securing teachers who are competent rightly to discharge their solemn and responsible duty. It is time that we should realize that Confirmation and a desire to be useful do not of necessity fit anybody to "take a class."

But we need not discuss at greater length the Sunday-School question.

What concerns us all is that the Church knows nothing of Sunday-Schools, and has nothing to say about them, but that she does have a great deal to say as to the systematic, regular, faithful training and education of her baptized children.

Would to God that we might listen to her voice! Would to God that we might resolve diligently and faithfully to discharge our duty as she has defined it!

The Rector is the shepherd of the flock. The lambs are intrusted to his care, as well as the sheep. He cannot delegate his duty to another. He cannot share his privilege with another. No Sunday-School teacher, however efficient, can relieve him of his burden. No Sunday-School teacher, however successful, can be partaker of his joy. It is he, and he alone, who, following his Master, is to be the shepherd of the flock. It is he, and he alone, who is to take the lambs in his arms and carry them in his bosom.

The Church is a training-school. The duly commissioned teacher is the Rector. The lessons to be taught are "all things which a Christian ought to know and believe to his soul's health." The text-book is the Catechism.

It has been well said by one of our most respected Bishops: "We are commissioned to teach, not our own peculiar views of the things to be believed and the things to be done, but what the Church teaches. This body of truth is presented to us in the Creed, the Lord's Prayer and the Ten Commandments, and in the striking summaries and paraphrases of them which our short Catechism contains. They contain truth so compact and terse in statement, that, as the intelligent teacher, familiar with the Scriptures, dwells on them, texts and incidents, — impressive, pathetic, tender, — from the historical books, the Prophets, the Psalms, the Gospels and the Epistles, rise up in the memory and leap forward ready to expand, illustrate, and enforce them. I fear these treasures are not adequately appreciated. Religious emotions are of high value, but they rise and fall. They are not perennial. Religious opinions rise up and flourish in each age, in individuals and little coteries, and are like the passing, highly colored cloud. They attract attention and pass away. But the great truths taught in the formulas just referred to are not dependent upon emotion. They are not matters of opinion. They are seed-truth. They are capable of perpetual germination. Once lodged in the mind, they 'spring and grow up and bring forth fruit, we know not how' (St. Mark iv. 27), even though they be long inactive and apparently dead, and from their renewed life, holy emotions and pious opinions and right living result almost as a matter of course."

The varied demands upon a Clergyman's time and strength are infinitely greater to-day than they ever were before and are constantly increasing. The Committee believe that these demands, arising largely from the development of Lay work and Parochial organization, are capable of proving a serious detriment to the Clergyman's spiritual life and to his effectiveness as a minister of the Word. They deem it, therefore, not unfitting to remind their brethren of what they themselves feel most deeply, that elaborate parochial organization and the multiplication of parochial societies and guilds are liable to withdraw the Clergy from their studies and from the discharge of those pastoral ministrations to their people individually, which are so essential to their Christian training. Sad will it be for that Parish in which management is valued above study, organization above theology, and direction of societies above the preaching of the Word and the work of the Pastor.

In their Report three years ago your Committee said: "The inadequate provision for the maintenance of the Clergy and the absence of any general pension fund for their support when their powers begin to fail them, are to-day, as they always have been, sad reminders to us of the much that, as a Church, we have left undone that we ought to have done." But alas! the statement is just as true now as it was in 1839. There are, indeed, as there were then, various societies able to give to the needy some slight relief, but there is an urgent call for some comprehensive plan, some well-directed effort to provide — as this great Church is so well able to provide — for those who from year to year are placed on the retired list of the Church army, or who from illness are incapacitated for work. The subject is one which ought to arouse the enthusiasm of our people, and we should resolve, God helping us, so promptly and wisely to plan, and so diligently to labor, that as a Church, we shall have in this regard no further cause for shame or reproach. Let us not forget the words that we so often read and hear: "Blessed be the man that provideth for the sick and needy; the Lord shall deliver him in the time of trouble."

The attention of your committee has been called to the reports of the Rev. Thomas Drumm, Port Chaplain of New York, under the General Board of Missions, who states that in commending emigrants of our communion to the care of the reverend Clergy, he has been unable in hundreds of cases to secure any response to his commendations.

Your Committee are of the opinion that the complete Clergy list of our Church should be in the hand of the emigrant chaplain in Liverpool, and that special correspondents should be appointed in all important church centres.

We ought, it need scarcely be said, to make every effort to provide for the Church of England emigrants. They come to this country ignorant, most of them, of the close relation between our Church and theirs. They are amazed to find here no established Church; and the words "Protestant Episcopal" they either do not understand at all, or confound with "Methodist Episcopal."

The consequence is that a large proportion of those who come here are either drawn off into other Communion or become careless and indifferent, because there is no one to care for them, as the Church did "at home."

Since the last General Convention an event has occurred in a peculiar and unique branch of the Mission work of the Church which seems to your Committee to call for some special notice.

In October, 1852, the Rev. Dr. Thomas Gallaudet founded "St. Ann's Church for Deaf Mutes" in the city of New York, the first church for this afflicted class of our people ever established in Christendom. In 1872 he established "The Church Mission to Deaf Mutes," which has pioneered church work among deaf mutes in different parts of the country, so that to-day services are held in more than forty places, and there are at least twelve hundred deaf mute communicants in the United States, and eleven clergymen of the Church who can minister in the sign language.

Forty years have passed since Dr. Gallaudet laid the foundations of the work which God has so wonderfully blessed, and he has just been retired from the rectorship of St. Ann's at his own request, having had conferred upon him the title of Rector-Emeritus. The rest of his life he intends to devote to the general supervision throughout the country of the Church's work among deaf mutes.

His work has been so peculiar, of such inestimable value to the children of silence whom he so dearly loves, that it seems to your Committee that this Church should make some public recognition of his labors in a field not particularly attractive, and which is only made so by love for the Master, who did "all things well," even making "the deaf to hear and the dumb to speak," — for Dr. Gallaudet has done what but for him, would not, so far as we can judge, have been done at all.

The Committee cannot close their Report without repeating the commendation of the Church Temperance Society and the White Cross Society which they gave in their report of 1889.

"The Church Temperance Society and the White Cross Society have had their part in the general advance of Church work and life during the three years past. Having a common aim, the bringing the power of the gospel to bear upon two of the greatest vices which are the curse of the world, they are working together in faith and prayer, under the evident blessing of Almighty God, and with constantly increased efficiency."

And working together with them in a general work of marvellous power is the Brotherhood of Saint Andrew. It seems but yesterday since the General Convention had the privilege of joining in the celebration of its first anniversary at Chicago in the year 1886. To-day it has spread throughout our whole country, and found its way also into our mission fields. Its recent Convention in Boston has been a joy and an encouragement to all our people, and the General Convention, as the representatives of the Church, cannot fail to render it their grateful thanks, and to wish for it in the future the abundance of God's blessing, as it has so largely had it in the past.

Its work is for young men, — the bone and sinew of the Church, — and its work is for the Church at large, through the power of consecrated Christian manhood. The "Rule of Prayer" and "the Rule of Service," how they lie at the foundation of all our work for God! May God give to all these young men grace faithfully to observe these rules, and grant "that they may both perceive and know what things they ought to do, and also may have grace and power faithfully to fulfil the same; through our Lord Jesus Christ."

In conclusion, your Committee would express the hope that in future the Diocesan Statistics may be so promptly reported that the Report of the "State of the Church" may be sent to the House of Bishops at an early period. It is now impossible for it to be given to that House in time for it to be considered in the Pastoral Letter; and your Committee beg that they may not be regarded as responsible for the delay.

They recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That a copy of the Report here presented be transmitted to our Reverend Fathers in God, the House of Bishops, with the request that they issue a Pastoral Letter, and asking their united prayers and Episcopal Benediction.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

GEORGE S. CONVERSE, Chairman.

APPENDIX II.—1.

TRIENNIAL REPORT OF THE BOARD OF MANAGERS TO THE BOARD OF MISSIONS.

APPENDIX II.—1.

THE TRIENNIAL REPORT OF THE BOARD OF MANAGERS TO THE BOARD OF MISSIONS OF THE DOMESTIC AND FOR- EIGN MISSIONARY SOCIETY OF THE PROTESTANT EPIS- COPAL CHURCH IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, WITH ACCOMPANYING DOCUMENTS.

THE Constitution of the Society requires that "the Board of Managers shall make a full and complete Triennial Report to the General Convention constituted as the Board of Missions on or before the third day of the General Convention, and a similar report to the Missionary Council at its annual meetings." It is further provided that this report shall comprise "such an outline of the missionary work prosecuted . . . as may serve to give a comprehensive view of the progress, prospects, and present condition of the work of the Society in the several parts of the Domestic and Foreign fields." This language may contemplate that the report to the Board of Missions shall only cover the preceding year, but this report, taken with the two before it, will cover the triennium. It is thought well, nevertheless, while confining the following paragraphs principally to the last year, in some instances to succinctly cover the whole term since the last meeting of the Board of Missions.

The Board of Managers, therefore, respectfully submits to the Board of Missions its Triennial Report, accompanied by the following documents:

I. The volume of Reports published after the Missionary Council held in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, on October 21, 22, and 23, 1890, containing also the proceedings of such Council.

II. The corresponding volume for the fiscal year 1890-91, published after the Missionary Council held in Detroit, Michigan, October 20, 21, and 22.

III. The following Reports (in pamphlet form) relating to the fiscal year 1891-92: The Report of the Treasurer, The Annual Reports on Domestic Missions and on Foreign Missions, to which are appended the Reports of the Missionary Bishops and the Bishop of the Church in Haiti.

The foregoing, together with the present report, put into the possession of the Board of Missions full information with respect to the missionary work of the Society for the last three years.

CHANGES IN MEMBERSHIP.

The following changes have taken place in the personnel of the Board elected at the last General Convention: The Rev. Dr. Davies retired October 18, 1889, by reason of his consecration as Bishop of Michigan; the Rev. Dr. Nichols retired June 24, 1890, by reason of his consecration as Assistant Bishop of California; the Rev. Dr. Cornelius E. Swope died March 28, 1890; Mr. John H. Shoenberger died November 12, 1889; the Rev. Dr. J. Livingstone Reese resigned January 12, 1892, because of a proposed continued absence from the country; General Wager Swayne resigned January 12, 1892, because of a pressure of other duties. The Rev. Chauncey B.

Brewster was elected to membership May 13, 1890; the Rev. Dr. William H. Vibbert was elected October 14, 1890; the Rev. Dr. Henry Anstice was elected February 9, 1892, and Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan was elected March 11, 1890. There is at present one vacancy in the lay membership.

The following ex-officio members have died during the last year: The Right Rev. Dr. William Jones Boone, Missionary Bishop of Shanghai, at Hankow on the 5th of October, 1891, after a brief illness. Bishop Boone's death was noticed in the last annual report, upon telegraphic information which gave no particulars. It was the opinion of those on the ground that the Bishop's death was, indirectly at least, attributable to the strain which came upon him in consequence of the anti-Christian riots on the Yang-tse river during the preceding month. For purposes of defence he had been placed by the consuls at Hankow in charge of affairs of missionaries in that city and at Wuchang. Upon hearing of his death the United States Consul at Hankow remarked: "Another victim of the riots." Obituary resolutions adopted by the Board and by the foreign and native clergy of China have appeared in The Spirit of Missions. The Right Rev. Dr. John Nicholas Galleher, Bishop of Louisiana, died in New Orleans, December 7. The Board formally expressed its sympathy to the Diocese and family and friends of the late Bishop. The Right Rev. Dr. Gregory Thurston Bedell died in New York March 11. It is not too much to say that never was there a firmer friend of missions than Bishop Bedell during his whole career. Before his consecration he was an active member of the former Foreign Committee, and always in attendance upon the meetings of the Board of Missions under its old and present form. When a rector, his parish was famous for its regular and large contributions. As Bishop he always impressed the duty of such contributions upon his Diocese, and set a notable example by his own liberal personal offerings of his money, as well as by his personal service in the interests of the Board.

The following ex-officio members have been added during the year: The Right Rev. Dr. Phillips Brooks, Bishop of Massachusetts, who was consecrated October 14, 1891; the Right Rev. Dr. Isaac Lea Nicholson, Bishop of Milwaukee, who was consecrated October 28, 1891; the Right Rev. Dr. Cleland Kinloch Nelson, Bishop of Georgia, who was consecrated February 24, 1892; and the Right Rev. Dr. Charles Reuben Hale, Assistant Bishop of Springfield, who was consecrated July 26, 1892.

CHURCH MISSIONS HOUSE.

At the time of the last General Convention it was proposed to erect a Church Missions House, and the proposal met with the hearty approbation of the Board of Missions. Obstacles were encountered which up to a recent date have providentially delayed the progress of the work. Providentially, it is manifest, inasmuch as during the past year by the munificent gift by an unnamed gentleman of the premises on the southeast corner of Fourth Avenue and Twenty-second Street, the site has been enlarged materially and new plans prepared for a building to cover the whole ground. At the same time a single pledge was made anonymously of $50,000 toward covering the additional cost. Upon these gifts being reported to the Board of Managers, by resolution it expressed its gratitude to the unnamed donors, both of whom contributed so largely to the importance of the Missions House and the extension of its work and influence as a centre of Church activity. At the time of preparing this report arrangements are in progress for the laying of the foundation stone of the new building by the Presiding Bishop on the third day of October.

MISSIONARY JURISDICTIONS.

Among the present Missionary Jurisdictions there are vacancies in the Episcopate in Alaska, Oklahoma and Indian Territory, China and Japan. In the interest of the work it is earnestly to be hoped that all of these vacancies will be filled at the present session of the General Convention. In the Alaska Mission the Board has taken over the station at Nuklakayet, formerly belonging to the English Church, but found to be located upon American soil. The Rev. Jules L. Prevost has been established there in charge during the present year, and the matter of the proper remuneration of the authorities of the English Church for the value of the buildings is under consideration.

COMMISSION ON WORK AMONG COLORED PEOPLE.

The proceedings of the Commission on Work among the Colored People have been submitted to the Board of Managers from time to time and published to the Church. By the concurrent action of the Commission and of the Board, the Treasurer of the Society acts as the treasurer of the Commission, accounting to it for all receipts and disbursements. At the stated meeting in May the Board was informed of the sudden death of the Rev. Henry R. Pyne, the General Secretary of the Commission, on the 12th of the preceding month. Since that time Henry E. Pellew, Esq., has been acting as the Secretary. There has been no change in the membership of the Commission since last report.

At the meeting in June, in accordance with the request of the Commission, the Board appropriated for that work for the fiscal year 1892-93, as it had done for the previous year, $40,000, to be taken from general funds; all offerings designated for the colored work to be added to that sum. At the September meeting the Commission informed the Board that it had appropriated to the several Dioceses in the South, to King Hall and for central expenses for the first quarter only of the new year the sum of $14,037.50, being at the annual rate of $56,150. The annual report of the Commission will be presented to the Board of Missions.

PRESBYTER FOR MEXICO.

According to the action of the Board of Missions in Chicago six years ago the Rev. William B. Gordon, upon the nomination of the Presiding Bishop, was appointed for a sixth year upon the terms heretofore reported. Two months later a single pledge to cover his salary and travelling expenses was made by the rector of a New York City parish, it being understood that he guaranteed to the Board whatever might be lacking in contributions for the purpose at the close of the year; whereupon Mr. Gordon's appointment took effect.

THE CHILDREN'S LENTEN OFFERING.

Encouraged by the large aggregate of the previous year of the offerings of the children during Lent, $48,431.41, the Board asked that this year the children of the Church would make an effort to give $100,000 for General Missions. While that amount was not reached, there was an advance of about fifty per cent upon the effort of the previous year. All the Sunday-schools of the Church were communicated with, and returns came from 2,479 of them whose aggregate offerings amounted to the large sum of $74,428. The offerings of the children of the Church for the whole fiscal year were $80,252.35.

APPROPRIATIONS.

The subject of the appropriations has been under the consideration of the Board of Managers during the year. At the December meeting a Committee especially charged with the matter of the ratio of the appropriations in the domestic field reported at length, which report was published in the January number of The Spirit of Missions for 1892, accompanied by an abstract of statements made by the several Bishops, in response to the Committee's request, of the present state and needs of their work, and a table giving statistical information. It was the opinion of the Committee that it was inexpedient to recommend any change in the ratio of appropriations for Domestic Missions while yet they felt constrained, in view of the whole subject, to recommend to the Board the consideration of the question of enlarging its resources so as to meet the manifest and urgent demands of this branch of the work which so vitally concerns the mission of the Church to the people of the United States of America.

At the June meeting appropriations were made for the fiscal year which began September 1st. A small increase was made in the domestic field by adding $500 to the sums granted to each of five Dioceses where the previous allowance had been quite too small. The total appropriation made to the domestic field was $222,795 (including $41,295 for the work among Indians and the pledge of $40,000 for work among the colored people, in addition to all contributions designated for that work). In the Foreign department, with the exception of an addition to the appropriation to the African Mission, the amounts granted for the previous year were renewed, but these were inadequate, as they did not provide for the natural increase of the work, and a number of items asked for from China and Japan could not be covered by the new appropriation. Many of these were very important. It was estimated that not less than $15,000 additional would be required to cover what was lacking. The sum appropriated was $182,622.76.

PUBLICATIONS.

The circulation of The Spirit of Missions at this date is about 500 less than it was three years ago, and the circulation of The Young Christian Soldier has diminished about 2,000 in the same period, but this is not to be accounted for, it appears, by lack of interest on the part of the Church in missions in general, as, meanwhile, the contributions have steadily increased. The present number of copies of The Spirit of Missions issued is 10,046; of The Young Christian Soldier 35,361, of which number 17,418 comprise the monthly and 17,843 the weekly edition.

There is an unceasing call throughout the year for reports and leaflets giving information about the work in general. There have been circulated 24,800 copies of the several annual reports of the Board, and altogether 2,154,650 pages of missionary matter.

RECOGNIZED AUXILIARIES.

The recognized Auxiliaries are: the Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions, the American Church Building Fund Commission, the American Church Missionary Society, and the Church Society for Promoting Christianity amongst the Jews.

Reports from these Auxiliaries will be duly presented to the Board of Missions. Their several relations to the Board have been frequently explained. The first named, the Woman's Auxiliary, is itself the child of the Board, having been put into operation through the Board's action twenty-one years ago. Its work has always been most helpful. The greater part of its contributions is administered through the Board's treasury, and a large proportion of them go toward aiding the Board in carrying on the work for which it is responsible by its appropriations. It very largely provides the salaries for the women workers in the Indian, colored, and foreign work. It aids materially in the charitable and educational work of the Society. It insures the lives of married foreign missionaries. It undertakes or aids in the purchase of real estate and the erection of buildings which, in some instances, could not otherwise be provided for; and, in short, by its ministering love carries comfort and happiness everywhere into the families of the missionaries of the Church.

The summary of the last year's work furnished by Miss Emery, the Secretary, shows that the Woman's Auxiliary is established in all the Dioceses and Missionary Jurisdictions (including Africa, China, and Japan) except Alaska, and Oklahoma and Indian Territory. There has been raised during the year in money $154,323.62, of which sum there was devoted to meeting the Board's appropriations for Domestic Missions (including the Indian and colored work), $17,523.13, and to the Board's appropriations for foreign work, $21,363.24. The "Specials" sent through the Society's treasury aggregate $28,151.78 for Domestic and Foreign Missions; besides $87,286.57 reported by the Auxiliary's many branches as sent by them directly to workers in their own Dioceses and elsewhere. The estimated value of boxes of clothing and materials and other useful articles distributed among the missionaries of the Church at home and abroad is $197,724.21. The material result of the year's work, therefore, as computed in money and the estimated value of goods contributed reaches a grand total of $352,047.93.

RECEIPTS OF THE SOCIETY.

The gross receipts of the Society for the year amounted to $683,574.09, of which sum $175,208.64 were the proceeds of legacies. The aggregate of contributions was $306,765.06, of which $153,904.66 were designated for Domestic Missions, including the work among the Indians and the colored people, and $122,834.40 for Foreign Missions, leaving at the discretion of the Board $84,026, which sum was equally divided between Domestic and Foreign Missions. As compared with the previous year these figures show a gain in contributions as follows: Domestic, $3,795.71; General, $11,243.59; and a loss for Foreign Missions of $8,171.98. Total net increase, $6,867.32.

Of the amount received from legacies $43,061.38 were designated for Domestic Missions and $12,106.84 for Foreign Missions; $54,500 for investment, and the sum of $64,640.42 was by the terms of the wills left at the discretion of the Society. By vote of the Board this has been applied toward making up the deficiency in the receipts for Domestic and Foreign Missions so far as needed, leaving a balance of $14,142.04.

There are on the Board's books the names of 5,232 parishes and missions. Of this whole number 3,007 (297 more than last year and a greater number than in any previous year) have contributed to the funds of this Society during the last fiscal year.

The cost of administering the affairs of the Society, and of making the work known to the Church, was six and five-tenths per cent of the receipts for missions, or five and four-tenths per cent of all the receipts by the Treasurer, including subscriptions for the stated publications and the receipts for miscellaneous purposes.

The Treasurer's Report and List of Legacies received for the fiscal year are hereto appended.

By order and in behalf of the Board of Managers.

APPENDIX II.—2.

TRIENNIAL REPORT OF THE RIGHT REV. WILLIAM CROSWELL DOANE, D.D. (BISHOP OF ALBANY), IN CHARGE OF FOREIGN CONGREGATIONS.

The Bishop in charge of Foreign Congregations begs leave to submit the following report: first, of his own services; secondly, of services very kindly rendered by the Right Reverend the Bishop of New York when he was in Italy, and by the Right Reverend the Lord Bishop of Nova Scotia in passing through Paris.

The number of Clergy actually connected with the jurisdiction is ten:

The Rev. R. J. Nevin, D.D., Rome, Italy.

The Rev. J. B. Morgan, D.D., Paris, France.

The Rev. John Cornell, Nice, France.

The Rev. W. S. Adamson, Geneva, Switzerland.

The Rev. T. F. Caskey, Dresden, Germany.

The Rev. E. F. J. H. Massé, Assistant, Paris, France.

The Rev. W. W. Newell, Deacon, in charge of the Mission of St. Luke, Paris.

The Rev. G. M. Royce.¹

The Rev. W. S. Boardman.¹

The Rev. W. Lloyd Bevan.¹

Also, the Rev. George S. Pine has been officiating under my appointment in Lucerne.

My own official acts consist in the formal visitations of the Parishes themselves.

In St. John's Church, Dresden, on the 20th of February, I preached, celebrated the Holy Communion, and ordered Priest the Rev. W. Lloyd Bevan, the Rev. Mr. Caskey and Mr. Gilderdale assisting in the laying on of hands.

On Sunday, the 22d, in the same Church, I preached and celebrated the Holy Communion in the morning; and in the afternoon I preached and confirmed eight persons. I preached also on that same evening in the beautiful English Church of All Saints in Dresden, which has been sadly bereaved by the death, since then, of the admirable Rector, the Rev. Mr. Gilderdale.

On Sunday, March 1, I preached and celebrated the Holy Communion in St. James' Church, Florence.

On Sunday, March 8, I celebrated the Holy Communion in St. Paul's Church, Rome, the Bishop of Minnesota preaching; and on Sunday, the 15th, in the same Church, I preached, celebrated the Holy Communion, and confirmed seven persons, and on the following morning one additional person.

On Wednesday, the 18th of March, in the Church of the Holy Spirit in Nice, I preached; and on Thursday morning I preached and confirmed ten persons in the same Church.

On Sunday, the 22d, I preached, celebrated the Holy Communion, and confirmed thirteen persons in Emmanuel Church, Geneva, having on the previous day signed the contract with Bishop Herzog and Dr. Weibel by which we have secured, in joint occupation with the Old Catholics in Lucerne, a very admirable Church building, which has since been completed and consecrated.

On Sunday, the 12th, I preached in the Church of the Holy Trinity, Paris, celebrated the Holy Communion, and confirmed twenty-seven persons; and at night, in Mr. Newell's house, I made an address to the art students whom he gathered on every Sunday there for religious worship and instruction.

On Sunday, the 19th of April, I preached both morning and evening in the Church of the Holy Trinity, in Paris.

The services kindly rendered by the other Bishops for me have consisted in the ordination by the Bishop of New York of the Rev. Mr. Newell to the Diaconate in the Church of the Holy Trinity, in Paris; confirmation in the same Church by the Bishop of Nova Scotia, on the 20th of March, 1892, of five persons; and also the confirmation by the Bishop of New York in St. Paul's Church, Rome, of three persons; in the Church of the Holy Spirit, Nice, of eight persons; and in the Church of the Holy Trinity, Paris, of twelve persons.

I beg to submit also several reports of the Clergy in charge of the foreign Churches.

I present with this report copies of the constitution and statutes of the foreign Churches, of St. Paul's Church, Rome, Emmanuel Church, Geneva, and the Church of the Holy Spirit, Nice, as far as I have been able to obtain them, which are required by the Canon to be deposited with the Registrar; and also the report of the last meeting of the Convocation of the foreign jurisdiction in 1892, which I present not for printing but for filing.

It is matter of gratification to notice that in Dresden an effort that is already very largely successful is making to build a Rectory, and that in Rome the money is almost secured which is necessary for the completion of the Rectory already erected and in partial use.

I cannot close this report without expressing the very great pleasure which came to me in the ability to conclude the arrangement for the building and joint occupation with the Old Catholics of Switzerland, of the beautiful Christ Church in Lucerne, which, since my coming away, has been consecrated, and was occupied during the summer by our American people there under the most successful and satisfactory ministrations of the Rev. George S. Pine, who was acting under my appointment as the summer chaplain.

MUNICH, July 19, 1892.

I have the honour to submit to the Right Reverend the Bishop in charge of the Foreign American Churches, the following report, which covers the period from the date of my transference to his jurisdiction from the Diocese of New York in January, 1891, to the present date :

In January, 1891, through the kindness of the Rector and Vestry of St. John's Church, Dresden, Saxony, I became assistant minister of that parish. In the following Lent I was advanced to the priesthood by the Right Reverend the Bishop of Albany, during his visitation to Dresden. In August, 1891, my connection with St. John's Church, Dresden, was dissolved. Since the first of last November I have resided in Munich, Bavaria, pursuing a course of study in the University of Munich, preparatory to the Doctor's Degree.

Respectfully,

W. LLOYD BEVAN, M.A. M.D.

APPENDIX II. — 3.

REPORT ON THE MISSION IN JAPAN, BY THE RT. REV. WILLIAM H. HARE, D.D., BISHOP OF SOUTH DAKOTA.

BALTIMORE, October 10, 1892.

To the House of Bishops :

I beg leave to submit some report of my visit to Japan, and of my administration of the Mission there, under commission from the House of Bishops.

I sailed from San Francisco March 8, and reached Tokyo Easter Monday, March 30. I spent the months of April, May, June, and July in active work in the field, and set sail on my return voyage July 29, and reached my own home August 20, 1891. I made a second visit to Japan early in this year, sailing from Vancouver, B.C., January 13, and reached Japan January 27. I remained there until March 2, when I sailed for China.

Complying with the following resolution of the Board of Managers, and a request from the Presiding Bishop :

Resolved, That the Board of Managers respectfully requests the Right Rev. Dr. Hare, after visiting Japan, to extend his visit to China, as the agent of the Board.

I spent several weeks in visiting the missions in China.

I reached Japan on my return voyage March 25, and after holding a convocation in Tokyo, I set sail for San Francisco March 31, the term of my commission from the House of Bishops having expired on the previous day, that day just completing a year from the day I first arrived in Japan and began to administer the mission.

I have reason to believe that the warmth of the language in which I described the attractiveness of Japan and its importance as a missionary field has led some to conceive that I have changed the conviction of my own calling which I expressed when I said at the meeting of the House of Bishops in February, 1891, that I was "wedded" to my present Bishopric.

I feel bound to say that that surmise springs from an entire misconception and that my mind remains unchanged.

I found Bishop Williams much improved in health and able to engage actively in the missionary work on which he has spent his life. I profited much throughout my stay by his large experience and ripe judgment.

Our mission has received aid from the Episcopal offices rendered at the request of the Standing Committee by Bishop Bickersteth, and it was my privilege to meet him the very day of my arrival. We were frequently in each other's company, privately and publicly, and enjoyed the freest and most fraternal councils throughout my sojourn, which were to me most profitable.

I was most cordially received by the brethren of our mission, clerical and lay, native and foreign, and the doors of work, homes, and hearts were thrown wide open to me.

During my stay in Japan I confirmed four hundred and fifteen persons, of whom seventeen were confirmed for Bishop Bickersteth ; licensed between thirty and forty Catechists, and ordained six Deacons as follows :

In Trinity Church, Tsukiji, Tokyo, on Sunday, May 31, 1891 : Hisakichi Yamabe, Yasutaro Naide, Tosnizumi Chikashige, Minagawa Sakichi, Yoshimichi Sugiura ; and in the same Church on Sunday, March 27, 1892, Keichi Momoki.

JURISDICTION, AMERICAN AND ENGLISH.

This question engaged a large measure of my attention, and after much friendly conference, the following memorandum was adopted by Bishop Bickersteth and myself as expressing our judgment in the matter :

MEMORANDUM.

Having regard to the work which lies before the Anglican Communion in Japan, and to the special qualifications of each branch of the Communion for conducting it, we, the undersigned, intrusted by our respective Churches with Episcopal Jurisdiction in Japan, are of opinion that it is better that the Church should be presented to the Japanese in its composite form, as exhibited in its English and American branches, than in the specific form in which it would be represented by either branch alone.

Neither Church will be adequately exhibited unless, as at present, its organization has been completed by the presence of a Bishop. Hence we regard the presence in Japan of a Bishop of each Church as highly desirable.

Further, each of such Bishops can obtain recruits from his own country most readily and supervise them most acceptably and efficiently; and both Bishops can together secure more missionaries than either could obtain alone.

Moreover the different questions which require solution in introducing and developing the Church among an Asiatic people in the state of intense activity of thought and rapidity of action which marks the Japanese, can best be met in the councils of Bishops representing both the English and the American type of social, political, and ecclesiastical life.

We regard the work of such Bishops as provisional. The whole state of thought and feeling among the Japanese forbids the introduction into Japan, as permanent institutions, of branches of either the English or the American Church, and nothing would offend the national feeling and hinder the extension of the Church more than the giving the Japanese just cause for suspecting that we desire or intend to impose upon them a permanent foreign Episcopate.

Every wise principle of propagating the Gospel in Japan demands that our work should be regarded as that of so directing the missions of the American and English Churches that a Japanese independent and self-supporting Church shall be the result. Indeed, these Churches have so far committed themselves to this policy, that a Japanese Church with its own constitution and canons has been in existence for four years. The English and American Bishops are not regarded by the Japanese, and should not be regarded by us as having jurisdiction over Dioceses finally delimited, but rather as forerunners in the Episcopate of Japanese Bishops who will exercise jurisdiction over such permanently defined Dioceses as the expansion of the Japanese Church may in future demand. Hence, as it seems to us, the residence and jurisdiction of the American and English Bishops respectively should, for the present, be determined not by the precedents of Churches long established, but rather by present expediency, convenience of comprehensive survey by both the Bishops, and ready access to each other and to centres of life and population.

Japan is about 1,700 miles in length, and has a population of 40,000,000, but the Government of the whole Empire is highly centralized, and there is practically but one great centre of thought, life, and influence—Tokyo, the capital. Tokyo is moreover three times as large as any other city in Japan, its population being about 1,200,000, and as all of its inhabitants except a very few thousands are outside the pale of Christianity in any form, the city affords full scope for the activity of two Bishops without danger of overlapping. In view of these facts, Tokyo should, in our opinion, be the residence of both the English and the American Bishops.¹

It is highly desirable, however, with a view alike to efficiency of work and simplicity and clearness of administration and discipline, that there should be assigned to each Bishop territorial limits within which he should exercise jurisdiction. We therefore recommend a division of the whole of Japan as follows:

A. — That the city of Tokyo be divided into two districts. The first, over which the American Bishop shall have jurisdiction, to include Hongo ku, Kan-da ku, that part of Kojimachi ku north of the British Legation, Nihombashi ku, that part of Kiyobashi ku east and south of Kyuan Bashi and Kino Kuni Bashi, and all parts of the city east of these portions of Tokyo. The second, over which the English Bishop shall have jurisdiction, to include Koishikawa ku, Ushigome ku, Kojimachi ku (except the part above specified, and assigned to the American Bishop), Kiyobashi ku north of Kyuan Bashi and Kino Kuni Bashi, also Shiba ku and all parts of the city west of these divisions.

E. — That the American Bishop have jurisdiction over the territory lying between the western boundary of Wakasa, Yamashiro, Kawachi, and the western boundary of Etchiu, Hida, Mino, and Owari (the city of Osaka remaining common ground for the present), and also the territory lying between the northern boundary of the main island and the western boundary of Musashi, Kodzuke, and Echigo, except Awa, Kadzusa, and so much of Shimosa as belongs to Chiba ken, and of Musashi as is to the southwest of Tokyo—and that the English Bishop exercise jurisdiction over all the territory not included within these limits.

WILLIAM HOBART HARE, Bishop.

EDWARD BICKERSTETH,

Bishop of the Church of England in Japan.

NIKKO, JAPAN, July, 1891.

RELIGIOUS BODIES IN JAPAN.

The leading Christian body in Japan, whether one has regard to the liberality and enterprise of its operations, the impressiveness of its institutions, the ability of its leading missionaries, or the influence of its converts, is the Congregational. Its leaders deserve no stinted praise. Their work has been of incalculable blessing to many individual souls, and has introduced into Japan beneficial ideas and impulses which will never perish. But I venture to raise the question whether a body which has little respect for the venerable and established and takes up at once with the new as if by instinct, which gives birth to ideas which it has not sufficient organic life to watch over and control, is the body best fitted to give its permanent form to the religion of a people who, however they may be led away for the time by novelties, have a venerable history, are marked by the ceremonious manners and the refinement of feeling which come from age, and are conscious of a strong national life rooted in the past to which they are deeply attached.

There have been until lately five or six Presbyterian bodies at work in Japan. In December, 1890, they united upon the basis of a Confession of Faith which is made up simply of the Apostles' Creed and a few introductory doctrinal statements. This united body has a total membership of 10,600, and has named itself the Church of Christ in Japan.

There are five Methodist bodies represented in Japan. They have not yet united. They have gathered a membership of 6,600.

There is a number of smaller bodies.

A tendency to a certain solidarity marks all these bodies to-day in Japan, just as it does in the United States, and together they constitute a marked force in religious thought and action in that country.

The Russo-Greek Church has gathered about 18,000 followers. So far as I could learn few of them, however, are persons of eminence whether for social position, influence, or learning. I attended one of its services in which Bishop Nicolai officiated. The ceremonies were almost dazzling in their splendour, elaborate and profuse in details even to puerility, as it seemed to me, and so adorned from beginning to end with musical accompaniments, frequent posturings, and other ceremonies, that, though the language used was Japanese, a very intelligent Japanese gentleman who accompanied me and stood within twenty or thirty feet of the officiating clergy, was able to understand hardly a word of the service though we remained about two hours. On a second visit, however, the service was simpler and more intelligible. I had an interview at a later date with Bishop Nicolai, a man of great devotion and of great loveliness of character, and of a friendly spirit, if I may form an opinion from all I heard and saw of him, who, however, has doubts of our Orders, and limits himself with Anglicans strictly to friendly sentiment and social intercourse. He is distinctly and unquestionably the head and front of the whole movement of the Russo-Greek Church in Japan. He evidently enjoys liberal support from other sources than the Japanese, and the success of the Greek Church would seem to be largely owing to his strong personality and his individual management conducted through many years with consistency, ability, and unity of purpose.

The Roman Catholic Church in Japan inherits alike the opprobrium and suspicion which its indiscretions in the seventeenth century provoked, and the prestige which belongs of right to a body which numbered its martyrs by the thousands in that century, and has held many of their descendants faithful to their religion to the present day, in spite of the most stringent edicts and fierce persecutions. So far as I observed the Roman Catholics pursue their work unobtrusively but assiduously and devotedly. Their adherents are numbered at 40,500.

The missions of the Anglican Communion in Japan, including the English Church and our own, number about 4,000 members, of whom about 1,300 belong to the American mission, and of these 1,300, 1,070 are communicants.

THE JAPAN CHURCH.

The sketch which I have drawn of the religious bodies which are in the field seems to me to suggest what a rich opportunity there exists for the special work which the Anglican branch of the Church has to do. There is a vast breach between the Roman and Greek Churches on the one hand, and the Presbyterian, Congregational, and other bodies of like kind on the other. That breach is at once an opportunity and a call to the Anglican Communion. This Communion has taken shape in Japan in the Nippon, Sei Kokwai, the Japanese Church, so called. The Synod, held in April last, did not have for its object, as some seem to have supposed, the organization of such a Church; it was the regular biennial Synod provided for by the constitution of a Church organized in February, 1837. It is composed of the English and American Bishops having jurisdiction in Japan, of certain native and of certain foreign presbyters, English and American, and of lay delegates chosen by the local councils. It is a self-governing body and asks to take its place, though as yet in an humble way, alongside the Churches of England, of Scotland, of Ireland, and of our own in the United States. The new organization follows catholic lines in Faith, Orders, and Worship. The canonical Scriptures as given by inspiration of God, the Apostles' and Nicene Creeds, the Sacraments as the Lord hath commanded, the Historic Ministry with its three Orders, are all made, by constitutional provision, parts of its being. The Prayer Book, however, was adopted by resolution, and only provisionally. It was felt that the time had not come to say that the form of worship of the Anglo-Saxon would permanently suit the Asiatic.

The condition of affairs in Japan unquestionably demanded the formation of this independent Church. The Japanese will not brook the control of foreign masters, and our Christians had reached a point at which no ecclesiastical management would be acceptable in which they did not share. Wise safeguards have been thrown about the legislation of the young Church. By its constitution the Bishops constitute an independent co-ordinate body, and their consent is a condition precedent to any legislative act. The foreign clergy are duly represented as well as the Japanese clergy and laity, and a vote by Orders can be demanded.

Our own mission has many features which are exceedingly attractive and full of promise. The missionary force, though small, is at present composed of men and women who, on the whole, are far above the average in any Diocese I am acquainted with, whether regard be had to their education, their character, or their efficiency. I found them ready to welcome the Episcopate and to co-operate with it as one man.

SPECIAL NEED.

My presence in the heathen field was the means of a humbling revelation to me of how little we have developed as yet that side of religious life which is heroic, and how few there are among us who have made it for Christ's sake the principle of their lives to keep themselves in a special degree disengaged from the affairs of this life, to deny themselves even permitted conveniences and comforts, and to endure hardness as being not good subjects merely, but good "soldiers" of Jesus Christ.

Whether the Church at home in her present spiritual condition can give birth to sons and daughters endowed with ears to hear and with wills ready to obey the special calls which the great Head of the Church sometimes gives His disciples, has yet to appear, but I am satisfied that our present method of conducting foreign missions is, Martha-like, cumbered with too much domestic service, and needs too many things. If we are to do efficiently the work which lies before us in the heathen world we must have a force less costly, more disengaged, more consecrated, and more at liberty to respond to any legitimate call, "Here I am, send me." One cannot deny, nay, he must admire, the beauty and the usefulness of the clean, pure domestic Christian life of missionaries among the heathen; but on the other hand, one cannot fail to see that it is utterly inadequate to cope with the difficulties which confront the Church. It is a case, perhaps, in which the decision again is pertinent, "These ought ye to have done, and not to have left the other undone."

MY ADDRESS TO CONVOCATION.

I delivered to a Convocation of the American Mission and its converts an address in which I tried by a statement of some general principles to correct certain erroneous notions and questionable modes of action to which, as I thought, our Japanese Christians were prone. It was printed, and a copy was sent to each of the Bishops, and I may dispense with the repetition of it here. I need only remark by way of explanation that the laxity in Church principles and the extreme sensitiveness in the matter of ecclesiastical ceremonies which now characterize our Japanese Christians will not seem so unreasonable if it be remembered that Protestant bodies averse to all ceremonies have practically controlled the sentiments of Christians in Japan outside of the Greek and Roman Churches, that the Anglican Communion has hardly developed fully its life in Japan and has not occupied an influential position, and that these native Christians hardly know ritual and ceremonies except as characteristic of Buddhism and of Romanism, which in its vestments and ceremonies seems to them very much akin to Buddhism, and to both of these systems intelligent Japanese Christians have a deep repugnance.

CHURCH UNITY.

In the matter of Church unity I found the situation hardly different from that in which it is in the United States, and hardly more encouraging. I introduced the subject at a gathering of the clergy, of both the English and our mission, shortly after my arrival, Bishop B. being also present, and pressed it as one of the matters which lay nearest to the hearts of the American Bishops. A conference of missionaries of the Church of England and our own Church held in February 1887, had passed the following resolution: "That this United Conference of missionaries of the Church of England and of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States of America, now assembled at Osaka, wishes to place on record its desire for the establishment in Japan of a Christian Church which by imposing no non-essential conditions of communion shall include as many as possible of the Christians of this country." Somehow or other the resolution produced a good deal of feeling among the brethren outside. Some say that this mishap was not occasioned by the movement itself but by some of its concomitants. At all events, so far as I could perceive, no substantial favourable results followed, and the general opinion of the clergy seemed to be that opportunity did not offer at present for further action. Alas, denominational lines are almost as clearly drawn in Japan as in America. Each mission reproduces there the mind of the home religious body which supports it. As yet Japanese religious life has not reached that flood tide which may some day sweep all these minor barriers away in one great catholic movement. What would happen were the foreign leaders of Japanese Christians removed, and the foreign control which foreign missionary support necessarily involves withdrawn, and Japanese Christians left to act for themselves, is a question. I fear the resultant action would not be favourable to the claims of the Anglican Communion, so much have we been outdone by other bodies in enthusiasm, generosity, enterprise, and statesmanship. These to the Japanese are very impressive, and, moreover, it is the ideas of these bodies regarding doctrine, discipline, and worship, and not ours, which dominate the minds of the more intelligent and influential Christians of Japan.

There is a real sense among the Japanese of the waste and feebleness and frictions which result from the present divisions, but it has hardly gone beyond a vague and consciously helpless discontent. The number of Japanese Christians does not reach a hundred and fifty thousand; the number of Protestant Christians not half that figure. The whole population is over 40,000,000. The life of Japan can therefore hardly be said to have taken Christianity into itself as yet, and it cannot therefore be expected as yet to show a power to give it an organic form specially suited to the Japanese.

NEED OF A BISHOP.

I have thus endeavoured to portray the situation in Japan, and from every salient point of it seems to me to rise a cry for an Episcopal head for our Mission, and for one of more than ordinary natural endowments, of large acquirements, and of special gifts of grace. This need is emphasized by the fact that the Japanese, perhaps as the result of ages of training under the feudal system, are peculiarly sensible to the influence of a strong leader.

I do not fear that there is any danger that such a messenger of the Church's love will find his Episcopal career prematurely cut short by the rapid development of the Japanese Church and the creation of a native Episcopate. In the first place, the Japanese are now looking back upon their former hot haste in adopting foreign thought and customs with a feeling of wounded pride and loss of self-respect, and will make haste slowly in the future. In the second place, the work of the foreign Bishops will be that of gradually dividing up their present vast jurisdictions and setting off independent missionary districts under native Bishops, and this process will hardly be so far completed as to require the withdrawal of the foreign Bishops from Japan within a generation.

CHINA.

My visit to the Chinese mission was not made by order of this House of Bishops, but at the request of the Board of Managers of the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society, seconded by the Presiding Bishop. If, however, the Bishops will suffer me, I will in a few words make some observations on the condition and needs of our mission in China, referring those who desire further information to my report to the Board.

ARE TWO BISHOPS NEEDED?

The field has two points which may be called central — Shanghai with its groups of churches, stations, and institutions near the mouth of the Yang-tse River, and Hankow and Wuchang, with their churches and contiguous stations and their institutions, 600 miles up the Yang-tse River.

Between these central points are several important cities, Nankin, Tuku, Kiukiang, et al., where we have had missions.

Beyond Hankow are Shaze and Ichang, the latter being 400 miles above Hankow, and the former being perhaps 200 miles.

Fine steamers with every convenience run up the river as far as Hankow, and make the trip going up in three days and four nights, and coming down in three days and three nights. These steamers touch at the intervening towns.

Smaller steamers run from Hankow up to Shaze and Ichang.

It will be seen that all the places named would not be considered difficult of access if they lay in one of our Missionary Jurisdictions in the United States, and I do not see that the argument for a division of the field into two jurisdictions based upon the territorial extent of the field has much force.

Nor would there seem to be any great reason for division in the extent of the work, which is comparatively limited.

A second reason which has been given for the division of the Chinese missionary field into two parts, is that the Shanghai dialect prevails in the district which has Shanghai for its centre, and the Mandarin in the district which centres in Hankow, and that the language which prevails in one of these districts is of no practical utility in the other.

I feel sure that some weight should be given to this reason; but, although I made inquiries, I am not sure that the assertion upon which the reason rests (I mean the assertion in regard to the utility of the dialects) is a fact, and, should knowledge of the native languages not be considered a sine qua non, the value of the reason would be considerably diminished.

A third reason which, though not avowed, has weight in the minds of some, is that Shanghai might then give scope for men of one school of thought, and Hankow and Wuchang for men of another.

I believe that such a division would prove altogether unhealthy and practically impossible in the long run, and that all schools could unite in happy work under any man who was large enough in mind and heart to be the Bishop of such a field as China is.

CONCLUDING REMARKS AND RECOMMENDATIONS.

The long-continued vacancy in the Episcopate in Japan is not the first case which has exposed the vexatious delays which naturally attend our present mode of filling vacant Bishoprics in the foreign field. These delays bring discredit upon our ecclesiastical management, and subject missionary work, already sorely afflicted in the loss of its Bishop, to additional hardship. It "vexes them whom God hath wounded." The question arises whether the election of a Bishop to a foreign field, when it becomes necessary during the recess of the General Convention, might not be intrusted to the Bishops who are members of the Board of Managers of the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society, or to some other commission of Bishops. This precise plan may not be feasible, but a living Church can surely devise some remedy. I would therefore suggest the following resolution. (See Resolution V. appended.)

In the foreign field a Missionary Jurisdiction becoming vacant does not, as in the domestic field, pass under the Episcopal charge of the Presiding Bishop, but the Standing Committee of the jurisdiction becomes the ecclesiastical authority. The Standing Committee is therefore a body of the first importance. Title I., Canon 18, Section 7, sub-section 7, provides as follows: "Every such Bishop shall yearly appoint a Standing Committee, consisting of not less than two nor more than five Presbyters, resident within his jurisdiction, and if he shall find it practicable and advisable, of an equal number of Lay Communicants." In pursuance of this Canon, I appointed in May, 1891, a Standing Committee for the Missionary Jurisdiction of Yedo. On my second visit, in 1892, the completion of the year for which the Standing Committee was appointed was approaching, but as the year had not yet expired, I was without power either to provide for the continuance of the Standing Committee on the expiration of the year, or to appoint another; even though I foresaw that one member of the Committee was within a few months to leave Japan for a year's vacation, and I was aware that another member resided three hundred and seventy-five miles from his colleagues, and that there was thus every probability that the Committee would find it practically impossible to secure a quorum. To add to the embarrassment of the situation, the Standing Committee had been advised by high authority, as I was informed, that it had not the power to fill vacancies in its own body. There was no provision in the Canons that the Standing Committee should continue in office until their successors were appointed, and there was the probability that there would not be for ten months or a year a Bishop in the field competent to appoint a Standing Committee.

I would therefore submit, for the consideration of the House, the following resolution. (See Resolution IV. appended hereto.)

I beg to submit several other thoughts which have occurred to me as the result of my observations in Japan and China.

First. The fact that the present cash salary of a Foreign Missionary Bishop being ostensibly much less than that of Domestic Missionary Bishops, seems to some to depreciate the office of a Foreign Missionary Bishop, and I would suggest that the salary of a Foreign Missionary Bishop should be placed at the same figure as that of the Domestic Missionary Bishops, leaving the Bishop to make such arrangements for his residence as may seem good to him, either by renting a mission building at an equitable rent, or in some other way.

Second. That every Foreign Missionary Bishop should be expected to return to this country at least every three years and attend the General Convention; this course being necessary both to keep himself abreast with the movements of Church thought and life here, and to keep the Church informed about his work; and that the present rules of the Board regarding absences, if they cover the case of a Missionary Bishop, should be modified.

Third. Some measure should be taken in order to secure more direct and confidential communication between the Board of Managers and the House of Bishops, the body which has the authority to appoint Missionary Bishops and to assign them their fields of work. If some Bishops who are on the Board of Managers were always placed also on the Standing Committee of the House of Bishops on Foreign Missions, and that Standing Committee continued in office during the interval between meetings of the House of Bishops, the end desired might possibly be accomplished.

To conclude, I would suggest these resolutions:

I. Resolved, That it be a standing rule of this House that every Foreign Missionary Bishop shall be expected to attend the triennial meetings.

II. Resolved, That this rule be made known to the Board of Managers of the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society with the request that they take such action as may make this rule practicable.

III. Resolved, That the Board of Managers of the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society be requested to consider whether it be not advisable to make the salary of a Foreign Missionary Bishop the same as that of a Domestic Missionary Bishop.

IV. Resolved, That it be referred to the Committee on Canons to consider and report to this House what changes are necessary in the legislation of the Church, in order to secure that the existence of the ecclesiastical authority in a Foreign Missionary Jurisdiction shall in no case lapse, but be continuous.

V. Resolved, That it be referred to the Committee on Canons to consider and report to this House what changes can be made in the mode at present laid down in the Canons for the election of a Foreign Missionary Bishop which will render the action of the Church in this behalf duly prompt and effective.

VI. Resolved, That the proposed division of the Japanese missionary field presented in a memorandum agreed to by Bishop Bickersteth and Bishop Hare be approved.

APPENDIX II.—4.

TRIENNIAL REPORT OF THE BISHOP OF HAITI.

To the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States for the Session of 1892:

At the time of my last triennial report the headquarters of our mission at the Haitian capital had been reduced to the greatest privation by the fire which had destroyed the mission buildings one year previously.

We are still suffering from the same circumstance; but some steps have been taken and progress made by which the situation has been alleviated. A larger and more eligibly situated lot has been obtained for the reconstruction of the mission buildings, and an edifice has been already erected thereon, which serves temporarily for a chapel where divine service is held, but which it is proposed shall hereafter be devoted to school purposes, when a permanent church edifice shall have been erected, which we propose to build in brick as soon as means to do so are in hand.

During the three years last past one Deacon and two Presbyters have been ordained; another station has been permanently occupied in the district of Léogane, where a chapel has been constructed, and service held regularly therein on the Lord's day. Four rural schools in connection with our country stations have also been established, taught by scholars, who have been prepared in the Primary Normal School on the Church farm. The brick church begun ten years ago at Cayes, by great perseverance amidst many difficulties, was completed at the end of the ninth year from the inception of the enterprise, so as to be occupied for public worship since last Christmas day.

The present government of Haiti protects and encourages us in our Gospel labours, and has made contributions towards the support of our teachers and the repairs and reconstruction of our church edifices.

We have the intimate conviction that Divine Providence has imposed upon us the duty of raising up here a native clergy to preach the Gospel to a people who have maintained an independent national existence for nearly ninety years without such a clergy among them in any of the religious denominations working here, to the number of even a half dozen ordained men, except in our branch of the Church. To fulfil this mission thus imposed upon us, generous aid should be given to us without longer delay by our coreligionists in America, if they would really hasten the establishment of the kingdom of God, for which they are daily taught to pray.

Respectfully submitted.

JAMES THEODORE HOLLY, Bishop of Haiti.

APPENDIX III.

REPORT OF THE AMERICAN CHURCH BUILDING FUND COMMISSION.

To the Board of Missions:

THE Trustees of the American Church Building Fund Commission respectfully present the annual report of the Commission for the year ending August 31, 1892.

INTRODUCTORY.

The American Church Building Fund Commission was organized at the General Convention of 1880, and consequently, at the coming session of the General Convention, will be twelve years old. Considerable time was necessarily spent in the organization of its work and in acquainting the public with its purposes and methods, so that, with the exception of a small loan made in 1881 to save a valuable property to the Church, it did not begin its real work of aiding in church-building until October, 1882.

The history of these ten years has been one of large and increasing usefulness. Two hundred churches have been aided, and it is within the facts to say that in at least one hundred and fifty cases the Church could not have been built but for the assistance thus extended. Our people have thus been enabled to establish the influence of the Church in new communities, at the right time, instead of having to wait until the golden opportunity had passed and others had occupied the field. This aid has been so judiciously administered that local effort has been encouraged, self-support and self-respect sustained, at the same time that the helping hand has been outstretched to those in need of assistance.

Although similar institutions in the Church of England, and in various religious bodies in this country, had accomplished grand results, yet at the time of the inception of this enterprise there were many who were distrustful of its success and even fearful that in some way it might prove injurious. Experience has shown that all such fears were groundless. It was thought by some that the formation of a Permanent Fund would "tie up the money of the Church," but under the system of loans which was established, not only was most of the money put into active service as soon as received, but it enters then on a constantly recurring round of usefulness which will extend as long as any need for its use exists. When the plan of aiding church building by loans was proposed, it was said that such loans would never be repaid, and that the result would be the loss of the Fund itself and demoralization among those who were thus assisted. The past ten years have proved this idea to be unfounded. Not a dollar has been lost out of over two hundred loans that have been made. The interest in the main has been paid with commendable regularity, and the principal has been returned fully as fast as could be expected.

During the past year over $16,000 has thus been repaid, and the total amount so returned to the treasury has been over $87,000. This sum, it will be remembered, is immediately used by being loaned to other churches, and thus goes out on new errands of Christian usefulness.

While the accumulation of the Fund has been much less rapid than was hoped in the beginning, yet we feel that we can thank God and take courage. The great amount of good which has been accomplished by the means at command, shows what could be done by a Fund of adequate extent, and should be an incentive to generous donations.

The institution is no longer an experiment. It has proved its value and usefulness by its own experience, and has demonstrated its stability and permanence. It appeals, therefore, to that conservative sentiment which looks to the certainty of ultimate results, at the same time that it meets the ardent and zealous desire of the Church for immediate action in those sections where delay is synonymous with failure. It is noteworthy that its one large gift came from a practical business man, who was impressed with the actual working of the Fund in the upbuilding of Church work in his own city. We believe that, with God's blessing, nothing is needed to secure the completion of the Fund but earnest effort and a thorough knowledge of its practical work and the results already obtained through its means; and we therefore ask for a thorough examination of the subject by the generous laymen of the Church.

ORGANIZATION.

The present Commission was appointed in accordance with the Organic Resolutions of 1880, at the last General Convention, held in New York in 1889; the twenty Commissioners at large by the Presiding Bishop, and the Diocesan Commissioners by the respective Bishops.

THE BISHOPS' RECOMMENDATION.

This recommendation, designating one particular Sunday in the latter part of both the ecclesiastical and secular year — the second Sunday in November — as that on which all congregations which have not already contributed during the year should be asked to make their offerings to the Church Building Fund, was first issued in 1887, when it appeared with the signatures of sixty-one Bishops. This number was subsequently increased from time to time by the addition of new Bishops, until at the date of the making of our last report no less than seventy-five names were appended to the document. Since then one of the older Bishops, who had not before thus expressed his approval, has added his signature, and with the newer Bishops who have signed the recommendation, it now bears the names of no less than seventy-eight Bishops.

The recommendation, with its signatures, is as follows, and we submit that such a document, with more signatures of American Bishops than were ever placed upon any other of any description, ought not to be lightly regarded by either clergy or laity.

AMERICAN CHURCH BUILDING FUND.

We cordially unite in commending to the attention of all the clergy and congregations of our Church, the following resolution unanimously passed at the General Convention at Chicago :

Resolved, That the Board of Missions, composed of both Houses of the General Convention, renew the recommendation made in 1880, that every parish of our Church contribute annually to the American Church Building Fund, until the full sum of one million dollars is secured."

We recommend that in every parish in which an offering shall not have been made for that purpose prior to that date, such offering be received on the second Sunday in November; and if, for any reason that is impracticable, then on the next succeeding Sunday.

If the Church will respond in every parish and missionary station to this call of the Board of Missions, the entire Fund can be raised within a period comparatively short.

INCREASE OF THE FUND.

While the fund has not increased during the past year as rapidly as was hoped, yet its progress has been satisfactory, and the amount received from parish offerings has been somewhat more than during the preceding year. But one large donation has been received, that being in the form of $5,000 in United States coupon bonds, which were sold for $5,812.50. This munificent gift came from a New York gentleman who had previously shown his interest in the fund in a substantial manner, but who declines to have his name announced. We hope his example may find many followers. The annual offerings from parishes are the best criterion by which to judge of the general interest taken by the Church at large in this branch of its work. But the increase from this source is far too slow, when we consider the large amount still necessary to make up the million dollars, and the urgent need of more money with which to meet pressing calls. The offerings from country parishes and missions average about five dollars, so that a thousand such are necessary to equal a single personal donation of $5,000. We earnestly hope that individual gifts may be multiplied, so that the increase of the fund may be more rapid, and we urge the attention of persons of means to this object as the most practical and useful which is before the Church.

The table below gives the amount of the Permanent Fund at various periods, from its commencement in the fall of 1880. It will be observed that the first $100,000 was completed about November 1, 1887, having required six years and ten months of effort. The second $100,000 was received in just three years and a half. It is hoped that the future increase will be much more rapid. The character of the work of this Commission is such that it only has to be known to enlist an active interest; especially among practical business men, who are always interested in its admirable system of combined activity and permanence. Much, therefore, can be accomplished by a plain presentation of the facts regarding the Building Fund, its objects, methods, and success, by every clergyman in the country, each year, when he asks for the annual offering.

The table is as follows:

Dec. 1, 1881	$7,897.59	Sept. 1, 1887	$81,875.93

DIOCESAN CONTRIBUTIONS.

The following table gives the total amount contributed by each Diocese and jurisdiction to September 1, 1892, and also the amount previously reported to September 1, 1891, thus showing the sum received from each during the past fiscal year. It is proper to remember, in reading these lists, that West Missouri has had the benefit of one Named Fund of $50,000; New York of two, amounting to $10,000; and Long Island, Pennsylvania, and Connecticut, one each, of $5,000.

NOTABLE CHURCHES.

The list of Churches which had with greatest regularity followed the system provided at the General Convention for raising the Church Building Fund, by regular annual offerings, as published last year, showed eight that had contributed every year, five that had missed but one year, and seventeen that had missed but two.

Conscientious regularity becomes such a habit in time that few of these have failed to respond during the year 1891, and probably in those cases there was some good reason, or their offerings may have been delayed in transmission.

The list, as it now stands, is as follows:

Churches which have contributed every year (eleven years):

St. Peter's	Albany.
Grace	Brooklyn.
St. Luke's	"
Trinity	Newport, R.I.
St. Peter's	Geneva, W.N.Y.
St. Paul's	Buffalo.
St. Luke's	Lebanon, C. Pa.

Those which have sent offerings in ten of the eleven years are:

St. Ann's	Brooklyn, L.I.
St. Thomas's	New York (over $2,200).
Incarnation	New York (over $1,650).
St. Mark's	Mauch Chunk, C. Pa.
Incarnation	Washington.

Those which have sent during nine years are :

St. Luke's	Rochester, W.N.Y. (11 times).
St. John's	Canandaigua, W.N.Y.
St. John's	Troy, Albany.
St. Mary's	Brooklyn, L.I.
Trinity	Geneva, W.N.Y.
St. John's	Mt. Morris, W.N.Y.
Grace	Orange, Newark.
St. John's	Elizabeth, N.J. (10 times).
St. Paul's	Chestnut Hill, Pa.
St. Luke's	Bustleton, Pa.
St. Anne's	Annapolis, Md. (10 times).
Trinity	Washington.
St. Paul's	Cleveland, O. (over $2,550).
Trinity	Cleveland, O. (over $1,800).
St. James's	Fresno, Cal.
Trinity	Parkersburg, W. Va.

There are many churches which for some reason did not contribute in the earlier years of the existence of the Building Fund, but which have since shown a lively interest in its prosperity, and send the annual offering regularly. In such cases, and especially where a zealous rector has come into a parish and is doing his whole duty in these matters, it scarcely seems just that the proper recognition should not be accorded, simply because, under other circumstances, the parish did not contribute eight or ten years ago.

To meet these cases we have prepared the following list of churches, not included in the lists above, which have contributed annually for the past three years, and we propose to continue it in each future report, so that due acknowledgment will be made to those who are zealously aiding the work in these later days. It is gratifying to know that there are 171 of these churches, and it is hoped that very few will allow themselves to lose their position on this list as the years go by.

The following is the list of churches which have contributed regularly during the past three years:

All the above are certainly entitled to this honourable mention for their loyalty to the Church’s call and the excellent example they have set to others. If every parish had followed this not very difficult rule of making one offering each year, regularly, the result would have surprised themselves, and the entire Church Building Fund of $1,000,000 would have been complete long since.

NAMED FUNDS.

No change has taken place in the “Named Memorial Funds” of $5,000 or more during the past year.

They are founded on the following resolution, adopted February 17, 1887:

Resolved, That every donation of $5,000 or more be preserved as a separate Fund, by the name of the donor, or as a memorial, or otherwise, as designated by him; and that such donor be permitted to direct the disposition of the income of such Fund, geographically or otherwise, within the scope of powers of this Commission.

The “Named Funds” already established under the above resolution are as follows:

1. — The Anne Bedell Memorial Fund $5,000
Founded by William G. Low, Esq., of Long Island.
2. — The Cornelius Vanderbilt Fund 5,000
Founded by Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt, of New York.
3. — The Bishop Robertson Memorial Fund 50,000
Founded in 1888, by Mr. Willard E. Winner, of Kansas City, Mo.
(This Fund is not yet available for loans.)
4. — The Margaretta S. Lewis Memorial Fund 5,000
Founded in 1888, by the executors of Miss Margaretta S. Lewis, of Philadelphia, Pa.
5. — The Julia Merritt Memorial Fund 5,000
Founded in 1889, by Mrs. Julia Merritt, of New York.
6. — The Mary Caroline Rockwell Fund 5,000
Founded in 1891, by Mr. Gould Rockwell, of Ridgefield, Conn.

No more enduring and useful form of memorial could be devised than these Named Funds, and we desire again to call attention to their excellence and value in these respects. It is evident that their peculiar character is not yet thoroughly understood, or their number would be greatly increased. If the clergy, when presenting the subject of the Building Fund to their people, would call attention to these Memorial Funds, the result could not but be good. No more appropriate monument can be devised, to be instituted by a Diocese in memory of a Bishop, or by a parish in memory of a beloved rector, than one of these Named Funds, which will continually bear the name to be commemorated through the ages of the future, while doing its glorious work of spreading Christian and Churchly influences with a continuous power undiminished by the lapse of time. As a memorial of the donor himself, or of some beloved one, nothing could be preferable. We confidently look forward to a large increase in their number, as soon as they are thoroughly understood and their advantages appreciated.

In addition to the above "Named Funds," the Commission holds smaller special funds, in accordance with a privilege granted by the Board of Missions, and first mentioned in the annual report of the year 1884. Permission was granted that any testator might give a memorial name to special funds bequeathed. It is reasonable to suppose that as the years go on such bequests will be made. Also, apart from legacies, the Commission may be made the recipient of sums less than $5,000, which may hold a place of honor amongst the "Named Funds." In this way the Commission now holds the following funds in addition to those mentioned above:

The Louisa S. Vought Memorial Fund	$4,000
Legacy of Mrs. Louisa S. Vought, of Freehold, New Jersey.
The Marianna A. Ogden Fund	500
Gift of Mrs. Mariana A. Ogden, of Fordham, New York.
The Isaac De Voe Memorial Fund	500
Legacy of Mr. Isaac De Voe, of Spottswood, New Jersey.

WOMAN'S AID TO THE COMMISSION.

The idea of calling to the aid of the Commission the organized work of the women of the Church seems reasonable. The Corresponding Secretary during the past year addressed a letter to all the Clerical Commissioners asking their views upon this subject, and received answers of marked encouragement. It is believed that very many busy and pious hands would "gather up the fragments," and add very perceptibly to the increase of the Fund. In this branch of Church work, as in all others, the co-operation of devout women is a most valuable assistance.

THE WORK OF THE FUND.

This work continues to increase and multiply as the years pass and the amount at the disposal of the Trustees gradually increases. In its character it does not change, and what has been previously written on the subject is equally true of the present.

The applications to the Trustees for aid in church building continually increase. This is natural and is simply an evidence of the growth of the Church. So long as hundreds of thousands are annually seeking new homes in the West, the call for aid from that section must be loud and urgent. The importance of being able to occupy a field early, before others have taken possession, cannot be overestimated. It preserves our own people in the faith, attracts many from without, and usually secures aid in land and money from those interested simply in the prosperity of the town.

The Church Building Fund continues to meet this need as far as its limited means permit. In the language of the Bishop of Mississippi, it is "the most practical work that the Church is doing."

It meets what was the special want for half a century, and for the first time gives encouragement to our brethren on the frontiers to secure regular services and exert lasting influence in their communities. It makes it possible to take spiritual possession of promising fields in new sections, at the right time, when great advantages are to be gained and the whole future secured, instead of having to wait until half a dozen other bodies have occupied the field, and our own people, discouraged by long waiting, have become scattered and lost. Its system of loans gives the needed aid at exactly the critical moment, and yet promotes "self-help," and preserves the self-respect of the new congregation.

Its work, however, is done in such a quiet and business-like manner that the great majority of our people in the older sections of the country seem almost to forget its existence. To the Missionary Bishops and their scattered flocks it is the most useful and inspiring of aids; but the members of old eastern parishes only know of it, perhaps, by some casual mention in the Church papers. It is utterly inadequate even to meet the most touching appeals and most pressing applications; but the general public does not know of the continual sorrow of its trustees that they have to refuse where they would gladly extend aid, and so it does not even have the advantage of sympathy.

The words of Bishop Weed are so appropriate in this connection that we quote them here:

"I have sometimes wondered whether the Church people in the United States realized what the Church Building Fund was doing for the Church in the mission field. . . . I suppose the difficulty is that in the larger cities, where there is a great aggregation of wealth, it is least needed, and, as a consequence, little understood. I hope one day the moral effect of this Fund will be appreciated, and Churchmen will be moved to aid in carrying out the designs of its founders."

Although the Fund is unable to do a quarter of the work which God has set before us, yet the results achieved by the limited sum at command are very encouraging. At the date of the last report 174 loans had been made. The number now exceeds 200, twenty-seven having been made during the past year. The aggregate amount of these is $26,450, showing an average of almost exactly $1,000. They extend from the shores of Chesapeake Bay to Arizona and Vancouver, the largest number of churches erected by their aid being in Washington, Idaho, Wyoming, the Dakotas, and Colorado, though their usefulness extends into old states like Ohio, Indiana, Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, and even New York. Who can estimate the timely aid thus afforded to the future of the Church?

The total amount on loan on September 1 was $121,701.54, showing a substantial increase over any previous period, and the money of a considerable number of loans which had been arranged during the summer was ready to be sent out.

A list of all the loans made from the beginning is annexed, showing the original amount and the sum still unpaid on each. During the year $16,713.75 has been repaid on the principal of loans, which is a satisfactory proportion of the total amount outstanding. Since the last report 11 loans have been entirely paid off and the mortgages satisfied. As 44 had previously been paid, this makes 55 cases in all in which the total indebtedness has been cancelled and the churches are now absolutely free from any pecuniary obligation.

The aggregate amount which has once been loaned and has been returned to the Fund now exceeds $86,000. Having once accomplished its mission, this large sum has, from time to time, come back to the treasury to be sent out on new errands of usefulness; and no small part of it has returned a second time and been again despatched to continue its work. This illustrates very strikingly the wonderful power for good possessed by every dollar which is placed in the Fund, and is the best argument for its rapid enlargement.

ENDOWMENTS.

The following specific endowments are held by the Seminary, all of which are amply secured by bonds and mortgages :

The Samuel Verplanck Hoffman Foundation	$100,000.00
The "St. Mark's Church in the Bowerie" Professorship of Ecclesiastical History	25,000.00
The Alumni Professorship of the Evidences of Revealed Religion	30,022.72
The Charles and Elizabeth Ludlow Professorship of Ecclesiastical Polity and Law	27,772.42
The Eugene A. Hoffman Professorship of Pastoral Theology	80,000.00
The Glorvina Rossell Hoffman Professorship of Biblical Learning and the Interpretation of Scripture	75,000.00
The Library Endowment Fund	6,000.00
The Bishop Paddock Lectureship Fund	10,911.56
The John H. Talman Fellowship	11,375.00
The McVickar Prize Fund	1,000.00
The Seymour Prize Fund	1,000.00
The Charles and Elizabeth Ludlow Fund	8,000.00
The General Endowment Fund	42,000.00
The William H. Vanderbilt Fund	50,000.00
The Tracy R. Edson Fund	15,000.00
The Susan M. Edson Fund	5,000.00
The Hoffman Fund	18,648.78
The Retiring Fund	50,000.00
The Endowment for Bell Ringing	2,500.00
Thirty-six Scholarships	95,485.64

$654,804.10

It will be noted that one Professorship, namely the Glorvina Rossell Hoffman Professorship of Biblical Learning and the Interpretation of Scripture, has been endowed during the last three years, and that the Retiring Fund has been increased, by the addition of twenty thousand dollars, to the sum of fifty thousand dollars. It is earnestly hoped that this Fund will shortly be increased to one hundred thousand dollars, when the income may be used for the purposes of the Seminary whenever not required for retiring pensions.

It is very gratifying to be able to state in this connection that the financial condition of the Seminary has at last enabled the Trustees, with the aid of the annual benefaction from the Society for Promoting Religion and Learning in the State of New York, to increase the Professors' salaries to a sum somewhat commensurate with their position. Each of the resident Professors now receives four thousand dollars per annum and a house, with the condition that they shall devote their whole time to the work of their departments, and not undertake any stated work outside of the Seminary.

Two new Scholarships have been added during the past two years, one from the legacy of the Rev. James Stephenson, D.D., of Maryland, and the other the gift of Mrs. Morgan Dix, of New York. With these additions, the number of Scholarships is now thirty-six, a number which is very inadequate, considering the number of students now in the Seminary.

II. INSTRUCTION.

In this department the following changes have occurred since the last triennial report :

The Rev. Philander K. Cady, D.D., was elected Alumni Professor of the Evidences of Revealed Religion, and entered upon his duties in October, 1890.

Mr. George Edward Stubbs, the organist of St. Agnes' Chapel, New York, has been appointed musical instructor under the Susan M. Edson Fund. All the students who are capable of receiving musical instruction are required to attend his weekly classes.

The Bishop Paddock Lectureship continues its valuable service to the students, and by the publication of the lectures to the Church at large. The lectures were as follows :

"God Incarnate," by the Rt. Rev. H. Tully Kingdon, D.D., Coadjutor Bishop of Fredericton.

"The Sacramental System, considered as the extension of the Incarnation," by the Rev. Morgan Dix, D.D., Rector of Trinity Church, New York.

The Rt. Rev. Benjamin H. Paddock, D.D., after whom the Lectureship was named, who was appointed Lecturer for the winter of 1890-91, departed this life before the delivery of his lectures. The Seminary had no firmer friend among the Bishops, and his death was a deep loss to the institution.

In addition to the Bishop Paddock lectures, the following lectures were delivered to the students at the request of the Standing Committee :

"The Land of Goshen and the Grand Canal of Joseph," by Mr. Frederick Cope Whitehouse.

"A Witness for the Bible from the Land of the Pharaohs," by the Rev. John C. Eccleston, D.D.

"Greek Architecture," by Professor Barr Ferree.

The students have also been favoured with addresses in response to the invitation of the Dean, from the following Bishops and Presbyters :

The Bishops of New York, Kentucky, North Carolina, Ohio, Maine, Montana, Derry and Raphoe, Mississippi, Albany, the Mackenzie River, the Assistant Bishop of Minnesota, the Rev. Chauncey B. Brewster, the Ven. Archdeacon Mackzy-Smith, the Rev. Alfred G. Mortimer, the Rev. Walpole Warren, the Rev. George R. Van De Water, D.D., the Rev. Henry R. Sargent, the Rev. G. W. Smith, D.D., the Rev. Samuel W. Dike, LL.D., the Rev. Frederick R. Graves, the Rev. S. W. Haskins, D.D., the Ven. Archdeacon Moran, the Ven. Archdeacon Sulger, the Rev. E. R. Joyner, the Rev. W. S. Langford, D.D., the Rev. A. C. A. Hall, the Rev. W. C. Clapp, the Rev. Brockholst Morgan, the Rev. Thomas F. Gallor, D.D., the Rev. Sidney C. Partridge, and the Rev. William O. Cone.

In the early part of March the Bishop of Albany held a two days' retreat for the students. In the opinion of all who listened to them, the addresses made were very helpful, and did much towards deepening the spiritual life of those who heard them.

III. STUDENTS.

The number of students during the last three years has been as follows : In 1889-90, 89 ; in 1890-91, 115 ; in 1891-92, 113.

It is gratifying to note that the number of students during the last three years has been constantly on the increase. The still larger number entering this year now places our General Seminary among the largest of the theological institutions in this country.

The total number of students matriculated since 1822 has been 1,921, of whom about 1,200 are still living. Forty-three of the students have been consecrated Bishops, of whom twenty-three are still living.

IV. LIBRARY.

The Library has again been the recipient of large donations from our generous benefactor, the Society for Promoting Religion and Learning in the State of New York, and of liberal gifts from others interested in the Seminary. The number of books on the shelves is now 22,252. The Library is kept open daily from 9 A.M. to 5 P.M. for the use of the clergy and others who desire to avail themselves of its valuable treasures.

V. GIFTS.

Among the valuable gifts received by the Seminary during the past three years is what is believed to be the original portrait of Duns Scotus, by Spagnoletto, from the Hon. Judge Shea ; and from the same donor, autotype copies of the Letters of Orders of Bishop Seabury, and a fac-simile of the Concordat between the Church in Scotland and the Church in the United States at the time of Bishop Seabury's consecration.

Through the kindness of the Corporation of Trinity College, Hartford, we have been enabled to obtain an excellent portrait of Bishop Seabury.

VI. NEW BUILDINGS.

Since the last General Convention two new commodious dormitories have been erected, one of them named Dodge Hall, after Mrs. Anson G. P. Dodge, and the other Kohne Hall, as a memorial of Mr. Frederick Kohne, who left to the Seminary many years ago the generous legacy of one hundred thousand dollars. They are both completely furnished and fully occupied by the students. In addition to these new buildings, the old East building, which had outlasted its usefulness, has been removed and its place occupied by three new houses for the Professors, which will be ready for use before the winter sets in. The money has been provided for all these buildings by the generosity of the friends of the Seminary. The erection of these Professors' houses completes the East Quadrangle, which already begins to assume a venerable appearance.

VII. CONCLUSION.

It will be gratifying to note the progress of the Seminary during the incumbency of the present Dean. At the time of his assumption of official duties in 1879, the financial condition of the Seminary was so straitened that it had been necessary to use from the capital funds $6,000 per annum for the three years immediately preceding to meet the necessary current expenses, and even with this, the sum available for salaries was only sufficient to pay to six Professors an average of less than $2,000 per annum. Since then not only have the current expenses been met, but endowments have been provided, new buildings erected, the teaching force enlarged, and the salaries of the Professors have within the past year been made such as it has long been desired that they should be.

The total amount of cash received since the establishment of the Seminary in 1818 to May, 1879, was $459,628.60; since then there has been received $928,931.14, making the total from 1818 to the present time, $1,388,559.74.

The material fabric has been added to by the erection of new buildings to meet the urgent needs. Hall after hall has been built in accordance with a comprehensive plan which was adopted by the Board of Trustees. The honoured names of Hobart, Dehon, Sherred, Pintard, Jarvis, Kohne, and Dodge, by which the several halls are known, are indissolubly linked with the undying work of the sacred ministry through association with these buildings which have been erected within the last decade. The "Memorial Chapel of the Good Shepherd," the gift of Mrs. Glorvina R. Hoffman to the glory of God and in memory of Samuel Verplanck Hoffman, standing midway in the complete design, and dominating the whole scheme with the central and culminating idea of worship, commemorates at once the giver and him whose memorial it is, as two of the valued friends and benefactors of the Seminary. Following these provisions for the comfort and edification of the students, a Deanery has been completed, and this but precedes the new houses for the Professors, now in process of construction, already alluded to, and for which within a few months the sum of $50,000 has been received through the Dean.

It is an unmixed pleasure to the Board to note these tangible and invaluable proofs of progress, to record heartfelt gratitude to the generous benefactors by whose gifts the improvements have been made possible, and to make due acknowledgment of the wise and vigorous administration of the Dean, under whom all these remarkable changes have been accomplished.

Surely it is not too much to hope, in view of these things, that other friends will be found ready and glad to aid in the completion of the scheme by additional halls for dormitories, until there shall be accommodation for two hundred students, a separate building for a refectory, and a sufficient endowment to supply whatever may be needful for the increasing current expenses, for the constant replenishment of the library, and for the Retiring Fund for aged or disabled Professors.

It is fitting that we should remember all the good deeds of the faithful friends whom God has raised up for this seat of sacred learning during the three-quarters of a century of its existence, and while rendering praise for God's unnumbered mercies through this long period, recall with especial gratitude the crowning blessings of the past few years, by which the Seminary has been placed in a condition for enlarged and expanding influence, and for usefulness to this generation and to the generations that may follow.

Respectfully submitted on behalf of the Board of Trustees.

T. STAFFORD DROWNE, Secretary.

APPENDIX V.

SEVENTH TRIENNIAL REPORT OF THE TRUSTEES OF THE FUND FOR THE RELIEF OF WIDOWS AND ORPHANS OF DECEASED CLERGYMEN, AND OF AGED, INFIRM, AND DISABLED CLERGYMEN.

THE Trustees of the Fund for the Relief of Widows and Orphans of Deceased Clergymen, and of Aged, Infirm, and Disabled Clergymen, herewith submit, to the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America, their seventh triennial report, to September 14, 1892.

The Trustees respectfully invite attention to the following facts:

The whole amount of receipts during the past three years has been $35,006.16.

The whole amount of disbursements during the same period has been $35,520.

The number of beneficiaries during the three years has been 194, of whom 52 were clergymen, 124 widows, and 18 orphans. The average amount to each person for the three years was $183.09, or $61.03 a year.

Although the fund was instituted by the General Convention of 1853, it actually went into operation after the General Convention of 1871, that Convention having given to the fund the royalty upon the Hymnal which was then adopted.

The total amount of receipts has been $176,371.79. The first grant from the fund was made April 24, 1873, and since that date there has been distributed among 336 beneficiaries the sum of $153,365. The Treasurer holds securities of the face value of $16,000, and a cash balance in bank of $1,766.75. No charges have been made for expenses in administering the fund, such expenses having been paid by the Secretary and the Treasurer individually.

Attention is especially directed to the very large sum which within a little less than twenty years has gone directly to the relief of the necessitous persons in whose behalf the fund was established. When it is remembered that the Trustees have found it necessary to limit their disbursement, so that no person has received more than $100 a year, it may be realized how widely the $153,365 has been distributed. What measure of relief and comfort it has given can never be fully known.

The Trustees feel confident that their course in thus employing the money which has been intrusted to them immediately upon errands of mercy, will meet with hearty approval, and is far more consonant with the mind of the Church than would have been an attempt to accumulate a capital while cases of emergent need required the whole of the income at their disposal.

The Trustees feel equally confident that the amount of help in particular cases to which they have of necessity been restricted has been too little to at all satisfy the generous hearts of Church people. It has been at the best but an alleviation of want, not by any means a proper supply of existing needs.

What benevolence can there be more pure or lofty than this? What charity more tender or considerate than this, which cares for the widows and orphans of deceased clergymen, or provides for the years of infirmity, whether from age or sickness, of those of the clergy who by faithful service have won the plaudit, Well done! and have broken down in the Master's work for those whom He died to redeem?

The Fund has been kept active up to the full measure of its power, and it is gratifying to be able to state that during the three years last past some help has been granted to every applicant. How many needy ones have refrained from applying because of the well-known limitations of the Fund we are unable to say. It has been stated recently in a leading Church paper that it is estimated that "there are four hundred of our clergy to-day who should have regular and sufficient support guaranteed." How many widows and orphans of clergymen who shrink from making their circumstances known?

The fervent expressions of gratitude which have been called forth in response to the benefactions of this Fund, many of which have been quoted in previous reports, afford the most abundant assurance that this has proved a heavenly charity, benign, gracious, and far-reaching in its influence. It has been twice blessed — blessing those who gave and those who received, and, we may well believe, bringing a benediction upon the whole Church in whose name it has been administered. Surely the Church has reason to give full-hearted thanks to God for the good that has been done through the agency of this Fund in the years that are past.

May it not be justly claimed that the Fund has earned for itself the largest measure of confidence and the most liberal support? Does it not deserve to have its powers of usefulness enlarged? Should it not be provided with money enough to meet efficiently the needs which grow and must continue to increase with the growth of the Church?

If the Christian who neglects to provide for his own household be accounted worse than an infidel, how can the Church of God permit her devoted clergy, when sickness or age lays them low, to be deprived of comfort, or when death removes them from their homes, suffer their families to have added to their weight of grief the distresses of poverty? Do we not feel and know that it is but right that the clergyman who has spent himself in his Master's service should receive from the Church a sufficient support? Are we not perfectly agreed that when such an one is taken away from his dependent family, that family should be upheld by the tender care of the Church?

If these questions carry their answers with them, if the answers implied are axioms, then shall not measures be taken without delay to put this Fund upon a sure and permanent foundation for its beneficent ends?

The Trustees are informed that the General Missionary Society is obliged to pay out of the current funds for missions each year about $5,000 for disabled missionaries, and for the families of missionaries, who have served in the foreign field. The cases which are thus cared for properly come within the object of this Fund, but the limitations of the Fund have made it impossible hitherto to attempt to meet them. Were the amount at the disposal of the Trustees much larger than it has been, it should be used first to increase the amounts allowed to the present beneficiaries, but it may well be considered whether such enlargement of the annual income can be provided as would not only take care of the disabled foreign missionaries, but also provide half-pay for Bishops and others in the home field, who, by reason of age or sickness, may be unable to continue in their work.

The General Convention has always received the reports of the Trustees with sympathetic interest, and has responded to them with feeling resolutions and recommendations for increasing the means at the disposal of the Trustees. Thus the General Convention of 1880 requested the clergy to reserve a percentage of all communion alms, not less than one per cent nor more than ten per cent, to be paid over to this Fund, and repeatedly the clergy have been urged by the General Convention to take offerings in their parishes for the Fund.

The Trustees would respectfully ask the Convention to consider whether some definite and authoritative action should not be taken looking to a regular supply of the Fund by offerings in all parishes on a stated day each year, and whether a general Canon upon the subject of this Fund should not now be adopted.

The Trustees have adopted the following resolution :

Resolved, That in the judgment of this Board it is greatly to be desired that the Church should secure and sacredly guard its copyright in the Book of Common Prayer, and that all profits derived therefrom should be devoted to the Fund designed for the care and relief of those who have given their lives to the dissemination of the Prayer Book and its principles."

OTHER AGENCIES FOR CLERGY RELIEF.

I. While many of the Dioceses have established funds for the relief of their disabled clergy, and for widows and orphans, yet in only a few instances are they sufficient to meet the needs in the Diocese, and in all cases there are conditions of term of residence, etc., which make some of their clergy ineligible to the benefits of the funds. Hence the General Fund is called upon for aid in every Diocese and Missionary Jurisdiction, and, as a Bishop writes: "If it were not for the aid of the General Fund in several quarters in my Diocese, I should find our own Diocesan Fund quite insufficient."

The clergy in removing from a Diocese forfeit their rights in the fund of that Diocese, and it may require years of residence in another Diocese before they can acquire rights like those which they lost by removal. It has been well said that "the need can only be adequately supplied by a general fund. The clergy are changing from one Diocese to another, and no one knows in what Diocese he may be when he becomes disabled. He belongs to the Church at large, and to that he must look in time of need."

II. There are corporations which have been long established in some of the older States which pay an annuity or insurance to the families of those who die members of the society, if they have been members for a term of years.

III. Of general societies there are (a) Clergymen's Mutual Insurance League, which upon the death of a member assesses two dollars each upon the surviving members, to be paid to the heirs of the deceased. (b) Clergymen's Retiring Fund Society, which pays a dividend to members of five years' standing who have passed sixty years of age.

This Fund established by the General Convention, as the Church's provision to meet the needs of all disabled clergymen and the needs of widows and orphans of deceased clergymen, differs from all other agencies which have especial purposes and necessary limitations and rules, in that it applies no tests, attaches no conditions, requires no payments or membership dues, admits of no forfeiture, but offers its benefits to all clergymen of this Church who may be disabled, whether by age or infirmities, and to the families of all clergymen who die in the communion of this Church.

The Trustees submit, therefore, that in view of the fact that this Fund is the General Convention's creation; that it is the Church's appointed agent to the several ends stated in its charter; in view of its comprehensive character and of the great and blessed work which it has done through a period of twenty years; and in view of its capacity for greater and greater usefulness as ability shall be granted to it—in view of all these things, the Trustees submit that this Fund has a sacred and solemn claim upon the unqualified and generous support of the Church; that it should be the rallying point of all the clergy and laity for the objects for which it was originally designed, and which it has faithfully, and with a large measure of success, fulfilled.

The Trustees further would inquire whether it be not possible and desirable to establish a correspondence between this General Fund and all kindred funds and societies in the Church, to the end that there may be an understanding, and, so far as practicable, co-operation between all the agencies; that there may be a general bureau to at least record all that is done by the Church in this matter of clergy relief, that it may be done with intelligence and in the best and most efficient way.

The Trustees, in closing their seventh triennial report, would remark again upon the economy with which this trust has been administered. That no charge has been made against the Fund for the expenses of correspondence, advertising, printing reports and circulars, and the various services which have been incident to the collecting of $178,371.79, and the disbursing of $153,365 in small amounts through a period extending over twenty years, is a record to which the Trustees refer with pardonable pride. Their associates in the Board of Trustees cannot refrain from expressing their high sense of the invaluable services of their co-trustees, the Treasurer and the Secretary of the Fund, and their grateful appreciation of the continuous generosity with which those gentlemen have personally paid the expenses in the administration of the Fund.

Respectfully submitted.

APPENDIX VI.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON MEMORIALS OF DECEASED MEMBERS.

It is good to pause in the labour and worry of the outward business of the House of God for an hour's inspiration from the lives of those who once standing here, have finished their course and do now rest from their labours.

We need the help of that inspiration lest we become weary in well doing. And we need the reminder furnished by thoughts of the departures of the last three years that the time is coming when we too "shall give account."

The roll about to be called in your hearing is one fuller than usual of names, and of honoured names. Having honoured them in life the Church cannot afford to let them die. Hence the present commemorative service. The unusual number of departures from among us brings uppermost the thought of two lines of that majestic hymn of the saints,

"The golden evening brightens in the west,
Soon, soon to faithful warriors comes their rest."

The Committee give you the names placed before them in the order of time so far as the dates of deaths have been furnished.

The Hon. Henry Rufus Pierson, LL.D., born in Charleston, Montgomery County, N. Y., June 13, 1819. He graduated from Union College in 1846; he was admitted to the bar in 1848. In 1860 he was made president of the Brooklyn city railroads. In 1866 he was elected to the Senate of the State of New York. In 1871 he was made a director of the New York Central Railroad, with residence in Albany. In 1872 he was elected a regent of the University of the State of New York; in 1878 Vice-Chancellor and in 1881 Chancellor of the Board of Regents. These positions of trust and honour came naturally, and reflect the character of the man. He was pre-eminently public-spirited, and his vigor of understanding, his large way of looking at things, his frank, genial manner, his wit and easy flow of speech admirably equipped him for public life. He was one of the lay deputies from Albany in the last General Convention held in New York. He died in Albany, January 1, 1890, and was buried from St. Peter's Church in that city.

Mr. Robert J. McCandlish, of Parkersburg, W. Va., was born in the city of Norfolk, Va., on January 29, 1820. Removing, while still a young man, to that portion of the Diocese of Virginia which is now within the limits of the Diocese of West Virginia, he passed nearly forty years of his life there. During the earlier portion of this period he was a member of St. Paul's Parish, Weston, and for the last eighteen years of his life of Trinity Parish, Parkersburg. During almost the whole period he was vestryman, first in the one parish and then in the other, and he frequently represented his parish in Diocesan Conventions. He was notably active in connection with the formation of the Diocese of West Virginia, and after its formation gave to it to the end of his life his faithful, devoted, and laborious services in the office of Treasurer of its various funds. He represented the Diocese in the General Convention in most, if not all, of its sessions held since the date of its formation, and was eminently faithful in the discharge of his duties in this as in all other relations. His last service in this capacity was rendered in the Convention of 1889, soon after which he was called to his reward. He died in Parkersburg, W. Va., where he had been senior warden of the parish for many years, on February 22, 1890.

He was a man of singular modesty, of remarkable gentleness of disposition, of simple and unassuming bearing. Yet he has left upon the two communities where his later years were passed the unfading impress of a pure and lofty character and of a holy and consecrated life.

John Ray Clarke was a lay deputy of the last Convention from Central New York. He was born in Chenango County in that State in 1828. Removing to Binghamton in 1875 he became an influential citizen, devoting himself to the welfare of his city, and especially to the interests of Trinity Parish which he was largely instrumental in establishing.

At the time of his death he was President of the Binghamton Board of Trade, also of the Security Life Association, and senior warden of Trinity Church, to which he gave liberally of his means. He died at Narragansett Pier, August 19, 1890.

The Rev. John M. Sellwood was brought up and educated in Oregon and ordained to the diaconate in 1862, and in due time to the priesthood. All of his ministry was spent in Oregon; first in Salem, Oregon City, and neighbouring towns, and lastly in East Portland, as rector of St. David's Church, where, after a faithful, eminently successful ministry of several years, he passed to his well-earned rest in the spring of 1890. He was Secretary of the Convocation of the Missionary Jurisdiction of Oregon and Washington, and afterwards of Oregon until 1889, when Oregon became a Diocese, having held that position for twenty years, and still occupied that honourable position at the date of his death.

He was a member of this House of Deputies in the General Convention of 1889, to which position he had also been appointed as a delegate from the Missionary Jurisdiction of Oregon in two previous General Conventions.

In the death of the Rev. Daniel Raynes Goodwin, D.D., LL.D., of the Diocese of Pennsylvania, the Church and the General Convention have met with a loss which it would be difficult to over-estimate. A deputy to the Convention for twenty-seven years, and latterly the Chairman of the Committee on Canons in the House, it is safe to say that there is no one who was more conscientious in the time and strength which he gave to his duties, or whose contributions of wisdom and learning in debate and counsel were more valuable.

Daniel Raynes Goodwin was born April 12, 1811, in North Berwick, York County, Maine. He graduated from Bowdoin College at the head of his class in 1832; was tutor at Bowdoin in 1835; professor from 1835 to 1853, and librarian from 1838 to 1853; was ordered deacon on July 13, 1847, and priest on September 10, 1848. He was president of Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., 1853 to 1860, and provost of the University of Pennsylvania from 1860 to 1868. He was professor of Apologetics, and later of Systematic Divinity in the Philadelphia Divinity School from 1862 to 1890. He was a deputy from Maine to the General Convention of 1853, and from Pennsylvania from 1862 until his death. In 1853 Bowdoin College conferred upon him the degree of Doctor of Divinity, and the University of Pennsylvania made him a Doctor of Laws in 1868. He was the first president of "The Society of Biblical Literature and Exegesis," a member of the Pennsylvania Philosophical and Historical Societies, as also of many other kindred associations.

From the above statistics alone it would be readily concluded that Dr. Goodwin was no ordinary man; but to those who were brought into actual relation with him in any of the spheres which he was called upon to fill, such conclusion was more than realized and understood. He was then seen to be a born leader and champion among men, and nowhere more so than on the floor of this House, where his keen and searching mind, coupled with a wide and thorough cultivation in all matters which he dealt with, made him at once the brilliant debater and the wise and judicious legislator that he pre-eminently was. To those who were permitted the privilege of a nearer personal approach, a closer acquaintance showed him to be as well a man of the deepest and tenderest feeling, and of a spirit which under the guidance and inspiration of the God whose he was and whom he served, was indeed rich and rare.

Mr. J. Bodwell Doe, of Janesville, Wis., was one of the oldest members of General Convention, taking his seat as a deputy from Wisconsin in the Convention of 1853, the first in which that Diocese was represented, in the lay order. Mr. Doe was a deputy to the General Conventions of 1853, 1856, 1859, 1868, 1871, 1877, 1880, 1883, 1886, and 1889. From the organization of the Diocese of Wisconsin in 1847, he was one of its foremost laymen, and was senior warden of Trinity Church, Janesville, for almost the whole of the history of that parish, one of the oldest in Wisconsin. Mr. Doe passed to his rest in July, 1890.

Col. Levin Woolford, a deputy from the Diocese of Easton to the Convention of 1889, entered into rest September 29, 1890, the Feast of St. Michael and All Angels, aged 71 years.

He was for forty-seven years a faithful and most efficient vestryman of his parish; many times a member of the Diocesan Convention, a true, devoted, and consistent Churchman.

In the words of his Bishop, "He was conscientious in the discharge of duty, and faithful to every trust. He served God and His Church, not by proxy and bare substitute, but in his own person. He was not content to give God the poor ends and fragments of his leisure time and vacant hours; he gave him the first fruits of the dawn and the heart of the day. He trenched, if at all, rather upon the prescribed and venerable enclosure of our six days' toil, and laid its consecrated fruits upon the altar of Him who measures out all our times. It will be no easy task to fill his place, to emulate his virtues, and to copy his example."

Samuel L. Mather, of Ohio, departed this life in October, 1890, aged 73 years. He was for thirty-eight years a vestryman and warden of Trinity Church, Cleveland, supporting by his efforts and gifts the good works of that parish. He was for many years treasurer of the Missionary Committee of the Diocese of Ohio, cheerfully discharging the duties of that office, and furthering by his aid its missionary work.

He was a member of the General Convention of this Church from the year 1880, and in this capacity, as in all others, he made his strong and solid qualities felt. His life was a worthy example of Christian wisdom, consistency, and liberality. He was a Churchman whose spirit of loyalty was tempered by a moderation of opinion and sentiment which lent a peculiar might to all his utterances and positions.

His death was a distinct loss to the Diocese of Ohio and to the Church at large, and his place will not easily be filled.

The Rev. Elias Birdsall was born in Hammondsport, N. Y., February 21, 1831. He educated at Nashotah, ordained to the diaconate in St. Paul's Church, Richmond, Ind., January 4, 1856, and made priest in Trinity Church, Fort Wayne, Ind., June, 1857. He departed this life at Los Angeles, Cal., November 4, 1890. He was a deputy to the General Convention from that State at the time of his death.

W. R. DeWitt, M.D., a lay deputy from the Diocese of Florida in the General Convention of 1889, since deceased. Dr. De Witt was a descendant of an eminent Presbyterian family, and having examined the claims of our Church, became one of her most earnest, devout, and faithful sons to the end of his life.

The Rev. Israel Harding was born in the county of Beaufort in the Diocese now known as East Carolina, May 23, 1829, and for nearly thirty-six years faithfully served his Master as a priest of this Church. He was a man of natural ability, of fervent spirit, of devoted piety. Missionary work was his delight, and his success made him a hero in that strife, for when on the 13th of January, 1891, he passed to the paradise of rest, he was on the roster of his Diocese as a missionary serving thirteen congregations in six different counties, and in the language of the memorial of the Committee of his Diocese, "Among the missionaries of East Carolina no name shines more brightly than that of Israel Harding."

By his death the Church lost an active and vigorous worker in its general councils.

The churchyard of Trinity Church, Beaufort county, contains all that is mortal of this faithful soldier of Christ.

The Rev. Orlando Hutton, D.D., entered into rest March 13, 1891. He was a graduate of St. John's College, Annapolis, and of the General Theological Seminary in New York. Possessing literary tastes and studious habits, he was noted for his well-informed mind, his polished diction, his forcible speech, his sound judgment, his conservatism and his freedom from extravagance.

Ordained deacon by Bishop Stone at Annapolis, July 31, 1837, he laboured steadily in the State of Maryland for fifty-four years, choosing during almost the whole of that ministry to serve in feeble parishes, yielding to the claims upon him rather than the prospect of success; he was known by his devotion to duty, his self-denial, and desire to spare his flock in the matter of his support.

Working in fields where there was but little encouragement he was noted for his bright and hopeful spirit, for the keen appreciation of the good that there was in his people, and for his patient continuance in well doing.

Trusted and honoured by the Diocese, he served frequently in responsible positions—the Committee on the Rights of Clergymen to seats, the Committee on New Parishes and Congregations, as a Trustee of the General Theological Seminary, as the preacher on the occasion of the centenary commemorations of the Diocese, and as a Deputy to the General Convention in 1862 and again in 1871 up to the close of his earthly life. He was a member of the Standing Committee continuously from 1884, and president from 1886. He won the respect, the reverence, the love of every member of the Committee by faithful service, by his wise counsels, by his gentle, courteous, loving influence. The latter part of his life was taken up in writing a biography of Bishop Pinckney.

The Rev. William Payne, D.D., was born in Portland, Conn., May 13, 1815. He graduated from Trinity College, Hartford, and from the General Theological Seminary in the class of 1838. He was admitted to the diaconate July 8, 1838, by Bishop Brownell, and took charge of St. Michael's Church, Litchfield, Conn. In 1844 he accepted the adjunct professorship of Latin in Trinity College. In 1848 he assumed the rectorship of St. George's Church, Schenectady, N.Y. He remained rector of this old and important parish for thirty-six years. He was a faithful priest, eminent as a teacher, fruitful in good works, and beloved by his people. In 1884 he resigned his rectorship. He was the first Archdeacon of the convocation of Albany, and held the position till his death. For eighteen years he was president of the Standing Committee of the Diocese, a deputy to the General Convention from the Diocese of New York in 1865 and 1868, and from the Diocese of Albany from 1871 to 1889.

He died in Schenectady, March 19, 1891.

The late Samuel Benedict, D.D., was for twenty-one consecutive years a deputy in this House, and in the last General Convention the Chairman of the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution. He died very suddenly in Cincinnati, October 6, 1891.

He was born in Litchfield, Conn., February 16, 1824. He graduated from Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., class of 1847, and also from Berkeley Divinity School in 1850. The honorary degree of D.D., was conferred upon him by William and Mary College, Virginia, in 1850. His first charge in the ministry was St. James's Parish, West Hartford, Conn., 1852-1856. His subsequent charges have been assistant minister of Trinity Church, New Haven, Conn., 1856-1858; the rector of St. James's Church, Marietta, Ga., 1858-1867; the rector of St. John's Church, Savannah, Ga., 1867-1877; the rector of St. Paul's Church, Cincinnati, Ohio, 1877-1891. For seventeen years he was on the Standing Committee in the Diocese of Georgia; was Chairman of the Standing Committee, Diocese of Southern Ohio, 1880-1885.

Mr. George E. B. Jackson, of the Diocese of Maine, was born in the city of Portland, Me., August 14, 1829, and entered into rest in his native city, October 19, 1891.

While honoured and esteemed for his profound learning and practical wisdom, he was no less respected for his probity of life and uprightness of character. He was a sound and devoted Churchman, and while prominent in civil affairs, his chiefest interest was in the nobler work committed to the Church of God, and for the promotion of that work he was ever ready to devote his time, his talents, and his substance.

Mr. Jackson was with us in our last Convention, and many of the old members will miss his wise and prudent words in their deliberations.

The Rev. Eben Edwards Beardsley, D.D., LL.D., was born in Connecticut in the year 1808, departed this life St. Thomas Day, 1891. His life of four score and four years was distinguished by nearly sixty years of duties done for the good of men and for the glory and honour of the Divine Master. Honours accumulated upon him and sought him out because from his diligence and fidelity in each position that he filled it was manifest that he was fitted for other and higher places. A graduate of Trinity College, he became a tutor in that institution, then the principal of the academy, then for thirteen continuous years a rector of one parish, and for the last forty-three years of his life rector of St. Thomas's Church, New Haven. Through these long years the sweet affections of paternal and filial relations were maturing between the father and the children, thus exhibiting a mutual love which is the crown of all religion.

The Church heaped lifelong honours upon this faithful servant of Christ. For forty years he was a Trustee of Trinity College. He was a member of the Standing Committee for thirty-two years, President of this House at the sessions of 1880 and 1883. He was an unwearied servant of Christ in the academy, the parish, the Diocese, and the whole Church.

As the biographer of Bishop Seabury, he has left a volume which exhibits great research and scrupulous care in collecting the facts of those early years of our Church history. He was also author of the life of Doctor Samuel Johnson and of Doctor William Samuel Johnson. He wrote the history of the Church in Connecticut. These and many other writings have indissolubly linked his name with the history of the Church, and secured for him a lasting position of honour from coming generations.

Blessed with a long life, crowned with honour after honour, he left an undying testimony in his long pastorates to the words of Holy Writ: "The path of the just is as the shining light that shineth more and more until the perfect day." Blessed be his memory.

For many years the Rev. Henry Pyne, of the Diocese of Maine, served most faithfully as a parish priest the Church of Christ in this Diocese, and his ripe learning and high character were felt most deeply in the deliberations of the Diocesan Convention for many years past.

A short time after the last General Convention, of which he was a member, he laid aside parish work to accept the responsible position of Secretary of the Commission on Coloured Work, and Warden of King Hall. In the midst of his work he was called to be numbered with the saints in paradise.

The Rev. Cornelius Edwin Swope, S.T.D., was born in Hagerstown, Md.,

May 10, 1826. He received his education from the College of St. James, from which he graduated in 1846. Admitted a candidate for Holy Orders that same year, he was ordained to the diaconate February 24, 1850, and took charge of Trinity Church, Chicago, in April of that year. On the 5th of January, 1851, he was ordained to the priesthood by Bishop Chase in the chapel of Jubilee College, and on the organization of Grace Church, Chicago, May 1851, he became its rector. In May 1854, he was called to be the associate rector of Mt. Calvary Church, Baltimore, and Bishop Whittingham withdrawing after a month, he assumed full charge of the parish. In 1860 he became rector of Trinity Church, Pittsburgh, where he remained till 1867, when he was elected assistant minister of Trinity parish, New York, with special charge of Trinity Chapel. He entered into rest March 28, 1890.

While rector of Trinity Church, Pittsburgh, he was chiefly instrumental in securing the erection of the Diocese of Pittsburgh, and took an active part in the work of organizing the new Diocese.

In the Diocese of New York he filled a conspicuous place, having been repeatedly elected a deputy to the General Convention, and serving as a Trustee of the General Theological Seminary, and as a member of the Board of Managers of the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society. At the General Convention of 1886 he was appointed a member, on the part of the House of Deputies, of the Joint Committee on Liturgical Revision; and in the Convention of 1889 he presented and ably sustained a minority report against any further revision of the Book of Common Prayer.

He was a model of faithfulness as a parish priest, a wise and judicious counsellor in the affairs of the Church, a faithful minister and steward of the mysteries of Christ, a staunch and loyal Churchman, and a man of singularly devout and earnest Christian character. His soul is doubtless with the saints.

The Rev. Joseph Fithian Garrison was born at Fairton, Cumberland County, N.J., January 20, 1823. Graduated from Princeton College 1842. Studied medicine in the University of Pennsylvania, graduating M.D. 1845. Ordained deacon by Bishop G. W. Doane, in St. Paul's Church, Camden, June 3, 1855, and took charge of the parish in September of the same year.

Advanced to the priesthood by Bishop Doane June 15, 1856; instituted rector of St. Paul's Church January 29, 1857, and faithfully served at the same altar for twenty-nine years, resigning his rectorship in 1884 to accept the chair of Liturgics, Canon Law, and Ecclesiastical Polity in the Philadelphia Divinity School. His Alma Mater conferred upon him the honorary degree of D.D. in 1879. Stricken with paralysis in December, 1890, from the effects of which he never fully recovered, he departed this life at his home in Camden, Saturday, January 30, 1892.

Dr. Garrison was at various times intrusted with important duties and responsibilities; being Dean of the Convocation of Burlington. Examining Chaplain, Deputy to the General Convention, President of the Standing Committee, Trustee of the General Theological Seminary, member of the Joint Committee on the Revision of the Prayer Book, Bohlen Lecturer in 1887; Preacher at the centennial of the Diocese of New Jersey in May, 1885. He will be missed from the councils of this Convention, being an authority on Constitution and Canons.

The Rev. John Nicholas Stansbury, a deputy from the Diocese of Newark in the Conventions of 1886 and 1889, was born in Baltimore January 18, 1833. He received his early education at Newton University in that city. Removing to Philadelphia he entered Burlington College, New Jersey, from which he graduated in 1853. He was ordained deacon by Bishop Doane in 1857, and became assistant of Grace Church, Newark.

In 1859 he became rector of Christ Church, a small parish in a part of Newark then thinly settled, and there remained thirty-one years and till stricken down with paralysis on Good Friday, 1890. After a struggle which lasted twenty years and under constant discouragement, the little church was enlarged a few years before his death from funds gathered chiefly by his own personal efforts.

During this time he was actively engaged in the work of the Diocese, first as a member of the Standing Committee and as Dean of the Missionary Convocation of Newark from 1877 till 1889.

Mr. Stansbury was one of the founders of St. Barnabas Hospital in the city of Newark, it having been started in his parish; also participated in the organization of the General Clergy Relief Fund. He was ready from first to last to do what he could in the way of initiating or seconding every missionary and charitable enterprise of the Church within his reach. He died May 28, 1892.

The Rev. William H. Moore, D.D., was born in Newport, R.I., in 1814. Graduating at the General Theological Seminary, he was ordained to the diaconate on June 28, 1840, by the Right Rev. B. T. Onderdonk, and to the priesthood on March 13, 1842, by the Right Rev. A. V. Griswold. He began his ministry at St. Luke's Church, East Greenwich, R.I.; and afterwards laboured for eight years in Manchester, N.H., and Andover, Mass., in both of which places he organized parishes and built churches. On August 25, 1849, he accepted the rectorship of St. George's Church, Hempstead, L.I., where he ministered with great faithfulness and devotion for nearly forty-three years, until his death on the 15th of July, 1892.

Although of delicate organization, Dr. Moore was a man of untiring activity and zeal. Gifted with a clear intellect, sound judgment, independent thought and honest purpose, he rendered valuable service, not only in the Church and community in which he lived, but in his Diocesan Council, in the General Convention for two successive sessions, in the Board of Trustees and of the Associate Alumni of the General Theological Seminary for many years; and has left behind him the cherished memory of a useful and well-spent life.

Mr. John S. Minor, of Michigan, was an early pioneer in the northern part of the State. He was always an earnest Churchman, an humble Christian, and a public benefactor. For many years a vestryman and warden of Trinity Church, Alpena, he retired from business in later life, and became a vestryman of St. John's Church, Detroit. Here his benefactions to the Episcopal Fund, the Trowbridge Memorial Fund for Missions, and to the general work of the Church were large and unostentatious. He was specially interested in the religious life of the home, and published and circulated at his own expense a large edition of a standard book of family prayers.

Sampson C. Bever was born July 31, 1808, in Columbiana County, Ohio, and died at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, August 22, 1892. From the year 1852 to the day of his death he was the mainstay of the parish of Grace Church, Cedar Rapids, Iowa. He was a delegate to every Diocesan Convention from 1853 to 1891. He was provisional Secretary of the first Diocesan Convention in 1853, and was also a delegate to every General Convention but one since 1866. Mr. Bever's character was remarkable for its simplicity and great earnestness of purpose. He was a good man, a true friend, and his Church life was worthy to become an enduring example of faith and faithfulness.

The Rev. James Stuart Hanckel, D.D., was born at Beaufort, South Carolina, July 1, 1817. He graduated from Charleston College with first honours at the age of seventeen. After devoting two years to the study of law he became a candidate for Orders, and took the full course at the General Theological Seminary. Ordained in Charleston, his first labours were as assistant to his father, the Rev. Dr. Christian Hanckel, who was then and for many years afterward rector of St. Paul's in that city. He became rector then successively of St. Andrew's, on Ashley River, and of St. James's, Marietta, Georgia. After two years spent in the last named place he returned to his native State, and became rector of St. Thomas's and St. Dennis's, on Cooper River. During this period of his ministry he was indefatigable and most self-sacrificing in his missionary labours to the coloured people. He spent a good portion of the year 1866, at the request of Bishop Davis, in a visitation of the negroes inhabiting the islands off the coast of South Carolina; and throughout his life he took a deep interest in the religious reformation of that race. Six years later he was elected to the Professorship of Divinity in the Diocesan Theological Seminary at Camden, S.C., and, on its removal during the war, followed it to Spartanburg. Even then he did not give up pastoral work, but founded St. Paul's Church in the French Broad Valley. In 1868 he accepted a call to Christ Church, Charlottesville, Va., and in its rectorship he died, after a prolonged sickness, August 22, 1892. At the time of his death he was the Senior Examining Chaplain of the Diocese, having been appointed on the Board immediately after the passage of the Canon creating the office. Beginning at least with 1868 he has been a continuous member of the House of Deputies, and in every General Convention after that date has been appointed Chairman of the Committee on the Admission of New Dioceses.

He was a man of fine presence, able, learned (especially in theology and canon law), a vigorous but courteous debater, conservative in his judgment, loyal to the Church, a forcible preacher, an untiring pastor, a humble and spiritually minded disciple of Christ.

The Rev. Walter W. Williams, D.D., of Maryland, was a member of the General Convention of 1886. He was a member of the Standing Committee of the Diocese of Maryland, and had been such for eight years at the time of his death, which occurred in July, 1892.

He will be remembered as a man who consecrated all his energies to the service of the Church, and subordinated all his aims and ambitions to the high and holy purpose to be a true ambassador for Christ and a faithful steward of the mysteries of God.

William A. Stewart, Lay Deputy from the Diocese of Maryland to the General Conventions of 1883, 1886, and 1889, was born in the city of Baltimore, December 29, 1825, and died in the same city August 26, 1892.

For forty-five years he was connected with the legal profession, the last ten of these years having been spent on the bench, and both as lawyer and judge his course was such as to win the confidence and respect of his professional brethren and of the community.

He served for many years as vestryman and as trustee of the benevolent institutions of the Church. He was frequently delegate to the Diocesan Convention, where, as member of important committees and on the floor, he showed himself wise and judicious; and he was thrice a deputy to the General Convention. He would doubtless have been elected as deputy to the Convention of 1892, but that the state of his health induced him to say to his friends that it would be impossible for him to serve.

Throughout his career he sought in simplicity and singleness of purpose to do justly and to love mercy and to walk humbly with his God, and to him were vouchsafed the blessings of a happy and cheerful life and a calm and peaceful death.

REPORT OF THE COMMISSION ON ECCLESIASTICAL RELATIONS.

THE Commission on Ecclesiastical Relations respectfully reports :

That, so soon as reappointed, it organized by choosing as Chairman the Right Rev. the Bishop of Western New York, and as Secretary the Rev. Dr. Hale,¹ and that for the more efficient carrying on of the work intrusted to it, the following sub-committees were appointed :

1. On Oriental Churches. — The Bishops of Long Island and Springfield ; the Rev. Drs. Hodges and Hale ; Mr. Nash.

2. On the Old Catholics of Holland, Germany, Switzerland, and Austria. — The Bishops of Western New York, Long Island, and Michigan ; the Rev. Drs. Hale, Vibbert, and Doty ; Messrs. Fish and King.

3. On the Old Catholic Churches of France, Italy, Spain, and Portugal. — The Bishops of Central New York, North Carolina, and Fond du Lac ; the Rev. Drs. Hoffman, Langdon, Nevin, and Satterlee ; Messrs. Jay, Chauncey, and Vanderbilt.

5. On the Moravian Church. — The Bishops of North Carolina and Iowa ; the Rev. Dr. Hale ; Mr. Cutting.

On Correspondence with Foreign Chaplains. — The Rev. Dr. Hale.

During the past three years there have been great changes in the Eastern Patriarchates. While the venerable Sophronius, of whose Episcopal Jubilee we made mention in our last report, is still, in the fifty-fourth year of his Episcopate, "Pope and Patriarch of the great City Alexandria and of all Egypt," each of the other patriarchal sees has a new occupant. Dionysius V., Patriarch of Constantinople, died September 4, 1891, and has been succeeded by Neophytus VIII., late Metropolitan of Nicopolis. About the same time, Nicodemus, Patriarch of Jerusalem, of whose largeness of heart and deep interest in the cause of church unity we have had so repeated cause to speak, was compelled by failing health to resign his see, and is living in retirement near Constantinople. He has been succeeded in the Holy City by one like minded, Gerasimus, late Patriarch of Antioch. We regret to learn that the choice of his successor, Spiridion, has given occasion for considerable dissatisfaction at Damascus, of the grounds of which we are not fully informed. A number of malcontents at Damascus desired, in consequence, to connect themselves with the Anglican Church. It is scarcely needful to say that Bishop Blyth, who, in circumstances of peculiar delicacy, has so combined great prudence and firmness as to win general confidence and regard, has utterly discountenanced anything of the kind. We may mention here that Bishop Blyth is carrying on a very efficient work among the Jews of Palestine and Egypt, and in doing this has richly deserved the help which has been given him by American churchmen, and which we trust may be continued to him more and more.

The following letter has recently been received from Constantinople :

NEOPHYTUS, BY THE MERCY OF GOD, ARCHBISHOP OF CONSTANTINOPLE, NEW ROME, AND ŒCUMENICAL PATRIARCH.

✠ To the Very Reverend, the Dean of the Cathedral of Davenport, CHARLES R. HALE, Secretary of the Commission on Ecclesiastical Relations, of the Great Synod of the American Church, Grace to your Reverence and Peace from God.

We received with much pleasure your esteemed letter of June 8, with the accompanying Journal of the General Convention of the American Church, and the report of the Commission on Ecclesiastical Relations. Examining these with much interest, we render you hearty thanks for so kindly sending these, and pray that the boundless grace of the Lord may rest upon your Reverence.

✠ THE PATRIARCH OF CONSTANTINOPLE, who prays for you fervently in Christ.

AUGUST 1, 1892.

Several letters have been received from Nicodemus of Jerusalem, both before and since the resignation of his patriarchal see, all full of that friendliness which has ever characterized his communications to us. Our Secretary has also received a kind letter from the Council of the Ecclesiastical Academy at St. Petersburg.

An article by a distinguished Russian ecclesiastic, showing a misunderstanding of certain matters connected with the Anglican Church, having appeared in the Tserkovnie Vaistnik, the principal Church newspaper of Russia, the editor very willingly inserted a communication in a subsequent issue of that paper correcting the unintentional misstatement.

At the time of the consecration to the Episcopate of our Secretary, we are informed that prayers were offered in his behalf by several Eastern hierarchs, and very kindly notices appeared in church newspapers of Constantinople and St. Petersburg.

The Archbishop's mission to Assyrian Christians has been steadily and successfully pursuing its work. One of our number had the opportunity a year since of meeting Canon Maclean, now Dean of Argyll and the Isles, and the Rev. Mr. Browne, the pioneers in this work, and of learning from them of its good progress. Here again American churchmen have had the privilege of co-operating in a good cause, helping to sustain a number of village schools, taught by native teachers but under the direct supervision and guidance of the heads of the mission.

The Society for the Furtherance of Christianity in Egypt feels that it has great reason for encouragement.

The schools for girls, founded by the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Hill at Athens, and now respectively under the charge of Miss Masson (a niece of Mrs. Hill) and Miss Muir, are continuing their most useful work.

At the 191st anniversary of the venerable Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, held in St. James' Hall, London, June 16, 1892, the Archbishop of Canterbury used the following language: "There is another point of immense importance, which I do not think is recognized by this great and venerable society. I do not think we sufficiently recognize the importance of the Eastern Churches for the Christianity of the future. I have said it before in this place, and am persuaded of it, that we, born of Japhet, are not the people who will bring back the people of Islam. I believe that they must be brought back by Oriental Christians; and we must have close touch with Oriental Christians, who regard us with favour and affection, and who in many respects are weak, oppressed, and downtrodden, and give them the fraternal hand. But more, I believe it is these Oriental people who will bring back Christianity to the Eastern world. I would, therefore, cultivate closer relations with Eastern Churches, and would do all they will allow us in the way of bringing Western knowledge of the Bible, Western belief in the Bible, Western criticism of the Bible, and the knowledge of the primitive condition and faith of their own forefathers, to which we have striven to return. I would do all that can be done to help educate, cultivate, bring forward, and raise these Eastern Churches, from no sentimental views, but simply that they must be the missionaries of the future. If we are training up missionaries of our own, we ought to be doing our best to train up Orientals as great missionaries of the East. It is in this direction that I see the restoration of the Old World to Christ."

In our last report we mentioned the intention of holding an International Old Congress in 1890. Such a Congress was held in Cologne, September 11-14, 1890. There were present, of the Old Catholics, the Archbishop of Utrecht, the Bishops of Haarlem and Deventer, Bishop Reinkens and Bishop Herzog, Pfarrer Cech (Diocesan Administrator for Austria), M. Loyson, of France, Prof. Cichetti, of Italy, and about two hundred delegates clerical and lay. There were also in attendance the Bishop of Salisbury, and Bishop Jenner, the Rev. R. S. Oldham, one of the Secretaries of the Anglo-Continental Society, the Rev. Johannes Rockstroh, of the Diocese of Springfield, and other Anglican clergy, the Archpriest Janysheff, Dean of the Russian Imperial Chapels, and other clergy of the Eastern Church, and that hearty sympathizer with the Old Catholic movement, Professor Nippold, of Jena.

We are told by one who was present, that "religious earnestness marked all the proceedings," and that, in the words of one of the principal speakers, "It was not hatred of Rome which united all who were taking part in the Congress, but the hope of the triumph of the kingdom of God in the truth."

March 1, 1891, Bishop Reinkens celebrated his seventieth birthday. On this day he received innumerable letters and telegrams of congratulation from all parts of Germany, and also from Austria, Switzerland, Holland, England, and America. An offering of affection was made him by German Old Catholics, amounting to twelve thousand marks, which he was asked to devote to any Old Catholic object, at his discretion. Prof. Beyschlag thus wrote of him: "If one may judge of a community by its leader, then there must be something apostolic in Old Catholicism, so earnest, so amiable, so strict in conscience, and so liberal in spirit does this man show himself to be. . . . A man of piety, of clear depth and genial warmth, a man of faith and love, reminding us verily of these venerable figures of primitive Bishops who, in the early days of the second and third centuries, represented the nascent Church in the midst of a hostile world."

The Old Catholics of Lucerne, Switzerland, had, until recently, no fitting place for divine service. In seeking to provide themselves such they met with one obstacle after another. At length, August 15, 1891, the corner stone of Christ Church, Lucerne, was laid by Bishop Herzog, the Bishop of Salisbury being present and delivering an address. March 19, 1892, the twenty-fifth anniversary of Bishop Herzog's ordination to the priesthood, he had the pleasure of consecrating this Church. Of the thirty thousand dollars which was spent upon the building and the site, a considerable part was given by American churchmen. By agreement, the American Church has a right to the use of the sacred edifice at certain hours on each Sunday.

The second International Old Catholic Congress was held at Lucerne, Switzerland, September 11-15, 1892. There were present, of the Old Catholics, the Archbishop of Utrecht, Bishop Reinkens, Bishop Herzog, Pfarrer Cech (Diocesan Administrator for Austria), Professor Friedrich, Pfarrer Van Santen, M. Loyson, Count Campello, Señor Cabrera, from Spain, Dr. Janvier, from Haiti; from the Anglican Church, the Archbishop of Dublin, the Bishops of Salisbury and Worcester, Canon Meyrick, and the Rev. R. S. Oldham, of the Anglo-Continental Society; from the Eastern Church, the Archbishop of Patras, the Archpriest Janysheff, and General Kirdeef. There was also a representative of the Armenian Church, Professor Theodore Isaac, from Jerusalem.

The following were among the resolutions passed:

"Old Catholicism is no mere protest against the new dogmas of the Vatican, and in particular that of Papal Infallibility, but is a return to the true Catholicism of the ancient and undivided Church, rising above the corruption of the Papal Jesuit Church system, and a call to all Christian communities to union upon the basis of Christian antiquity."

"While we acknowledge that there are still a large number of faithful Catholics in the Romish Church, we declare that the term 'Catholic' cannot be given to the official dogmas of the Vatican Council, and the now prevailing Ultramontane system. The name belongs to those who accept the universal Christian faith of the ancient and undivided Church. We therefore invite Protestants of all denominations not to give the name of 'Catholic' to the official system of the Romish Church, and least of all to regard the Romish Church as exclusively the Catholic Church, since it neither represents the universal teaching of the ancient Church, nor its universal Christian discipline and customs."

A correspondent of the Guardian newspaper says: "It is impossible not to recognize that the influence of Old Catholicism is steadily though slowly advancing, and, as regards material progress, it may be noted that during the last ten years six new churches have been built and three or four more are at the present in course of erection, while the numerical increase at least is considerable. But looked at as a moral force, there can be no doubt of the growth. It is gradually leavening larger areas of society in all countries where it has been duly organized."

At Arrone, in Italy, a church built for the congregation under the charge of Count Campello, was consecrated by Bishop Herzog, September 27, 1891. A Synod, or Conference, was held the three following days, in which Count Campello was elected Diocesan Administrator for Italian Old Catholics. A draft office for the Holy Communion and other liturgical forms were considered, and steps taken toward organization.

In Austria, France, Spain, and Portugal, things remain much the same as at the time of our last report.

All which is respectfully submitted.

APPENDIX VIII.

REPORT OF THE REGISTRAR.

THE Registrar of the General Convention respectfully presents the following report:

Immediately after his election at the last General Convention, the entries of consecrations in the Book of Record that had been omitted for ten years were filled out and the signatures of at least three Bishops to each act of consecration were obtained. Defective letters of consecration were altered, and a number of missing letters were made out and filed.

The Registrar has attended, either in person or by the appointment of a deputy registrar, the following consecrations:

The consecration of the Right Rev. William Andrew Leonard, D.D., on October 12, 1889, at St. Thomas's Church, New York.

The consecration of the Right Rev. Thomas Frederick Davies, D.D., LL.D., at St. Peter's Church, Philadelphia, on October 18, 1889.

The consecration of the Right Rev. Anson R. Graves, D.D., LL.D., at Gethsemane Church, Minneapolis, January 1, 1890.

The consecration of the Right Rev. William Ford Nicholls, D.D., at St. James's Church, Philadelphia, June 24, 1890.

The consecration of the Right Rev. Edward Robert Attwill, D.D., at Trinity Church, Toledo, October 14, 1890.

The consecration of the Right Rev. Henry Melville Jackson, D.D., at St. Paul's Church, Selma, Alabama, on January 21, 1891.

The consecration of the Right Rev. Davis Sessums, D.D., at Christ Church, New Orleans, on June 24, 1891.

The consecration of the Right Rev. Phillips Brooks, D.D., at Trinity Church, Boston, on October 14, 1891.

The consecration of the Right Rev. Isaac Lea Nicholson, S.T.D., at St. Mark's Church, Philadelphia, on October 28, 1891.

The consecration of the Right Rev. Cleland Kinloch Nelson, D.D., at St. Luke's Cathedral, Atlanta, Georgia, on February 24, 1892.

The consecration of the Right Rev. Charles Reuben Hale, D.D., LL.D., at Davenport Cathedral, Davenport, Iowa, on July 26, 1892.

At all these consecrations duplicate letters of consecration were signed by all the consecrating Bishops and one of these letters placed on file in the Registrar's office. Entries of these consecrations were also made in the Book of Record, and are now ready for the signatures of the Bishops.

The Registrar received from the Bishop of Iowa, in 1891, the first instalment of the documents belonging to the General Convention in his possession. After having had the Registrar's office prepared for their reception he examined and arranged them for future reference. A list of these documents is added to this report. A number of boxes of pamphlets and manuscripts, received from the family of the late Registrar, were so filled with dust and dirt that any further examination of them beyond placing them on the shelves was deferred until a later date. As far as examined they were of very little importance. It was the Registrar's intention to sort out of this collection anything that might be of value and index and arrange it. But the unauthorized use of the Registrar's room as a store room for old furniture, without the knowledge of the Dean of the Seminary or of the Registrar, has made this impossible. Assurances are given that hereafter the room will be used solely for the Registrar's papers.

A set of stereotype plates of "The Book Annexed" was received from E. & J. B. Young, publishers, of New York. As two other sets of these plates are in existence, and as they never can be of any use and occupy valuable room, it would be advisable to order the publishers to destroy them.

The Prayer Books presented to the Convention by the widow of the Rev. Dr. Harison are in the Registrar's room and can be examined by any who desire to consult them.

The Registrar expects to receive from the Bishop of Iowa the documents and papers belonging to the General Convention which are now in his keeping. With these carefully indexed and filed, he hopes to make a beginning of a collection which may be of value to the Church and induce collectors to add to it contributions which will be of interest to future historians.

The Registrar respectfully asks the Bishops to furnish by the aid of some competent person in each Diocese, a complete set of Convention Journals.

It will be very difficult to gather together original documents which should be in the Church's possession but which are now scattered, or have found their way into private libraries. Many priceless papers have been destroyed.

But it is the earnest intention of the Registrar with such assistance as he can receive from the Bishops and clergy and the laity, to repair as far as he can, the neglect of the past. To this end he earnestly asks the aid and co-operation of the whole Church.

Respectfully submitted.

J. LIVINGSTON REESE,
Registrar of the General Convention.

REPORT OF THE COMMISSION ON CHRISTIAN UNITY.

To the House of Bishops and the House of Deputies of the General Convention:

THE Commission on Christian Unity respectfully reports:

Since the meeting of the last General Convention we have continued to act under the instructions given us by the two Houses of the General Convention "to confer with all and any similar Commissions for the restoration of the unity of the Church on the basis of those things declared essential elements of such basis by the House of Bishops" at the General Convention of 1886.

During the year 1890 we received from the Committee on Christian Unity of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church a duly attested notification of the passage, without dissent, by their General Assembly on the 24th of May of that year, a resolution as follows:

"The Assembly approves in general the spirit and position of the Committee on Church Unity in its correspondence with the representatives of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and desires a continuance of these negotiations with reference to a union on the basis of the four propositions of the House of Bishops, in order that all questions at issue may be discussed in a temper of Christian charity and brotherly affection, with a view to their full and final solution."

Efforts were made to prepare a proper response, but it was found impracticable to commit to writing any suggestions in the line of such conference until after opportunity was had by private, oral interchange of views to know and understand the minds of our Presbyterian brethren. Such opportunity did not present itself until the evening of the 11th of October last past, when our Commission met in this city the representatives of the Presbyterian Committee and entered into a full and free discussion of the propositions propounded by the House of Bishops as the essential elements of the basis upon which in our opinion any scheme of unity must be built. That such conference could be held, and those taking part in it go out feeling that it was indeed a beginning of the end so devoutly sought and earnestly prayed for, not alone by all of us, but as we are assured by thousands who are not of us, was, we believe, a very great gain.

Your Commission are prepared to report that we have assurances that the great evil and sin of separation among those who call upon the name of Christ and profess to be of His body is keenly felt, and is coming to be largely acknowledged.

There was a day, not remote, when these truths were obscured and men gloried in their divisions. Your Commission cannot but feel that the Holy Spirit hath greatly manifested His power over the hearts and affections of men. We cannot but recognize the signs of the times, which we think we mistake not, but rather confidently interpret as harbingers of the day when all who bear the Holy Name shall be one, even as the Father and the Son are one, and the world shall know, and take comfort in knowing, that the Son was indeed sent into the world to redeem it and lead it back to the bosom of the Father.

Your Commission have further to report that we have the assurance from the Presbyterian Committee that they perceive and frankly declare that corporate union and unity must be the ultimate of our quest; that the idea of an invisible Church is not and cannot be one that reflects and symbolizes the unity that is between the Father and the Son. This declaration we esteem a distinct and most important gain, for it is the basic principle that lies at the beginning of a logical process that must lead on to the attainment of the very highest and best of results.

So far have we gone. The progress has been important and the prospect seems to us hopeful for the future. A corporate body without a polity instantly develops anarchy. The necessity for the declaration of our fourth proposition as an essential element of unity becomes plain and unmistakable.

Our times are in God's hand. He leads us as He will. We advance as He guides us, and light shines upon the mind of man at His pleasure.

Your Commission therefore reports much progress. We also report that very much yet remains to be done, and hence we ask for the passage by this General Convention of the same resolution passed three years ago, and which is as follows:

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That the Commission on Christian Unity be continued, and that it be authorized to confer with all and any similar commissions for the restoration of the unity of the Church on the basis of those things declared essential elements of such basis by the House of Bishops at the General Convention of 1886; and that the presiding officer of the House of Bishops and of the House of Deputies be authorized to fill any vacancies that may occur during the recess.

By order of the Commission.

RICHARD H. WILMER, Chairman.

HERMAN E. DUNCAN, Secretary.

APPENDIX XI.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON CHRISTIAN EDUCATION.

LEAVE having been given in both Houses that the Committees on Christian Education should sit together, the following report is submitted as the result of the deliberations of the Joint Committee.

It is the duty of the Committee on Christian Education to define at the very outset its relation to the Church University Board of Regents which has already brought the subject of education before the General Convention at this session.

Has the existence of this new organization limited the functions or removed any of the responsibility hitherto attaching to this Committee, or are its duties as wide in their scope and as grave in their character as before?

The Joint Committee is of the opinion that the Church University Board of Regents does not trench at all on the field which your Committee has hitherto occupied, and that in the nature of things it cannot possibly interfere with the duties which the Houses devolve on the latter.

The Church University Board of Regents is a permanent bureau appointed to watch over and advance the interests of Christian education between the sessions of the General Convention.

It is an executive agent commissioned to carry out a certain plan, and therefore its work must be subject to the review of the body which has created it.

The Joint Committee on Christian Education, on the other hand, is not permanent in character. It exists only during the session of the General Convention. Its office is to formulate the work of the Houses when legislating on the particular subject committed to it, and therefore it is expected to receive and consider the petitions, memorials, and resolutions presented to it, to take under review the whole field of education in the home, in the Sunday-school, and in the institution of learning, together with the agencies for the advancement of the same; and to reflect as far as possible the mind of the Church regarding the training of Christian youth.

If this be a correct understanding of the duties of the Committee on Christian Education, it would seem proper that the report of the Church University Board of Regents should first be referred to your Committee before being submitted to the General Convention.

The Archbishop of Canterbury has recently said that Christian education seeks not merely "to occupy the mind, but to form the character."

It recognizes that our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ is the true light which lighteth every man that cometh into the world, and therefore it knows that spiritual truth is the only true basis of culture.

Hence it is the duty of the Church to place its system of catechetical instruction in the very front of its plans of education.

The Church declares in its Catechism what a Christian man must believe, and how he must live; it also teaches him to pray, and points out to him the means of grace. When did men need this teaching more urgently than to-day? On all sides we find misrepresentation of what the Christian religion is, and misconception of what it implies. The faith of the Christian is derided, and the law of Christ is openly defied.

Amid such influences our people live and die; how necessary, then, is it that they should be fortified against them by an intelligent apprehension of the positive truths of our holy religion, and by training in definite religious habits. The adherents of some religious bodies are accurately instructed in the doctrines peculiar to their sect, but Churchmen too frequently have most indefinite and erroneous ideas both of the Church and its doctrine, and the obligations it lays upon them. The fatal flaw in their education is that they have not been duly trained in the Church's system of catechetical instruction. Let a child be taught the rule of faith, the law of Christian living, the way of prayer, and the means of grace, and then, as teaching without practice is indeed dead, let him be led to apply those principles to his daily life, and much will have been done to arm him for the great battle with evil.

Therefore the Committee would urgently advocate the vital importance of catechetical instruction.

It would urge all ministers of the Church to do what in them lies to bring the power of this teaching close to every soul in their cure; it would insist upon it, in the home, in the Sunday-school, and in the institution of learning, believing that the motto of the oldest school of the Anglican Church must always be the watchword of every worker in the field of Christian education: "Domine mea illuminatio."

While a survey of the educational work of the Church will show us much to make us glad and thankful, it will also disclose many deficiencies. Two or three of these the Committee would briefly enumerate, believing that the first step toward better things is a plain statement of our wants.

First. We would call attention to the need of Normal Departments in our Church colleges where men and women desiring to follow the vocation of the Christian teacher can be trained for their work.

The demand for efficient, thoroughly equipped teachers is far in excess of the supply. While teachers of some sort may be obtained with little difficulty, trained instructors are comparatively rare: and there are few indeed who, together with learning and aptness for teaching, possess that knowledge of the Church's history and doctrine and that devoted love for its ways which we ought to find in a teacher of a Church school.

It is not surprising that suitable teachers for our Church schools are difficult to obtain. While we have seminaries for the training of the parish priest, where have we provided a Normal Department in any of our colleges in which men and women can be fitted for the duties of the Christian teacher?

And yet there is no vocation where the untrained worker finds himself at a greater disadvantage. In the Roman Communion, vast agencies like the Christian Brothers exist for the purpose of furnishing carefully trained instructors for their parish schools; and our Church also should have its Normal Schools in connection with our colleges, where those desiring to devote their lives to the great cause of Christian education can be thoroughly prepared for their calling.

We earnestly commend the subject to the consideration of the Church University Board of Regents, hoping that they may be able to make some tentative experiment in this direction by the establishment of a Normal Department in one of our Church colleges, and also by the formation of summer schools, or by adaptation of the University extension scheme, place advantages in the hands of teachers in our Bible classes and Sunday-schools which they cannot now command.

Meanwhile we commend to all persons desirous of fitting themselves for the duties of the Christian teacher, whether in our Sunday-schools or primary institutions of learning, the Society for the Home Study of Holy Scripture, which is able to give to the diligent student guidance and assistance of the greatest value.

Second. Your Committee would also call your attention to the need of reading of a religious character both for the young and for the children of the Church of mature years. Approved books of this character are among the most valuable missionary agencies of the Church, whether they treat of its history and its claims, or whether they set forward its high standard of personal religion.

Such books are comparatively rare among our people, and we suggest that a partial remedy might be found if the Church University Board of Regents would publish a list, and so bring to the knowledge of our clergy and people many good books that have never come under their notice, and would also from time to time add to this list the titles of new publications which might deserve their commendation.

Thirdly. Your Committee would plead for the establishment of Church schools in those portions of our country which at present are almost destitute of such advantages. If a map could be prepared showing the location of our seminaries of learning, whether preparatory or collegiate, we should find that they are thickly grouped in some Dioceses, while there are great stretches of country in which our educational work is not represented by a single school. Other religious bodies are there at work, founding schools and colleges, but the Church is silent and gives no sign. We appeal to the Church University Board of Regents to make this destitution widely known, and especially to direct the attention of the wealthy and benevolent to the most pressing necessities of the field, trusting that their efforts may be fruitful in laying new educational foundations which will be of the greatest value to the Church and its members. The complaint is often heard that Churchmen neglect their own institutions of learning to become the patrons and supporters of schools which have no claim on them. May not the reason be that we have not ourselves placed Christian education before them with the prominence and the emphasis which its cardinal importance demands. The two most important factors in the work of Christianizing the world are missions and education. We have already recognized the importance of the first, and have given it a large place among the subjects considered by the General Convention. Not of less importance is the subject of Christian education, and it was a wise departure from former custom when a portion of our session was set apart and devoted to Christian education. The Joint Committee unanimously solicit that the new order of things may be perpetuated.

They therefore recommend the passage of the following joint resolutions:

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, That a day be set apart for the consideration of Christian education, at which time the subjects which come under the review of the Joint Committee on Christian Education, including the report of the Church University Board of Regents, shall be presented by the Committee to the House of Bishops and the House of Deputies sitting in General Convention.

Resolved, That this be made the Standing Order of the General Convention for each session.

Resolved, That the Church University Board of Regents be requested to furnish the Joint Committee on Christian Education with a copy of their report on the second day of the session.

(Signed)

WM. CROSWELL DOANE,

Chairman of Joint Committee.

HENRY A. COIT,

Chairman Committee of House of Deputies.

APPENDIX XII.

REPORT OF THE CHURCH UNIVERSITY BOARD OF REGENTS.

THE Church University Board of Regents begs leave to report as follows:

At the last General Convention a resolution, constituting this Board was unanimously adopted. The resolution, together with the report of the organization of the Board, will be found in the Journal of 1889. The following members constitute the Board: The Right Rev. the Bishop of Albany, Chairman; the Right Rev. the Bishop of Minnesota, the Right Rev. the Bishop of Tennessee, the Rev. Drs. Morgan Dix, David H. Greer, William R. Huntington, E. N. Potter (Advocate); Professors H. Coppée and Henry Drisler; Messrs. Geo. W. Vanderbilt, Spencer Trask, and Silas McBee; Rev. E. N. Potter, Secretary. The Recording Secretary is Rev. Dr. Alexander Mackay-Smith, and the Corresponding Secretary the Rev. Dr. William M. Hughes.

The resolution constituting the Board states that the Board "shall have two chief functions: First, to promote education under the auspices of the Church, and second, to receive and distribute all benefactions that may be intrusted to it. It shall report to the next General Convention a detailed scheme of organization and operation."

It will be observed that this resolution, while stating the general scope and purpose of the Board, and authorizing the Board to take measures for the furtherance of this scope and purpose, nevertheless limits its action during the three subsequent years to two specific objects: that is to say, First, to developing its own organization as a corporate body, and second, to reporting "to the next General Convention a detailed scheme of organization and operation." Such scheme is, of course, to be devised for the purpose of efficient administration, in view of the functional powers intrusted to the Board by the enacting resolution.

In pursuance of these two specific obligations, the Board having organized, proceeded to secure the certificate of incorporation duly granted, recorded, and published, further reference to which is made in the note affixed to this report.

In fulfilling the second of the two specific measures to which the action of the Board thus constituted was limited during the three years following the General Convention of 1889, the Board took immediate measures to secure such information as would enable it to act with knowledge and prudence in formulating the "detailed scheme of organization and operation" ordered to be reported to this Convention. The Rev. General Secretary ad interim, Dr. Wm. M. Hughes, in his able "proposal for report" (which includes his introductory explanation, and his Scholarship and Fellowship scheme herein submitted), writes, "The Rev. Dr. E. N. Potter, as Advocate, both in person and by correspondence, has been in communication with all sections of the Church, and with many of our well-known educators as well as with others. There are presented herewith several of his publications, whether as Secretary or Advocate Regent, in behalf of this movement, and explanatory of what has been accomplished in this direction. In connection with his constant efforts, his numerous publications extensively circulated (and without cost to the Board) exhibit to a gratifying and encouraging degree the wide-spread and intelligent interest taken in this movement. In addition to Regent visitations secured, and Advocate addresses made in many and distant places, reference is made especially here to the documents (see Note) entitled, Opinions of Educators and Others (1892); The Church University Board of Regents (1889); as well as to his publications in other years, including articles in newspapers and reviews." The reports of requested Regent visitations to the University of the South, and to Hobart College, as already published, are filed with the Regent documents.

It will be learned also from these documents that one of the first steps of the Board when organized was the appointment of a Committee consisting of Rev. Drs. David H. Greer, Wm. R. Huntington, and Dr. Samuel Eliot, to enter into correspondence with "the faculties and teachers of our schools, colleges, and theological seminaries, requesting them to correspond with the Committee and to suggest any measure by which, in their judgment, the Regents may assist their labours or contribute to the general work of Christian education." In addition, a number of meetings of the Board have been held to discuss and digest the really great mass of information secured by these means.

Before proceeding to state or to discuss the detailed scheme ultimately adopted it may be of use to explain why, just at present, the Board proposes to confine itself, in the main, to the definite lines of work there laid down.

(A) Many correspondents have expressed a hope, and some an ardent desire, that this Church with its abundant resources should be urged to commit itself to the founding of a central university directly under the auspices of its ecclesiastical authorities, or, at least, officially allied to its specific worship and doctrine. Steps looking to a like purpose have already been taken by several other religious bodies in the land.

If the Board of Regents has not deemed it wise to bend its energies in this direction, it is not because it does not clearly recognize the full value of such a proposal both to the whole country and to the Church itself. No graver economic problem presents itself to our country than that which is concerned with the development of its intelligence and with the character of its educational equipment. The ideal solution of this problem certainly does not and cannot be along the lines of a system of teaching which has become secularized and divorced from the moulding influences of the Christian religion. However wide or free or accurate may be the training that results from an unfettered pursuit of the arts and sciences, it cannot be ideally so until it makes an equally noble and dignified place for educational forces that emanate from positive religion. It is one thing to say that the educational system of the land should make room for the pursuit of learning freed from dominant control of purely ecclesiastical and theological considerations. It is quite another thing to say that such considerations shall have no share whatever, or, if any, a very subordinate one, in the system of education which is to give to our country its future leaders in all departments of life.

A truly statesmanlike conception of all that education really involves will, of course, insist upon the freest play of search after all truth; but none the less will it also insist that the noble, the inspiring, and the guiding truths of the one great religion of the world shall not be relegated to a contemptible obscurity or endured as a practical necessity. Just in proportion as splendid equipments are devised for the most expert teaching of things temporal, so should splendid provisions be made for things spiritual. If, then, many Churchmen look forward to the day when her choicest youth may be taught all that is best in the arts and sciences in some great Church university, it is not because they propose to fetter the spirit of investigation, which is necessary to intellectual progress, but because they long to be able to send their sons into an atmosphere of ripest learning, redolent also with the beauty of holiness, and in which the divine voice of the Church of Christ finds at least equal welcome with that of the great teachers of the day.

Nor need we make the least apology for venturing to assert that such a university would be of even greater service to the national life than to the Church itself. The part which Oxford and Cambridge play in Parliament, on the exchange, in social life and in the press, seems as great, and some claim that now it is even greater than that which they perform in the Church. Oxford and Cambridge would not be themselves if their libraries, colleges, laboratories, and museums were enriched tenfold, had they not their chapels, churches, potent pulpits, and attractive services. There is a breadth and depth of culture which can come to any national life only when its great universities are pervaded with the spirit of religion and faith, as well as with that of research. Already this fact is coming to be recognized. Our oldest and noblest foundations are making greater preparations than ever for an effective presentation of a positively religious culture.

There is yet room for a great central Church university such as has been urged upon the attention of the Board. It might be worth the while of those who are seeking to secure the highest possible type of the American university of the future, to urge the experiment of a great localized Church university which, in separate colleges under independent methods of administration, might at the same time reflect the intensive life that comes from different schools of thought and different types of worship in the Church, and yet which, by reason of the deeper and wider spirit resulting from great university institutions, might be rescued from imperfections sometimes attendant upon the restrictions of limited surroundings. Oxford exercises an influence as a whole; but none the less the tone of the whole is a combination of separate and differing colleges. It is difficult to say which is the more powerful. The results are manifest in perhaps the noblest types of culture to be found in history. The very friction that arises from the contact of antagonistic schools or parties seems a necessary element in that culture. The breadth that we Americans desire in our highest institutions of learning is not the breadth that comes from a neglect of all positive religion and such consequent toleration as springs from an indifference born of ignorance. The breadth that comes from the sum total of the various positive schools of thought, acting, however, under a common organization, and more in sympathy with the whole than out of sympathy with each other, is the breadth we desire, and is to be secured only in a great university linked to a positive religion, and yet not chained to schools or parties. It is scarcely too much to say that if America is to be aided by such an university it will find no better type of religion than that of this Church; a religion positive but tolerant, intensive yet broad, with play for the friction of divergent schools of thought, and yet governed exclusively by no single one, and unflinchingly loyal to the historic faith. An institution or confederation of institutions of this sort can well be imagined where parents who value the souls of their sons as much as their minds and bodies could send them, assured of the broadest and ripest culture made sympathetic with the revealed teachings of God. But however alluring and however really splendid such a consummation might well prove to be, the Board feels that it is a result which, if it is to be reached, must be attained later on rather than at present. The conception of such a solution of the great educational problem of this country may define itself clearly in the mind and enkindle the determination of some member or members of the Church with the financial ability to bring it to issue so that it may be realized in fact. If such should be the case, then the Church University Board of Regents would be happy to co-operate. It exists, ready for such service.

(B) Others have commended to the Board the idea of its confining itself to acting solely as a financial agency to collect and allot funds to the various Church colleges, etc., now in existence. It is held by these that the separate Church colleges are in themselves worthy of confidence and support, but that, owing to the necessary limitations of modest circumstances, they are not able to gain the attention of the Church at large, or to find opportunity to present their just claims in the localities from which they might reasonably look for support. They point out the fact that a central board, in touch with the General Convention, and composed of members who have been chosen as its official representatives, is a body precisely fitted to secure the attention and gain the financial support which the separate colleges now cannot gain.

Certainly there is much that commends itself in this proposal. The Board itself is assured that it might well, both in the particular and in the aggregate, plead the cause of its distinctively Church colleges, etc. They are well worthy of the Church's financial support. They need but enlarged support to do enlarged work. Numberless reasons arise why such an appeal could be made with the irresistible force which springs from both merit and promise.

But, if secured, the task of wisely and impartially allotting such funds is one for which the Board with its brief experience feels unqualified. Under the circumstances it would be injudicious to discriminate between the different Church educational institutions. If not absolutely impracticable to name one or more justly, with marked commendation, it would certainly seem imprudent now to plead for one with any special emphasis. Conflicting claims already arise. The Board has neither facts nor jurisdiction to settle them as finalities to be accepted of all. And yet here, as in the other case, the Board is empowered and authorized to act as the financial agent or trustee of any funds or bequest in behalf of any Church educational institutions or interests which may be specifically intrusted to it. And thus ultimately it is to be hoped that the Board will be called upon to perform precisely this function. Indeed it is to be presumed that in the lapse of time several subsidiary functions favourable to the educational interests of the Church will evolve themselves out of the practical use of the opportunities which may arise. The existence of such an official Board, efficiently organized and administered, will undoubtedly draw to itself opportunities for the educational development of the Church which otherwise might never be utilized.

The Board, however, feels that it should seek to create opportunities rather than to await them. It is convinced that a practical work of a specific character and reasonably within the actual ability of the Church is that which is first to be planned, and that at present it should concentrate its efforts to formulating such a scheme. It would not in any case and (as ex post facto) it could not by the very nature of its establishment and incorporation interfere with the rights and administration of any Church school, college, or theological institution. But it may legitimately seek to raise the standard of scholarship and to attract students, especially the brightest and most promising, to Church institutions. Extended correspondence shows the substantial agreement of all in the desirability of founding scholarships and fellowships, provided the benefits offered be large enough to attract the best men, and be restricted to those recognized by the Regents as studying in institutions of our Church; and that the competitive examinations be of unquestioned excellence. The question therefore arose, is it possible to devise a scheme or plan of operation which is at the same time worthy of the Church, and also well within its practical resources?

The outcome of these considerations is the "detailed scheme of organization and operation" now presented to the General Convention. As directed, it is here stated concisely, and may be found more at length in the publications and documents of the Board, and in the report to the next General Convention. It should be said that this scheme is presented as a terminus ad quem, rather than as a scheme for immediate and complete operation; it will take time to carry it out as a whole, though there is no insurmountable obstacle in the way of beginning operations promptly as the Board proposes. Several years must have elapsed before its full measure of results could be reached.

The scheme as a whole requires an annual income under control of the Board to be expended as follows: In scholarships providing $750 each per annum; in fellowships of $1,000 each per annum; in moderate expenses of administration, and especially in securing financial aid sufficient to provide competent examiners and examinations, and for other objects for which the Church established the Board. The scholarships are to be annually competed for, and the successful competitors, free to study where they will, must pledge themselves to compete at the end of three years for the fellowships.

The fellowships are to be competed for each year by those whose scholarships expire that year; the examinations to be wholly by Board Examiners, and also to be of the highest character, no other conditions being made than successful literary competition within the lines laid down by the Board. The scholarship and fellowship examinations would be on the most advanced lines of the standard universities of Europe or of this country. There would thus be created alumni of all distinctively Church colleges who would take rank with the first scholars of the land. The Church would, in the course of the next fifteen or twenty years, be enabled to lay its hands upon a source of supply for its own institutions second to none in any country. It would give rise to especially well-equipped students in theology; in addition it would enable the Church greatly to contribute to the creation of a purely scholarly class in America.

In conclusion, it is worthy of remark that our educational institutions, as far as heard from, that is to say, the University of the South, Kenyon College, Trinity College, and Hobart College, report larger entering classes than have been known in years before; and that other colleges allied to our Church, as well as our theological seminaries, are sought by larger numbers and are increasing their endowments. The claims of educational fields, foreign and domestic, the supplementing of existing facilities where desired, by means of lectureships or professorships, and adequate provision for educating the children of the Church, and especially of the clergy, are among the subjects brought to the attention of the Board. The President of Columbia College, in expressing his appreciation of the Scholarship and Fellowship scheme above presented, added that the founding of "even one scholarship would be a great gain." The Rev. Dr. Henry A. Coit, of St. Paul's School, and Chairman of the Deputies' Committee on Christian Education, has expressed the hope that the Board may also fill the place of a permanent educational bureau to which may be addressed educational, literary, and related questions and suggestions, memorials, etc. (see Note); such matters as abuses connected with honorary degrees having already been brought before the Board.

Thanks have been expressed for the tender of St. Bartholomew's House, New York, for meetings of the Board, and to the Bishop of New York for office room in the Diocesan House. It is earnestly hoped that the devout interest and encouragement expressed by hundreds of Churchmen will take such practical form as to enable the Board to make a "good report" to the Triennial Convention of 1895.

Adopted by the Board, and signed by the Regents present at the meeting in New York and at the General Convention.

NOTE.—The Charter, or Act of Incorporation of the Board of Regents, duly recorded, together with my publications referred to in the above report, are filed with the Regent documents. My secretary reports that the leaflets, pamphlets, etc., I have prepared and circulated freely, count up in pages as follows: 13+30+60+34+27=214; the circulation being from 4,700 to 5,000 in each case, $214 \times 4,700 = 1,005,800$ pages at least; so that more than a million pages have thus been circulated. Acknowledged in hundreds of letters favourable to the establishment of the Board, and the formal reception by the General Convention of its triennial report also secured, and of this educational movement, one sentence especially is here in place. The honoured Senior Bishop, who presided October 13, 1892, at the triennial meeting of Regents, wrote: "I thank you for your pamphlet. It is full of valuable suggestions, and the indorsement of your general plan is overwhelming." The work has thus far been carried forward without cost to the Board or the Church, but it is expected that soon the Regents will secure a general and financial secretary, able to proceed without injustice to other duties, to secure means to carry forward the "definite and positive work" unanimously adopted by the Regents in the above report.

REPORT OF THE CUSTODIAN OF THE STANDARD PRAYER BOOK.

To the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America, to be holden in October, 1892:

THE Custodian of the Standard Prayer Book begs leave to report :

That after the adjournment of the last General Convention he received from the Secretaries of the two Houses, in accordance with Title I., Canon 20, § iii., of the Digest, a copy of the alterations and additions in the Book of Common Prayer adopted by said Convention, certified by said Secretaries and attested by the Presiding Officers of the respective Houses; and that thereupon, in accordance with § iv. of the same Canon, he prepared a certificate in the form of an appendix to the Book of Common Prayer (a copy whereof is herewith submitted), showing the alterations and additions in said Book of Common Prayer which were finally adopted by the General Conventions of 1886 and 1889, and their effect upon the structure of the Book of Common Prayer as it was before such alterations and additions were adopted; which certificate was signed by said Custodian and approved by the Bishop Presiding in the House of Bishops, and the Bishop of Albany and the Bishop of Iowa, appointed for that purpose by the House of Bishops; and that a copy of said certificate or appendix was sent by the Custodian to each Bishop of this Church, as provided in said § iv. of said Canon; and further, that the Custodian gave notice of such appendix to the several publishers of the Book of Common Prayer, having first, for their protection, taken out a copyright of said appendix according to law.

The Custodian also begs leave gratefully to acknowledge the gift from Dr. W. A. M. Wainwright, of Hartford, Conn., of the original manuscript attestation of the Standard Prayer Book of 1845, having the signatures of Bishops W. Meade, L. S. Ives, and A. Lee, and of the Rev. Doctors H. Anthon, W. C. Mead, J. M. Wainwright, and T. W. Coit; which valuable document he has placed with the other documents which are under his official charge.

All which is respectfully submitted.

SAMUEL HART,
Custodian of the Standard Prayer Book.

APPENDIX XIV.

REPORT OF THE JOINT COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO PREPARE A STANDARD BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER.

To the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America, to be holden on the First Wednesday in October, in the Year of our Lord 1892.

THE Joint Committee appointed to prepare a Standard Book of Common Prayer, and to submit the same to this General Convention for its approval, respectfully present the following Report :

The Committee, immediately upon their appointment, entered upon the duties with which they had been charged. The Bishop of Albany was elected Chairman, and the Rev. Dr. Hart, Secretary ; and at a later day Mr. Morgan was elected Treasurer. Three subcommittees were appointed, as follows : (1) On the Text : The Bishop of Albany, the Rev. Dr. Hart, Dr. Eliot ; (2) On the Canon : The Bishop of Iowa, the Rev. Dr. Kedney, Mr. Packard ; (3) On Expenses and Printing : The Bishop of New York, the Rev. Dr. Huntington, Mr. Morgan.

At the earlier meetings of the Committee, the following resolutions were adopted as indicating the principles on which their work was to be undertaken :

1. That the text of the Standard Prayer Book to be reported by this Committee be based upon the text of the Standard Book of 1844, the same having been specially referred to it by joint resolution of the General Convention of 1889 ; Provided, however, that departures from the said text may be made for cause in special instances upon which light is thrown by the readings of the Standards of other years.

2. That the text of the Epistles and Gospels, and other passages of Holy Scripture in the Prayer Book which are taken from the Authorized Version, be conformed to the best authenticated editions of that version that can be obtained at the present time, with no changes except that, in accordance with Prayer Book usage, italicized words be printed in roman type, and capital letters due only to the fact that they stand at the beginning of a verse be replaced by small letters ; the words prefixed to certain of the Gospels to remain as at present.

3. That the text of the Prayer Book of the Church of England to be followed by this Committee be that of the edition prepared from the Sealed Books by Archibald John Stephens, and published for the Ecclesiastical History Society in 1849, reference having been first made to the facsimile of the Book appended to the Act of Parliament, as the highest authority.

4. That, except in the passages of Holy Scripture taken from the Authorized Version, in which the present spelling of the Queen's Printers is to be followed, the spelling of words in the Prayer Book follow that in the Standard of 1845; except that the spelling 'stedfast' be restored as in our early Standards, and that the spelling 'movable' and 'immovable' be substituted for 'moveable' and 'immoveable.'

5. That in introducing into the Standard the changes finally adopted since 1883, the changes be made in the form provided for by the resolutions which have duly passed in two successive General Conventions.

6. That the subcommittee on printing be requested to pay special attention to ascertaining in what way a uniform pagination of all future editions of the Prayer Book can best be secured in connection with the new Standard.

7. That it be recommended to the subcommittee on the Canon to report a provision that the Standard Prayer Book be a specified volume, rather than a specified edition; but that certified copies of such Standard may be provided for specially approved purposes.

The subcommittees entered at the earliest possible moment upon the work assigned them; and the full Committee held meetings from time to time to consider and act upon the results of their labours. The largest amount of labour has been necessarily given to the determination of the text, the specific duty laid upon the Committee in this regard being to determine what corrections should be made in the printed Standard of 1845; and at the same time it was necessary to provide that the alterations and additions in the Book of Common Prayer finally adopted within the last six years should be made and inserted in their respective places. A copy of the book of 1845, with the corrections, alterations, and additions duly made, accompanies this report, and is referred to as a part of the same. The earlier portion of the report deals with the determination of the text; and on later pages will be found an account of the provision which has been made for the printing of the new Standard Book and of certified copies of the same, and also the draft of a proposed Canon, which the Committee recommend as a substitute for Canon 20 of Title I. of the Digest.

The labor of the Committee has been lightened, and the value of their work has been greatly increased, by the kindness of correspondents, to all of whom they desire to return sincere thanks. The Committee have much pleasure in acknowledging here, as they have already acknowledged in other ways, their special obligations to the Rev. Frederick Gibson, of Maryland, and the Rev. Henry A. Metcalf, of Massachusetts. Mr. Gibson generously placed at the disposal of the Committee a paper on the text of the Book of Common Prayer, the result of extended and careful study of all its standard editions and of a comparison of these with the English books, and also made other valuable communications on the same subject; and Mr. Metcalf, who has made an exhaustive study of the text and the punctuation of the Psalter, very kindly allowed the Committee to avail themselves of the results of that study and to use the material which he had collected with minute and accurate scholarship. Special mention should also be made of the learned and useful communications on the subject of the text of the Prayer Book which the Committee have received from the Rev. Dr. H. R. Percival, of Pennsylvania.

The Committee also desire to express their obligations to Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan for his generous kindness in providing, for the use of the Committee, magnificent copies of the Great Bible of 1539 and the Bishops' Bible of 1568; to Mr. James Pott, for placing at their disposal a set of English Prayer Books issued by the Cambridge University Press; to Messrs. E. & J. B. Young & Co., for the gift of sheets of the last Standard Edition of the Prayer Book with cancel pages, of the Book Annexed as Modified, of the Tables of Lessons, etc.; to Messrs. Thomas Nelson & Sons, for the gift of Oxford quarto editions of the Bible and the English Prayer Book; to the Bishop of Maryland, for the loan of editions of the Prayer Book and Articles from the Maryland Diocesan Library; to the Bishop of Connecticut, to the late Rev. Dr. E. E. Beardsley, to the Libraries of the Berkeley Divinity School, of Trinity College, and of the Connecticut Historical Society, and to the Archives of the Diocese of Connecticut, for the loan of editions of the Bible, Prayer Book, and Offices; to Trinity Church, Hartford, for a copy of the Prayer Book from the plates of 1845; and to Mrs. Francis Harison, for the gift of a bound set of the facsimile publications of the Historical Club of the American Church.

The Committee were unable to secure the privilege of using the copies of old editions of the Prayer Book bequeathed to the General Convention by the Rev. Dr. Francis Harison. It was discovered, however, that this set, though of great value, contains copies of but two standards, those of 1790 and 1793.¹ An effort should certainly be made to secure for the Archives of the General Convention a complete set of copies of our standard editions and at least such other editions as specially illustrate the standards. Through the great kindness of the Bishop of Maryland, the Committee were able to use, during the whole time of their work upon the text, copies of several standards from his Diocesan Library, which, with copies of other editions from the private collections of members of the Committee, made a complete set, to which reference was constantly made.

The following bibliographical list contains all the more important editions of the Bible, the Book of Common Prayer, Offices and Articles, etc., which were consulted in the progress of the work. In every case in which the volume used was not the property of some member of the Committee, the name of the owner is added in brackets.

It may be noted here, that in every case throughout this Report the date given for a standard book is the date of its publication. Thus, the editio princeps of our book, though the ratification bears the date of 1789, is called the book of 1790, and Dr. Coit's Standard, though authorized by the General Convention of 1844, is called the book of 1845. In like manner, the facsimile of the manuscript of the English Prayer Book appended to the Act of Parliament, is referred to as of the date of 1662, though it must have been written out in the preceding year. Also it may be noted that, as nearly all references for readings are to standard editions, it has not been thought necessary in many cases to search other than standards for the determination of changes in the text; so that a reading which is said to be first found in a certain standard may very probably have occurred in non-standard books of an earlier date; it is only meant that that is the first standard in which it appears.

HISTORY OF STANDARD PRAYER BOOKS.

A SKETCH of the history of the successive standard editions of our Book of Common Prayer will fitly introduce the account of the work of this Committee, and will illustrate the principles on which that work has been done.

The Journal of the General Convention of October 1789 gives in some detail the successive steps in the preparation of the first American Prayer Book. The Bishops evidently assumed that they were revising the English Book of Common Prayer, and the House of Deputies appear to have acted on the theory that they were preparing a new book for the use of this Church; but there can be no doubt that the work of both houses was practically done in the same way. The several parts of the English Prayer Book were taken up in turn, proposed amendments were considered (some of them being suggested by the Proposed Book of 1785 or by criticisms upon it), and after agreement had been reached in either house the revised office was sent to the other house for its consideration. The work was completed in two weeks; but it embodied the results of much careful study and consideration on the part of wise and godly men. Unfortunately, there has not been preserved to us any formal memorandum of all the particulars in which it was intended that the new Book of Common Prayer should differ from the English book; and, therefore, while in most places of divergence from the English standards there is no doubt that the changes were intentional, there are a few instances of variations in words or phrases which may be accidental or due to misprints in the English books that were used by the revisers. To some of these instances attention will be called on later pages. It is sufficient to say in this place that the English books used in 1789 were probably the handsome editions of Baskerville or of Mark Baskett (London), which had some typographical inaccuracies; and where the book of 1790 differs from the accurately printed English books, but agrees with Baskerville and Baskett, the presumption may well be that the change of text was unintentional. And it needs no argument to prove what has been expressly conceded by formal legislative action in this Church, that our Standard Prayer Book should agree with the Standard Prayer Book of the English Church except in those places in which changes have been intentionally made. The changes made in later years are found expressly recorded in the Journals of the General Convention; those of earlier date are to be learned for the most part from a careful examination of the successive standard books. Bishop White's Memoirs throw much light on these matters, as on many others connected with the history of the Church; and the study of contemporary documents is also of no little service.

The Revised Book of Common Prayer was ratified by the General Convention on the sixteenth day of October 1789; a Committee was appointed to superintend the printing; and it was ordered that the book should be in use from and after the first day of October in the following year. No provision was made for a standard copy: in fact, up to the present time the Standard Prayer Book of this Church has in every case been an edition.

I. STANDARD OF 1790. — The first standard is evidently the edition of 1790. It was published under the direction of Bishop White and a committee of the House of Deputies of which the Rev. Dr. William Smith was chairman. It is a small duodecimo, published in Philadelphia by Hall & Sellers. In spite of many difficulties, to which allusion is made in Bishop White's correspondence, it is a carefully printed book, and bears witness to much painstaking labour. Its chief peculiarities (as to which see Bishop White's Memoirs, second edition, pp. 151, 154) were the printing of the clause in the Apostles' Creed, 'He descended into hell,' in italics and within brackets, and the printing of the words in the Prayer of Consecration in the Holy Communion, 'which we now offer unto thee,' in small capitals. The former was owing to a misunderstanding between the two houses of the Convention, and the latter to the following of a copy of the Scottish Communion Office. A second edition of the Prayer Book was published by Hall & Sellers in 1791, varying in a few minor particulars from that of 1790.

II. STANDARD OF 1793. — The second standard was ordered by the Convention of 1792, and published in 1793. It is an octavo, published in New York by Hugh Gainé, and bearing on its title-page the words "By the Direction of the General Convention." (The duodecimo edition of 1793 is not the standard.) The Journals show that on the 18th of September 1792 "the two Houses agreed to appoint a joint committee to compare the printed edition of the Book of Common Prayer with the original acts of the last General Convention, where they may judge it necessary, and to prepare a mode of authenticating the book by some certain standard, and of publishing future editions of the same in the Churches in the different States." Bishops Seabury and White served on this committee, and among the members from the other house were the Rev. Dr. Moore, afterwards Bishop of New York, and the Rev. Dr. Jarvis, afterwards Bishop of Connecticut. On the following day the committee made a report which the Deputies considered by paragraphs, amended, and sent to the Bishops; and the Bishops agreed to the amendments. Bishop Provoost, the Rev. Dr. Moore, the Rev. Dr. Abraham Beach, and Dr. Johnson were appointed a committee to "superintend the printing of a correct edition of the Common Prayer Book" and to authenticate it. The edition authorized by this committee — the octavo of 1793 — is the first edition formally set forth as a standard, though the editio princeps of 1790 doubtless deserves the name. It is printed in good type, but not without typographical errors. It doubtless "represents the matured views of our American revisers," and its few intentional differences from the earlier editions are of primary authority. These can be determined only by a comparison of the books. It may be noted here that they include the substitution of ordinary type for the small capitals in the Prayer of Consecration and for the italics in the Apostles' Creed, and the removal of the brackets in the Creed; the former apparently as a typographical correction, and the latter almost certainly by express order of the Convention.

The Convention of 1792 also set forth the Ordinal as revised for the use of this Church, together with the Litany and the Order for the Holy Communion; and Bishop Provoost and the Rev. Dr. Moore were appointed to take charge of the publication.

In 1801, ample time having elapsed for the detection of any serious errors in the published editions of the Prayer Book and the Ordinal, the General Convention, in Canon III. of that year, "established" "the octavo edition of the Common Prayer Book, published in New York in 1793 by Hugh Gaine, and the quarto edition of the book of Offices, etc., of the same year, published in the same place," "as standard books, with the exception of errors evidently typographical"; the correction of such errors being "confided to such person or persons as the Bishop or Standing Committee may appoint for superintending any publication."

Articles of Religion were set forth in 1801, "to stand as in the Book of Common Prayer of the Church of England," with certain specified alterations and omissions; and in the Canon just quoted, Bishop White was "authorized to set forth an edition of the Articles of Religion which, when published, shall be the standard copy." This standard edition was published in New York in 1802 by T. & J. Swords.

The Form of Consecration of a Church or Chapel was set forth by the General Convention of 1799, and An Office of Induction of Ministers by the Convention of 1804; in 1808 some alterations were made in the latter and it was entitled An Office of Institution of Ministers. In 1799 a Prayer to be used at the Meetings of Convention was set forth; it was considered as belonging with the Ordinal and the Offices just mentioned, and not strictly a part of the Book of Common Prayer.

Until 1811 there had been no restriction upon the power of any General Convention to set forth a Book of Common Prayer, or to amend that which had been already set forth; in that year an amendment to the Constitution, proposed at the preceding Convention, was adopted in these words: "No alteration or addition shall be made in the Book of Common Prayer or other Offices of the Church, unless the same shall be proposed in one General Convention, and by a resolve thereof made known to the Convention of every Diocese or State, and adopted at the subsequent General Convention."

In 1820 both Houses of the General Convention concurred in two "instructions to be observed in editions of the Book of Common Prayer: 1. That special attention be paid to the title-page and table of contents, so that nothing may be omitted or added; 2. That the Book of Common Prayer be distinguished from the Book of Psalms in metre, the Articles of Religion, and sundry Offices set forth by this Church, . . . all of which are of equal authority with the Book of Common Prayer, but which, when bound up with it, ought not to appear as parts thereof."

Also in 1820 the House of Deputies "respectfully requested of the House of Bishops to take measures for making known any errors or omissions in the octavo edition of the Book of Common Prayer, published by Gaine in 1793, which was established by the forty-third Canon as the standard book, so that they may be avoided or supplied in future editions"; and they also requested them to make any necessary corrections in the calendar and tables, and to extend the table of the days on which Easter would fall for two new lunar cycles. The Bishops expressed their concurrence, and the Presiding Bishop was desired, with such persons as he might think proper to associate with him, to take order on the subject. At the special Convention of 1821, Bishop White presented a report on these matters, which forms Appendix II. to the Journal. Besides the changes in the tables for Easter, it contains a list of errors in the Standard of 1793, twenty in number, all evidently typographical, and a note of the correction of 'The season of Lent' in the Table of Fasts to 'The forty days of Lent,' this error dating back to the book of 1790. Bishop White says that the list of errors was furnished by Mr. William Hall, the printer of the proposed book, who also noted "various places in which the sense may suffer from the want of stops or from their being injudiciously placed." This report adds to the value which must be attributed, in the study of our standards, to the octavo of 1793.

III. STANDARD OF 1822. — At the close of Bishop White's report in 1821, he proposed that a new standard should be established to supersede that of 1793, of which few copies could be found. In consequence of this recommendation, Bishop White, the Rev. Drs. Frederic Beasley and Bird Wilson, and Mr. William Meredith were appointed a committee "to superintend the printing of an edition of the Book of Common Prayer"; and "for the sake of greater accuracy" they were directed, in the choice of an edition for this purpose, to "give a preference to one to be printed from stereotype plates." A canon was also passed providing that "the edition of the Book of Common Prayer to be chosen by the committee appointed by this Convention, and authenticated by their certificate, shall, after the publication thereof, be taken and received as the standard with which all new editions are thereafter to be compared for the purpose of correction." The committee reported in 1823 that an edition of the Prayer Book, to which they had given their authentication on the 2d of September, 1822, had been published by S. Potter & Co., of Philadelphia, from the stereotype plates of the Common Prayer Book Society of Pennsylvania, "after they had been carefully examined for the purpose of correcting and supplying errors and omissions, the former of which were found to be more numerous than had been anticipated." The book is a small octavo, and was published in Pennsylvania by the Society for the Advancement of Christianity. The original stereotype plates were made by D. & G. Bruce, of New York; the first edition from them was published by T. & J. Swords in 1818, shortly followed in the same year by that of S. Potter & Co. The Standard of 1822 inherited from these earlier editions a large number of typographical inaccuracies, to which attention will be called on later pages. It is interesting to note the changes made by the committee in the plates, as showing the kinds of correction which Bishop White and the other members of the committee — and presumably the General Convention — judged to be within the legitimate powers of an editing committee: as, for instance, that the word ‘Amen’ was added for the first time in the American book to the form at the laying on of hands in Confirmation, and the word ‘Minister’ was changed to ‘Priest’ in the rubric before the Absolution in the Forms of Prayer to be used at Sea; also, the new Easter cycles, in accordance with the direction of the previous Convention, and other tables with changes adapting them to the nineteenth century, were inserted without the formalities required by the Constitution for alterations or amendments in the Prayer Book; and besides, the Golden Numbers in the Calendar for March and April were omitted, Bishop White having reported in 1821 that they seemed unnecessary, especially as the American book had never had a note explanatory of their use in that place.

In 1829 the Constitution was so amended as to require the action of two Conventions for alterations in the Articles of Religion, as in the case of the Prayer Book and the Offices.

IV. STANDARD OF 1832. — At the General Convention of 1832, a committee appointed in 1826 and continued in 1829 reported a revision of the Canons, which was amended and adopted. Canon XLVI. of the revision established as a new standard “the duodecimo edition of the Common Prayer Book, Articles, Offices, Metre Psalms and Hymns, published by the New York Protestant Episcopal Press in 1832.” It does not appear that any committee was especially appointed to prepare or to set forth the new standard: it was evidently assumed that the book mentioned agreed with the previous Standard of 1822. The edition was printed, with a few changes, from stereotype plates first used in 1831. It contained a few corrections and a few new typographical errors. The Golden Numbers were restored in the Calendar for March and April. It may be noted that this is the only standard book in which all names of Divine Persons are uniformly printed with small capitals after the capital initial letters.

At the same Convention of 1832, the House of Bishops made a “declaration” that the question and answer in the form for receiving into the congregation children already baptized in private — ‘Minister. Wilt thou be baptized in this faith? Answer. That is my desire.’ — being a “mistake,” which “doubtless arose from inadvertency,” “should be regarded as on the same footing with typographical errors, and should be corrected in future editions of the Prayer Book." The action in this case, by declaration on the part of the Bishops, is specially noticeable, as at the same Convention proposed amendments in the Prayer Book were approved by both houses and ordered to be made known to the Diocesan Conventions, in accordance with the Constitution. Of these two were finally adopted in 1835, one of which ordered the Prayer to be used at the Meetings of Convention, with the rubric then added to it, to be placed among the occasional prayers, and the other directed the change of the word 'north' to 'right' in the rubric before the Lord's Prayer at the beginning of the Communion Office.

V. STANDARD OF 1838. — It appears that the Standard of 1832 was hardly thought satisfactory; for the General Convention of 1835 appointed a committee of three bishops, three clergymen, and three laymen, to examine and report on typographical errors in the Prayer Book, with a view to the publication of a new standard, if the report of the committee should be approved by the next Convention. This committee reported in 1838 that in their judgment "the proper tests of the typographical correctness of the Prayer Book are: good authorities for orthography; the sound technical principles of proof-reading and correction; good editions of the Bible; the several standard copies of the American Prayer Book, particularly that adopted in 1835; editions of established authority or value of the English Prayer Book; and the votes on the subject of the General Convention." They added the opinion "that the stereotype plates of the Female Episcopal Prayer Book Society, of Philadelphia, should be adopted as the standard, subject to correction according to the above rule by a small committee to be appointed for the purpose." The Convention accepted the report; Bishops H. U. Onderdonk and Doane, the Rev. Dr. Dorr, and Mr. S. Littell, Jr., were appointed a committee to correct the typographical errors in the plates specified; and a canon was passed establishing editions from these plates thus corrected as the standard. The plates were of duodecimo size, with good type, and had been first used for an edition bearing date 1837. The changes made by the committee were somewhat numerous, but for the most part unimportant.

In 1838 an amendment which had passed the previous Convention and been notified to the Dioceses, was finally adopted; it added to the note appended to the Table of Movable Feasts the necessary words, which had in some way or other slipped out from the American books: 'unless the Table gives some day in the month of March for it; for in that case, the day given by the Table is the right day.' A proposition to treat the variation of this note from the English form — which differs slightly in words from the American note with the amendment — and also the omission of the note concerning the Golden Numbers in the Calendar for March and April, as typographical errors to be corrected by resolution, though recommended by a committee of the Deputies, failed to meet with approval. (This last mentioned note was inserted, as the correction of an omission, in the book of 1845.) The two houses concurred in resolutions as to certain rules to be observed in printing future editions of the Prayer Book: 1. That the words 'Let us pray' should be always printed in the same type as the prayers; 2. That 'Amen' should be printed in roman type "in those parts of the Liturgy in which the minister and people unite in saying the whole," and also when it is "proper to be used only by the party required to say the words to which it is attached" (adding that they judged that the 'Amen' at the end of the prayer at the laying on of hands in Confirmation should be printed in italic, as being properly a response); and 3. That the rubric in the Institution Office beginning 'If any objection' should be divided into three paragraphs.

VI. STANDARD OF 1845. — The Standard of 1838, approved in advance, does not appear to have been thought more satisfactory than that of 1832, which was set forth as one item in a revision of the Canons. In 1841 a majority of a committee of the House of Bishops reported that thanks were due the editing committee of 1838 for the "faithful, laborious, and successful manner" in which their task had been performed, but that their action in erasing the words 'Associated Rector' and the words 'State or' wherever they occurred in the Institution Office, needed to be confirmed by action of amendment in accordance with the Constitution. The resolution for due amendment of the Institution Office was passed (nothing is said of the suggested vote of thanks), and it was voted "That the standard edition of the Prayer Book be referred to a joint committee for the correction of typographical errors, and that in the prosecution of their labors it be recommended to consult the former standard editions of the Prayer Book set forth under the authority of this Church, and the edition of the English Prayer Book printed at the University Press, Oxford, by Samuel Collingwood & Co., 1840; that the committee be instructed to report to the General Convention of 1844 the result of their labors, and recommend some edition for adoption as the Standard Prayer Book of this Church." The House of Deputies concurred in the resolution, with an amendment directing the committee to restore forthwith the words omitted in the Institution Office; and in its amended form the resolution became the act of the Convention. The committee appointed consisted of Bishops Meade, Ives, and Lee, and the Rev. Drs. Mead, T. W. Coit, and Anthon.

The result of the appointment of this committee may be seen in the proposed standard reported to the Convention in 1844, and in the standard as approved by the Convention and published in 1845. This book is a monument to the patience and the learning of Dr. Coit, and has placed this Church under obligations to him which will always be gladly and gratefully acknowledged. As a subcommittee, with the assistance of the Rev. Dr. J. M. Wainwright, he entered upon a thorough study of the text of the Prayer Book, taking as an immediate authority the handsome illustrated edition of the book published under Dr. Wainwright's care in 1843. His exhaustive report, appended to the brief report of the Committee, was republished in Appendix IX. to the Journal of the General Convention of 1868 (pp. 445-473); and as it has had the careful study of the Committee engaged on this present report (as indeed the Convention of 1889 made it their special duty to study it), so it deserves to be read with care by every student of the American Prayer Book. The book itself, a fine octavo, printed (through the "unsolicited exertions of the Rev. Dr. Wainwright and the liberality of gentlemen of the city of New York") in new type well suited for the purpose, and published by the New York Bible and Common Prayer Book Society and by Harper & Brothers, was declared by the Convention to be the standard, and in 1847 received express canonical authority. The only changes made in the book by the Convention were the correction of one typographical error, the printing of the numbers of the Selections of Psalms in the upper page-margins, and the restoration of the Table of Contents to its old form on the ground that it could not be altered otherwise than as prescribed by the Constitution. The word 'Associated Rector' and 'State or' were now, the constitutional steps having been duly taken, removed from the Institution Office.

VII. STANDARD OF 1871. — In the General Convention of 1868, certain resolutions of inquiry as to alterations in the stereotype plates of the Standard Book of Common Prayer having been referred to the committee of the House of Deputies on the Prayer Book, it was reported: 1. That no copy of the standard edition was in the possession of the House, or of any officer of the General Convention; 2. That the set of plates formerly belonging to Harper & Brothers had passed out of their possession, and could not be found; and 3. That the agent of the New York Bible and Common Prayer Book Society had had in his possession a set of plates since December, 1861, in which some changes had been previously made, and that the plates were much worn. They recommended that a committee be appointed: 1. To examine the plates of the standard book in the possession of the Bible and Prayer Book Society, "and to correct the manifestly typographical errors thereof"; 2. To restore the plates, if necessary, into conformity with the standard set forth in 1844; and 3. To secure the publication of a correct edition of the standard book; and they further recommended the appointment of a custodian of the Standard Prayer Book. The committee consisted of Bishops Eastburn, Gregg, and Randall, and the Rev. Drs. Haight, Coit, and Howe. This committee, in 1871, presented a report as to changes made by them in the Standard of 1845, and also a book in octavo, beautifully printed from stereotype plates in England, but bearing the imprint of the New York Bible and Common Prayer Book Society. The book agrees, page for page, with that of 1845. As the changes reported in 1871 will be fully considered a little later, it is not necessary to speak of them here. It ought to be stated that Dr. Coit inserted a note in his copy of the book of 1871 to the effect that he had taken no part in the work of revision.

The history of the plates of our last two standards is instructive. Many changes of capitalization and punctuation were introduced — it cannot be definitely said when or by whom — into the plates of the book of 1845, and there was nothing claiming to be a standard copy by which they could be detected. The plates of the book of 1871 were nominally in the charge of a custodian; but they were not the property of the General Convention, nor were they ever in this country; and the Canon of 1871, allowing “alterations, corrections, and emendations” to be made in the plates, “under the direction of said custodian, acting with the advice and consent of a joint committee appointed by the General Convention, consisting of two bishops and two presbyters,” while intended to guard the text, in reality opened the way for its possible depravation. There was, however, a copy certified to as the standard, now in the possession of the present custodian; and it was required that all changes made in the plates should be reported to the General Convention. But if the full story of the plates is ever written, it will be evident that the precautions taken were not sufficient.

It may be noted here that Canon III. of 1801, which was the first to make formal establishment of a standard book, also provided, in nearly the same terms as our present canon, for the authentication of editions of the Book of Common Prayer and Offices. Until 1835, the Bishop (or the Standing Committee) of any Diocese was “authorized to appoint some suitable person or persons to compare and correct all new editions”; in that year the change was made to the present reading, “shall appoint one or more Presbyters of the Diocese.”

It is evident that the most valuable of our former standards have been those of 1793 and of 1845. Two considerations detract from the value of the latter: the first, that in its preparation the learned editor had not at hand our earlier standards (he appears to refer only to that of 1838), and thus failed to notice some errors, particularly those which came into the text in 1818–1822; and the second, that it is very difficult to determine as to any particular copy whether the impression was taken from the plates in their original condition or after they had been altered.

The preceding sketch shows the principles which have been followed in the preparation of the successive standard editions of our Book of Common Prayer. While the General Convention has carefully guarded the text of the book since the time when it was authoritatively settled, and has not allowed the making of even necessary changes except in the manner prescribed by the Constitution (as, for instance, the omission of the words 'Associated Rector' in the Institution Office), it has provided for the determination of the correct text and for the removal of typographical inaccuracies; it has by a simple resolution directed an obvious error to be amended (in the case of the removal of a question and answer in the Office for Private Baptism); and it has left matters of typographical arrangement to the judgment of its publishing committees. The edition of 1845, so carefully prepared by Drs. Coit and Wainwright, made many corrections in the Prayer Book, of which a large part had for their purpose to secure uniform accuracy throughout the volume, to adapt it for intelligent use, and to bring it as nearly as possible into its ideal form. The ready consent which was given to Dr. Coit's learned report, and the acknowledged intrinsic authority of the book which accompanied it, have sufficiently established the principles contained in that report as those which should guide the labors of any later Committee charged with the preparation and publication of a Standard Book of Common Prayer. Within the last forty-five years much study has been given to the English and the American Prayer Books, as to their origins, their history, their interpretation, and their text; we have felt that it would be a wrong to the Church if a report presented in this year should not show the results of this study, so far as it has been made available; and we have endeavored to present these wherever, under the principles already stated, they affect the determination of the proper form of our book. The following pages will show, in somewhat full detail, how we have sought to ascertain, by the use of every means at our disposal, the exact text of the American Prayer Book, and to provide for printing the same in an accurate and serviceable manner. We have also, as was our duty, made such alterations and additions in the book as have been constitutionally adopted and certified since the publication of the last standard. In every case in which a correction or change is said to be made, it should be understood that, unless it is otherwise stated, the reference is to the book of 1845.

NOTE ON PUNCTUATION.

A few words as to the general principles of Prayer Book punctuation may not be out of place here.

It must be remembered that the phraseology of the Book of Common Prayer, like that of the English Bible, is in the style of the sixteenth century; and that the punctuation of the English Prayer Book, largely inherited by our own, is at the latest that of the seventeenth century. And in regard to this latter, it should not be forgotten that it did not follow such carefully arranged rules as those by which the skilled proof-readers of our day are directed, and also that it was intended to be a practical guide in reading aloud in the services of the Church. The punctuation of the present editions of the English Bible, like their orthography, differs in many places from that of the early editions, while yet it has remained unchanged in its general principles; and in like manner the punctuation of our Prayer Book differs in many places from that of the English book in the latter part of the seventeenth century; and though the careful labours of Bishop White and Dr. T. W. Coit have made it far more consistent than that of the present English book, yet it illustrates the principles which guided the writers and printers of two hundred years ago. The recent Westminster revisers of the English translation of the New Testament, in their preface dated 11th November 1880, give their reasons for retaining the same general style of punctuation. They say: "Our practice has been to maintain what is sometimes called the heavier system of stopping, or, in other words, that system which, especially for convenience in reading aloud, suggests such pauses as will best insure a clear and intelligent setting forth of the true meaning of the words. This course has rendered necessary, especially in the Epistles, a larger use of colons and semicolons than is usual in modern English printing."

A person who will read aloud (say) the whole of the Prayer Book Psalter, with the mind constantly kept upon the punctuation, will gain an idea of its principles much better than can be given in words; and, after a little, the few inconsistencies which have escaped the keen eyes and ears of former critics will begin to be detected. In contrast with this, the extreme of the modern style of "light" punctuation may be seen in many recently published books, which it is not easy to read aloud at sight so as to be sure of giving the sense. If Psalm 79:14 were printed in the extreme modern style, it would require no punctuation at all, and the meaning would still be clear to a careful person reading it to himself; 'So we that are thy people and sheep of thy pasture shall give thee thanks for ever and will always be showing forth thy praise from generation to generation.' But the over-punctuation of the Prayer Book enables any intelligent person to read it aloud correctly at sight: 'So we, that are thy people, and sheep of thy pasture, shall give thee thanks forever, and will always be showing forth thy praise from generation to generation.'¹

It is quite evident, and the fact is recognized by the best English

authorities, both from the practical and from the scholarly standpoint, that the only standard of punctuation for the English Bible and Prayer Book is the present usage, based on tradition but often modifying it, of the University Presses and the Queen's Printers. Bishop White in 1789, and Dr. Coit in 1844, did not hesitate to make changes in the punctuation of the English book, preserving the ancient tradition but applying it more uniformly and accurately. Following in their steps, we have had comparatively little to do in this line; yet we should not have followed in their steps if we had not read the Prayer Book through, with the greatest possible care and yet (to secure uniformity) as rapidly as carefulness would allow, and noted every inconsistency or inaccuracy which we were able to detect. And though the number of changes in punctuation which we report may seem large and the labour bestowed upon them may seem excessive, yet we believe that they are all corrections of errors in the line of former work — errors which would not have been noted and corrected but for the training which we have received from the painstaking labors of those who did a similar task in the earlier generations of our Church's history. And we do not hesitate to express the opinion that the Prayer Book now reported is, in these minor matters, better representative of the intended style of the English and the American revisers, and nearer their ideal, than were the editions which they prepared for the use of the Church.

We have good reason to believe that, as has been suggested, especially since the publication last year of the facsimile of the manuscript book of 1662, the judgment of English scholars is entirely in accordance with the principles which we have stated. It is very evident that the revisers of 1662, and the parliamentary authorities who gave sanction to their work, did not intend to preserve more than uniformity of language; while matters of orthography, punctuation, and typographical style were left to what may be called the printers' tradition of the day, and considered subject to necessary change from time to time.¹ Only on this supposition would it be possible to say that there is in England any ultimate standard for the Book of Common Prayer, or indeed for the Authorized Version of the Bible. In both volumes the responsible printers, acting as under the highest authority, have from time to time done editorial work of the same kind as that which our General Convention has entrusted to its responsible committees. The result is that very few errors have crept into the text, that past errors have not been considered irremediable, and that there are probably no other books in the world as well and carefully printed as are the English Bible and Prayer Book. We shall be glad if we have done something toward establishing or preserving in our American Prayer Book an equally commendable degree of accuracy.

CORRECTIONS FROM THE STANDARD OF 1871.

THE standard of 1871 was (theoretically) a new edition of that of 1845, differing from it in certain particulars, which are specified in a report to be found on pp. 535 sqq. of the Journal of the General Convention of 1871, under the three heads of "Typographical Inaccuracies," "Alterations," and "Corrigenda." These have received the careful attention of the committee, and the changes in the book of 1845, made in accordance with them, should be first noted.

1. Of the "typographical inaccuracies" noted, a part are in the Tables of Lessons, or in other places of the Prayer Book which have been changed by the action of the General Convention since 1871, and a part are in passages of Holy Scripture which have been compared for this report directly with the text of the Bible. Of the remainder, nearly all are errors which we have corrected in accordance with the report of 1871, as follows (it should be noted that the standard editions of 1845 and 1871 agree in pagination):

- Page 209, in rubric, read 'after every Commandment' [capital initial].
- Page 244, in second rubric, read 'omission' [small initial; and the same correction in the third rubric on page 237].
- Page 255, in fifth rubric, read 'troth' [small initial].
- Page 261, punctuate third verse of Psalm as in the Psalter.
- Pages 274, 275, titles not to be printed as rubrics.
- Page 276, line 4, read 'art' for 'are.'
- Page 325, rubric, read 'exultemus' [small initial].
- Page 417, Ps. 74:14, read 'brakest' [as in 1790] for 'breakest.'
- Page 455, Ps. 104:20, read 'forest' for 'forests.'
- Page 481, heading of Ps. 119, Pt. 11, read 'Defecit' for 'Deficit' [as in 1790].
- Page 496, Ps. 135:6, read 'and in the sea' [as in reported book of 1844].
- Page 506, read 'Psalm cxlv.' for Psalm clxv.'
- Page 523, last line, insert apostrophe in first word, 'Prophet's.'
- Page 578, end of last prayer, put comma after 'together,' and omit it after 'we.'
- Page 579, first line, read 'Instituted' [capital initial].

There were four other changes made in 1871 under this head, which we do not adopt.

- Page 19, in Bonum est, we retain 'night season' in two words, having adopted this form in the Psalter.
- Page 530, line 2, the reading 'His' for 'his' is contrary to Prayer Book usage, and there is certainly no special reason why the capital should be introduced in this place.
- Page 549, line 4, the insertion of commas is unnecessary, and contrary to usage.

Pages 278, 464, Ps. 107 : 27, the correct reading is certainly 'at their wit's end,' not 'at their wits' end'; that is to say, 'at the end of their wit,' 'their wisdom'; or, as the Hebrew is literally translated, 'all their wisdom is swallowed up.' The apostrophe in the possessive case was not in use in the time of the Great Bible, or in 1611. It has been rightly introduced in this case in recent editions of the Authorized Version; the Revised Version has misplaced it.

On page 426, at the beginning of Psalm 79, we print the last two letters of the word 'God' in lower-case type of large size, for a reason to be stated on a later page.

2. Under the head of "alterations" seventeen changes were made in 1871 from the former standard. The committee say: "These have, in every instance, followed the 'Sealed Book,' and have not been made without very mature deliberation." This is a very strange statement; for eight of the seventeen alterations do not follow the published texts of the "Sealed Books," and some of them relate to matters (e.g., the Form for the Consecration of a Church) which are not in the English book at all. As under the former head, a part of these alterations relate to matters changed by constitutional action, and a part to passages from the Holy Scriptures. Of the remainder, we have adopted several, although not always for the reasons given in 1871, as follows:

- a. 'Amen' should be read, as it is in the book of 1871, after the Gloria Patri following the Lord's Prayer at Morning and Evening Prayer. We are satisfied that its omission in this place in earlier American books was a printers' error, especially as it was not omitted at the end of the Gloria in the Litany, the Burial Office, the Churching Office, and the Forms of Prayer to be used at Sea.
- b. Near the close of the General Thanksgiving, the reading of 1871 is correct: 'and that we show forth thy praise.' The Thanksgiving is not in the earlier English books, but was written into the book of 1636 which served as the "copy" for the scribe who wrote out the Appended Book of 1662. It was written without 'may' in both cases; but the printers at once inserted it in the "Sealed Book," and the commissioners cancelled it. After long struggles with the printers, who seem to have had on their side a tradition that the omission (or "non-interpolation") of the 'may' was an error, the English books are now correctly printed. Our earlier American books followed inaccurate editions of the English book; in some late impressions of the Standard of 1845 the 'may' was omitted in at least one place where the Thanksgiving occurs.
- c. We retain from 1871 the spelling 'Banns,' as being that of the early American standards; the change to 'Bans' was probably due to a slip in 1822.
- d. We also retain from 1871, at the end of the Forms of Prayer to be used at Sea, the heading, 'At the Burial of their Dead at Sea,' as being that of the book of 1790. [A proposition as to a change in this form awaits final action in 1892.]
- e. The punctuation of 1871 in Ps. 139 : 1 is correct: 'and known me; thou knowest,' etc.¹

¹ [The semicolon will be replaced, however, by the musical colon.]

- f. The headings of the Epistle and the Gospel to be used at the Consecration of a Church were rightly printed in 1871 after the analogy of those of other Epistles and Gospels.

The other "alterations" of 1871, four in number, we have not adopted.

- a. As to the punctuation of the Apostles' Creed, we refer to a later page of this report. The punctuation of 1871 lost the division into twelve articles.
- b. Until it was introduced by the Committee of 1871, the spelling 'Whitsun-day' had never appeared (at least with any authority) in either the English or the American Prayer Book. The authorized English spelling appears to be 'Whitsunday' [in one word, without hyphen], and this is still used in the Cambridge books; the printers have introduced the spelling 'Whit-Sunday,' and this is the present usage of the Oxford Press and of Messrs. Eyre & Spottiswoode. Our American standards before 1845 read 'Whitsunday'; the standard of 1845 reads 'Whit-Sunday.' There is no liturgical authority whatever for 'Whitsun-day'; and Professor Skeat, in his Etymological Dictionary, asserts emphatically that there is no etymological authority for it. We have therefore restored the former spelling, Whitsunday.¹
- c. We see no reason for violating the liturgical rule that in the Prayer Book the initial letters of pronouns relating to Divine Persons are not for that reason to be capitalized. The statement in the Report of 1871 is very inaccurate, both as to what it was proposed to do and as to that which was actually done in the plates of the printed book. To make a general change of this kind would be to transcend the authority of our committee; and to make it in a few places, or in parts of certain prayers, would be equally unauthorized.
- d. We do not think that it is in the power of an editing committee to make any change in the punctuation of the Thirty-nine Articles, unless it be to correct a manifest printers' error. For this reason we have not inserted the proposed comma after the word 'Christ' in the second line of Article XI.

3. Under the head of "corrigenda" we have but to note the change of the interrogation-mark at the end of the heading of Psalm 3 to a mark of exclamation. This seems at first sight an obviously necessary correction; but, although the opening clause of the Psalm in English is an exclamation, the opening clause in Latin is a question, and means, as the Douay Version reads, "Lord, why are they multiplied that afflict me?" The mark of interrogation is therefore retained in the heading.

The Canon of 1871 provided (and still provides) for the making of "alterations, corrections, or emendations" in the plates of the Standard Prayer Book, under the direction of a committee appointed for that purpose. The only changes known to have been made by authority are those mentioned in a Report of the Custodian of the Standard Book published in the Journal of 1883, p. 606. Of these, the first relates to the punctuation of the Nicene Creed, as to which we refer to a later part of this report; the second, third, and fourth are corrections of obvious misprints, bringing the text into conformity with that of 1845; and the fifth corrects Ps. 100:1 so as to read 'O be joyful,' omitting the word 'ye,' which was a misprint in the Standard of 1822.

PASSAGES OF HOLY SCRIPTURE.

THE Epistles and Gospels in the Prayer Book, together with part of the other passages from Scripture, are taken from the version of 1611, commonly known as the "Authorized Version." No available edition of this version has been set forth as a standard Bible for this Church. [See the full report of the Rev. Dr. J. A. Spencer, "Custodian of the Standard Bible," on this subject (Journal of 1886, pp. 855 sqq.).]

The committee decided therefore to apply to the representatives of the Oxford University Press, the Cambridge University Press, and Messrs. Eyre & Spottiswoode (Her Majesty's Printers), for copies of recent editions of the English Bible in the Authorized Version which might be considered as, in every particular, standard editions of their respective presses. Such copies having been secured, one member of the committee read all the Epistles and Gospels, correcting a copy of the Prayer Book of 1845 by the Oxford University Bible, and another member read the same, correcting another copy of the Prayer Book of 1845 by the Eyre & Spottiswoode Bible. The Epistles and Gospels thus corrected were then compared, with reference to both Bibles. This comparison showed that, in the passages of Holy Scripture appointed as Epistles and Gospels in the Prayer Book, the two editions of the Bible agree exactly in spelling, punctuation, and capitalization; except that in St. Matt. 21:12 (1 Adv. Gosp.) the Oxford reading is 'moneychangers' in one word, and the Eyre & Spottiswoode reading is 'money changers' in two words; and in St. Luke 24:22 (Mo. in Ea.-Wk. Gosp.) the Oxford Bible places a semicolon, and the Eyre & Spottiswoode Bible a colon, after the word 'sepulchre.' In both these cases the reading of the Cambridge Bible was found to agree with that of the Oxford Bible; and this seemed, therefore, the reading to be adopted. The other passages of Scripture in the Prayer Book taken from the Authorized Version were in like manner read and corrected by the texts of the English Bible; they include most of the opening Sentences at Morning and Evening Prayer (the exceptions will be noted later), the Easter Anthems, the Summary of the Law, the second of the Offertory Sentences together with those added in 1889 (two words being inserted in the last), the opening Sentences and the Lesson in the Burial Office, and the opening Sentences in the service for Thanksgiving-day. All these, with the Epistles and Gospels, are now reported in conformity with the present received text of the Authorized Version.

In conforming these passages of Scripture to the exact text of the Authorized Version, it was necessary to make numerous corrections in the Prayer Book of 1845. The following table shows the necessary corrections of words, the three editions of the Bible which were consulted agreeing in every case. Some of these errors or changes were traced at least to a proximate source; but it has not been thought necessary to note here the results of this investigation.

There are many words printed in the book of 1845 as compounds with hyphens, some of which appear in the Bible as one word and others as two separate words: e.g., 'fellowservant,' 'fourscore,' 'only begotten,' 'sabbath day,' etc.

The number of instances in which the Standard of 1845 differs in punctuation or capitalization from the English Bible is very large. The variations in punctuation seem to be due in part to the following of inaccurately printed copies of the Bible, and in part to a desire to indicate an interpretation or exegesis of special passages; it is quite probable that a large part of the former class may be traced back to a time anterior to the fixing of the text of the Authorized Version by Bishop Lloyd. There is no very accurate following of theoretical rules in the punctuation of the Bible; in particular, the colon and the semi-colon are constantly confused; but, speaking generally, the punctuation of the Bible appears far more satisfactory than that of the Biblical passages in the Prayer Book. The Standard of 1845 introduced a large number of capitals: as for instance in the words 'Name' as applied to

² A curious and persistent error in American books, dating from 1790, and found in nearly every edition.

God, 'Law' as meaning the Law of Moses or more generally the Law of God, 'Lawyer' as meaning a Doctor of the Law, 'Scribes,' 'Publican,' 'Scripture,' 'Prophets,' 'Apostle,' 'Gospel,' 'Church,' 'Kingdom' of God or of heaven, 'High Priest' referring to Christ, 'Holy Place' referring to the material temple or to heaven; and also in the second noun in such phrases as 'Son of Man,' 'Spirit of Truth,' 'Father of Lights,' and the first word in 'Sea of Galilee,' 'Mount of Olives.' Later impressions of this book show the insertion of even more capitals, as the second in the phrase 'Kingdom of Heaven,' and — a most evident error — the initial of 'Masters' in Matt. 15:27 (2 Lent Gosp.).

In the Bible no pronouns begin with a capital letter, unless there is some other reason for the capitalization; in the Prayer Book of 1845 capital initials were given to pronouns in many cases, generally (as it would appear) for emphasis or to suggest an interpretation: see Matt. 27:9 (Sun. bef. Ea. Gosp.), John 16:5 (4 Ea. Gosp.), Rom. 8:20 (4 Trin. Ep.), 1 Pet. 2:23 (2 Ea. Ep.).

Exclamation-points were freely used in 1845, but more were introduced in later impressions; the two in Acts 9:10 (Conv. S. Paul Ep.) have a very strange look.

The words LORD and GOD are printed in small capitals throughout the Old Testament whenever they represent the ineffable Name commonly written JEHOVAH or the shorter form JAH. In the New Testament the English Bible prints the word LORD in small capitals in but one quotation from the Old Testament, viz.: 'The LORD said unto my Lord.' The Prayer Book of 1845 used small capitals in other quotations from the Old Testament, viz.: Rom. 15:4 (2 Adv. Ep.), John 1:23 (4 Adv. Gosp.), Rom. 4:8 (Circ. Ep.), Matt. 27:10 (6 Lent Gosp.); but not in 1 Pet. 3:12 (5 Trin. Ep.), and Heb. 12:5, 6 (Comm. of Sick Ep.). In passages from the Old Testament, including the Psalter, the book of 1845 printed the words representing the Sacred Name in small capitals uniformly, except in the Ten Commandments and their preface and in the benediction from Numbers 6:24, 25, 26. The usage of the English Bible, much to be commended, is now followed throughout in this, as in the other particulars mentioned.

The words printed in italic in the English Bible, as having been inserted by the translators, are all in roman in the Prayer Book; but the Hebrew (or Aramæan) words used by our Lord in His cry on the Cross and in addressing the deaf and dumb man were printed in the Prayer Book of 1845 in italic; the English Bible prints them like the rest of the text.

The words inserted or changed at the beginnings of the Epistles and Gospels are the same in the Standard of 1845 as in the English book. They have never been distinguished, in any authorized printed book, from the rest of the text.

Of the sentences which have stood at the beginning of Morning and Evening Prayer since 1790, all are taken from the version of 1611, except the third (Psalm 19: 14, 15) which follows the Prayer Book Psalter. (The change to the Authorized Version was made in 1662 in those of the sentences which are in the English book.) The next to the last is the same in the two versions, the words 'O LORD' having been inserted from the preceding verse. (This insertion is also made in the last of the new Offertory Sentences, 1 Chron. 29: 14.) And the last was made a continuous sentence in 1662 by the insertion of 'but,' while the American book has substituted in the second part 'God' for 'he.'¹ Of the sentences introduced in 1889, those from the Psalter, with the exception of Psalm 46: 4, are from the Prayer Book Version, while those from other books, together with Psalm 46: 4, are from the Authorized Version. We retain the capital initials for 'Name' in Mal. 1: 11, and 'Kingdom' in St. Matt. 3: 2.

The verse (Job 14: 1) prefixed in the Burial Office to the Anthem 'In the midst of life we are in death,' is taken from the Great Bible²; this, however, reads 'born of woman,' 'flyeth' (changed to 'fleeth' in 1604), and 'in one state.' Most of the Offertory Sentences are also, though with some modifications, from the Great Bible, as will appear from the following notes.

Of the Offertory Sentences, the first and the fourth (Matt. 5: 16, 7: 21) agree exactly with both the Great Bible and the version of 1611 (they were evidently taken from the former); the second (Matt. 6: 19, 20) is in the English book taken from the Great Bible, but in the American from the version of 1611; while the third follows neither of these versions, but is nearer Coverdale, our Bible changing 'unto' to 'to' as in 1611. The fifth (Luke 19: 8) and the sixth (1 Cor. 9: 7) are nearly as in the Great Bible; the seventh (1 Cor. 9: 11) is not from any version, Coverdale and the Great Bible reading 'bodily things,' and the Bishops' and the Authorized 'carnal things'; and in like manner the eighth (1 Cor. 9: 13, 14) does not agree with any early version; Coverdale reads 'the altar' twice, but the Great Bible 'the temple'; the translation of the Prayer Book (1549) is almost exactly that of the Bishops' Bible (1568). The remaining sentences in the former books, except the last, are taken with little or no change from the Great Bible, which in the two passages from Tobit and the passage from Proverbs follows Coverdale exactly. It may be noted that in Heb. 6: 10 the Great Bible reads 'ye show in his name which . . . and yet minister,' and in Tobit 4: 7 it reads 'from the poor; and so it shall come to pass that.' In 1 Tim. 6: 7 our Prayer Book reads 'this world' instead of ¹ The reason for the additional reference 'Psalm vi. 1' to the passage from Jer. x. 24 is not evident; it was inserted in 1662.

² As to the Great Bible and its editions, see later pages of this report, on the text of the Psalter.

'the world,' and in Heb. 13:16 it reads 'well pleased' instead of 'pleased,' in both cases following the version of 1611. The four new Offertory Sentences, as has been noted already, are from the version of 1611. Those Offertory Sentences which agree in wording with the Authorized Version have been compared with the English Bibles; no change has been made in any of the others except to give the correct spelling of 'Zachæus' in the fifth sentence.

The words from Numbers 6:24-26, in the benediction in the Visitation of the Sick and the Visitation of Prisoners, agree with those in both the Great Bible and the version of 1611, except that the Prayer Book has inserted 'to' in 'to shine upon thee.' The prayer of blessing, 2 Cor. 13:14, also follows the Great Bible, changing 'you all' to 'us all,' and adding 'evermore.' It may be added here that the benediction in the Office of Institution is from the version of 1611, slightly modified.

The other passages of Holy Scripture contained in the Prayer Book are the Ten Commandments, the Comfortable Words in the Communion Office, and the verse beginning 'I heard a voice' in the Burial Office, together with the three New Testament Hymns and the Benedicite. These were not taken from any version of the Bible, but, as has been noted in the case of some of the Offertory Sentences, were translated for the services when they were compiled; only the original form of the last of the Comfortable Words was nearly that of the Great Bible. These four Words were inserted in the Order of Communion of 1548, in a form somewhat different from that which appears in the present English book. Our book (from 1790) reads 'all ye that' for 'all that' in the first, and 'Christ Jesus' for 'Jesus Christ' in the third, in both cases following Bishop Seabury's Communion Office (which agrees with Bas-kerville), and in the latter case following the Authorized Version. In the first, the spelling 'travel' was retained in our standards till 1832, as it still remains in our Bibles in Num. 20:14 and Lam. 3:5. The Ten Commandments, with the full preface in the Catechism and the shortened preface in the Communion Office, remain in the English book and in our own as in the English book of 1552, except that in the Second Commandment 'sin' was changed to 'sins' in 1662, probably by following an error in the book of 1636. The word LORD, representing the ineffable Name of God, we have printed here in small capitals, as in other passages from the Old Testament. The verse from Revelation (14:13) remains as when it was first inserted in the Burial Office.

THE PSALTER.

THE English Prayer Book contains a note in these words: "Note, that the Psalter followeth the Division of the Hebrews, and the Translation of the Great English Bible, set forth and used in the time of King Henry the Eighth, and Edward the Sixth." Of this Great Bible, seven folio editions were published between April 1539 and December 1541; the first edition is sometimes called Cromwell's Bible, while the second and later editions are often known as Cranmer's Bible. Your committee have had before them copies of the first folio of 1539 and the small quarto of 1553. An exhaustive collation of the Psalter in the successive editions of this Bible with that in the present English and American Prayer Books has been much to be desired; but it was not possible for the committee to undertake it; neither, indeed, was it absolutely necessary for their purpose. They have, however, had at their disposal, and they are able to present in connection with this Report, a paper containing the result of the careful studies of the Rev. Frederick Gibson, who has compared the Psalter in the manuscript Appended Book of 1662 and in printed Prayer Books with that in several editions of the Bible, and has proved that the scribe of 1662 copied the Psalter, not (as has been thought) directly from the fourth folio of November 1540, but from a Bishops' Bible of about 1591, which, as was not unusual, contained the Great Bible Psalter; and that the Psalter in this Bible, though in the main it followed the edition of November 1540, contained some readings from Great Bibles of 1553, 1562, and 1569, and a few which were entirely new.

The Psalter in our book of 1790 was evidently printed from an English book, presumably a London edition of Mark Baskett or a Baskerville edition, with a few changes in words and in spelling, and with many changes in punctuation, most of the latter made necessary by the omission of the (so-called) musical colon in each verse. It is evident that, as errors made by the scribe in 1661 or by the printers in 1662 were probably perpetuated in both the English and the American books, so misprints in the English book or books used in 1789 or 1790 might be brought over into the American book.

The changes intentionally made in 1790 in the wording of the Psalms are few in number, and they can be, with one or two possible exceptions, easily discovered. Thus, the change of 'leasing' to 'falsehood' in Psalm 4:2 and to 'lies' in Psalm 5:6 was certainly intentional; and the variation in the word chosen to replace the obsolete word shows admirably the great care with which the work of revision was done. So likewise the change of 'flittings' to 'wanderings' in Psalm 56:8 must have been intentional, as also the change of 'cherubims' to 'cherubim' in three places in 1793.

There are three errors, evidently due to the use of the handsome but inaccurate English books already mentioned, which we have corrected as misprints: in Psalm 49:14 'domination' should be read for 'dominion'; in 128:2 'labours' should be read for 'labour'; and in 135:6 'and in the sea' should be read for 'in the sea.' (This last correction was made in 1871.) Besides these, we have corrected the following slips in the wording of the Psalter of 1845, returning in every case to the reading of the book of 1790; the date of the standard in which the error first appeared is noted in parenthesis:

Psalm 22:16, read 'council'	for 'counsel' (1845)
72:17, read 'among'	for 'amongst' (1793)
83:9, read 'Madianites'	for 'Midianites' (1822)
	[See Acts 7:29, A.V.]
100:1, read 'O be joyful'	for 'O be ye joyful' (1822)
	[This correction was reported in 1883.]
102:20, read 'mournings'	for 'mourning' (1793)
103:20, read 'words'	for 'word' (1845)
104:11, read 'all beasts'	for 'all the beasts' (1822)
104:20, read 'forest'	for 'forests' (1845)
	[This was corrected in 1871.]
148:2, read 'host'	for 'hosts' (1822)

The recent publication of the fac-simile of the manuscript book of 1662 has called attention to errors made by the scribe, or to misprints copied by him, which passed into the printed books and have been perpetuated to this day. Before this publication but one such error is known to have been detected. In Psalm 68:4, the fourth Great Bible of November 1540 read by a strange misprint (probably due to the confusion of the short form of the sacred Name with the German 'ja'), 'praise him in his name, yea, and rejoice before him.' This reading passed into other editions of the Bible and into every printed Prayer Book, so far as is known, of earlier date than 1701; but when the error was discovered, the correction was made and the reading restored to that of the earlier Great Bibles. Following this precedent, the committee have felt it their duty, where it is quite evident that a slip was made in copying or in setting type at an early day, to correct the slip and give the reading which was intended. Thus, in Psalm 38:10, the word 'sight' was written or printed for 'light,' the letter 'l' being mistaken for long 's'; and the correct reading is 'and the light of mine eyes is gone from me.' So also, in 87:4, 'Behold ye the Philistines also' is an error for 'Behold, yea the Philistines also,' 'yee' (the old spelling of 'yea') being mistaken for the personal pronoun 'ye'; the meaning is that Philistines and Tyrians and Morians are all reckoned as born in the city of God. The other corrections which we make under this head are as follows (in every case, the reading adopted is that of nearly all the Great Bibles examined by or for Mr. Gibson):

Psalm 24: 8, 10,	read 'Who is this King of glory?'	. . . not 'the'
42: 9,	read 'thy water-pipes'	. . . not 'the'
50: 9,	read 'nor he-goats'	. . . not 'he-goat'
55: 11,	read 'out of her streets'	. . . not 'their'
90: 12,	read 'O teach us to number' ¹	. . . not 'So'
110: 3,	read 'shall thy people'	. . . not 'the'
117: 2,	read 'more and more toward us'	. . . not 'towards'

The adoption of the corrections which have been enumerated will, it is believed, make the text of our Prayer Book Psalter almost ideally perfect.

In the Standard of 1845, the rule as to the use of small capitals (after the capital initial) for the words 'LORD' and 'GOD,' in cases where they represent the Hebrew words transliterated Jehovah or Jah, was extended, very instructively and reverently, to the Psalter and the canticles and verses taken from it; while the same English words, where they represent the Hebrew Adonai (Adon) or Elohim (Eloah, El), or where they have no equivalent in the original, are printed in the ordinary manner, 'Lord' and 'God.' (The second 'LORD' in Ps. 29: 1 is printed with small capitals, although the sacred Name is not repeated in the Hebrew, because it seems that the former part of the verse was twice translated.) Where these Divine Names stand, either with or without the interjection 'O' at the beginning of a psalm or of a portion of Ps. 119, full capitals were used, as ordinarily at the beginning of a chapter in the Bible. This fails to show that the word 'Lord' in 90: 1 and 119: 97 and the word 'God' at the beginning of Ps. 46, 60, 63, 67, 74, 82, and 108, do not represent the ineffable Name. The word 'God' at the beginning of Ps. 79 was left in ordinary type. In these ten cases we have put the letters after the initials in the words 'Lord' and 'God' in "lower-case" type, but of a larger size than that elsewhere used.

The Hebrew word Elyōn, applied to the Almighty, is represented in the Psalter eleven times by 'Most Highest,' four times by 'Most High,' twice by 'Most High (God),' once by 'High (God),' and once by 'Highest.' In nearly all these cases, the Standard of 1845 used capitals, as printed above. We have made the usage uniform by introducing capitals in Ps. 7: 18, 57: 2, 78: 35, and 78: 57. The same Hebrew word occurs also in Ps. 91: 9, but is so mistranslated as not to appear as a Divine title. Another Hebrew word, Mārōm, appears in the Psalter as ¹ This is the reading of the manuscript book in the Burial Service, of Collingwood both in the Psalter and in the Burial Service, and of the present books from both University Presses in the Burial Service.

'most Highest' in 56:2 and 92:7, and 'most High' in 73:8; we have printed the words as here given. In Ps. 13:6, the words 'most highest' have no representative in the original and we have not capitalized them. The words 'Most Mighty' in Ps. 45:4 represent the Hebrew Gibbor; so also, 'Almighty God' in 132:2 and 'Mighty God' (we thus print) in 132:5 stand for the Hebrew Abir. We suggest the combination of sacred Names in the Hebrew of 50:1 by printing 'the Most Mighty God.'

The sacred Name Jehovah is found in Ps. 33:12 and 83:18, and Jah in 68:4; we have printed them in full capitals, following the usage of the English Bible, which was adopted by the book of 1845 in the name JAH. It may not be amiss to call attention to the irreverent method of printing these sacred Names in the Revised Version of the Bible, entirely in small capitals without large initials.

The word 'majesty' is not used in the Psalter as a title of God, but as a common noun, and we have not given it a capital initial; it occurs in 72:19 (bis), 90:17, 102:15, 104:31. 'King' is used so nearly as a title that we have given it a capital, even when its use cannot be considered Messianic. 'Anointed' requires the capital in 2:2, where the Messianic reference is evident; but it is plainly a common noun in 18:51, 20:6, 28:9, 84:9, 89:37, 50, 105:15 (plural), 132:10, 18, though a Messianic interpretation may be given to some of the passages; we print the word in these places 'anointed.'

The headings of the Psalms, taken from the Vulgate, have been found to need correction in several places, as follows:

- Psalm 1: Beatus vir qui non abiit. (Omit comma.)
 13: Usquequo, Domine? (Two words, not three.)
 19: Cæli enarrant. (Not cæli, a spelling not used now by any scholars, and rejected from recent editions of the Vulgate.)
 22: Deus, Deus meus. (Without exclamation.)
 32: Beati quorum. (Omit comma.)
 34: Benedicam Dominum. (Late Latin construction.)
 35: Judica, Domine. (The me in Stephens and in our books since 1822 is the error of some otherwise editor or printer, who translated back; the construction is, Judica, Domine, nocentes me.)
 39: Diri, Custodiam. (Capital letter beginning a quotation.)
 54: Deus, in Nomine. (As 'for thy Name's sake.')
 68: Ezurgat Deus. (Better spelling than Exurgat.)
 78: Attendite, popule. (Insert comma.)
 109: Deus, laudem. (Deus laudum is an ancient blunder, caused probably by the scribe in 1661 translating back; the Great Bible has it right. The construction is Deus, laudem meam ne tacueris.)
 119, Part 2: In quo corrigi? (Correction of a similar error.)
 Part 7: Memor esto verbi tui. (Correction of a similar error.)
 Part 11: Defecit anima mea. (Corrected in 1871.)

Psalm 121: Levavi oculos. (The old title omits meos. Correct in 1871.)
 136: Confitemini. (The old title omits Domino. This is the Confitemini Psalm par excellence.)

Careful perusal of the Psalter with a view to uniformity and clearness of punctuation and capitalization has led to the adoption of the following changes. They are believed to be entirely on the lines followed in 1845, and to make the meaning of the familiar words of the Psalms more plain and more readily adapted to devotional use. In considering them, the general remarks as to Prayer Book punctuation which have been already made should be borne in mind.

1. A colon has been placed at the end of the verse, instead of a period or a semicolon, when the following verse contains words of the nature of a quotation introduced by that which precedes. Thus, in the book of 1845, the second verse of Ps. 2 ends with a colon, because the third verse contains the counsel of the rulers against the LORD and against his Anointed. We have placed a colon at the end of the fifth verse also, because the sixth verse contains the words which He that dwelleth in heaven speaks unto them in his wrath.¹ The other instances, which will readily suggest their own explanation, are 39: 4, 41: 7, 44: 1, 52: 7, 132: 2, 11. A colon has also been placed at the end of a verse when the next verse contains a specific enumeration introduced by that which precedes; this is the case in 8: 6 and 135: 10. In Ps. 136 the colon has been retained for this reason at the end of verses 7 and 18, but a semicolon has been placed at the end of verses 8, 10, 11, 13, 17, 19, 20, 21, 23.

2. The word 'Tush' in the book of 1845 is printed three times in Ps. 10 with an exclamation-point, while in 73: 11 and 94: 7 it is followed by a comma. As the word is an interpolation in the English, due apparently to Coverdale, and has nothing corresponding to it in either the Hebrew or the Greek or the Latin, we prefer the simpler punctuation, and use commas in all five places. In Coverdale's Bible it is not printed with an exclamation-point.

3. We have removed unnecessary exclamation-points, substituting commas in 22: 1 ('My God, my God, look upon me'), and periods in 40: 19 (as 70: 4), in 128: 2, and in eight cases in Ps. 119 when 'O' (not 'O that') is followed by a simple imperative. In this last mentioned psalm the usage of 1845 was so irregular that it was necessary either to introduce a considerable number of exclamation-points or to remove them except at the end of real exclamations. The exclamation-points in 144: 3 have been changed to interrogation-points, as in 8: 4; and an exclamation-point has been inserted in 66: 2 after 'works.'²

4. Unnecessary commas have been omitted in 7: 1, 30: 2, 38: 21, so that we read 'O LORD my God,' as in 7:3, 35:24, and 40:6; and in 8:1, 9, we read 'O LORD our Governor.' So also in 53:7 (bis), we read 'O that,' without a comma, as in 55:6 and 81:14; and in all these cases we read 'O' for 'Oh,' as in 107:8, 15, 21, 31, and 119:5. Commas have also been omitted in the following instances:

² If the "divisional" or "musical" colon is introduced, it will displace this exclamation-point, and also the first in 8: 4 and 144: 3.

- Psalm 4:1 'Hear me when I call'
 1 'at liberty when I was in trouble'
 8 'corn and wine and oil'
 5:13 'defend him as with a shield'
 18:51 'David his anointed'
 22:26 'seek after the LORD shall praise him'
 25:9 'his covenant and his testimonies'
 31:8 'will be glad and rejoice'
 74:21 'darkness and cruel habitations'
 80:2 'come and help us' [so 1790, etc., 1871.]
 133:1 'we read 'brethren to dwell together,' inasmuch as the word for 'brethren' is not vocative in either the Hebrew, the Greek, or the Latin. (See Authorized Version.)
 134:4 'The LORD that made'
 136:22 'Israel his servant'

5. Other simple corrections of punctuation are as follows:

- Psalm 14:3 'seek after God.' [As in 53:3.]
 27:4 'which I will require;'¹
 30:13 'without ceasing;'¹
 43:2 'of my strength;'
 44:10 'confusion,'¹
 46:2 'of the sea;'
 50:8 'burnt-offerings,'¹
 55:2 'and am vexed;'
 57:4 'is among lions;'
 62:7 'my glory,' the rock of my might;'
 66:12 'burnt offerings,'
 68:30 'spearmen and multitude'
 69:17 'of thy mercies.'
 88:15 'youth up, thy terrors'
 108:7 'in his holiness,'¹ [as in 60:6]
 116:16 'house, even in the midst'
 118:29 'unto the LORD,' [as verse 1]
 119:164 'praise thee, because'¹
 140:6 'Thou art my God;'¹
 7 'thou strength of my health,'¹
 144:12 'of the temple;'
 13 'in our streets;'
 148:7, 8, 9, 10, 11, semicolons at end.

At the end of Ps. 106, the rubric (for such it really is) should not be punctuated as a consecutive part of the verse; we read, therefore, 'and world without end.'¹ And let all the people say, Amen.'

¹ If the "divisional" or "musical" colon is introduced, it will in these cases displace the punctuation indicated.

6. As to orthography, we read 'cedar-trees' in 29:5, as in 80:10 and elsewhere in names of trees; 'spearmen' in 68:30 (see Acts 23:23); 'new moon' in 81:3; 'firstborn' in the five cases where it occurs; 'night season' eight times; 'evil entreated' in 107:40; 'housetop,' 'housetops' in 102:7 and 129:6; and 'lawgiver' in 60:7 and 108:9. Also, in 16:9, 52:10, 61:8, 71:5, and 109:18, we read 'always,' as in 9:18 and sixteen other places; and in 94:18, we read 'slipt,' as in 38:16 and 73:2 (compare 'mixt' in 75:9). In 97:8 we use instead of 'Juda,' the form 'Judah,' as elsewhere, and as in this place in later impressions.

7. The attention of the committee has been called to the (apparent) irregularity in the use of 'my' and 'mine,' 'thy' and 'thine,' before words beginning with h, as, for instance, 'hand,' 'heart,' 'house,' and occasionally before words beginning with a vowel, as 'adversity' and 'arrows'; and it has been suggested that the usage, at least in the Psalter, should be made uniform. Our judgment, however, is that no change should be made in the use of these words, or in the use of 'a' and 'an,' unless it be to return to the former reading of the Prayer Book, when this has been neglected in any particular case. The ears of the earlier translators of the Bible, and of those who prepared the early editions of the English Prayer Book, were more accurate in regard to rhythm than are those of men of the present day; and with an instinct which rarely, if ever, erred, they made in each case a choice of words which we can feel to be right, though we could not trust ourselves to make it. For instance, in Psalm 20:4, we read 'Grant thee thy heart's desire, and fulfil all thy mind'; and in 27:16, 'O tarry thou the LORD's leisure; be strong, and he shall comfort thine heart.' Again, in 33:16, we read 'A horse is counted but a vain thing to save a man'; and in 147:10, 'He hath no pleasure in the strength of an horse.' It seems evident that it would not be permissible to exchange 'thy' and 'thine' before 'heart' in the two former passages, or 'a' and 'an' before 'horse' in the two latter. We determined, therefore, to follow in these cases, as our best available authority, the fac-simile of the manuscript of the book of 1662. Careful search among a great number of instances (there are over a hundred and fifty in all) has shown but six cases in which the Standard of 1845 should be corrected to agree in this particular with the Appended Book; they are as follows:

Psalm 21:8, read: 'All thine enemies shall feel thine hand.'

39:5, read: 'let me know mine end.' [The Appended Book has 'my' in the Psalter, but 'mine' in the Burial Office; and this latter is the reading of all Great Bibles.]

73:12, read: 'Then have I cleansed my heart in vain, and washed my hands in innocency.'

¹ So, in this case, 1790, 1793.

- Psalm 92: 9, read: 'But my horn shall be exalted like the horn of an unicorn.'
 116: 14, read: 'I am thy servant, and the son of thine handmaid.'
 119: 36, read: 'Incline my heart unto thy testimonies, and not to covetousness.'

It is interesting to note that the reading in 116: 14 is a return to that of 1790; and that in all the passages just quoted, except the first (where the order of words is not the same), the use of the pronominal forms is the same as in the version of 1611.

8. As to the use of capitals, the following should be added to what has been said above. We print 'one' in 89: 20 (bis) without a capital, the primary reference being evidently to David; and 'leviathan' in 74: 15 and 104: 26. In 48: 10 and 125: 1 we read 'the mount Sion,' but in 74: 3 'Mount Sion'; also in 123: 1 'O thou that dwellest,' and in 138: 2 'and thy word,' to conform to otherwise unvarying usage in the Psalter. In 39: 8 we read 'truly my hope,' in 3: 7 'for thou smitest, and in 62: 3 'ye shall be slain.'

9. To make these statements exhaustive, a list is appended of evident stereotypers' or printers' slips in the Psalter of 1845, now corrected.

Psalm 91: 15	'I will deliver him,' . . .	[comma lost]
100: 4	'everlasting' . . .	[hyphen lost at end of line]
111: 7	'and judgment;' . . .	[part of semicolon lost]
119: 18	'wondrous' . . .	[hyphen lost at end of line]
128: 6	'Jerusalem' . . .	[spelled "Jersusalem"]
137: 1	'sat down and wept,' . . .	[part of comma lost]

One other matter relating to the punctuation of the Psalter, which has opened an interesting vein of study, may be noted here. In eleven instances in the Prayer Book Psalter the statement of a reason is introduced by 'for why,' 'and why,' or 'and why because.' 'For why' is found in 16: 11, 105: 41, and 135: 4; 'and why,' in 35: 20, 69: 7, 73: 3, 75: 8, 102: 14, 116: 8, and 119: 111; 'and why because,' in 21: 7. In all these cases the word 'why' is followed by an interrogation-point. This is certainly a grammatical error; but, as will appear, it is an error of such old standing that it can hardly be thought within the province of an editing committee to correct it.

The word 'hwi' ['whi,' 'why'] is the instrumental case of the relative pronoun 'hwá' ['who'], sometimes used alone and sometimes with the preposition 'for.' The original meaning of 'for why' is therefore 'for which reason,' or 'for what reason'; but, like quod in Latin (originally an instrumental case) and ὅτι in Greek, it came to mean 'because.' The Wycliffite versions of the Scriptures use it frequently, the version assigned to cir. 1380 less often (apparently) than that which is thought to have been made some twenty years later; it appears to be employed to represent the Latin nam or the Greek γὰρ, and is not punctuated as a question. Coverdale uses 'for why' and also 'and why' (which is not in the Wycliffite versions) in exactly the same sense; and these phrases, with a freedom illustrated by his use of 'Tush,' he inserts several times where there is no equivalent word in either the Greek or the Latin. 'And why because,' in Ps. 21:7, is also due to Coverdale; it is the use of a modern in connection with an obsolescent form, such as is found in 'an if,' 'but and if.' But in Coverdale's time (a century and a half later than Wycliffe) these phrases were thought to be interrogative, and they were thus printed (though not in every case) in Coverdale's Bible. In this form, and with this punctuation, they passed into the Great Bible and the Prayer Book Psalter; they did not reach the version of 1611. It seems quite impossible, after these centuries, to change the punctuation; but it may be thought not undesirable to point out the original use of the phrases, and to suggest that in reading them aloud stress should not be laid upon them as if they were independent or rhetorical questions.

One of the proposed amendments to the Book of Common Prayer, awaiting the final action of the Convention of 1892, provides for the insertion of the so-called "musical" colon in the Psalms and Canticles, as in the English Prayer Book. There is no question as to the place of this colon, except in Ps. 39:14 and 100:2. In the former verse, modern English books place the colon after 'thee,' but the older authorities after 'sojourner'; in the latter, the modern books have the colon after 'God,' while all the best authorities, following the Hebrew punctuation, have it after 'ourselves.' We have no question that the older authorities should be followed in these cases.

If this "musical," or poetical, or divisional colon, corresponding to the Hebrew athnach, is inserted, it will call for changes of punctuation in two classes of verses. First, those in which the book of 1845 has a colon in a different place from the divisional colon, should have the former replaced by a semicolon or a comma. These instances are given in the following table, where the first column shows the word before the present colon with the proposed punctuation, and the second column the word before the division of the verse with the inserted colon. In several cases the punctuation shown in the first column is a return to some earlier American standard.

Psalms 6:6	groaning,	bed:
7:8	people;	O LORD:
12:4	speak,	prevail:
16:12	life;	joy:
18:30	fire;	way:
22:17	feet;	bones:

Psalm 22:26	him :	satisfied :
36:7	beast ;	God :
39:4	me ;	kindled :
48:2	King ;	earth :
56:8	wanderings ;	bottle :
60:1	displeased ;	abroad :
71:17	done ;	high :
119:94	thine,	me :
143:5	past ;	works :
146:1	soul ;	LORD :
148:13	people :	him :

There is a second class of instances, in which the insertion of the divisional colon calls for the change of other punctuation, as for instance in Ps. 18:1, where, if there is a colon after 'defence,' there should not be a semicolon after 'Saviour.' These instances are given in the following table, where the first column shows the word after which it is proposed to place a comma instead of the present punctuation, and the second column the word before the division of the verse with the inserted colon. Here also the proposed comma is in several cases a return to earlier American use.

Psalm 18:1	Saviour,	defence :
35:22	then,	LORD :
45:11	consider,	ear :
48:5	them,	sorrow :
69:18	servant,	trouble :
81:9	people,	Israel :
84:12	worship,	defence :
89:45	thyself,	ever :
106:1	LORD,	gracious :
107:1	LORD,	gracious :
116:16	house,	people :
118:21	thee,	me :
29	LORD,	gracious :
119:145	LORD,	heart :
130:6	watch,	Lord :
7	LORD,	mercy :
135:11	Amorites,	Basan :
141:1	thee,	me :
143:7	soon,	faint :
8	morning,	trust :
144:14	labour,	decay :
149:9	them,	written :

Also, semicolons should be used instead of colons at the end of 10:19, 12:3, 39:13, 44:3, 55:12, 55:13, 81:12, 107:11, and 129:1; semicolons instead of full stops at the end of 128:6 and 149:8; and colons instead of semicolons at the end of 83:5 and 89:3.

THE CREEDS.

THE punctuation of the Creeds calls for special consideration, both as being in itself a matter of importance and as being almost the only case in which the Committee have ventured to include in their report anything which may seem to lack full documentary authority. Even in this case, the variation which we recommend, as will presently appear, is rather in appearance than in reality.

The accompanying tables, exhibiting the punctuation of the Apostles' Creed in different editions of the Prayer Book, will show the necessity for attempting to punctuate it upon some principle. The authorities given are: for the English Book: (1) the manuscript of the Book of 1662 appended to the Act of Uniformity; (2) Stephens's edition edited from the Sealed Books; (3) Baskerville's edition of 1761, as a type of the editions followed by our first standards; and (4) the present English Books as printed by the two Universities and by the Queen's Printers; and for the American Book: (1) the editio princeps of 1790; (2) the Standard of 1845 edited by Dr. T. W. Coit; (3) the Standard of 1871; and (4) the Book Annexed and the Book Annexed as Modified; while in the last column is given the punctuation of this report.

It is evident that in the English editions, as was the custom of two centuries ago, little or no attention was paid to punctuation; even the manuscript standard does not punctuate the Creed alike in Morning and Evening Prayer; and Stephens, following the Sealed Books, departs in nine places from the Appended Book. The first careful and accurate punctuation of the Apostles' Creed was that reported by Dr. Coit and printed in our Standard of 1845. Its principle was to insert commas wherever they were necessary, but to place points heavier than a comma only at the end of the twelve Articles of the Creed. Thus he punctuated 'He descended into hell, The third day he rose from the dead' for the fifth Article; and 'The holy Catholic Church, The Communion of Saints' for the ninth Article; the capital letter at the beginning of the latter part of each Article serving to show distinctly the pause that should be made in reading. This punctuation was both accurate and instructive; but it led at once to inquiries as to what was meant by the comma in the ninth Article, and what doctrine was taught by the substitution of the comma for the semicolon to which every one was accustomed. People were not satisfied with the assurance that nothing was meant by the comma except that the clauses before it and after it were parts of the same Article of the Creed (as was also the case in the fifth Article), and that the change of pointing was not intended to teach any doctrine; and in later impressions from the plates of the book of 1845 a semicolon was placed after the word 'Church.' This was formally inserted by the Committee which prepared the Standard of 1871, so that the Apostles' Creed appeared to contain thirteen Articles instead of twelve.

The editors of the Book Annexed, evidently having in mind the desirability of exhibiting the twelve Articles of the Creed, and also the unwillingness of many persons to disturb the semicolon which had so long stood after the word 'Church,' adopted a very simple and satisfactory system of punctuation, placing a colon or (at the end of the second and the third parts of the Creed) a period after each Article, and leaving a semicolon to divide the ninth Article into its two parts. This punctuation has now been before the Church for some ten years, and has been practically, if not formally, approved by two General Conventions in connection with the restoration of the word 'again' in the fifth Article. Your Committee, in the belief that it is both correct and satisfactory, report it as the punctuation of the Apostles' Creed for the new Standard; recommending, however, the insertion of a semicolon after the clause 'He descended into hell,' that the parts of the fifth Article may be distinguished in the same way as the parts of the ninth.

We may add here that the running together of the first and the second parts of the Apostles' Creed in the Catechism, in the Standards of 1845 and 1871, is so evidently a misprint that we have corrected it as such.

As to the Creed commonly called the Nicene, the confusion of punctuation has been even greater than in the Apostles' Creed. The following table exhibits its punctuation as given in different editions. The authorities cited are the same as in the case of the Apostles' Creed, except that for the Standard of 1871 we have substituted the Report of the Custodian of the Prayer Book contained in an appendix to the Journal of 1883. To trace the history of the changes of spelling and capitalization and punctuation in the Nicene Creed, in or belonging to the Standard of 1871, would require much time and space. In the "Standard Copy" and other early impressions of the edition, there are nine discrepancies in punctuation in this Creed between Morning and Evening Prayer; and an impression bearing the date of 1879 shows that the punctuation of the Creed in Evening Prayer had been changed in thirteen places, while it still differed in two places from that in Morning Prayer. The form given in the Journal of 1883 may be presumed to give the deliberate judgment of the learned Dr. Harison in this matter; and it was followed, as will be seen from the table, in the Book Annexed, with the insertion (which seems necessary) of a comma after 'salvation.'

The punctuation which we report for this Creed, on precisely the same principles as that which we report for the Apostles' Creed, has additional weight as having been recommended, after careful study, by a Committee of the Lower House of the Convocation of Canterbury. We take it from the Chronicle of Convocation, 1877.

¹ The word 'again' is omitted in Evening Prayer, but there is a comma after 'rose.'

The punctuation of the Creed presented in any of the columns of this table except the last, has two defects: it does not exhibit the division of the Creed into its twelve Articles; and it breaks the continuity of the second and the third parts of the Creed by introducing periods into them. Thus even the Standard of 1845 made a full stop in the midst of the words which profess faith in the Cross and Passion, severed the Article which confesses the Ascension from that which relates to the Return, and cut off the Article concerning the Church both from that which precedes and from that which follows it. We feel justified therefore, and more than justified, in presenting a punctuation of the Nicene Creed on the same principles as those adopted in the case of the Apostles' Creed, especially as we have for it the high authority of English liturgical scholars. The Articles are divided by colons, periods standing at the end of the second and the third parts; and semicolons are used where the clauses of an Article need a division heavier than that made by a comma. It may not be amiss to say that the semicolon before the words 'By whom all things were made' helps to show that the reference is not to the Father, but to the Son (the Greek is ὁ υἱός: see in the original Col. 1:16, Eph. 3:9, Heb. 1:2, 1 Cor. 8:6); and that the comma in the words 'The Lord, and Giver of Life' indicates that the prepositional clause depends upon the second of the preceding substantives and not upon the first also (the Greek is τὸ Κύριον καὶ τὸ ζωοποιόν).

The Creeds, printed in accordance with this report, will read as follows:

I BELIEVE in God the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth:

And in Jesus Christ his only Son our Lord: Who was conceived by the Holy Ghost, Born of the Virgin Mary: Suffered under Pontius Pilate, Was crucified, dead, and buried: He descended into hell; The third day he rose again from the dead: He ascended into heaven, And sitteth on the right hand of God the Father Almighty: From thence he shall come to judge the quick and the dead.

I believe in the Holy Ghost: The holy Catholic Church; The Communion of Saints: The Forgiveness of sins: The Resurrection of the body: And the Life everlasting. Amen.

I BELIEVE in one God the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth, And of all things visible and invisible:

And in one Lord Jesus Christ, the only-begotten Son of God; Begotten of his Father before all worlds, God of God, Light of Light, Very God of very God: Begotten, not made: Being of one substance with the Father; By whom all things were made: Who for us men and for our salvation came down from heaven, And was incarnate by the Holy Ghost of the Virgin Mary, And was made man: And was crucified also for us under Pontius Pilate; He suffered and was buried: And the third day he rose again according to the Scriptures: And ascended into heaven, And sitteth on the right hand of the Father: And he shall come again, with glory, to judge both the quick and the dead; Whose kingdom shall have no end.

And I believe in the Holy Ghost, The Lord, and Giver of Life, Who proceedeth from the Father and the Son; Who with the Father and the Son together is worshipped and glorified; Who spake by the Prophets: And I believe one Catholic and Apostolic Church: I acknowledge one Baptism for the remission of sins: And I look for the Resurrection of the dead: And the Life of the world to come. Amen.

THE REST OF THE PRAYER BOOK.

THE principles which have guided the Committee in their work upon those parts of the Prayer Book which are not taken from the Scriptures have been already stated; their purpose has been to secure accuracy, uniformity, and convenience.

IN THE RUBRICS.

It is a fault in our recent Standards that the rubrics have been in much smaller type than the text and the titles of the canticles and prayers; so that a person not quite familiar with the service might (for instance) fail to see the place where either Lesson is to be read or to understand that the Jubilate and the Benedictus are alternate canticles. Even persons fairly familiar with the services themselves have often, we think, failed to recognize the importance of the rubrics and to know exactly what is contained in them. We have provided that the rubrics shall be printed in nearly the same type as the titles of the canticles and prayers, which is not much smaller than that used in the body of the text. In the rubrics, we uniformly follow the rule that roman type shall be used for Latin words (as the titles of psalms or canticles) or other words which in the text would be in italic, and for phrases which are to be used in the service (such as 'Here endeth the First Lesson'); and we also print uniformly in roman type the title of any part of the service which immediately follows (as 'Then shall the Minister say the Lord's Prayer'); but the title of a part of the service which is to be looked for elsewhere (such as the Psalms, the Lessons, the Collect, Epistle, and Gospel) we print in roman small capitals, thus: 'Then shall be read the FIRST LESSON according to the Table or Calendar'; 'Then shall be said the COLLECT OF THE DAY. And immediately after the Collect the Minister shall read the EPISTLE, saying,' etc. Small capitals are not used elsewhere in the rubrics, except that they are retained in the title of the Ten Commandments; and the use of roman type in the rubrics is restricted to the classes of cases just mentioned, and to the words 'Note' and 'Provided,' when introduced into a rubric. It is believed that the adoption of these rules, though in itself a little thing, will contribute very much to the facility of understanding and of using the services of the Prayer Book. It is not thought necessary to extend this use of roman type and small capitals into the services which follow the Psalter. All quotation marks are omitted from the rubrics.

In all cases of alternatives introduced into a sentence, whether in a rubric or elsewhere, we punctuate uniformly, thus: 'Here endeth the First [or the Second] Lesson'; 'this thy Child [or this thy Servant] with thy heavenly grace.' A capital is used for the numeral in 'First Lesson' and 'Second Lesson.' For the symbol '&c.' we use in every case the letters 'etc.' In phrases beginning 'but Note, That' we do not place a comma after 'but.' The punctuation of rubrics, and in particular of parentheses introduced into rubrics, has been made uniform. The words 'Holy-day' and 'Prayer-day' are always, when in lower-case type, printed as here given.

IN THE PREFACE, TABLES, ETC.

At the end of the second paragraph of the Preface, we read 'those who are in place of authority,' not 'places'; the words are a quotation from the Preface to the English Book, and should conform to it exactly.¹

The new tables for the determination of the Dominical Letter, the place of the Golden Numbers, and the date of Easter-day, for which the Church is indebted to the ingenuity and the accuracy of the late Dr. Francis Harison, have been carefully examined by the Committee and by the Rev. Professor Barbour of the Berkeley Divinity School; and it is believed that they contain no errors. The use of capitals and italics in the pages containing the 'Tables and Rules' has been made uniform according to Prayer-Book usage.

It should be noted that the tables for finding the Dominical Letter, extending in one case from the year 1600 to 3499 inclusive, and in the other case from 1600 to 5099 inclusive, are computed for the Gregorian Calendar or "New Style," which was not adopted in Great Britain and its Colonies until 1752; so that the tables will not serve for determining the day of the week, according to English reckoning, before the change of style. In England the year 1752 (a leap-year) had three Sunday letters: E for January and February, D from March 1 to September 2 inclusive, and A from September 14 to the end of the year. (The days September 3-13 inclusive were dropped, and the next day after Wednesday September 2 was Thursday September 14; the next Sunday after August 30 was September 17.) On the Continent, where the New Style had prevailed from 1582, the Sunday letters of this year were B for January and February, and A for the rest of the year. The following table, showing the Old Style Sunday letter corresponding to the New Style letter given in the table, can be used for the determination of the week-day of dates in our early history :

New Style from 1582 Oct. 15	A B C D E F G
Old Style from 1582 Oct. 15 to 1700 Feb. 29	E F G A B C D
Old Style 1700 Mar. 1 to 1752 Sept. 2	D E F G A B C

In recently published Tables of Lessons, no letter has been set against the 29th day of February. This is an error; for the letter of February 29 is D, and when D is the beginning Sunday letter of a leap-year there are five Sundays in February. The Calendar column for the names of Holy-days has also been omitted without authority from many recent tables; we have provided for all the Calendar columns before the columns which contain the lessons.

In the Table of Feasts, we read 'The Nativity of St. John Baptist' omitting 'the' before 'Baptist,' as in the heading of the service for the day, and as in this place in the English books.

It has been questioned whether there is proper authority for the use of italic type in the Tables of Lessons for the titles of the books called Apocryphal. A careful examination of the Journal of 1883 fails to show that the order "that the names of apocryphal books be printed in the Tables of Lessons in type of a character different from that used to name the canonical books" was passed by the House of Deputies. The tables adopted in 1883 were, however, published with this difference in type. The present tables, differing from those of 1883 only in changes consequent upon the insertion in the Calendar of the feast of the Transfiguration, were introduced as new matter and finally adopted in 1889. As thus introduced (or certainly as notified) and adopted, they contained the names of apocryphal books in italic type; but it may be contended that this was an error made in preparing the tables for the press. We have not felt that it was within our province to change the italic to roman type; and as the change, if thought desirable, can apparently be made by the vote of one General Convention, it is sufficient to have called attention to the circumstances of the case.

IN MORNING AND EVENING PRAYER.

In the first line of the second part of the Gloria in excelsis a comma is placed after 'Son,' as in the same hymn in the Communion Service.

The first two of the three rubrics immediately before the Te Deum are printed together, as in all our books before 1845, in order that the following "Note" may not appear out of place. Dr. Coit's reasons for separating the corresponding rubric in Evening Prayer into three rubrics, and his argument for the authority to do so, may be read in his report; apparently he did not notice the incongruity caused by the division in this place. After 'Book,' in this note or rubric, a semicolon is used instead of a colon.

In the Te Deum a semicolon is placed at the end of the third verse, to show the connection of the fifth verse with both the third and the fourth, the verb 'cry' being transitive in each case; the Latin shows the connection very plainly. Also, the comma is omitted after 'Cherubim,' as in 1871; and 'glory.' is spelled twice with a small initial, as at the end of the Gloria in excelsis.

In the Benedicite, the second noun in 'Stars of heaven' and 'Fowls of the air' is printed without a capital.

In like manner, 'Covenant' in the fifth verse of the Benedictus and 'Prophet' in the ninth verse are printed without a capital.

In the headings of the Prayers for the Civil Authority, the article before 'President' is printed as a part of the title, and given a capital initial; so also, the article before 'Governor,' in the prayer at Evening Prayer; and in the prayer at Morning Prayer, a comma is inserted after 'we beseech thee.'

In the inserted clause in the Prayer for all Conditions of Men, a semicolon is placed after 'desired'; and the word 'prayers' in the side-note is printed without a capital.

In the General Thanksgiving, in all three places where it occurs, the comma after 'thankful' and the semicolon after 'lives' are interchanged; and 'our selves' is printed in two words.

In the Cantate we read 'the LORD, the King' as in the Psalm.

In the fifth verse of the Benedicite, 'angels' is printed without a capital.

In the Collect for Peace at Evening Prayer, the comma after 'peace' is omitted; and in the new Prayer for the Civil Authority, a semicolon is placed after 'infinite' instead of a comma.

As to the use of 'thy' or 'thine' before words beginning with a vowel or h, the same rule is followed in other parts of the Prayer Book as has been already stated in the notes on the determination of the text of the Psalter; namely, that the authority of the manuscript book of 1662 should be taken as determining the usage in each case. We therefore read, at the end of the Collect for Aid against Perils, 'for the love of thy only Son, our Saviour, Jesus Christ,' thus agreeing with all former English and American books; and in the new Prayer for the Civil Authority we read 'thy honour and glory,' as in the Prayer for the Sovereign from which the phrase was taken.

IN THE LITANY.

In the petition which introduces the Deprecations, 'Spare us, good Lord' is printed with a capital after the colon, and 'forefathers' is printed without a hyphen.

At the end of the second obsecration we print 'and by the Coming of the Holy Ghost,' the word 'Coming' requiring a capital in order to conform to corresponding words in former parts of the petition.

In the newly inserted intercession, that the good Lord would 'send forth labourers into his harvest,' it being impossible to determine by reference to the manuscript book of 1662 whether 'thy' or 'thine' should be used, we have had recourse to an authority of the time of the first English Prayer Book; and, as we find in Cranmer's translation of Hermann's Consultation (London, 1548) the reading, 'That thou wylte sende forth faythfull workemen into thy harvest,' we read in this place 'thy' and not 'thine.'

In the discretionary part of the Litany, on page 29 of the Standards of 1845 and 1871, in one or two cases extra leads were inserted as spacing different parts of the service. We have so arranged these as to intimate the very interesting "survival" here of ancient liturgical forms; the verses (at present said as responses) which precede and follow the first verse of the forty-fourth Psalm, being the antiphons to the Psalm, and the Gloria also belonging to the Psalm. So also, by a slight increase of space, it is intimated that the versicle and response to which the words Minister and Answer are prefixed, together with the words 'Let us pray,' belong, in each of the two cases where they occur, to the following prayer, and thus have a different origin from the four pairs of versicles and responses which follow the Gloria. Practically, this is a matter of small importance; but if a little judicious distribution of spacing can suggest the origin of parts of this wonderful service, it may well be done.¹

IN THE SPECIAL PRAYERS AND THANKSGIVINGS.

In the Prayer for Congress, we print 'that' in the fourth line with a small initial, as is done three times, in precisely similar cases, in the Prayer for all Conditions of Men; and near the end, we print 'mediation' without a capital.

In the title of the Prayer to be used at the Meetings of Convention, we print the word 'Convention' in roman type, as in the title of the Prayer for Congress; and in the new rubric after this prayer we insert commas, so as to read 'During, or before, the session.'

In the first of the Ember Prayers, at the beginning of the second sentence, the comma after 'and' is omitted.

In the Prayer for a Person going to Sea, the word 'almighty,' not being here prefixed to a Divine Name, is printed without a capital.

In the Prayer for a Person under Affliction, the word 'soul' is printed in italic, that it may, if necessary, be read in the plural, as is the case with the word 'servant' earlier in the prayer.

¹ [In the rubric before the discretionary part of the Litany, and in a few other rubrics, we substitute 'followeth' for 'follows'; but in several instances in the rubrics in which the modern form was introduced in 1790, we have allowed it to remain.]

IN THE COLLECTS, EPISTLES, AND GOSPELS.

For corrections of the text of the Epistles and Gospels reference must be made to an earlier part of this Report.

In three cases the page-titles or 'running headings,' which were altered without authority in 1822 or 1845, are restored to their former wording; so that we read at the head of the pages 'The Purification of Saint Mary,' 'The Annunciation of the Virgin Mary,' 'Saint Simon and Saint Jude, Apostles.'

In the heading of the Nativity of our Lord, 'Birthday' is printed without a hyphen.

In the rubrics after the Collects for the first Sunday in Advent and for St. Stephen's Day, we read 'unto' for 'until,' as in the corresponding rubrics elsewhere.

In the rubric before the last of the special Ash-Wednesday prayers, 'People' is printed with a capital initial, as elsewhere; and in the prayer a comma is inserted, so as to read 'Spare thy people, good Lord' [as in 1871].

In the heading of the Presentation of Christ in the Temple, the comma is omitted after 'called,' as in the heading of the Nativity.

At the end of the Collects for the third Sunday in Advent, Christmas-day and the Sunday after Christmas, the sixth Sunday after the Epiphany, Septuagesima, Good Friday (first Collect), Easter-day and Monday and Tuesday in Easter-week, and also in the new Prayer for the Civil Authority at Evening Prayer, we place the comma after, and not before, the word 'ever'; e.g., 'who livest and reignest with the Father and the Holy Ghost ever, one God, world without end.' This is the punctuation of our first Standard of 1790, having been previously adopted in the Proposed Book. In the English books the conclusion to these Collects was not printed in full until 1662,¹ except in the first Collect for the Sovereign in the Communion Service; in this case, a comma was printed before 'ever' in 1549, but not in later books until 1662. In the manuscript additions made in 1661, there was no comma either before or after 'ever'; but in the manuscript Appended Book of 1662, a comma was introduced before 'ever' in five places. Bishop White's judgment, as shown in the Proposed Book and in our first standard, appears to be right, that 'ever' is meant to be joined to 'world without end,' and is part of the translation of per omnia saecula saeculorum or per saecula saeculorum; while the words 'one God,' inclosed in commas, represent the Deus or unus Deus of the original forms.²

¹ The Collects for the third Sunday in Advent and the sixth Sunday after the Epiphany were new in 1662.

² [The same punctuation is also introduced in the first of the Collects in the Confirmation Service and in the Prayer for a Sick Child in the Visitation of the Sick.]

Other corrections in the Collects have been made as follows :

- 1 Advent : 'glorious majesty' [not 'Majesty'].
'the quick and the dead' [so elsewhere in the Prayer Book, and here before 1662 and in manuscript book of 1662].
- 2 Advent : 'by patience and comfort' [omit comma; so in the Epistle when printed correctly].
'embrace, and ever hold fast, the blessed hope' [insert commas].
- 4 Advent : 'to whom, with thee and the Holy Ghost, be' [insert commas, as elsewhere; so in 1871].
- Circumcision : 'the true circumcision' [not 'Circumcision'].
- Ash-Wednesday : 'that we, worthily lamenting our sins and acknowledging' [insert comma after 'we'; omit comma after 'sins'].
- Good Friday, 3d : 'Turks, infidels, and heretics' [not 'Infidels, and Heretics'].
- Easter-Even : 'thy blessed Son, our Saviour' [insert comma; so in Coll. S. bef. Easter].
- Easter, Mon., Tues. : 'beseech thee that, as by' [omit comma after 'thee'].
- S. aft. Ascension : 'O God, the King of glory,' [insert comma].
- 1 Trinity : 'accept our prayers;' [semicolon for colon].
- 10 Trinity : 'and, that they may obtain their petitions, make them' [insert two commas; so in Coll. 14 Trin.].
- St. John Evang. : 'that it, being instructed' [insert comma].
- Purification : 'that, as thy only-begotten Son' [insert comma].
- Annunciation : 'that, as we have known' [insert comma].
- St. John Bapt. : 'the way of thy Son our Saviour by preaching' [omit comma].
- St. James : 'that, as thine holy Apostle' [insert comma].
- Transfiguration : 'liveth and reigneth, one God,' [insert comma; so in Coll. Trinity S.].
- St. Michael : 'Mercifully grant that, as thy holy Angels' [omit comma after 'grant'; insert comma after 'that'].
- St. Luke : 'May it please thee that, by the' [omit comma after 'thee'].
- All Saints : 'joys which thou hast prepared' [omit comma].

IN THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION.

In the rubric before the Commandments, the three words, THE TEN COMMANDMENTS, are printed with small capitals; the article, as part of the title, being conformed to the former printing of the words which follow.

In the Commandments and their preface, the word 'LORD,' representing the sacred name Jehovah, is printed with small capitals, as in other passages taken from the Old Testament.

In the preface after 'thy God,' in the second Commandment after 'worship them,' and in the third Commandment after 'in vain' (first time), a semicolon is placed instead of a colon.¹

In the Prayer for the Church Militant, the words 'unity and godly love' are printed without a comma; and a capital is used in 'to all thy People,' agreeably to usage elsewhere.

The note to this Prayer is placed in the side of the page, as in all Prayer Books before (1818) 1822. In like manner the note to the Triumphal Hymn is placed in the side of the page.

In the Exhortation, we read 'repent you truly for your sins past,' and also in the first Warning, 'repent you of your sins'; the verb is certainly reflexive, as in the Invitation, 'Ye who do truly and earnestly repent you of your sins.'

In the rubric before the Confession, the words 'General Confession' are both printed with capital initials.

In the Triumphal Hymn, the word 'Heaven,' as beginning a new liturgical clause, is given a capital.

In the Easter Preface, the words 'and by his rising to life again hath restored' are printed without commas.

The Proper Prefaces having a special heading with a line before it, the end of the Prefaces is also marked by a space and by a line.

In the first line of the Prayer of Consecration, a comma is inserted after 'thee.' [This correction of an obvious typographical error was made in 1871.]

In the Words of Institution, we print 'Do this' twice with a capital, following the Proposed Book, our own standards before 1822, and Collingwood's English book. In the sentence after the Invocation we punctuate 'to grant that, by the merits' in accordance with usage elsewhere. And in the next sentence we print 'our selves' in two words. In side-note (e) the comma after 'vessel' is omitted; and in side-note (d) 'hands' is read for 'hand.' There is great diversity as to the use of the singular and the plural of 'hand' in these side-notes; but the prefatory rubric directs the Priest to make ready to 'take the Cup into his hands'; the manuscript book of 1662 reads 'hands' in this side-note; and the same reading is found in this note in the Ordinal of 1793 and twice in the Standard of 1838.

The parenthesis in the rubric as to the Administration is punctuated 'in like manner, (if any be present,)' according to Prayer Book usage; and commas are substituted for the dashes in the rubric as to the consecration of more bread and wine.

In the Blessing we print 'Peace' with a capital, as 'Blessing' is printed below.

¹ [In the second Commandment, we read 'under the earth; thou shalt not,' thus returning to early English Church usage and that of the English Bible. The Committee are indebted to the Rev. Dr. Potter, President of Hobart College, for calling their attention, in a carefully prepared paper, to the necessity of making this correction.]

In the fourth of the Collects at the end of the Office, the comma after 'things' is omitted, as is also the comma after 'grant' in the fifth Collect.

A line is inserted before these additional Collects and also before the Warnings for the Communion, which are now, as has been ordered, placed at the end of the service.

At the beginning of the second paragraph of the first Warning a colon, instead of a semicolon, is placed before 'First.'

IN THE BAPTISMAL SERVICES.

The punctuation of the several offices is made uniform by omitting the comma after 'mercy' in the first Exhortation in the service for Infants; printing 'living,' at the end of the same, in roman type; reading 'vow, promise, and profession' (with two commas) in the Exhortation at the end of the same office; inserting a comma in 'he, being dead unto sin,' in the Thanksgiving (the second time) in the service for Private Baptism of Infants; and also inserting a comma after 'Wherefore,' near the end of the long Exhortation in the service for Baptism of those of Riper Years.

The words 'Questions' and 'Answers' in the rubrics (not in the text) are printed with capital initials, except in the next to the last rubric in the Private Baptism of Children, where the words do not refer to parts of the service and are therefore entirely in small letters, and in the next to the last rubric in the service for Adult Baptism; while capitals are dropped in 'grounds of Infant Baptism' and 'rule as to the omission of the sign of the Cross.' [This correction in the word 'omission' was made in one case in 1871.] The italicized word 'servants' in the final Thanksgiving in the office for Adults is also printed without a capital.

At the beginning of the second rubric in the service for the Private Baptism of Children, 'he' is substituted for 'they.' In the first rubric the plural word 'Curates' of the English book was replaced in our book by the singular word 'Minister'; and it has been overlooked that a change in the number of the pronoun at the beginning of the second rubric is absolutely necessary. In the fifth rubric in the same service, 'afterward' is read for 'afterwards,' as before (1818) 1822.

It has been ordered, by an act of amendment to the Prayer Book, that the 'Amen' at the end of the Prayer following the Exhortation upon the words of the Gospel, in both the Baptismal Services, shall be "printed in roman type, to indicate that the Prayer is to be said by Minister and People." This calls for a division of the prayer into clauses by the use of capitals, as in the case of the Confessions and other parts of the service which Minister and People say together. We print the Prayer in the service for Infants thus:

ALmighty and everlasting God, heavenly Father, We give thee humble thanks, That thou hast vouchsafed to call us to the knowledge of thy grace, and faith in thee: Increase this knowledge, And confirm this faith in us evermore. Give thy Holy Spirit to this Infant, That he may be born again, And be made an heir of everlasting salvation; Through our Lord Jesus Christ, Who liveth and reigneth with thee and the Holy Spirit, Now and for ever. Amen.

Capitals are introduced in the corresponding places of the Prayer in the service for Adults.

IN THE CATECHISM.

The third answer is punctuated with a colon after 'name,' and semicolons after 'flesh' and 'Faith'.

The Commandments are printed and punctuated as in the Communion Service.

In the 'Duty towards our Neighbour' the commas are omitted after 'Neighbour' and 'men,' and the use of capitals, so well adapted to help children in learning and reciting this long answer, is extended by reading 'To love him as myself'; 'other men's goods; But to learn and labour'; 'And to do my duty'.

On the same principle, the 'Duty towards God' has been punctuated and capitalized, not to point out any division of its parts corresponding to the first four Commandments, but to help children to learn and recite it. It is believed that, when printed thus, the answer will lose a large part of its difficulty:

Answer. My duty towards God is To believe in him, to fear him, And to love him with all my heart, with all my mind, with all my soul, and with all my strength: To worship him, to give him thanks: To put my whole trust in him, to call upon him: To honour his holy Name and his Word: And to serve him truly all the days of my life.

IN THE ORDER OF CONFIRMATION.

In the Preface, the comma is omitted after 'to the end'; and in the Prayer before the laying on of hands, a colon is placed instead of a semicolon after 'gifts of grace.'¹

¹ [The rubric in the English book directs the Bishop to "lay his hand upon the head of every one severally"; and this was also the reading in the first American book of 1790. In 1793, however, the word 'hand' was changed to 'hands'; and this has been the reading in all the other standards. The Committee were of the opinion that the change was intentional, and that the reading 'hands' should be continued. The book of 1793 was, as already noted, of primary authority; and it is quite improbable that if the use of the plural in place of the singular had been a misprint, the error could have failed to be detected and corrected by Bishop White; and besides, the direction to 'lay on hands' is in accordance with Scottish usage, and very possibly was adopted for that reason.]

IN THE FORM OF MATRIMONY.

The running heading is made to read 'Solemnization of Matrimony.' In the first rubric 'Churches' is printed with a capital; the nouns in 'wedded Wife' and 'wedded Husband', in the form of giving troth, are also printed with capitals; the comma is omitted in 'the Man leaving the Ring' (a curiously persistent error), and inserted after 'Then'; and the last two rubrics are made to end with full stops, conformably to usage.

The opening words of 'Who giveth this Woman,' and 'Those whom God hath joined together,' are printed with large initials and full capitals, the Question and the Protestation being especially important parts of the service.

IN THE BURIAL OF THE DEAD.

In the second rubric, commas are omitted after 'Church' and after 'say'; in the second clause of the Anthem at the Grave, a semicolon is placed instead of a colon after 'death'; in the rubric before the verse from the Revelation, the comma is omitted after 'said'; and in the second prayer we read 'the Resurrection and the Life,' with capitals.

IN THE CHURCHING OF WOMEN.

In the second rubric, the word 'Church' is printed with a capital [so in 1871], and at the end of the rubric we read 'shall direct; and then the Minister'; and in the Thanksgiving we read 'desireth' for 'desires,' as in its place in the Special Thanksgivings. (This is a strange oversight in all our books, the modern form of the third person singular not occurring elsewhere in the prayers of the Prayer Book. It was corrected in its place in the Special Thanksgivings in 1822.) The punctuation of the Thanksgivings in the two places is made uniform.

IN THE VISITATION OF THE SICK, ETC.

It is evident, on a careful reading of this service, together with that for the Visitation of Prisoners and the Forms of Prayer to be used at Sea, as they stand in the book of 1845, that these parts of the Prayer Book were not very critically examined in the preparation of that standard. The punctuation and the use of capitals were not conformed to the usage in other parts of the book; as may be seen by comparing the Prayer for a Sick Child in the Visitation Office with that among the Occasional Prayers, or the Confession and Absolution to be used at Sea with the same forms in the Communion Service. In all such cases, we have made the usage uniform; and we have also followed the usage of other parts of the Prayer Book as to printing words with capitals in the rubrics and at the beginning of the clauses of prayers, and as to the distinction between colons and semicolons. It does not seem necessary to enumerate the changes of this kind; they are all unimportant except for the sake of accuracy of form. The schedules appended to the resolutions ordering changes in the order of the Forms to be used at Sea and the Visitation of Prisoners have been taken as a guide where the words of the resolutions alone were not sufficiently clear; and in accordance with the same, the alternate versicles near the beginning of the last-mentioned office are printed in italics. We have in this place printed the Lord's Prayer in full, ending with 'deliver us from evil. Amen,' instead of allowing '&c.' to stand for a part of this sacred formula.

IN THE FORM OF PRAYER AND THANKSGIVING.

In the Collect, a comma is used instead of a semicolon after 'to us.'

IN THE FAMILY PRAYERS.

Brackets are used, instead of parentheses, in the first of the Prayers for Morning, following the usage in the fourth; and in both cases the asterisk is placed within the brackets. A few slight changes of punctuation have been made, following the principles already laid down and illustrated. The final rubric is punctuated so as to read 'On Sundays, and on other days when it may be convenient.'

IN THE ORDINATION SERVICES, ETC.

The Services which follow the Psalter — those for Ordination (including the Litany and the Communion Office), for the Consecration of Churches, and for the Institution of Ministers — have been read with great care, and the punctuation and capitalization have been conformed to the rules followed in other parts of the book: and when the same form is repeated, or the same phraseology employed, in two services, they have been brought into full agreement. The reasons for most of the changes are perfectly evident, and it does not seem necessary to state them at length; we call attention to a few, which may seem to deserve special notice.

In the Preface to the Ordinal, we print 'estimation,' in the second sentence, without a capital.

In the Veni Creator Spiritus, 'unction' (stanza 2 of first version and stanza 4 of second version) and 'man' (stanza 9 of second version) are printed without capitals.

In the Consecration of Bishops, in the prayer before the laying on of hands, a comma is placed instead of a semicolon after 'Doctors'; in the form at the laying on of hands, the semicolon after 'fear' is replaced by a comma; and in the last prayer, the words 'to such as believe' are enclosed in commas.

IN THE FORM OF CONSECRATION OF A CHURCH.

In the second rubric, we print 'instruments of Donation and Endowment' with two capitals; the former Proper Lessons, with their alternates, are printed in more compact form; in the Collect, a comma is placed after 'that so,' and the comma is omitted in 'bodies undefiled and minds sanctified'; and in the last prayer 'Bless' is printed with a capital.

IN THE OFFICE OF INSTITUTION OF MINISTERS.

In the new incumbent's pledge, we print 'a faithful shepherd over you; In the Name'; in the second of the prayers following the Psalm, 'alway' for 'always' (as in the Psalm); and in the third prayer, 'Sanctifier of the faithful'; in the instituted minister's prayer for himself, a comma is substituted for the exclamation-point, the dash is omitted, and a colon is placed after 'ministry'; and in the final prayer 'corner-stone' is printed without capitals, as in the Collect for St. Simon and St. Jude's Day.

CHANGES FINALLY ADOPTED IN 1886 AND 1889.

It has been a part of the duty of this Committee to make, in their proper places, the alterations and additions in the Book of Common Prayer which were finally adopted by the General Convention in the years 1886 and 1889. In regard to most of these changes, the official Notification of the resolutions of amendment which were adopted, in the possession of the Custodian of the Standard Prayer Book, has called for no explanation; an examination of the corrected book which accompanies this report will show that the changes have been made in exact accordance with the resolutions. In a few cases, to which reference has been separately made on earlier pages, the punctuation or the form of words has been made to conform to the principles of Prayer Book usage. And, when the wording of the resolutions did not exactly express the intended result of the change adopted (as in the rearrangement of the Prayers and Psalms to be used at Sea), the schedules appended to the resolutions, which were in reality a part of the original report and were referred to in the resolutions themselves, have been carefully followed. Thus also, the feast of the Transfiguration of Christ is inserted in the Calendar as 'Transfiguration,' and in the Table of Feasts as 'The Transfiguration of our Lord JESUS CHRIST'; the thrice repeated 'Holy' in the Triumphal Hymn is printed in full capitals; and the paragraph following the Invocation in the Prayer of Consecration is made to begin with a large capital.¹

It was provided by a resolution in the form of an 'alteration or addition' finally adopted in 1886 that 'the entries in the Table of Contents' should 'be conformed to the actual contents, as the same shall be finally determined.' In the Book Annexed and the Book Annexed as Modified, this is interpreted as meaning that the titles of the Offices following the Psalter with the Articles were to be placed in the Table of Contents and numbered consecutively with them. It seems quite evident that we are under instructions to include in the Table the entire contents of the volume which we are commissioned to edit. In view, however, of the resolution of the House of Deputies, passed 26 October 1886 [Journal, p. 521], reciting a resolution of both Houses passed in 1820, and declaring that these Offices and the Articles are not "a part of the Book of Common Prayer in the proper sense of that term," and also of the order that the Articles of Religion shall be placed at the end of the Book with a distinct title-page, we print the titles of these Offices and the Articles without numbers and in italics, and separate them from the parts of the Prayer Book proper and from each other by lines, thus:

30. The Psalter, or Psalms of David.

The Form and Manner of Making, Ordaining, and Consecrating Bishops, Priests, and Deacons.

The Form of Consecration of a Church or Chapel.

An Office of Institution of Ministers into Parishes or Churches.

Articles of Religion.

Of the proposed alterations and additions awaiting final action at this Convention, there is none as to the proper form of which, or the place or manner of its insertion, there can be any question.

THE TYPOGRAPHY AND PRINTING OF THE NEW STANDARD.

It will appear, on reference to the final section of this report, in which a new form of a Canon is presented, that the Committee intend that the Standard of 1892 shall be, not an edition or a set of stereotype plates, but a particular volume, distinguished from all other copies, whether printed from the same plates or not, by certain unmistakable tokens; and further, that, so far as is practicably possible, all editions of the Prayer Book shall be paged uniformly with the standard.

The corrected copy of the Standard of 1845, presented to the General Convention with this report, exhibits all the insertions and changes of every kind which have been already described or explained with some detail on earlier pages. It is the intention of the Committee to have in type, at the opening of the Convention, the whole Book of Common Prayer in such form that, as soon as a decision has been reached as to the proposed amendments which await final action in 1892, the changes required by the resolutions (if any) having been made, a copy may be printed and laid before the Convention; and the Committee ask permission to bring in, as the final schedule of their report, a copy of the Book of Common Prayer thus corrected and printed.

The type of the new book is to be of the style known as Great Primer, largely used for fine editions of the Bible and the Prayer Book, from a font especially made for this work; but the preliminary pages, the Forms of Prayer to be used at Sea, the Visitation of Prisoners, and also all the pages following the Psalter, are to be of somewhat smaller type. Care will be taken to have those services which specially mark new divisions of the book begin on right-hand pages; and no pains will be spared to make the volume a handsome specimen of typography and presswork, and in every way worthy of the Prayer Book of this Church.

From the type thus set up, it is proposed to print one thousand and one copies,¹ in black ink with the rubrics in red, as follows:

One in large folio size, on vellum, with hand-ruled borders to the pages, and sumptuously bound, to be the standard copy.

Five hundred, also in large folio size and with engraved borders, on hand-made paper, in vellum binding.

Five hundred, in small folio [large octavo] and without the engraved borders, but on fine paper and in cloth binding.

It is recommended that one hundred of the large folio copies be distributed to the several dioceses of this Church as certified copies of the Standard Book, and to such representative arch-dioceses and dioceses of the Anglican Communion throughout the world as the Convention shall direct, and that the remainder be offered for sale in order to cover part of the expense of the edition; and that the small folio copies be reserved for distribution among the officers and members of the General Convention and to such other recipients as the Convention shall direct.

The Committee are not at liberty to speak as they would of the generosity which has provided a sufficient financial guarantee for the undertaking which they have had in hand; but they may at least gratefully acknowledge their obligation for a kindness which has made it possible for them to present the results of their work in the most satisfactory manner, without expense to the Convention, and without the assumption of responsibility on the part of any of its officers.

[It is a pleasant duty to say in this reprint of the report what could not, from the nature of the case, be said when the report was presented to the Convention: that the Committee are under special obligations to the Rev. Professor Barbour, of the Berkeley Divinity School, for reading and correcting the final proofs of the Standard Book. The Committee also acknowledge with gratitude the courteous and diligent care of the firm which had in charge the printing of the standard, and of the publishers who, in preparing the first editions from the advance sheets, detected and called attention to errata which would else have escaped notice. To their kind co-operation it is due that remarkable typographical accuracy (if not absolute freedom from error) has been attained in the preparation of this important volume.]

PROPOSED CANON.

THE following draft of a Canon "Of the Standard Book of Common Prayer," contemplates the preparation, authentication, and preservation of an actual standard volume to which all printed copies shall conform and by which all questions as to the text of the formularies of the Church may be decided. The Canon also provides for the appointment of a Custodian whose duty is defined, and whose office is intended to secure absolute conformity to the standard in every copy—even the smallest and cheapest—which shall be published. It is thought that every necessary precaution against unauthorized and incorrect editions is embodied in the canon.

OF THE STANDARD BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER.

§ 1. The copy of the Book of Common Prayer, and Administration of the Sacraments, and other Rites and Ceremonies of the Church, according to the use of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America: together with the Psalter, or Psalms of David; The Form of Making, Ordaining, and Consecrating Bishops, Priests, and Deacons, The Form of Consecration of a Church or Chapel, and An Office of Institution of Ministers, and Articles of Religion, set forth by the General Convention of this Church in the year of our Lord 1892, and authenticated by the signatures of the presiding officers and secretaries of the two Houses of General Convention, and by the signatures of the members of the joint Committee charged with the duty of preparing and submitting to the Convention a Standard Prayer Book, is hereby declared to be the Standard Book of Common Prayer of this Church with the Offices and Articles.

§ 2. All copies of the Book of Common Prayer to be hereafter made and published shall conform to this standard, and shall agree therewith in pagination and, so far as it is possible, in all other matters of typographical arrangement, except that the rubrics may be printed either in red or in black. The requirement of uniformity in pagination shall apply only to that portion of the book which begins with the Order for Daily Morning Prayer and ends with the Psalter, and shall not extend to editions smaller than those known as 24mo, to illustrated editions, or to editions noted for music.

§ 3. In case any typographical inaccuracy shall be found in the Standard Book of Common Prayer, its correction may be ordered by a joint resolution of any General Convention, and notice of such correction shall be communicated by the Custodian to the Ecclesiastical Authority of each Diocese of this Church, and to actual publishers of the Book of Common Prayer.

§ 4. Copies of this folio Standard Book of Common Prayer, duly authenticated as in the case of the Standard Book, shall be sent when issued to the Ecclesiastical Authority of each Diocese or Jurisdiction in trust for the use thereof, and for reference and appeal in questions as to the authorized formularies of this Church.

§ 5. No copies of the Book of Common Prayer shall be made, printed, published, or used as of authority in this Church unless they contain the authorization of the Custodian of the Standard Book of Common Prayer, certifying that he or some person appointed by him has corrected the said book or edition by the said standard or a certified copy thereof, and that it conforms thereto.

§ 6. The House of Bishops shall nominate a person who, after confirmation by the House of Deputies, shall be appointed the Custodian of the Standard Book of Common Prayer and shall have charge of the same. He shall hold office until his successor is appointed, and any vacancy occurring during the recess of General Convention may be provisionally filled by appointment of the Presiding Bishop. It shall be the duty of the Ecclesiastical Authority of any Diocese or Jurisdiction in which any unauthorized edition of the Book of Common Prayer shall be published or circulated, to give public notice that the said edition is not of authority in this Church.

§ 7. This Canon shall take effect immediately.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

O GRACIOUS Father, who openest thine hand and fillest all things living with plenteousness; We beseech thee of thine infinite goodness to hear us, who now make our prayers and supplications unto thee. FOR ASH WEDNESDAY.

¶ On the First Day of Lent, at Morning Prayer, the Office ensuing shall be read immediately after the Prayer We humbly beseech thee, O Father, in the Litany, and in place of what there followeth.

¶ The same Office may be read at other times, at the discretion of the Minister.

¶ The Minister and the People kneeling, then shall be said by them this Psalm following :

Miserere mei, Deus. Psalm li.

HAVE mercy upon me, O God, after thy great goodness: according to the multitude of thy mercies do away mine offences.

Wash me thoroughly from my wickedness: and cleanse me from my sin.

For I acknowledge my faults: and my sin is ever before me.

Against thee only have I sinned, and done this evil in thy sight: that thou mightest be justified in thy saying, and clear when thou art judged.

Behold, I was shapen in wickedness: and in sin hath my mother conceived me.

But lo, thou requirest truth in the inward parts: and shalt make me to understand wisdom secretly.

Thou shalt purge me with hyssop, and I shall be clean: thou shalt wash me, and I shall be whiter than snow.

Thou shalt make me hear of joy and gladness: that the bones which thou has broken may rejoice.

Turn thy face from my sins: and put out all my misdeeds.

Make me a clean heart, O God: and renew a right spirit within me.

Cast me not away from thy presence; and take not thy holy Spirit from me.

O give me the comfort of thy help again: and stablish me with thy free Spirit.

Then shall I teach thy ways unto the wicked: and sinners shall be converted unto thee.

Deliver me from blood-guiltiness, O God, thou that art the God of my health: and my tongue shall sing of thy righteousness.

Thou shalt open my lips, O Lord: and my mouth shall show thy praise.

For thou desirest no sacrifice, else would I give it thee: but thou delightest not in burnt-offerings.

The sacrifice of God is a troubled spirit: a broken and contrite heart, O God, shalt thou not despise.

O be favourable and gracious unto Sion: build thou the walls of Jerusalem.

Then shalt thou be pleased with the sacrifice of righteousness, with the burnt-offerings and oblations: then shall they offer young bullocks upon thine altar.

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son: and to the Holy Ghost:

As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be: world without end.

Amen.

¶ If the Litany hath been already said in full, the Minister may omit all that followeth, to the Prayer, O Lord, we beseech thee, etc.

Lord, have mercy upon us.

Christ, have mercy upon us.

Lord have mercy upon us.

OUR Father, who art in heaven, Hallowed be thy Name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done on earth, As it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, As we forgive those who trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation; But deliver us from evil. Amen.

Minister. O Lord, save thy servants;

Answer. That put their trust in thee.

Minister. Send unto them help from above.

Answer. And evermore mightily defend them.

Minister. Help us, O God our Saviour.

Answer. And for the glory of thy Name deliver us; be merciful to us sinners, for thy Name's sake.

Minister. O Lord, hear our prayer.

Answer. And let our cry come unto thee.

Minister. Let us pray.

O LORD, we beseech thee, mercifully hear our prayers, and spare all those who confess their sins unto thee: that they, whose consciences by sin are accused, by thy merciful pardon may be absolved; through Christ our Lord. Amen.

O MOST mighty God, and merciful Father, who hast compassion upon all men, and who wouldest not the death of a sinner, but rather that he should turn from his sin, and be saved; Mercifully forgive us our trespasses; receive and comfort us, who are grieved and wearied with the burden of our sins. Thy property is always to have mercy; to thee only it appertaineth to forgive sins. Spare us, therefore, good Lord, spare thy people, whom thou hast redeemed; enter not into judgment with thy servants, who are vile earth, and miserable sinners; but so turn thine anger from us, who meekly acknowledge our vileness, and truly repent us of our faults, and so make haste to help us in this world, that we may ever live with thee in the world to come; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

¶ Then shall the People say this that followeth, after the Minister.

TURN thou us, O good Lord, and so shall we be turned. Be favourable, O Lord, Be favourable to thy people, Who turn to thee in weeping, fasting, and praying. For thou art a merciful God, Full of compassion, Long-suffering, and of great pity. Thou sparest when we deserve punishment, And in thy wrath thinkest upon mercy. Spare thy people, good Lord, spare them, And let not thine heritage be brought to confusion. Hear us, O Lord, for thy mercy is great, And after the multitude of thy mercies look upon us; Through the merits and mediation of thy blessed Son, Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

¶ Then the Minister shall say,

O GOD, whose nature and property is ever to have mercy and to forgive; Receive our humble petitions; and though we be tied and bound with the chain of our sins, yet let the pitifulness of thy great mercy loose us; for the honour of Jesus Christ, our Mediator and Advocate. Amen.

THE Lord bless us, and keep us. The Lord make his face to shine upon us, and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up his countenance upon us, and give us peace, both now and evermore. Amen.

And that there be omitted the second rubric after the Collect for Ash Wednesday, and all that follows before the Epistle.

RESOLUTION 13.

Resolved, That the following change be made in the Book of Common Prayer, and that the proposed addition be made known to the several ▲ Dioceses, in order that the same may be adopted in the next General Convention, in accordance with the provisions of Article 8 of the Constitution, as follows:

That, after the rubric following the general title of the Collects, Epistle, and Gospels, there be inserted:

¶ The Collect appointed for any Sunday or other Feast may be used at the Evening Service of the day before.

RESOLUTION 14.

Resolved, That the following change be made in the Book of Common Prayer, and that the proposed addition be made known to the several Dioceses, in order that the same may be adopted in the next General Convention, in accordance with the provisions of Article 8 of the Constitution, as follows:

That after the Gospel for Christmas day there be inserted:

¶ If in any Church the Holy Communion be twice celebrated on Christmas day, the following Collect, Epistle, and Gospel may be used at the first Communion:

The Collect.

O GOD, who makest us glad with the yearly remembrance of the birth of thine only Son Jesus Christ; Grant that as we joyfully receive him for our Redeemer, so we may with sure confidence behold him when he shall come to be our Judge, who liveth and reigneth with thee and the Holy Ghost, one God, world without end. Amen.

The Epistle. Titus ii. 11.

THE grace of God that bringeth salvation hath appeared to all men, teaching us that, denying ungodliness and worldly lusts, we should live soberly, righteously, and godly in this present world; looking for that blessed hope, and the glorious appearing of the great God and our Saviour Jesus Christ; who gave himself for us, that he might redeem us from all iniquity, and purify unto himself a peculiar people, zealous of good works. These things speak, and exhort, and rebuke with all authority. Let no man despise thee.

The Gospel. St. Luke ii. 1.

AND it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Cæsar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed. (And this taxing was first made when Cyrenius was governor of Syria.) And all went to be taxed, every one into his own city. And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judæa, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem: (because he was of the house and lineage of David;) to be taxed with Mary his espoused wife, being great with child. And so it was, that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered, and she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger: because there was no room for them in the inn. And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night. And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them; and they were sore afraid. And the angel said unto them. Fear not; for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord. And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger. And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying, Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.

RESOLUTION 15.

Resolved, That the following change be made in the Book of Common Prayer, and that the proposed addition be made known to the several Dioceses, in order that the same may be adopted in the next General Convention, in accordance with the provisions of Article 8 of the Constitution, as follows:

That the Gloria Patri be printed at the end of the Anthems appointed to be used on Easter day, instead of the Venite.

RESOLUTION 16.

Resolved, That the following change be made in the Book of Common Prayer, and that the proposed addition be made known to the several A Dioceses, in order that the same may be adopted in the next General Convention, in accordance with the provisions of Article 8 of the Constitution, as follows:

That, after the Gospel for Easter day, there be inserted:

¶ If in any Church the Holy Communion be twice celebrated on Easter day, the following Collect, Epistle, and Gospel may be used at the first Communion.

The Collect.

O GOD, who for our redemption didst give thine only-begotten Son to the death of the Cross, and by his glorious resurrection hast delivered us from the power of our enemy; Grant us so to die daily from sin, that we may evermore live with him in the joy of his resurrection; through the same Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. 1 Cor. v. 6.

KNOW ye that a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump? Purge out, therefore, the old leaven, that ye may be a new lump, as ye are unleavened. For even Christ our passover is sacrificed for us; therefore let us keep the feast, not with the old leaven, neither with the leaven of malice and wickedness; but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth.

The Gospel. St. Mark xvi. 1.

WHEN the Sabbath was past, Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James, and Salome, had bought sweet spices, that they might come and anoint him. And very early in the morning of the first day of the week, they came into the sepulchre at the rising of the sun. And they said among themselves, Who shall roll us away the stone from the door of the sepulchre? And when they looked, they saw that the stone was rolled away; for it was very great. And entering into the sepulchre, they saw a young man sitting on the right side, clothed in a long white garment; and they were affrighted. And he saith unto them, Be not affrighted: Ye seek Jesus of Nazareth, which was crucified; he is risen: he is not here; behold the place where they laid him. But go your way, tell his disciples and Peter that he goeth before you into Galilee; there shall ye see him, as he said unto you. And they went out quickly, and fled from the sepulchre, for they trembled and were amazed; neither said they anything to any man; for they were afraid.

ALMIGHTY and merciful God, who didst create our first parents and unite them in holy wedlock; Pour, we beseech thee, upon all those so joined together in thy Name, the riches of thy grace, that they may please thee both in body and soul, and live together in holy love unto their lives' end; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Epistle. Eph. v. 22.

WIVES, submit yourselves unto your own husbands, as unto the Lord. For the husband is the head of the wife, even as Christ is the head of the church; and he is the Saviour of the body. Therefore as the church is subject unto Christ, so let the wives be to their own husbands in every thing. Husbands, love your wives, even as Christ also loved the church, and gave himself for it; That he might sanctify and cleanse it with the washing of water by the word, That he might present it to himself a glorious church, not having spot, or wrinkle, or any such thing; but that it should be holy and without blemish. So ought men to love their wives as their own bodies. He that loveth his wife loveth himself. For no man ever yet hateth his own flesh; but nourisheth and cherisheth it, even as the Lord the church; For we are members of his body, of his flesh, and of his bones. For this cause shall a man leave his father and mother, and shall be joined unto his wife, and they two shall be one flesh. This is a great mystery; but I speak concerning Christ and the church. Nevertheless, let every one of you in particular so love his wife even as himself; and the wife see that she reverence her husband.

The Gospel. St. John ii. 1.

AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was there: And both Jesus was called, and his disciples, to the marriage. And when they wanted wine, the mother of Jesus saith unto him,

They have no wine. Jesus saith unto her, Woman, what have I to do with thee? mine hour is not yet come. His mother saith unto the servants, Whatsoever he saith unto you, do it. And there were set there six waterpots of stone, after the manner of the purifying of the Jews, containing two or three firkins apiece. Jesus saith unto them, Fill the waterpots with water. And they filled them up to the brim. And he saith unto them, Draw out now, and bear unto the governor of the feast. And they bare it. When the ruler of the feast had tasted the water that was made wine, and knew not whence it was (but the servants which drew the water knew), the governor of the feast called the bridegroom, And saith unto him, Every man at the beginning doth set forth good wine; and when men have well drunk, then that which is worse: but thou hast kept the good wine until now. This beginning of miracles did Jesus in Cana of Galilee, and manifested forth his glory; and his disciples believed on him.

Wash it, we pray thee, in the blood of that immaculate Lamb, that was slain to take away the sins of the world; that whatsoever defilements it may have contracted in the midst of this miserable and naughty world, through the lusts of the flesh, or the wiles of Satan, being purged and done away, it may be presented pure and without spot before thee; through the merits of Jesus Christ, thine only Son our Lord. Amen.

RESOLUTION 35.

† After they are come into the Church, shall be said or sung one or both of the following Selections, taken from the 39th and 90th Psalms.

LORD, let me know my end, and the number of my days : that I may be certified how long I may have to live.

Behold, thou hast made my days as it were a span long ; and mine age is even as nothing in respect of thee ; and verily every man living is altogether vanity.

For man walketh in a vain shadow, and disquieteth himself in vain : he heapeth up riches, and cannot tell who shall gather them.

And now, Lord, what is my hope : Truly my hope is even in thee.

Deliver me from all mine offences ; and make me not a rebuke unto the foolish.

When thou with rebukes dost chasten man for sin, thou makest his beauty to consume away, like as it were a moth fretting a garment : every man therefore is but vanity.

Hear my prayer, O Lord, and with thine ears consider my calling : hold not thy peace at my tears.

For I am a stranger with thee : and a sojourner, as all my fathers were.

O spare me a little, that I may recover my strength : before I go hence, and be no more seen.

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son : and to the Holy Ghost ;

As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be : world without end. Amen.

LORD, thou hast been our refuge ; from one generation to another. Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever the earth and the world were made ; thou art God from everlasting, and world without end.

Thou turnest man to destruction : again thou sayest, Come again, ye children of men.

For a thousand years in thy sight are but as yesterday : seeing that is past as a watch in the night.

As soon as thou scatterest them they are even as a sleep : and fade away suddenly like the grass.

In the morning it is green, and groweth up : but in the evening it is cut down, dried up, and withered.

For we consume away in thy displeasure : and are afraid at thy wrathful indignation.

Thou hast set our misdeeds before thee : and our secret sins in the light of thy countenance.

For when thou art angry all our days are gone : we bring our years to an end, as it were a tale that is told.

The days of our age are threescore years and ten ; and though men be so strong that they come to fourscore years : yet is their strength then but labour and sorrow ; so soon passeth it away, and we are gone.

So teach us to number our days : that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom.

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son : and to the Holy Ghost ;

As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be : world without end. Amen.

O LORD Jesus Christ, who by thy death didst take away the sting of death; Grant unto us thy servants so to follow in faith where thou hast led the way, that we may at length fall asleep peacefully in thee, and awake up after thy likeness; through thy mercy, who livest with the Father and the Holy Ghost, one God, world without end. Amen.

ALMIGHTY and Everliving God, We yield unto thee most high praise and hearty thanks, for the wonderful grace and virtue declared in all thy saints, who have been the choice vessels of thy grace, and the lights of the world in their several generations; most humbly beseeching thee to give us grace so to follow the example of their steadfastness in thy faith, and obedience to thy holy commandments, that at the day of the general resurrection, we, with all those who are of the mystical body of thy Son, may be set on his right hand, and hear that his most joyful voice: Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world. The Lord doth build up Jerusalem: and gather together the outcasts of Israel.

He healeth those that are broken in heart: and giveth medicine to heal their sickness.

Who covereth the heaven with clouds, and prepareth rain for the earth:

and maketh the grass to grow upon the mountains, and herb for the use of men.

OF SUFFRAGAN BISHOPS.

§ xviii. [1.] It shall be lawful for the Convention of any Diocese of this Church, with the consent of the General Convention, or during the recess of the same, and not less than three months before a meeting of the same, of a majority of the Bishops holding jurisdiction in the United States, and of the Standing Committees of the Church in the several Dioceses, on the application of the Diocesan thereof, to establish, from time to time, within said Diocese, a district or districts, not more than two, as Suffragan Bishoprics; and for each district so established to elect, agreeably to such rules as may be provided by the General Convention, a Suffragan Bishop, who shall bear the title of Suffragan Bishop, with such local designation as the said Diocesan Convention shall see fit to give him, and shall be invested with all the rights and powers, and be subject to all the duties and liabilities of a Bishop of this Church, save as hereinafter excepted.

[2.] Such districts shall not be in any wise severed from the Diocese to which they belong, nor shall they constitute independent Bishoprics, nor in any wise exercise the powers already vested in Diocesan or other legislative Conventions or Councils.

§ xix. [1.] Each Suffragan shall, within the district for which he may have been elected, perform such Episcopal duties, and exercise such Episcopal authority, as his Diocesan may, from time to time, assign to him. And no Suffragan shall have or exercise any jurisdiction, or perform any Episcopal offices, without the limits of the district so assigned him, within the Diocese of which it is a part, except by express request of his Diocesan. Nor shall any Diocesan direct the performance of any Ecclesiastical offices, or the exercise of any Episcopal jurisdiction, by one Suffragan within the district of another, without the consent of the latter: Provided, that should any Suffragan be disabled for the performance of his duties, either physically or judicially, or refuse to perform such duties, or any of them, the Diocesan shall have the power to direct their performance by another; and provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed as interfering with the right of the Diocesan personally to officiate or exercise jurisdiction at his own pleasure within any part of his own Diocese.

[2.] Should the Diocese become vacant, or its Diocesan become disabled, either physically or by judicial sentence, it shall become the duty of the Suffragan or Suffragans of the Diocese, until the consecration or translation to the Diocese of another Diocesan or Assistant Bishop, to perform all the Episcopal offices which may be required therein, subject, however, to the provisions of § xxi. of this Canon. And should there be more than one such Suffragan, each shall exercise such Episcopal jurisdiction, and perform all such Episcopal offices within his own district. And should there remain any part of the Diocese not thus provided for, it shall be the duty of the Suffragans, or either of them, to perform such additional offices, in the portion of the Diocese not thus provided for, as may be requested by the Standing Committee.

§ xx. [1.] The consent of a Suffragan shall not be necessary for the consecration of any other Bishop, nor shall a Suffragan act as Presiding Bishop at the consecration of any Bishop.

[2.] No Suffragan shall ordain any Priest or Deacon without the request of his Diocesan: Provided, that during a vacancy in the Diocesan Episcopate, or the continuance of a disability on the part of the Diocesan to make and request it, it shall be sufficient that the request be made by the Standing Committee.

§ xxi. [1.] Any Suffragan Bishop may be elected Diocesan or Assistant Bishop. In case of any such election, the same course shall be pursued as in the case of the election of a Missionary Bishop as a Diocesan or Assistant Bishop, provided for in Title I., Canon 16, § viii. [1], [2].

§ xxii. Nothing in this or any other Canon shall be construed to prevent the transfer of a Suffragan to another district within the Diocese, with his own consent, and with the consent of the Diocesan.

§ xxiii. Title I., Canon 16, § v., so far as it prohibits Suffragan Bishops, and all other Canons, or parts of Canons, so far as they may conflict herewith, are hereby repealed.

Resolved, That the Canon "Of Suffragan Bishops," as amended, be recommended to the Convention.

Resolved, That the Report of the Custodian of the Standard Bible being concerned with critical and other kindred questions not properly within the province of a Committee appointed to consider the matter of the amendment or enactment of Canons, be referred to a Special Committee of the House of Bishops, to be elected by the House.

Resolved, The House of Deputies concurring, That the following Canon be adopted as Title II., Canon 13 (Vide Digest, 1890, p. 120):

OF MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.

§ i. If any persons be joined together otherwise than as God's Word doth allow, their marriage is not lawful.

§ ii. [1.] No Minister shall solemnize the marriage of any person under eighteen years of age, except the parent or guardian of such person be present or shall have given written consent to the marriage.

[2.] No Minister shall solemnize a marriage except in the presence of at least two witnesses.

[3.] Every Minister of this Church shall keep an official Register of Marriages, in which, at the time of the marriage, he shall record the names, birthplace, age, residence, and condition of each party; and the said record, duly transcribed in the said register, shall be signed by both parties to the marriage, by at least two witnesses, and by the Minister who performs the ceremony.

§ iii. [1.] No Minister shall solemnize the marriage of any person who has a divorced husband or wife still living, if such husband or wife has been put away for any cause arising after marriage; but this Canon shall not be held to apply to the innocent party in a divorce for the cause of adultery, or to parties once divorced seeking to be united again. (Title II., Canon 13, § ii., of present Canon, omitting in the first line the words "knowingly be after due inquiry.")

[2.] No Minister of this Church shall administer Holy Baptism or the Holy Communion to any person married in violation of the discipline of the Church, as set forth in § i. of this Canon, but the Sacraments shall not be refused to penitents in imminent danger of death.

[3.] Questions upon facts arising under any provision of this Canon shall be referred to the Bishop, or in the event of vacancy of the Episcopate, to some Bishop designated by the Standing Committee, and the judgment of the Bishop shall be final.

[4.] No Minister shall solemnize the marriage of any person who has a divorced husband or wife still living, if such husband or wife has been put away for any cause arising after marriage, but this restriction shall not be held to apply to the innocent party in a divorce for the cause of adultery, or to parties once divorced seeking to be united again.

§ iv. All previous Canons on this subject are hereby repealed.

Resolved, That the foregoing Canon be reported to the House of Bishops.

Resolved, That it is inexpedient at this time further to consider the subject of Canonical legislation as to the functions of rectors, wardens, and vestrymen.

THE CANONS OF ORDINATION AS AMENDED AND REPORTED BY THE COMMITTEE ON CANONS OF THE HOUSE OF BISHOPS.¹

§ ii. In his written application to the Bishop, the applicant shall state:

- (a.) The dates of his birth, baptism, confirmation, and first communion.

- (c.) Whether he is prepared forthwith to make application to be received as a candidate.

§ iii. Should the Bishop approve of the application he shall enter the name of the applicant upon the list of postulants, in a book to be kept for that purpose, and shall inform him of the fact and date of such entry.

§ iv. [1.] No Bishop shall accept as a postulant any person who has been refused admission as a postulant or candidate for Holy Orders, in any other Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction than his own, or, who having been admitted, has afterwards ceased to be a candidate, until such person shall have produced a certificate from the Ecclesiastical Authority of the Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction in which he has been refused admission, or has been a postulant or candidate, declaring the cause of such refusal or cessation.

[2.] Should the Bishop, after the receipt of such certificate, see fit to accept the applicant as a postulant, he shall remit said certificate, or a copy thereof, to the Standing Committee, for their consideration, in the event of the said postulant applying to them to be recommended as a candidate for Holy Orders.

§ ii. A postulant shall apply for recommendation to the Standing Committee of the Diocese of the Bishop to whom his notice of intention has been given.

§ iii. Such postulant, having been duly received, may thereafter apply to the Standing Committee for a recommendation to the Bishop for admission as a candidate for Holy Orders; and he shall then lay before the Standing Committee the following papers, viz.:

(a.) An application signed by himself.

(b.) The Bishop's approval, in writing, of his desire to become a candidate.

§ vi. [3.] He shall, in such case, also lay before the Standing Committee a certificate, signed by two Presbyters of this Church, in good standing, and known to the Committee, in the following words, viz.:

We, the undersigned, Presbyters of the Protestant Episcopal Church, do hereby certify that we are personally acquainted with A. B.; that he has become a communicant of this Church, and that we believe him to be pious, sober, and honest. Furthermore, that after personal inquiries of him and others as to his change of Ecclesiastical relations, we are satisfied that he is sincerely attached to the doctrine, discipline, and worship of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and that his desire to leave the denomination to which he belonged has not arisen from any circumstances unfavourable to his moral or religious character, or on account of which it may be inexpedient to admit him to the Ministry of this Church.

(Signed)

§ vii. [4.] Together with the application, he shall lay before the Bishop a certificate signed by at least two Examining Chaplains of the Diocese, which shall recite the reasons that would, in their judgment, warrant the dispensation asked for:— [etc.]

§ vi. [1.] A candidate for Holy Orders may be licensed as a Lay Reader in the Diocese or Jurisdiction to which he belongs, subject to the restrictions contained in the Canon "Of Lay Readers."

[2.] Any violation of the Canon "Of Lay Readers," unless satisfactorily explained, shall render him liable to forfeiture of his candidateship.

§ vii. [1.] Should the application for Holy Orders of a candidate for the same be finally rejected by the Bishop, or should his application to the Standing Committee for recommendation for ordination be rejected, or should his name be stricken from the list of candidates, it shall be the duty of the Ecclesiastical Authority of the Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction to give immediate notice thereof to every other Ecclesiastical Authority of this Church.

[2.] A candidate for Holy Orders in any Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction of this Church, whose application for ordination shall have been formally rejected as above, or whose name shall have been stricken from the list, shall not be ordained in any other Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction, except upon renewal of candidateship, said candidateship to continue for not less than one whole year. In any case where the application of a candidate for Holy Orders shall have been rejected by any Bishop of this Church, it shall be competent to any other Bishop to decline an application made to himself, if having duly informed himself of the facts of the case, he shall deem it expedient to do so, and it shall be within his own discretion to give his reasons therefor.

may propose to assign the duty of presenting the candidate to be present, should he desire it, at the examination. But without such reason, no person, save the Bishop, shall be permitted to be present without the consent of the appointed Examiners.

§ viii. In the course of these examinations, the candidate shall read or deliver three sermons composed by himself, or parts thereof, on some passage of Holy Scripture, chosen by the Bishop or by himself, as the Bishop shall have determined.

APPENDIX XVIII.

A MEMORIAL RELATING TO THE CANON OF MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.

To the House of Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America:

REVEREND FATHERS IN GOD, — The undersigned, priests in the Church, beg respectfully to memorialize you and to ask your godly judgment in regard to a matter closely touching their consciences and necessarily affecting their action.

In the performance of the Marriage Service, as set forth in the Book of Common Prayer, which they take to be the supreme law of this branch of Christ's Church, they exact from those who present themselves for the benediction of the Church, upon entering into the holy estate of matrimony, the promise to keep themselves only unto each other until death shall them part. It seems as if the Church taught them, and exacted from them a promise of unconditional conformity to her teaching, that there is, and can be, but one dissolution of the bond thus formed, and that, by death.

Your memorialists, however, are met by a Canon (Canon 13, Sec. ii., of Title II.) which, by implication, permits, if it does not directly sanction, the marriage of persons under certain circumstances, where death has not parted them from those to whom they had been previously married. Your memorialists cannot conceive that a Canon (which may at any time be repealed) can set at naught the law of the Church, as laid down in her Book of Common Prayer; suspend the operation of the most solemn vow, and release from the sacred promise taken before God, in the presence of the congregation of His people: nor can they, in good conscience, continue to exact this solemn promise, if it be all the while understood that the promise does not mean what it so clearly and positively expresses.

Feeling, therefore, that there is a virtual contradiction between the solemn vow made at the time of entering into the holy estate of matrimony, and the implied provisions of the Canon, your memorialists respectfully ask such relief as in your wisdom you may be able to give.

And your memorialists will ever pray, etc.

(Signed) EDWARD S. STONE,
Priest in charge of St. Matthew's Church, Enosburgh Falls, and Christ Church, Enosburgh, Diocese of Vermont, and fifty-two other priests.

APPENDIX XIX.

CHANGES IN THE CANONS ADOPTED IN THE GENERAL CONVENTION OF 1892.

WE do hereby certify that upon a careful examination of the Minutes and Message Books of the two Houses of the General Convention held in the City of Baltimore, in the month of October, A.D. 1892, we find the following changes to have been made in the Canons of this Church.

The following Canons to be entered in the Digest and numbered Title I., Canons 1 to 11 inclusive, were adopted as follows. (See Message 91, House of Deputies.)

TITLE I.

Of the Orders in the Ministry, and of the Doctrine and Worship of this Church.

CANON 1.

OF THE ORDERS OF MINISTRY IN THIS CHURCH.

In this Church there shall always be three Orders in the Ministry, namely: Bishops, Priests, and Deacons.

CANON 2.

OF POSTULANTS.

§ i. [1] Every person desiring to be admitted a candidate for Holy Orders is, in the first instance, to consult his immediate Pastor, or if he have none, some Presbyter to whom he is personally known, setting before him the grounds of his desire for admission to the Ministry, together with such circumstances as may bear on his qualifications, or tend to affect his course of preparation.

[2] If counselled to persevere in his intention, such person shall then, with letter of approval and introduction from such Presbyter, which letter shall furnish to the Bishop precise and specific information as to his antecedents, training, physical, moral, and intellectual fitness to be received as a postulant for the Holy Ministry, give notice of such intention to the Bishop of the Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction to which he belongs.

[3.] The Bishop may, in a case where it is impossible to obtain such testimony, dispense with the provisions of this section, and receive the application directly.

§ ii. In his written application to the Bishop, the applicant shall state :

- (a) The dates of his birth, baptism, confirmation, and first communion ;
- (b) Whether he has ever before applied for admission as a postulant or candidate for Holy Orders ;
- (c) Whether he is prepared forthwith to make application to be received as a candidate.

§ iii. Should the Bishop approve of the application he shall enter the name of the applicant upon the list of postulants, in a book to be kept for that purpose, and shall inform him of the fact and date of such entry.

§ iv. [1.] No Bishop shall accept as a postulant any person who has been refused admission as a postulant or candidate for Holy Orders in any other Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction than his own, or who, having been admitted, has afterwards ceased to be a candidate, until such person shall have produced a certificate from the Ecclesiastical Authority of the Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction in which he has been refused admission, or has been a postulant or candidate, declaring the cause of such refusal or cessation.

[2.] Should the Bishop, after the receipt of such certificate, see fit to accept the applicant as a postulant, he shall remit said certificate, or a copy thereof, to the Standing Committee, for their consideration, in the event of the said postulant applying to them to be recommended as a candidate for Holy Orders.

§ v. A Standing Committee, acting as the Ecclesiastical Authority of a Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction, shall be competent to receive and act upon applications under this Canon from persons desiring to be received as postulants.

CANON 3.

OF CANDIDATES FOR HOLY ORDERS.

§ i. Candidates for Holy Orders are divided into two classes, viz., candidates for Deacon's Orders only, and candidates for the Priesthood.

§ ii. A postulant shall apply for recommendation to the Standing Committee of the Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction of the Bishop to whom his notice of intention has been given.

§ iii. A postulant having been duly received, may thereafter apply to the Standing Committee for a recommendation to the Bishop for admission as a candidate for Holy Orders ; and he shall then lay before the Standing Committee the following papers, viz.:

- (a) An application signed by himself.
- (b) The Bishop's approval, in writing, of his desire to become a candidate.
- (c) A certificate in the following words :

B. is pious, sober, and honest ; that he is attached to the doctrine, discipline, and worship of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and that he is a communicant of the same in good standing. We do furthermore declare that, in our opinion, he possesses such qualifications as fit him for entrance on a course of preparation for the Holy Ministry.

(Signed)

This certificate must be signed by the Minister of the parish to which the applicant belongs, and by a majority of the whole Vestry, and must be attested by the Minister, or by the Secretary of the Vestry, as follows, viz.:

(Signed)

Minister or Secretary.

§ iv. But should the parish be without a Minister, it shall suffice that in his place the certificate be signed by some Presbyter of the Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction in good standing, the reason for the substitution being stated in the attesting clause.

§ v. [1.] Should there be no organized parish at the place of residence of the applicant, or should it be impracticable, through circumstances not affecting his moral or religious character, to obtain the signatures of the Minister and Vestry, or of the Vestry, it may suffice if the certificate be signed by at least —

(a) One Presbyter of the Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction, in good standing; and

(b) Four laymen, communicants of this Church, in good standing.

[2.] In such case, the reasons for departing from the regular form must be given in the attesting clause, which shall be signed by the same or some other Presbyter of this Church in good standing, and shall be in the following words, viz.:

I hereby certify, that the laymen whose names are attached to the foregoing certificate are communicants of this Church in good standing, and that the reasons for departing from the regular form are [here give the reasons].

(c) Eight adult laymen, members in good standing, in part members of this Church, and in part of the denomination from which the applicant has come.

[2.] The genuineness of the signatures to such certificate and the good standing of the signers must be attested by some person or persons known to a member of the Standing Committee, or under the seal of a Notary Public, in the following words, viz.:

I do hereby certify, that the names attached to the foregoing certificate are genuine, and are those of persons in good standing, members of (as the case may be).

We, the undersigned, Presbyters of the Protestant Episcopal Church, do hereby certify, that we are personally acquainted with A. B.; that he has become a communicant of this Church, and that we believe him to be pious, sober, and honest. Furthermore, that after personal conversation with him, and due enquiry concerning him as to his change of ecclesiastical relations, we are satisfied that he is sincerely attached to the doctrine, discipline, and worship of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and that his desire to leave the denomination to which he belonged has not arisen from any circumstances unfavourable to his moral or religious character, or on account of which it may be inexpedient to admit him to the Ministry of this Church.

(Signed)

§ vii. [1.] If a postulant desires to be admitted a candidate for Priest's Orders, he must also, in addition to the certificates hereinbefore mentioned, lay before the Bishop a satisfactory diploma, or other satisfactory evidence, that he is a graduate in Arts of some university or college in which the Latin and Greek languages are duly studied, and that he has had a thorough collegiate training in the same.

[2.] But if the postulant desiring to become a candidate for the Priesthood be not a graduate as aforesaid, he shall be remitted by the Bishop to the Examining Chaplains, to be examined as to his knowledge of the English language and literature, and at least the first principles and general outlines of logic, rhetoric, mental and moral philosophy, physics and history, and the Latin and Greek languages. In a case of emergency, the Bishop may appoint any two or more learned Presbyters to hold such examination.

[3.] Should a postulant wish a knowledge of the Latin and Greek languages, and other branches of learning not strictly ecclesiastical, to be dispensed with, he may make written application to the Bishop to that effect, specifying the studies with regard to which he wishes a dispensation, and the reasons for the application.

B. the dispensation asked for may be wisely granted.

(Signed)

[6.] Should the Standing Committee approve the said application, they may, by a vote of not less than two-thirds of their whole body, recommend that the request of the candidate be granted.

§ viii. The Standing Committee, on the receipt of the certificates prescribed in either case as above by this Canon, and having no reason to suppose the existence of any sufficient objection on grounds either physical, intellectual, moral, or religious, to the admission of the applicant, may proceed to recommend a postulant for admission to candidateship, by a testimonial bearing the signatures of a majority of the whole Committee, and addressed to the Bishop in the following words, viz.:

CANON 4.

GENERAL PROVISIONS CONCERNING CANDIDATES FOR HOLY ORDERS.

§ i. [1.] The superintendence of all candidates for Holy Orders, both as to their daily life and as to the direction of their theological studies, pertains to the Bishop of the Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction to which they belong.

[2.] In a Diocese under the Ecclesiastical Authority of a Standing Committee, the clerical members of the Committee shall, through their President, exercise such superintendence and direction.

§ ii. Care shall be taken that every candidate pursue his studies diligently and under proper direction, and that he do not indulge in vain or trifling conduct, or in amusements unfavourable to that seriousness of deportment, or to those pious and studious habits, or that good report which become a person preparing for the Holy Ministry.

§ iii. [1.] A candidate once admitted must remain in canonical connection with the Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction in which he has been admitted until his ordination, except as hereinafter otherwise provided.

[2.] The Bishop or the clerical members of the Standing Committee, when acting as the Ecclesiastical Authority, may permit a candidate to prosecute his studies outside of the Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction, without disturbing his canonical residence.

[3.] For reasons satisfactory to the Ecclesiastical Authority letters dimissory may be given him on his own request to any other Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction.

[4.] The convenience of attending any theological or other seminary shall not be held to be in itself a sufficient reason for change of canonical residence.

§ iv. [1.] Every candidate for Holy Orders, unless expressly released by the Ecclesiastical Authority over him, shall report himself personally or by letter at least once in every three months, giving account of his manner of life and progress in his studies.

[2.] Failure to make such report, not accounted for to the satisfaction of the Ecclesiastical Authority shall be ground for striking his name from the list of candidates.

§ v. A candidate for Holy Orders shall not be allowed to accept from any Diocesan Convention an appointment as a Lay Deputy to the General Convention.

§ vi. [1.] A candidate for Holy Orders may be licensed as a Lay Reader in the Diocese or Jurisdiction to which he belongs, subject to the restrictions contained in the Canon of Lay Readers.

[2.] With the consent of his own Bishop he may receive, under similar restrictions, such license as a Lay Reader, from any other Bishop for the Diocese of such Bishop only.

[3.] Without this license he shall not take upon himself such functions.

§ vii. [1.] Should the application for Holy Orders of a candidate for the same be finally rejected by the Bishop, or should his application to the Standing Committee for recommendation for ordination be rejected, or should his name be stricken from the list of candidates, it shall be the duty of the Ecclesiastical Authority of the Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction to give immediate notice thereof to every other Ecclesiastical Authority of this Church.

[2.] A candidate for Holy Orders in any Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction of this Church, whose application for ordination shall have been formally rejected as above, or whose name shall have been stricken from the list, shall not be ordained in any other Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction, except upon renewal of candidateship, said candidateship to continue for not less than one whole year. In any case where the application of a candidate for Holy Orders shall have been rejected by any Bishop of this Church, it shall be competent to any other Bishop to decline an application made to himself, if having duly informed himself of the facts of the case, he shall deem it expedient so to do.

CANON 5.

OF THE LEARNING AND EXAMINATIONS OF A CANDIDATE FOR DEACON'S ORDERS ONLY.

§ i. A candidate for Deacon's Orders only, who shall fail to present himself for examination within three years from the date of his admission as such candidate, shall be liable, after due notice, to be dropped from the list of candidates, at the discretion of the Bishop.

§ ii. [1.] The Bishop, or if the Diocese be vacant, the clerical members of the Standing Committee, shall assign to the candidate his Examiners, who shall be two or more Presbyters of good learning, and (if possible) Examining Chaplains of the Diocese or Jurisdiction, and who, upon due notification of the duty laid upon them, shall proceed as speedily as may be to its performance, in accordance with the provisions of this section.

[2.] The examination of a candidate for the Order of Deacons only shall be so conducted as may most thoroughly ascertain

(a) His proficiency in the English language.

(b) The extent of his acquaintance with the Holy Scriptures of the Old and New Testament, in every part of which he must be well versed.

(c) His familiarity with the Book of Common Prayer, in all its parts and adjuncts, especially with the Order of Daily Prayer, with the text of the Articles of Religion, with the form and manner of making Deacons, and with the instructions therein given as to the duties of the office.

(d) His sufficiency for conducting the services of the Church, and ministering in the office of a Deacon, in all its parts and functions.

[3.] If the candidate has come from another religious body, he shall be also examined on those points in which the denomination from which he has come differs from this Church, with a view to test his information and soundness of doctrine with respect to the same.

This portion of the examination shall be conducted, in part at least, by written questions and answers, and the replies shall be placed on file.

[4.] The Examiners shall report, in writing, to the Bishop (or, if the Diocese be vacant, to the clerical members of the Standing Committee), the result, making separate report upon each of the subjects appointed for examination in this Canon, and in the following form, viz.:

To the Right Reverend Bishop of . (or the clerical members of the Standing Committee of , as the case may be):

Place,
Date,

We, the undersigned, Examining Chaplains of the Diocese of (or Presbyters of the Diocese of , as the case may be), having been assigned as examiners of A. B., hereby certify that we have examined the said A. B.

sponsibility, we do give our judgment as follows:

(Signed)

[5.] The above examinations may be adjourned from time to time, at the discretion of the examiners.

[6.] No Bishop shall ordain any person under the provisions of this Canon without having first at some time examined him in the presence of two Presbyters.

CANON 6.

§ i. A candidate for Priest's Orders, not being a Deacon, who shall fail to present himself for examination for Deacon's Orders within three years from the date of his admission as such candidate, shall be liable, after due notice, to be dropped from the list of candidates at the discretion of the Bishop.

§ ii. There shall be assigned to every candidate for Priest's Orders three separate examinations, to be held at such times and places, and with such adjournments from time to time as the Examiners may appoint.

§ iii. No examination at any theological or other literary institution shall be held to be equivalent to any one or more Canonical examinations, or allowed to supersede the same; nor shall any certificate of graduation or diploma from any theological or other literary institution be held to be sufficient ground for dispensing with any part of the Diocesan examinations of a candidate.

§ iv. [1.] The Bishop may invite the presence and assistance of any Presbyter to whom he may propose to assign the duty of presenting the candidate, and it shall be the privilege of such Presbyter to be present, should he desire it. But without such reason, no person, save the Bishop, shall be permitted to be present without the consent of the appointed Examiners.

[2.] But no Bishop shall take order for the ordination of any person to the Priesthood without having first himself examined him in the presence of two or more Presbyters.

§ v. [1.] Should the candidate have come from another religious body, especial reference shall be had in all his examinations to the points upon which the denomination from which he has come differs from this Church.

[2.] So far as may be practicable, and to some extent at least, this portion of the several examinations shall be conducted by written questions and answers, the replies to which shall be placed on file.

§ vi. The three examinations shall be:

(1) The first examination. on the Books of Scripture, the candidate being required to give an account of the different Books, to translate from the original Greek and Hebrew, and to explain such passages as may be proposed to him.

(2) In cases of candidates having dispensations from Latin, Greek, or Hebrew, and other branches of learning not strictly ecclesiastical, the first examination shall extend only to the knowledge of the text and interpretation of the English Bible, with such other matters as are comprised in what are commonly known as Introductions to the Holy Scriptures.

(3) The second examination shall be on the Evidences of Christianity, Christian Ethics, and Dogmatic Theology.

(4) The third examination shall be on Church History, Ecclesiastical Polity, the Book of Common Prayer, its history and contents, and the Constitution and Canons of this Church, and those of the Diocese to which the candidate belongs.

(5) In all these examinations reference shall be had, as closely as possible, to the course of study established by the House of Bishops, and to the books therein recommended, or equivalent works of more recent date.

§ vii. Except for urgent or special reasons, these examinations shall not be accumulated into one.

§ viii. In the course of these examinations the candidate shall read or present three sermons composed by himself on some texts of Holy Scripture chosen by the Bishop or by himself, as the Bishop shall have determined.

§ ix. At any or at all of the above examinations the Examiners may, and at some one of them shall, subject the candidate to such proof of his ability to conduct the service of the Church in an edifying manner, and to deliver his sermons with propriety and effectiveness, as shall fully satisfy them of his competence for the public duties of the holy ministry.

§ x. Satisfaction given in any of these examinations shall in every case be certified to the Bishop in writing (or to the clerical members of the Standing Committee as the case may be), with the signatures of all the Examiners, and in the following form, viz.:

B. upon the subjects prescribed in Title I., Canon 7. and, in accordance with what we believe to be the will of the Church, as set forth in her Ordinal and Canons, and sensible of our responsibility for the evil which might come upon the Church through the admission of men insufficiently prepared for their work, we do give our judgment as follows: (Here specify the proficiency of the candidate on each of the subjects prescribed.)

Signed,

§ xi. [1.] All the examinations of a candidate for Priest's Orders may take place, if desired by the candidate, before his ordination to the Diaconate.

(Signed)

*Minister of

§ vi. Should the Parish to which the candidate belongs be vacant, it shall suffice if the foregoing certificate be signed by the Vestry and by some Presbyter of the Diocese in good standing. But in such case, the attesting clause shall state the reason for departure from the regular form.

§ vii. Should there be no organized Parish at the place of residence of the candidate, or, there being such Parish, should the candidate be unable, through circumstances not affecting his moral or religious character, to procure such certificate from the Minister and Vestry, the Standing Committee may accept a certificate in the same words, signed by one Presbyter of this Church in good standing and six respectable laymen, communicants of this Church, the attesting clause in such case being prescribed by the Presbyter signing the certificate, or by some other Presbyter of this Church known to the Committee, in the following words, viz. :

A Clergyman coming from a foreign country, and professing to have been ordained out of the United States by a foreign Bishop in communion with this Church, or by a Bishop consecrated for a foreign country by Bishops of this Church under Article 10 of the Constitution, or by a Missionary Bishop elected to exercise Episcopal functions in any place or places out of the United States, shall, before he be permitted to officiate in any parish, or congregation, exhibit to the Minister, or if there be no Minister to the Vestry thereof, a certificate signed by the Bishop of the Diocese, or if there be no Bishop, by the Standing Committee duly convened, that his letters of Holy Orders and Letters Testimonial of recent date are authentic, and given by some Bishop in communion with this Church, and whose authority is acknowledged by this Church; and also that he has exhibited to the Bishop or Standing Committee satisfactory evidence of his pious and moral character, and of his theological acquirements; and in any case, before he shall be permitted to settle in any Church or Parish, or be received into union with any Diocese of this Church as a Minister thereof, he shall produce to the Bishop, or if there be no Bishop, to the Standing Committee thereof, a letter of dismission from under the hand and seal of the Bishop with whose Diocese he has been last connected; which letter shall be, in substance, that provided for in Canon 17, § vii., of this Title, and shall be delivered within six months from the date thereof; and when such Clergyman shall have been so received, he shall be considered as having passed entirely from the jurisdiction of the Bishop from whom the letter of dismission was brought, to the full jurisdiction of the Bishop or other Ecclesiastical Authority by whom it shall have been accepted, and become thereby subject to all the canonical provisions of this Church: Provided, that no such clergyman shall be so received into union with any Diocese until he shall have subscribed, in the presence of the Bishop of the Diocese in which he applies for reception, and of two or more Presbyters, the declaration contained in Article 7 of the Constitution; which being done, said Bishop or Standing Committee, being satisfied of his theological acquirements, may receive him into union with this Church as a Minister of the same: Provided, also, that such Minister shall not be entitled to settle in any Parish or Church, as canonically in charge of the same, until he shall have resided one year in the United States subsequent to the acceptance of his letter of dismissal.

§ vii. [1.] A Minister of this Church removing into the jurisdiction of any Bishop or other Ecclesiastical Authority, shall, in order to gain canonical residence within the same, present to said Ecclesiastical Authority a testimonial from the Ecclesiastical Authority of the Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction in which he last resided, which testimonial shall set forth his true standing and character. The said testimonial shall be given by the Bishop of the Diocese or Missionary Jurisdiction to which said minister proposes to remove. The testimonial may be in the following words:

"I hereby certify that A. B., who has signified to me his desire to be transferred to the Ecclesiastical Authority of _____, is a Presbyter (or Deacon) of _____, in regular standing, and has not, so far as I know or believe, been justly liable to evil report, for error in religion, or viciousness of life, for three years last past."

[2.] All such testimonials shall be called Letters Dimissory. The canonical residence of the Minister so transferred shall date from the acceptance of his Letter Dimissory, of which the accepting Bishop shall give prompt notice both to the applicant and to the Bishop from whom it came. If not presented to the Bishop within six months from the date of its transmission to the applicant, it shall become thereby wholly void.

[3.] If a Minister, removing into another Diocese, who has been called to take charge of a parish or congregation, shall present a Letter Dimissory in the form above given, it shall be the duty of the Ecclesiastical Authority of the Diocese to which he has removed, to accept it within six months, unless the Bishop or Standing Committee should have heard rumors, that he or they believe to be well founded, against the character of the Minister concerned, which would form a proper ground of canonical inquiry and presentment, in which case the Ecclesiastical Authority shall communicate the same to the Bishop or Standing Committee of the Diocese to whose jurisdiction the said minister belongs; and, in such case, it shall not be the duty of the Ecclesiastical Authority to accept the Letter Dimissory unless and until the minister shall be exculpated from the said charges.

[4.] It shall be the duty of all ministers to obtain and present letters of transfer as above described, whenever they remove from one Diocese or Missionary District to any other Diocese or Missionary District, whether Domestic or Foreign, and remain there for the space of six months. And we yield unto thee most high praise and hearty thanks, for the wonderful grace and virtue declared in all thy saints, who have been the choice vessels of thy grace, and the lights of the world in their several generations; most humbly beseeching thee to give us grace to follow the example of their steadfastness in thy faith, and obedience to thy holy commandments, that, at the day of the general resurrection, we, with all those who are of the mystical Body of thy Son, may be set on His right hand, and hear that His most joyful voice : Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world. XXIII. The ballot for the nomination of a Missionary Bishop shall not be had until the third day after the presentation of the names of Presbyters suggested for the office, without unanimous consent, and it is recommended that the administration of the Holy Communion precede the ballot.

XXIV. None of the Rules of Order shall be suspended without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.

XXV. These Rules shall be in force in subsequent Sessions of this House until otherwise ordered.

IV. Petitions and Memorials.

V. Motions and Resolutions.

VI. Business on the Calendar.

6. The Secretary shall keep a Calendar of Business, on which reports from Committees, resolutions which lie over, and other matters undisposed of, indicating the subject of each item, shall be placed in the order in which they are presented, a printed copy of which Calendar shall be furnished to each member.

7. At twelve o'clock, unless there be an Order of the Day, or as soon thereafter as the Order of the Day shall be disposed of, the business on the Calendar shall be taken up and disposed of, in the order in which it stands thereon; and a vote of two-thirds of the members present shall be required to take up any matter out of its order on the Calendar, or to make any matter the Order of the Day for a particular time.

8. All propositions involving expense shall be referred to the Committee on Expenses before being considered, except propositions to print.

9. All resolutions shall be reduced to writing, presented to the Secretary, and by him read to the House; and no motion shall be considered before the House unless seconded.

10. If the question under debate contains several distinct propositions, the same shall be divided, at the request of any member, and a vote taken separately, except that a motion to strike out and insert shall be indivisible.

11. When a question is under consideration, no motion shall be received, unless to lay it upon the table, to postpone it to a certain time, to postpone it indefinitely, to commit it, or to amend it; and motions for any of these purposes shall have precedence in the order herein named. If a motion to lay on the table an amendment be carried, the matter before the House shall be proceeded with as if no such amendment had been offered. The motion to lay upon the table, and to adjourn, shall be decided without debate. The motion to adjourn shall always be in order.

12. There shall be no debate upon a resolution which proposes to refer any matter to a Committee, or upon a motion to recommit any subject which has been before a Committee. But the member who offers such a resolution or motion may speak five minutes for the purpose of explaining its object. And if objection be made to the consideration of a resolution designed for the action of the House, without reference to a Committee, it shall lie over, and come up the next day as unfinished business. But by a vote of two-thirds of the members present, the House may at once consider the resolution. All messages from the House of Bishops communicating any legislative action on their part shall, without debate, be referred to the proper Committee.

13. When a proposed amendment is under consideration, a motion to amend the same may be made. No after-amendment to such second amendment shall be in order; but a substitute for both amendments may be received, which, if adopted, shall operate as an amendment to the original proposition. No proposition on a subject different from the one under consideration shall be received under colour of an amendment or substitute.

14. In all questions decided numerically, the motion to reconsider must be made by one Deputy, and seconded by another who voted in the majority; or, in case of equal division, by those who voted in the negative; and in case of a vote by Orders, where there is a concurrence of both Orders, a motion to reconsider shall be made by a majority of a Deputation from any Diocese of either Order voting in the majority; and, in case of a non-concurrence of Orders, the motion to reconsider shall come from a majority of a Deputation from a Diocese of that Order which gave the majority in the negative; and, in either case, a motion to reconsider shall be seconded by a majority of any Deputation of either Order, without regard to its previous vote. And all motions to reconsider shall be made and seconded on the day the vote is taken, or the next succeeding day.

15. The Reports of all Committees shall be in writing, and shall be received of course, and without motion for acceptance, unless recommitted by a vote of the House. All reports recommending or requiring any action or expression of opinion by the House, shall be accompanied by a resolution for the action of the House therein.

16. Reports from the Committee on Memorials of Deceased Members shall embody simply the name, Diocese, date of birth and death, and time of service in the General Convention, of deceased members of the current or any preceding General Convention, of whom memorial shall not have theretofore been made; and such reports shall, after suitable devotions, be received by the House standing.

17. No new business shall be introduced for the consideration of the House after the twelfth day of its session, except by a vote of two-thirds of the members present.

18. Whenever the election of a Bishop, the approval of his testimonials, or assent to his consecration, shall be considered, the House shall sit with closed doors.

19. All questions of order shall be decided by the Chair without debate; but any member may appeal from such decision, and on such appeal no member shall speak more than once, without express leave of the House.

20. The names of the movers of resolutions shall appear upon the Minutes of the House.

21. Every member who shall be in the House when any question is put, shall, on a division, be counted, unless he be personally interested in the question under consideration.

22. While the President is putting any question, the members shall continue in their seats, and shall not hold any private discourse.

23. When any member is about to speak or deliver any matter to the House, he shall, with due respect, address himself to the President, confining himself strictly to the point in debate.

24. No member shall speak more than twice in the same debate, nor longer than fifteen minutes at one time, without leave of the House.

25. All Committees shall be appointed by the President, unless otherwise ordered.

26. When the House is about to rise, every member shall keep his seat until the President leaves his chair; and before the President leaves the chair, he may make any communication to the House, or cause any notice to be read by the Secretary.

27. No member shall absent himself from the service of the House, unless he have leave, or be unable to attend.

28. When memorials or petitions are presented, their contents shall be concisely stated by the Deputy presenting them, and they shall be referred or laid upon the table, unless by a majority vote the memorial or petition shall be ordered to be read.

29. Reports of Committees appointed to sit during the recess, if not acted upon at once, shall, when presented, be made the Order of the Day for a time fixed.

30. No applause shall be permitted during the sessions of the House.

31. Messages from the House of Bishops shall be handed by the Secretary of this House to the President, to be laid before the House as early as may be convenient.

32. Seats upon the platform shall be occupied by officers of the Convention or their representatives, members of the House of Bishops, and such other persons only as by special vote of the Convention shall be so authorized.

33. No one shall be admitted to the floor of the House except Deputies, Presidents of Colleges recognized as Church Colleges by the Committee on Christian Education, Clergymen of this Church, and of other branches of the Church Catholic with which this Church is in Communion who may be sojourning in the city where the General Convention is assembled, Managers, Secretaries, and Treasurers, of the Board of Missions, Trustees, Professors, and students of the General and other Theological Seminaries of this Church, other students of Theology who are candidates for Holy Orders in this Church, former members of the House of Deputies, and the Clergy, Wardens, and Vestrymen of the Church in which the House of Deputies may sit.

Action on rumors.

[2.] Whenever a Bishop of this Church shall have reason to believe that there are in circulation rumors, reports, or charges affecting his moral or religious character, he may, if he please, acting in conformity with the written advice and consent of any two of his brother Bishops whom he may select, demand of the Presiding Bishop of the House of Bishops, or if he be the Bishop affected by such rumors, or if he be related to him within the degrees hereinafter mentioned, then to the Bishop next in seniority not so related, to convene a Board of Inquiry in the mode hereinafter set forth, to investigate such rumors, reports, and charges, and to proceed, in all respects, according to the provisions of this Canon, as if charges had been formally made in either of the two modes first mentioned in this Section.

If advised by two Bishops.

Accusers may choose a lay advocate and agent.

[3.] Whenever charges are formally made in either of the modes first above mentioned, the accusers may, if they choose, select a lay communicant of this Church, of the profession of the law, to act as their adviser, advocate, and agent, in preparing the accusation, proofs, etc., until such time as a Board of Inquiry is convened in such manner as is

§ iii. The charges, having been prepared in either of the modes first above mentioned, shall then be delivered to the Presiding Bishop, if he be not the accused, nor related to the accused in any degree mentioned hereinafter in this Canon; in either of which cases the charges shall be delivered to the next Bishop in seniority not so related.

To whom to be delivered.

§ iv. A Board for making a preliminary inquiry into charges thus preferred, shall be constituted as follows, whenever such Board shall be necessary, viz.:

Board of Inquiry.

[1.] The Presiding Bishop, or senior Bishop, as the case may be, to whom such charges are delivered, shall take the list of Clerical and Lay Deputies to the last General Convention that was held before such charges were presented, and from that list shall choose by lot two Presbyters and two Laymen from the deputation of the Diocese of the accused, and two Presbyters and two Laymen from each of the respective deputations of the three Dioceses adjoining that of the accused; and if there be not three adjoining, of the three nearest thereto; and if more than three Dioceses adjoin that of the accused, those three that have the largest number of canonically resident Presbyters in them shall be accounted adjoining, for the purposes of this Canon; and the sixteen individuals thus selected by lot shall consti-

The place must be within the Diocese of the accused. The sittings of the Board shall be private; the Church Advocate shall not attend as prosecuting counsel, but shall be at all times at hand and in readiness to give his advice in all questions submitted to him by the Board.

Duty of the Board.

[4.] In conducting the investigation, the Board shall hear the accusations, and such proof as the accusers may produce, and shall determine whether, upon matters of law and of fact, as presented to them, there is sufficient ground to put the accused Bishop upon his trial; and in such investigation, as well as in all cases of trial by an Ecclesiastical Court now authorized, or hereafter to be authorized, by the Constitution or Canons of the General Convention, the laws of the State in which such investigation or trial is had, so far as they relate to the law of evidence, shall be adopted and taken as the rules by which the said Board or Court shall be governed. If a majority of the Board present on such investigation shall be of opinion that there are sufficient grounds to put the accused Bishop upon his trial, they shall direct the Church Advocate to prepare a presentment, to be signed by such of the Board as agree thereto; and to that end shall place in his hands all the charges, together with the testimony that has been laid before the Board.

[6.] If a majority of the Board present shall be of opinion that there is not sufficient ground to put the accused Bishop upon his trial, in such case the charges, together with a certificate of the President of the Board of its refusal to make a presentment, shall be sent to the Secretary of the House of Bishops, to be deposited among the archives of that House. But if the accused shall have been convicted of the alleged offence in a State court, notwithstanding five years may have elapsed since its commission, a presentment may be founded on charges delivered to the Presiding or senior Bishop, at any time within one year after such conviction.

§ v. [1.] When a presentment has been made by the Board of Inquiry, or a majority thereof, to the Bishop from whom they receive the charges, it shall be the duty of such Bishop forthwith to give to the accused written notice to attend, at some place not more than one hundred miles from the place of residence of the accused Bishop, and at some time not less than twenty days after the time of serving such notice, either personally, or by some agent authorized by him in writing to act for him in the premises, for the purpose of selecting the Bishops who shall form the Court for the trial of the said accused Bishop upon the said presentment. He shall then cause eleven of the said names to be drawn. The names so drawn shall be entered upon a list as they are drawn, and the accused, or his agent, may strike off the list one name, and the said Church Advocate, or his agent, another name, and so on alternately, until the number be reduced to seven. If it shall happen that either party shall neglect or refuse to strike, then the Bishop who has given the notices shall reduce the number to seven by striking off so many of the last drawn names as will reduce the list to that number.
